AMERICAN SWEET PEA SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting and Exhibition, Bar Harbor, Me., July 15-16, 1916.

The Exhibition.

With ideal weather and surroundings, and a very good attendance of the craft when one considers the distance from the commercial centers of the country, the eighth annual meeting and exhibition of the American Sweet Pea Society was held at Bar Harbor, Me., July 15-16, under the auspices of the Bar Harbor Horticultural Society.

The main floor of the Casino was entirely taken up with the exhibits, on the outside tables being staged the vases, each containing 20 sprays of Spencer varieties. There was keen competition in these classes, the prizes of $5, $3 and $2 for first, second and third, together with the honor, being liberal indeed. The quality as well as the number of the entries was very good considering the backward season, for even here where these flowers do so well, they have been much affected by the cold sea fogs causing them, except in places where they were protected, to drop their buds. A dividing line in the center of the hall was formed by two rows of sweet peas in full flower, growing in 24-inch tubs.
The vines were about eight feet in height and were filled with very choice blossoms. They were easily one of the features of the show.

The center table contained the entries of 25 varieties, not less than 20 stems to a vase, in competition for the challenge cup of Arthur T. Boddington Co., Inc., New York, together with a cash prize of $25. This was won by Girard Foster, Lenox, Mass., with a fine collection of superb flowers. He also captured the honors in this class at the Newport exhibition last year.
Entries for the W. Atlee Burpee & Co.'s prizes for the best 12 vases of distinct varieties, 20 sprays to a vase, were also staged at this table, as were also competitive displays in the special classes of the Stump & Walter Co.,
New York, Henry F. Michell Co., Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., and Watkins &
Simpson, London, Eng.

The feature of the exhibition was the splendid collection of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., over 80 varieties, all named, being arranged in various sized vases in adjustable pyramidal holders and in small glass baskets.
This exhibit extended across the entire front of the hall. The background was of black velvet, the table being covered with white paper, falling from the front of which to the floor was a drapery of bronzy green. Bunches of slender grasses arranged between the vases relieved any suggestion of sameness, while the graceful green foliage added by contrast to the brilliant colors of the flowers. This display was arranged by the firm's sweet pea specialist, George W. Kerr, who is also a past master in the art of staging flowers for exhibition. The honors were justly awarded to this exhibit.

The stage was beautifully decorated with palms and a choice collection of herbaceous flowers in large vases, while immediately in front was a collection of cut sweet pea branches, two to three open sprays and a number of buds on each with foliage. These were arranged in cluster bamboo cut flower stands from two to four feet in height and made a splendid showing. This was the entry of the Mt. Desert Nurseries, Bar Harbor, and was easily first in its class. The varieties were Mrs. Hugh Dickson, Elfrida Pearson,
Edith Taylor, Nubian, Royal Purple,
The President, Blanche Ferry, Lillian Jean Ireland, Florence Nightingale, David Usher, Duplex John Ingram and Blue Gem.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston, Mass., exhibited their new Lilium Regale (myriophyllum) the several hundred blooms of which made a splendid showing. A group consisting of larkspur, digitalis and campanula, all splendid spikes of bloom, made a very pretty corner. This was arranged by the Mt.
Desert Nurseries. On either side of the center of the hall were the decorated luncheon and tea tables, but with one or two exceptions the arrangements were not very elaborate. Competition in this class was open to ladies only.

After the judges had announced the awards, the society was welcomed by President Warner M. Leeds, of the Bar Harbor Horticultural Society, who was profuse in the praises of Bar Harbor as the ideal spot for climate and flowers, the ocean mists and breezes and the bright sunshine bringing out a better and more brilliant color than was seen anywhere else. He praised the work of the society with its devotion to the ideal and which voluntary service was sure to meet with success. There is no craving for war in the garden is his belief and if all the world had as high ideals there would be no wars and the world would instead become a "world of flowers with beauty and good will everywhere." W. J. Stewart replied to Mr. Leeds and thanked him on behalf of the society for the generous reception and welcome and the great enjoyment the trip had already been to the visitors and the further pleasures they knew were in store for them. Referring to the sweet pea, he described it as one of the latest creations of the Master, who after having tried his prentice hand on all the others, had then produced this most lovely flower. Chas. H. Totty ably seconded Mr. Stewart in his assuring that it was a great satisfaction for the delegates to be in this town of Eden, which was named for the most beautiful spot on earth, the Garden of Eden. At the close of the exercises the delegates were taken on an auto tour of 35 miles all around the island, in which in addition to the beautiful views of its rockbound coast, its forests and mountains, the visitors were also given liberally of its soil, whenever they got off of the "Rockfellered" roads. In the evening a banquet was tendered the members at the Malvern hotel and was much enjoyed by the guests and their ladies. J. H. Stafford was the master of ceremonies and extended the glad hand and A. E. Thatcher, Harry Bunyard, Edward Jenkins, S. Carlquist, W. J. Stewart and others made short addresses. It was a most enjoyable occasion and proved to the visitors that the craft at Bar Harbor were hospitable to a marked degree.

Secretary American Sweet Pea Society.

The Business Meeting.

The business meeting was held on the morning of the second day, and it was a business session in the true sense of the word, being attended by about 25 live wire sweet pea enthusiasts and resulted in much good. The annual election of officers resulted as follows: Geo. W. Kerr, Doylestown, Pa., president; Edward Jenkins, Lenox, Mass., vice-president; Harry A. Bunyard, New York, secretary; Wm. C. Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., treasurer. W. A. Sperling, New York, and Wm. Gray, Newport, R. I., were elected to the executive committee to succeed Wm. Duckham and Wm. C. Sim, whose terms had expired. It was suggested for action that members two years in arrears be automatically dropped from the rolls and a committee was appointed to go over the books of the society and report its condition prior to October 1. It was unanimously agreed that the annual exhibition hereafter will be opened on the first Saturday after the Fourth of July, with no postponement for any cause such as bad weather, etc. Boston, Mass., was decided upon as the meeting place for 1917. A vote of thanks was given to Arthur T. Bodding, the retiring treasurer, for his long services to the society. It was also voted that the secretary be given a salary of $50, a committee composed of J. H. Stafford, and C. H. Totty was appointed to raise a fund of $500 for the use of the society. After a vote of thanks to the Bar Harbor Horticultural Society for its hospitality and co-operation the meeting adjourned.

Boat Trip Enjoyed.

The trip by steamer from Boston to Bar Harbor was very enjoyable, particularly Saturday morning. The weather was ideal and the rugged scenery of the Maine coast and the innumerable islands, through which the boat threaded its way, made a constant change of scene. Harry A. Bunyard improved the time by collecting dues from the forty members of the society who were on board and Miss Totty made a very active and efficient treasurer. A group picture of the party was taken on the upper deck.

Section D—Chas. H. Totty, Robert Cameron and Wm. Miller.

Section E—Wm. Sim, Geo. W. Kerr, Andrew Rogers and Jas. McFarlane.

The Awards.

Morse cup for finest collection of sweet peas, covering 150 square feet, 100 varieties, 50 to 100 to a vase—Won by W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., notable varieties being Fiery Cross, President, Floradale Fairy, Cherub, Robert Suydenham, Margaret Madison, Mrs. J. Palmer, Illuminator, Stirling Stent, King White, Royal Purple, Charm, Irish Belle, Orchid and Florence Nightingale.

Vase of 100 sprays, mixed—Edward Jenkins, with White Orchid and Royal Purple.

Best 1916 novelty, 20 sprays, one variety—Malvern Greenhouses, Bar Harbor, 1st, with Fiery Cross; Mrs. R. Winthrop, 2nd, with Fiery Cross; Gerard Foster, 3rd, with Jean Ireland.

Vase of Constance Hinton—Gerard Foster, 1st; Mrs. Robert Winthrop, 2nd.

Any white variety, 20 sprays—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Constance Hinton; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd, with same.

Crimson or red, 20 sprays—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Scarlet Emperor; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd, with Fiery Cross.

Rose or carmine, 20 sprays—Albert Jenkins, with Geo. Herbert, 1st; Miss M. A. Clark, 2nd, with same; Malvern Greenhouses, 3rd, with Illuminator.

Light pink Spencer—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Lady Elynn Eyre; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd, with Lillian; Mrs. Robert Winthrop, 3rd, with Lady Elynn Eyre.

Deep pink—Malvern Greenhouses, 1st, with Hercules; Gerard Foster, 2nd, with same; Mrs. Robert Winthrop, 3rd, with same.

Blue, 20 sprays—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Blue Monarch. Mrs. Robert Winthrop, 2nd; Miss M. A. Clark, 3rd, with Blue Jacket.

Lavender, 20 sprays—Mrs. R. Winthrop, 1st, with Leslie Tintin; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd, with Bertrand Deal, Imported; Miss M. A. Clark, 3rd, with Asta Ohn.

Cream or orange yellow—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Floradale Fairy; Mrs. R. Winthrop, 2nd, with Frilled Primrose.

Salmon or orange—Mrs. Robert Winthrop, 1st, with May Unwin.

Maroon or purple—Mrs. Robt. Winthrop, 1st, with Royal Purple; Gerard Foster, 2nd, and Malvern Greenhouses, 3rd, with same.

American Sweet Pea Society.
Sweet Peas in Tub.

Any lavender—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Don Alva; Mrs. Robert Winthrop, 2nd, with same. Picotee edged—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Jean Ireland; Mrs. Robt. Winthrop, 2nd, with same. Striped or flaked red or rose—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Jessie Cuthbertson; Mrs. R. Winthrop, 2nd, with same.

Any other color—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Senator; Mrs. Robt. Winthrop, 2nd, with Rosina.

Six vases, six distinct Spencer varieties—Stump & Walter Co. prize to Gerard Foster for Lady Elynn Eyre, Edna May Improved, Nubian, Duchess of Portland, George Herbert, and Floradale Fairy.

Orange scarlet in tubs—Mt. Desert Nurseries, 1st, with Illuminator; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd, with Fiery Cross.

Six varieties, one vase of each—Gerard Foster, 1st; Mrs. Robt. Winthrop, 2nd.

Six varieties, six vases—Gerard Foster, 1st, with Sunproof Crimson, Edna May Improved, Sincerity, Duchess of Portland, Fiery Cross, and Mrs. Thos. Stevenson.

White or cream in tubs—Malvern Greenhouses, 1st, with Dobbies' White; Mt. Desert Greenhouses, 2nd, with Moneymaker.

Scarlet, crimson, rose or carmine in tubs—Mt. Desert Nurseries, 1st, with Beacon; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd.

Pink, orange or salmon—Mt. Desert Nurseries, 1st; Malvern Greenhouses, 2nd.

Sweet Peas of the Future.

Paper by David Burpee, Philadelphia, Pa., read at the eighth annual meeting of the American Sweet Pea Society, Bar Harbor, July 15-16, 1916.

I was not consulted in the selection of the title above, but had the selection been left entirely to me, I must confess I could not have chosen a more agreeable topic. I might have changed the caption, however, to read "The Golden Future of the Sweet Pea and the Impossibility of Securing a Pure Yellow Variety." It is impossible to secure a pure yellow variety, so far as any accomplishment is impossible until it has been accomplished. We all of us must necessarily judge by what has gone before. So as a foundation for my prophecy of the future, I will first give a brief outline of the progress of this flower in the past.

In 1699, the first seed was sent from Sicily to England, and there during the next 200 years, the sweet pea went through a slow stage of change and development. The early improvements were entirely in color variation. From the original Lathyrus odoratus there developed numerous varieties, but all of these differed only in color. These new colors were secured by mutation, and then by cross-fertilization and a blind selection of the following generations. This selection of the generations following a cross was blind because the principles of heredity were not well understood until the re-discovery of the Mendelian laws in 1900. Later nature developed a variety of Lathyrus odoratus that differed in form. This mutation was carefully saved and crossed back upon the older type until nearly all colors were gotten in the hooded varieties as well as in the plain grandiflora type. After that, progress was comparatively slow until nature again made a distinct mutation in the form of the sweet pea. The Spencer type appeared almost simultaneously in three places and entirely unaided by man. Then in like manner the different shades of colors were secured in the waved type by color mutation, crosses and selections.

The sweet pea has now reached the point where it is the most popular annual, and each year its popularity continues to grow. The early flowering Spencer type that is just now coming into prominence will undoubtedly do much to widen the field. Your vice-president, George W. Kerr, has done a great deal towards the improvement of the early flowering varieties. For seven years he has worked at our Fordhook Farms until now he has in process of development upwards of 20 distinct colors. All of these were secured by crossing the thrifty Australian varieties on the older late flowering Spencers. From both of the parents they have inherited the hardy habit of growth—the stamina to stand even under a hot sun, and to thrive in the open as well as under glass. Because of their earliness and strong growth these new Spencers are rapidly becoming popular throughout the southern states, and in some localities I believe they will completely replace the late flowering varieties.

I believe you will agree with me that the sweet pea has a bright future before it, and that it will continue to develop and to grow in popularity. Yes the future of the sweet pea is indeed golden! The possibility of securing a pure yellow variety, however, is a more difficult subject. I can merely tell you the means through which a yellow variety will come should it ever be secured. In the past the improvement of sweet peas—as in fact, of all other plant life—has been through only three channels, namely, mutation, cross-fertilization and continued selection of small fluctuating variations. Permanent improvement through fluctuating variations has been practically negligible. Through cross-fertilization, however, there has been obtained by far the greatest number of color variations. But crossing was possible only after nature had given us the first mutant. For in the beginning, of course, there was but one color and a cross would have been impossible. It is to the mutations of nature, therefore, that we must turn to find a fundamental change in a new direction. In other words, by cross-fertilization we can secure only a combination of the characters which already exist.

Yellow is a primary color and cannot be gotten by the combination of any other colors. It seems very unlikely, therefore, that we can ever secure a pure yellow variety of sweet pea by the crossing of existing colors. It may be possible, of course, that some day we will find a yellow as a mutation or a "sport of nature," but this is entirely a matter of chance and beyond the control of man. There remains one other way, hybridization, by which we might possibly get a pure yellow sweet pea. In the past the crossing has been entirely within the species of Lathyrus odoratus. In all there are more than 100 species of lathyrus and several of these bear flowers of a pure yellow color. The apparent question then is: Can we make a cross between the sweet pea and any other lathyrus and with this as an entering wedge finally get the yellow color of another species on to Lathyrus odoratus?

This possibility naturally occurred to me shortly after I started to work with sweet peas and in my enthusiasm I tried to cross every legume that came within my reach. In one case I even attempted a cross between a sweet pea and the yellow broom. Needless to say, it failed—and all my attempted crosses between species failed. My failure had sort of a stimulating effect—made me look deeper—made me investigate to see what others had done. And I really felt quite relieved to find that no one else had been more successful than myself. I was unable to find anyone who had secured a hybrid between any two species of lathyrus:

Three years ago my father and I visited Mr. Bateson of the John Innes Horticultural Institute, Wimbledon, England, and he told me that he had worked with 10 or 15 species of lathyrus, but was unsuccessful in securing a hybrid, and further that he did not know of a cross ever having been made. I explained my intention of collecting the hundred or more species and then of trying every possible combination of cross. His encouragement was a great help in the starting of my work. From then on I collected all commercial varieties and species of lathyrus mostly from European seed firms, and then the wild species through the department of seed and plant introduction at Washington. I continued this collection, until last summer, at Fordhook, I had upwards of 50 distinct species. It was my intention to complete the collection and gradually to attempt every possible cross upon the sweet pea. I discontinued the work, however, because of my father's illness and I have not taken it up again since his death last winter. But I hope to continue my hobby within the next few years, for I know the work to be productive of pleasure if of nothing else.

THE CARNATION.

Care of the Field Plants.

Preparations should be under way for bringing in the field plants. It is none too early to start planting, and if the plants have made a good average size, they should be planted inside as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made. Whenever it can be done, it is a good plan to rest up the house and benches for a short while between throwing out the old plants and soil and bringing in the new. Should there still be any old plants standing in the benches, they should be cleared out, the soil taken out, and the house and benches given a thorough cleaning and allowed to stand empty for several days before filling again. This will sweeten up things and put a check on any insects that are lurking around.

Having advised a great deal in recent notes concerning the importance of providing good soil for carnations, it is not necessary to dwell upon this matter to any great extent at this time, other than to mention that a live, fresh soil is essential to the plants for them to produce first class flowers, the best soil obtainable being none too good. Before commencing to plant inside, make sure that everything connected with the carnation field is in good shape; it is a poor policy to neglect the plants in any manner while outdoors. The general routine work of keeping the land clear of weeds, cultivating, topping, and other necessary work, should be carried on until the last plant is taken from the field. Under the most favorable conditions emptying and filling greenhouse benches is not a very nice job, particularly during very hot weather, and unless the work is handled right it is very apt to lag. The best course to follow is to put every available man on the job and finish it up in the shortest time possible.

Shading is necessary to the plants for a short while after planting; this should be put on the glass before the men begin to empty the benches so as to make it more pleasant for them to work. The best material we find to answer the purpose of shading is clay and water thoroughly mixed and made thin enough to throw on the glass with a force pump. It can be easily removed when no longer needed and does not contain anything to damage the paint.

Have the benches filled to the top of the side boards, levelling with a cross board; this will settle to the required depth for planting, which should be about five inches. Before bringing in the soil, we spread a layer of well-rotted manure over the bottom of the benches, which we find gives lasting qualities to the soil for the roots to work in later on. After the bench is filled with soil, a dressing of bone-meal and limestone is put on and forked in. It is then levelled off ready for planting.

The work of lifting the plants is very important and should be in charge of a man who understands what he is doing, so that the plants will be lifted carefully and as many of the roots saved as possible. One man should do the digging and another pick up the plants and set them in shallow boxes. A medium ball of dirt should be allowed to remain on the roots and the man who picks up the plants should be instructed to work the soil loose with his hands, allowing enough to remain to make the ball. Plants that were pot grown in the early stages of their growth, usually form a ball better than those that were flat or bench grown before being planted in the field. Do not lift the plants in large numbers to lay around and suffer before being benched. Arrange the work so that the planters inside are working together with the men lifting in the field. Do not wait for rain before lifting the plants, but when large enough, go ahead with the work. Most growers agree that it is best to plant while a little dry than to wait and have the plants soaked up with heavy rain. Should the soil be extra heavy, making it difficult to lift the plants without seriously damaging the roots, the ground can be moistened up with the hose a few hours before digging the plants. Watch the planting closely to make sure that the plants are not set too deep; also, be careful as regards watering. The plants should be watered in at time of planting, but do not flood the soil. Give the plants frequent light sprayings until they recover from the transplanting.

Carried-Over Carnations.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

My carnation plants in benches are still in good condition after producing freely the past season. Would there be any advantage in attempting to carry them through another year? What would be the best treatment for the plants now if I decide to try this experiment?

YOUNG GROWER.

There are a number of growers in different parts of the country who have experimented a great deal with carried-over carnation plants, and in giving their experience some have claimed it to be a success, while others say that they have failed to see any advantage from following the plan.

There are so many diseases to which the carnation is subject as well as a great variety of insects which attack them, that most growers figure that it is a big advantage to give the benches and houses a good cleaning and drying out each year and start afresh with new stock. Most of us at some time or another have had a bench or two of plants that we have felt mighty good toward and loth to throw out, but any carried-over plants that I have seen have not measured up well enough to the new stock to be temptation enough for me to try the experiment of carrying carnation plants through the second season. Should Young Grower decide to try the experiment I would advise him to try it on a small scale this season, so that if it is not a success there will not be much loss. Take one end of a bench and put a cross board to separate the soil in the old from the new. All the withered leaves should be removed from the plants and the shoots placed in the rings to allow for a free circulation of air. If the plants are very heavy in bloom or bud at this time some of them will have to be cut away to assist the plants to make growth, it being the same with these old plants as with the younger ones—the more healthy shoots a plant can be encouraged to make, so many more flowers it means later on. Remove a little of the surface soil from the bed (but not deep enough to cut into the roots), then

THE ROSE.

Summer Care of the Plants.

At this date, July 10, most of the indoor roses have been planted, and the winter crop now depends principally on the care of the stock during the summer months. To begin with, we think the first important thing is to put in any lights of glass that cause a leak on a bed, or bench, for very often a weak spot, covering several square feet of surface, is the result, which may in time start a case of black spot, mildew or something that will spread through the whole bed or house; and if these leaks are allowed to remain, the plants that catch the drip will show the effects plain enough. So to repeat, put in all the missing lights at once.

All of the young stock should be cultivated once every week, stirring the surface of the soil to a depth of about an inch. Do not try to plow up the soil, for it's the surface that requires cultivating. Of course, the grafted stocks should be tied as soon after planting as one can get around to it, otherwise quite a number of the plants may become broken when spraying them, and do not delay the tying of the own root stock until it lies around and gets its first and lasting dose of red spider; tie them all and then one can control the situation. We all know how important it is to mulch with a live, fresh soil, being careful not to get it up close around the stem of the plant. Watch a little closer as regards watering to give the plants a chance to throw out roots through the new soil. Care must be given to keep the plants free of red spider or thrip—syringe frequently during very hot weather and ventilate freely at all times. C. W. JOHNSON.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Walter E. Holtzman Co. are planning to open one of the largest florist establishments in this city in the near future.

have a house of plants producing evenly, giving a good, strong cut from one end to the other, each plant delivering the goods, so to speak. In order to do so they must be handled judiciously, and the pinching process must be fairly well understood in order to even up the size of the plants throughout the house.

There are two ways of doing this work that are in general practice, which differ but slightly in the general result. One is to take the buds when they are almost showing colors; the other is to snap out the buds as soon as they begin to form, while the growth is quite soft. As before stated, there is no harm done in using either method, taking most of the varieties that are now grown commercially, and with one exception there is little choice, the exception being American Beauty. This variety seems to break free if the buds are allowed to show a little color, ripening the wood pretty well before pinching. The Killarneys, we think, after many years' experience in handling this rose, make longer stems by pinching the soft growth, but seem to drop more foliage at times, than by taking the buds when the wood is fairly well ripened. The thing is to go over the plants every week and keep the buds pinched; do not do this in a careless, haphazard way, but be careful and remove the bud back to a good firm eye, which will build up the plant with good strong flower-producing growths. Just snipping out the buds at the tops of the growths does not build up a plant, as there will be too much brush or twiggy turgid growth that is rather deceiving to look at, but quite often a plant heavily clothed in foliage is doing very little producing. So look after the pinching personally or see to it that the work is carried out properly. To even up the plants do not be in a hurry to let the smaller ones bloom, but it is yet quite early to start on this subject as there are some other things to look after at the present time, and one important thing is the carrying over proposition. Any range these days can carry plants over from two to five or more years successfully, especially the Killarneys, although better results are perhaps obtained by discarding the plants after the third year, unless the plants are grown on tables for one or two seasons, then lifted carefully and planted in absolutely fresh soil in the solid borders. This is a splendid method of handling the stock for four seasons, and we think handled in this way, the plants are much more productive the first season on the raised benches than if planted at first in the solid borders. They get to going quicker, and are much easier cultivated while they are developing. Then by taking the strong one- or two-year-old plants from the raised benches (which can be done without disturbing the roots but very little) and placing them into good fresh soil, then pruning, they cannot help growing if the proper attention is given them, and we think that for a grower lacking experience this is perhaps the easiest method yet devised to handle the rose indoors.

Now a few suggestions as to pruning. One year old plants should be pruned rather hard. They will be just as productive and be low enough to handle easily. If the plants have been running for two seasons without pruning, then some of the best wood will be up higher on the plants, so it will not do to prune them so severely. Plants one year old can be pruned from 12 to 16 or 18 inches from the ground, according to the eyes selected but one should not attempt to prune a bed of roses to look like a privet hedge; if pruned properly there will naturally be considerable irregularity in the height of the plants. A rough suggestion would be to leave the very strongest wood in each plant, cut away all spindly, twiggy stuff at the base, leave from two to three eyes on the growth that is pruned, and the outside eyes at the top as often as possible. If a plant has from three to five growths, prune to two good eyes at each growth. We do not mean next to the ground, but the growths made during the past season which is found in one year old plants from 12 to 20 inches from the soil. If a plant has only one main cane, or perhaps two, follow these up until they branch off and leave a head with as many eyes as the better built up plants referred to above. One will have to depend on his own judgment when pruning, but a trip at this time to any of the big growers would be good business for the beginner, as he could see the work being done in an up-to-date manner, which would be of more benefit than all the suggestions I could mention, but by reading these suggestions, and using one's head, there is no reason why the trick should not be turned in a very creditable manner.

After pruning, the plants will not require a great amount of water for 10 days or two weeks. If they have been rested for several weeks; just spray the wood and sprinkle the surface of the soil until the first growth is ripening. Too much water without any new root action will cause the foliage to burn off as fast as it is made, so go slow, increasing the amount of water very gradually. After the wood ripens somewhat, that is, the new growth, the water supply can be increased, and up to this time it will not be necessary to top-dress the soil on the one-year-old plants. Then apply a light mulch to strengthen the second growth. The two-year-old plants should have about two inches of fresh composted soil placed on the beds, removing that amount of the old soil. This should follow the pruning immediately and rushed along so as to expose the roots for the least possible time. Pack firmly and water the same as suggested for the other carried over plants. E.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Bench Plants For Cut Blooms.

The plants in the benches, being grown for cut blooms, are now pushing ahead, giving the grower in charge plenty of work to keep him busy at all times. The early planted plants have now attained a vigorous growth of stem and foliage, needing close attention to every part of the general routine in caring for them, so that they will not receive a check from any cause whatsoever—the one very important part in the culture of chrysanthemums is to keep them in steady active growth all the time during their growing period.

One of the most important items in their care is to see that the plants are properly supported. This may be done by any method to suit the grower's idea. Some use the cane stake for supports, while others use galvanized rods, supported at the top with wire running lengthwise of the bench. Some prefer to use upright strings, fastened to wires running lengthwise about eight feet above the bench, and again to cross bench wires at each row of plants. The plants are then fastened to the strings by tying or by small wire rings. These wire rings are a very simple and labor saving device for fastening the stems to the strings. They are made by winding some thin copper wire around a piece of 5/8-inch gas pipe, then cut along one side of the wire, which makes a lot of rings with an opening on one side. They are then placed around the stem of the plants and the string, and squeezed together, allowing plenty of room for the swelling of the stem. They can be put on in half the time it takes by the old method of tying the plants with raffia or string, and when it comes time for cutting the blooms, a slight jerk will release the stem from the string and the rings fall to the bottom.

Another important part of the plants' care that needs the grower's close attention is that of removing the side growths, which sprout out at every leaf as the growth of the plant proceeds. It is a hot job under the boiling sun, but it must be done when needed, so as to give strength to the plant and insure its maturing its wood to bloom at its proper season. Close attention to this work also helps the plants to set their buds for taking at the right time.

Syringing and watering are other important factors in the well-being of chrysanthemums. They need plenty of water, especially during very hot weather. Syringe two or three times a day on hot days, and keep the soil at the roots in a moist condition, but do not overwater, because they do much better when the roots have sweet fresh soil to work in. Chrysanthemums delight in a firm foundation of soil; an opposite condition will cause a long-jointed, soft growth that will be hard to control later on, and when the plants appear to be taking on a soft growth it is a good plan to pound the surface of the beds a little to make them more firm.

The early planted stock is now well advanced in growth. With the roots in full control of the soil, a surface mulching of well rotted manure, put on at this time, will be very beneficial to the growth of the plants, as well as serving as a protection for their roots from the heat. It is best not to mulch too heavily, because this creates a clogged condition of the soil below, causing too much surface root action, which leads to a big crop of sucker growths. Spread the material evenly over the surface of the beds, being careful that it does not settle in heaps around the stem of the plants. Some of these early planted plants will soon commence to set their July or summer buds. These should be removed as soon as they appear to give the plants every opportunity to make growth for producing a later bud on time.

The principal work with the June-planted beds is to encourage the plants' growth by clearing out the weeds from the soil and keeping it open by frequent surface scratching; also attending to the supporting and picking out the side shoots. Any planting yet to be done, whether it be early, mid-season or late varieties, should be attended to without any further delay. The plants will be a great deal better off planted than standing in small pots this very hot weather.

As the hot weather comes, so comes the black aphid and other pests, and the only way to keep them checked is by regular spraying with the insecticides. It is a good plan to spray each bed once a week. By keeping this up regularly there will not be much chance for the insects to get a foothold.

Topping should be discontinued on the pompons that have made a good number of breaks, and allow the shoots to come up so that they will produce good long stem sprays. It is not a wise policy to let the pompon plants carry too many shoots, because many of them will be thin and spindly, and of little value. Judgment should be used according to the size and strength of the plants.

Plants being grown as specimen bush plants, either for exhibition or sale, need particular attention during this period of their growth. The time remaining for pinching back the growths is only another two or three weeks; after that time, the shoots must be allowed to go on to make growth to insure a large plant. Extra care is also necessary as regards the watering of these plants. They must not be allowed to wilt for the want of water and ample syringings given to maintain a moist, growing atmosphere.

Houston Convention Notes.

The Mexican situation was called to my attention so often on my short visit to St. Louis and Kansas City that I take this opportunity to explain and answer some of the questions asked me regarding the war with Mexico and the effects it will have on the S. A. F. convention at Houston.

First of all, there is no war and we do not expect any. Second, should there be real war between the United States and Mexico, bear this in mind—that the nearest point to the war zone is nearly 400 miles and at best no hostile Mexican army or bandits could come 400 yards into Texas before some Texas ranger or United States soldier would name him "Dennis."

Practically all the government troops have been moved to the border, all traffic is at normal, and there is no reason why this great convention, the first ever held in the south, should not be attended by the largest delegation from every state ever sent out to a national florists' convention. The Texas florists greet you, the Houston florists will meet you, and will make your stay pleasant and long to be remembered.

While we have sunshine in Texas, and it gets warm (will here use an expression of a Nebraska soldier), "It is hot out here, but we always have a breeze and therefore do not perspire." Can you say more of your climate? Enough said. Come to Texas, to Houston, and you will want to come again.

OBITUARY.

John William Poehlmann.

John William Poehlmann, president of Poehlmann Bros. Co., well-known Chicago wholesale florists, died at his late residence, 4728 Beacon street, July 14, aged 49 years. He was born in Milwaukee, Wis., of German parentage, and was associated with his father, John George Poehlmann, in the retail grocery trade in that city until 1890, when he and his brothers, Adolph and August, formed a partnership and started in the florist business at Morton Grove. The deceased looked after the sales end, the growing details being in the hands of his brothers. A distributing station was established in the basement of the quarters formerly occupied by the Geo. Wittbold Co., at 1309 North Clark street. The business was a wonderful success from the start, and in 1901 was incorporated under the name of Poehlmann Bros. Co., with a paid-up capital of $90,000. Shortly after, they moved to more commodious downtown quarters, at 30 East Randolph street, but their ever increasing business made another change necessary and they moved to their present location at 72-74 East Randolph street.

John Poehlmann was exceptionally industrious, and aided by his energetic brothers, established the largest wholesale cut flower business in the country, the range of houses at Morton Grove, 14 miles from Chicago, consisting of more than 2,000,000 feet of glass devoted exclusively to cut flowers and plants. In addition, the supply department, which was added a few years ago, as a matter of accommodation to their many customers throughout the United States and Canada, has grown to splendid proportions, and the high reputation enjoyed by the company today throughout the trade is a fitting testimonial to John Poehlmann and his brothers, who embarked in the business with very limited capital.

Up to about a year ago, the deceased was active at the store, but at that time complained of not feeling well and it was thought he was suffering from appendicitis. An operation, however, revealed the cause of his illness to be a severe case of cancer of the stomach. He has been gradually failing in health for some time and dropped in weight from 240 pounds at the time of the operation to 120 pounds at death. His condition was known to be serious for some time, and his many friends have been anxious about him, but notwithstanding the fact that he suffered untold agony, bringing to him the realization that the end was not far off, he never complained and bore up with the same determined spirit that characterized his successful life.

John Poehlmann was married in 1894 to Miss Frieda Ottenbacher, of Morton Grove, whose death occurred June 11, 1898. Six years later he was married to Miss Emma Parker, a sister of Mrs. Guy French, who with two children by his first marriage, John, aged 21, and Frieda, aged 20, survive him. He also leaves four brothers and two sisters: Gustave, Adolph, George, August, Mrs. Lena Reimers and Mrs. Bertha Hoppe.

The funeral was held from the residence on Beacon street, with interment in the family lot in Graceland cemetery, J. C. Vaughan, C. L. Washburn, Andrew Chronis, August Lange, E. F. Winterson and Ed Enders acting as pallbearers. The honorary escort was composed of E. C. Amling, George Asmus, M. Barker, L. R. Bohannon, A. H. Budlong, Chicago; Philip Breitmeyer, Detroit, Mich.; Alpha Elberfeld, Kansas City, Mo.; P. J. Foley, O. J. Friedman, H. B. Howard, John Mangel, J. H. McNeilly, John Muir, H. O. Nichols, E. A. Ollinger, J. Pickett, Peter Reinberg, A. L. Randall, Arnold Ringier, C. A. Samuelson, W. J. Smyth, Ernst Wienhoeber, George Wienhoeber and Louis Wittbold, Chicago. The services were largely attended, and showed the high esteem in which Mr. Poehlmann was held by a wide circle of friends and business associates. The floral tributes were many and included some very handsome designs, every wholesale house in the Chicago market, as well as from outside points, together with many firms not in the trade, sending a final token of esteem. The burial was on a beautiful summer day, and as the officiating clergyman said his farewell prayer over the remains, a brown thrush on the top of one of the lofty trees nearby sang the requiem.

W. E. Dallwig.

W. E. Dallwig, the well known seedsman of Milwaukee, Wis., died at his home in that city, July 13. Mr. Dallwig had been ill for about five months, suffering from cancer of the stomach, so that the end was not wholly unexpected. With the assistance of his family, Mr. Dallwig had built up a nice trade, embracing all departments of the seed business. Born at Branch, Manitowoc county, Wis., in 1854, he located in Milwaukee in 1875 and entered the shoe business there. In March, 1883, he engaged in the seed business at 34 Juneau avenue in a small way, still retaining his interest in the shoe business. In 1886 he disposed of his shoe interests and extended the seed business until it now includes all lines of vegetable and flower seeds, bulbs, nursery stock, supplies, etc. In 1899 he built a new store affording five times the floor space of the former building. His first catalogue, a four-page folder, was issued in 1886. In recent years he has mailed a full assortment of lists in English and German.

The funeral, held July 15, was private with interment at Wanderers' Rest cemetery. The floral tributes from the trade and friends were numerous and beautiful. Mrs. Dallwig, two sons and three daughters survive, and it is understood Court Dallwig will continue the management of the business, which will go on as usual.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Programme of the Thirty-Second Annual Meeting and Exhibition to be Held in the Auditorium, Houston, Texas, August 15-17, 1916.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 15.

FIRST DAY—OPENING SESSION—2 P. M.

Opening exercises in Convention hall.
Convention called to order by Vice-President R. C. Kerr.
Invocation by Rev. W. S. Jacobs.
Address of welcome by Hon. Ben Campbell, mayor of Houston.
Response, Angelo J. Rossi.
President Daniel MacRorie's address.
Reading minutes of executive board.
Report of the secretary.
Report of the treasurer.
Report of the Washington representative.
Reports of other committees.
Reports of state vice-presidents.
Considerations of invitations for next place of meeting or places of meeting if the amendment to by-laws is adopted.

EVENING SESSION—8:30 P. M.

Balloting for meeting place for 1917 and also for 1918 if amendment is adopted. Voting takes place at Rice hotel.
Reception to President MacRorie at the Rice Hotel. Music; dancing, refreshments. Strictly informal.

THE late John W. Poehlmann, president of the Poehlmann Bros. Co., whose death is recorded in our obituary column this week, was a man of few words, but the marvelous growth and solidity of this concern speaks volumes for the constant hard work and perseverance of Mr. Poehlmann and the brothers associated with him in the business.

Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

A meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery will be held in connection with the Society of American Florists' convention at Houston, Tex., Wednesday, August 16, at 10 a. m.

Kasting Building Burned.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 19.—Fire completely destroyed the Wm. F. Kasting Co.'s building. The firm had secured temporary quarters at 9 a. m. today and was doing business as usual at 493 Washington street.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate has favorably reported a bill recommending a measure to devote East and West Seaton parks to the use of the botanical gardens.

E. O. ORPET, who has had the sympathy of the trade and the public through his time of trouble, will be pleased to know that all now rejoice with him and his family in the passing of the clouds.

New York Spring Show.

There was an enthusiastic meeting at the Manhattan hotel, July 10, of the joint committee representing the Horticultural Society of New York and the New York Florists' Club. Organization of the committee was completed by the election of T. A. Havemeyer, chairman; John Young, secretary and business manager; Frederic R. Newbold, treasurer.

The date on which the show will be held is March 16-23, 1917, and the place will be the Grand Central Palace, Lexington avenue and 46th street, where all recent large flower shows in New York have been held.

Secretary Young was authorized to proceed at once with the sale of trade space and to make preparations for the official souvenir programme. Charles H. Totty, F. R. Pierson, John Canning, James Stuart; William H. Duckham, George E. M. Stumpp; L. J. Reuter, Julius Roehrs and Fred L. Atkins were appointed a committee to prepare a preliminary schedule.

Many applications for space in the trade section have already been received at the secretary's office, and the prospects are that there will not be sufficient space in the plans as outlined to satisfy all the demands that will be made for same. It may be absolutely necessary to secure additional space on the third floor, but the arrangements made at present call for the use of the main floor and mezzanine floor only.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

Minneapolis Convention Garden.

Treasurer Hess of the Society of American Florists, who with his son Carl has just returned to Omaha, Neb., from a Wisconsin fishing trip, stopped off an hour or two at Chicago last week and gave same friends a glowing account of the Minneapolis park system which he had recently visited in the company of Supt. Wirth. The convention garden at Minneapolis, Mr. Hess says, is more beautiful this season than ever before and the rose garden, favored by a cool moist season, is a dream of delight. Mr. Hess has a memorandum of the varieties of roses which made the best showing at the time of his visit. It will be noted that this list given herewith contains many favorites of a generation ago.

Alfred K. Williams, Anna de Diesbach, Baroness Rothschild, Captain Hayward, Countess of Ilchester, Frau Karl Druschki, General McArthur, Gruss an Teplitz, Hugh Dickson, La France, Mabel Morrison, Mme. Charles Lutaud, Mme. Edm'd Rostand, Mme. Gabriel Luizet, Marie Finger, Mrs. George Dickson, Mrs. John Laing, Oscar Cordelf, Perfection des Blanchés, Pride of Waltham, Prince Camille de Rohan, Willomere, Xavier Olibo.

Midget was also noted as a fine variety for the margin of beds and borders.

New York to Houston.

The transportation committee of the New York Florists' Club has selected the following route for those who intend to attend the S. A. F. convention in Houston, August 15-17:

The S. S. "Morus" will leave New York, Wednesday, August 9, arriving at New Orleans, Monday, August 14, whence the journey to Houston by train, the Sunset Limited, is only 11 hours. The rate will be $80 to $83 for the round trip from New York City to Houston, which covers the trip by steamer to New Orleans, train to Houston, then by all rail returning. Those who desire may also return by boat. This rate includes berth and meals on steamer, but not on trains.

As this is evidently the route favored by most of those who intend to go, it is hoped that all members of the New York Florists' Club and friends from the eastern section of the country will travel in this party. The transportation committee is composed of Chas. H. Totty, chairman; John Young, Wm. C. Rickards, Jr., and J. R. Lewis.

As the steamship traffic on this line is heavy at this season, it is necessary that all reservations be made well before August 1. Make your reservations at once if possible. Further information will be gladly furnished by J. R. Lewis, secretary of transportation committee.

Chicago to Houston.

GREATLY REDUCED ROUND TRIP RATES.

After showing considerable lack of interest in the coming convention of the Society of American Florists the railroad organizations identified with transportation between Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Houston, have awakened and at the last moment given our national society the consideration to which it is entitled, granting greatly reduced round-trip rates to the convention city as follows:

Chicago to Houston and return	$46.65
St. Louis to Houston and return	34.65
Kansas City to Houston and return	32.00

The Chicago party occupying special cars will leave via the Wabash Midnight Banner Express at 11:55 p. m., Sunday, August 13, and arrive in St. Louis at 7:40 Monday morning. The special cars will be attached to the Iron Mountain Texas Limited, leaving at nine o'clock, due at Houston, Tuesday, August 15, at 2 p. m., in time for the opening session.

Round trip tickets from Chicago going August 12 or 13 are good for 25 days. The charges for Pullman sleepers from Chicago are as follows: double lower berth, $6.75; upper berth, $5.40; drawing room, $24.

CIRCLE TOURS.

One can purchase a circle tour ticket which permits going to Galveston (with a stop at Houston), boat from there to New York, a seven-day cruise on the Mallory Line, including one-day's stop over at Key West, and return to Chicago, via Niagara Falls and Detroit; or via Philadelphia and Washington. One can also take the Atlantic Line from New Orleans direct to New York, a five-day trip, and from New York as above mentioned. Cost of either of these tours is but $80. Meals and berth on boat are included.

For further details, Pullman reservations, and other particulars, address H. L. Purdy, care of Wabash Railway Co., 808 Edison building, Chicago. Telephone, Harrison 4500.

LITTLE STOCK AND NO DEMAND.

Business, if we may call it that, is at its worst so far this year. The torrid heat has knocked the bottom out of both business and good flowers, the past week being an exceptionally hot one, hovering between the 90° and 95° marks. The few that remain on the job these hot days are finding it mighty hard trying to keep cool—or busy. The height of the vacation season is at hand, and the absence of so many of our florists has no effect on things. There is not much of a variety offered by the local dealers. Both roses and carnations are barely visible to the naked eye, and gladioli and lilies are about all that complete the assortment. Asters have shown up at last, but not to much of an extent. They are late starting this year, by the way. Most of the asters used in the city come from the western New York section, with a season two or three weeks later than in our locality. But, nevertheless, everybody is complaining of "poor business."

NOTES.

Ed. McCallum, Ross Adgate and Clarence Phillips have returned from a highly enjoyed trip through the Cheat River country. Their object was a fishing expedition, but claim they enjoyed rambling around the mountains in a Ford much better than the fishing.

Sam Cape writes from Atlantic City that the "water is fine." Mr. Cape will extend his trip to New York City and Catskill mountain resorts, combining both business and pleasure. He is accompanied by a party of friends, and will stay three or four weeks.

Harry Langhans, of the Blind Floral Co., will leave, July 29, for Washington, Baltimore and Virginia, to be gone two weeks. Dave Hill is back from a two weeks' rest taken at Ocean View, Va.

Both the Saxonwald Greenhouses and the Washington Floral Co. are cutting fine carnations of almost season quality. M.

Los Angeles.

DULLNESS FOLLOWS GOOD SEASON.

Business is beginning to feel the usual stagnation of summer, but all agree that it has held up later than last year. There will of course be times when some or all will be busy, but the usual quiet of the season is expected by all business men. Stock is still in good condition. New crop sweet peas and carnations, as well as other flowers, are now coming in.

NOTES.

O. C. Saake's whole force have been busy on funeral work on account of the death of J. Harry Pieper, a former president of the Los Angeles Ad Club, and a member of the Rotary Club, besides being a prominent Elk. Many of the funeral designs were in Elk colors, making a great demand for purple asters.

A window display of Golden West dahlias made quite a hit at the Redondo Floral Co. this week. The long stems and good keeping qualities of this variety are much appreciated. A. F. Borden is doing a few day's work at home, after which he will take to the mountains for a period.

Howard & Smith have a salesroom nicely decorated with large ferns and all the seasonable flowers. They are enjoying a fair trade.

Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldenson have been busy on funeral work. In fact they have had a great deal of such business of late.

S. Murata & Co. are still doing a good business in their long distance shipping, especially in dahlias, carnations and asters.

JULY DULLNESS NOTICEABLE.

The usual summer lethargy has set in, and with the arrival of the warm days, the majority of those who are purchasers at the flower stores have gone to their summer homes or the lake and seaside resorts. Roses are getting poorer each week and most of them fly open at once when exposed to the heat. Kaiserin, Francis Scott Key, Hadley and Ophelia continue good, however. Carnations are also good considering the season. Sweet peas are improving in quality right along. There is little demand for lily of the valley and the supply is meager. Few Easter and calla lilies are seen.

NOTES.

Mark Aitken, the well-known florist of Springfield, Mass., accompanied by Mrs. Aitken and Mr. and Mrs. Bowles, were visitors July 14, touring New York state and homeward bound after attending the Shriners' convention at Buffalo.

Large gilt baskets filled with America gladioli and blue larkspurs were attractive features in a wedding decoration at one of the downtown churches last week, arranged by H. E. Wilson.

Horace J. Head has again resumed his duties at H. E. Wilson's Main street store.

FUNERALS MAKE GOOD BUSINESS.

Trade during the past week has been brisk, plenty of funeral work keeping everyone on the jump, and while weddings are not numerous there are still a few. Gladioli are now coming in, the Pink Beauty being especially fine. There are a few asters, but they are having no call so far. Carnations are getting scarce. Sweet peas are a drug on the market, some going as low as 20 cents per 100, while the best are quoted at 50 cents. Boston continues to make shipments of good roses to this market at one cent each.

NOTES.

The Westminster Greenhouses are planting two houses to Oconto and Chrysolora chrysanthemums. They are in fine shape. Their delivery car is being overhauled and repainted. This firm leads the florists in the early closing movement—every night at 6 o'clock, Saturdays included.

John F. Wood has been sick in the Parade street hospital, but is now reported well on the road to recovery.

Herbert A. Taylor, of the Macnair force, will leave for Block Island in a few days for a short stay.

George Fenner, of Cranston, is cutting good Asparagus plumosus.

While the exhibits were not very numerous, they were of very good quality and made an excellent display in the exhibition hall. James McDonald, Henry Gibson and Ernest Westlake acted as judges. Herbert L. Pratt (Henry Gaut, Gr.) was awarded first prize for 12 varieties of sweet peas, 12 sprays of each and for 6 varieties of sweet peas, 12 sprays of each and special mention for a collection of herbaceous flowers. W. E. Kimball (James McCarthy, Gr.) received first for 25 white, for 25 pink and for 25 red sweet peas and second for six varieties of sweet peas, 12 sprays of each. The society's prizes for 25 pink, 25 white and 25 any other color sweet peas were all won by Henry Gaut.

The last meeting prior to the summer vacation of this society was held in the County building, President Hollister in the chair. The recent flower show came up for discussion, and on motion of John F. Huss, the secretary was instructed to extend a hearty vote of thanks to the park department for the beautiful exhibits of bedding plants at the show. It was also voted to award Fred Boss, head gardener at Elizabeth park, a first-class diploma for the arrangement of the exhibit. President Hollister came in for a shower of praise from the members for his splendid success in handling the show. The following were elected to membership: Mrs. R. W. Gray, Mrs. George F. Hills, J. W. Beecher, all of Hartford, and Andrew Bromley, of New Britain. Adjournment was taken until September 22.

BURPEE'S SWEET PEAS

Early Winter-Flowering Spencers

After seven years of patient work at Fordhook Farms supplemented by careful trials at our Floradale Farms, it is our pleasure to offer to Commercial Growers, Burpee's New Early or Winter-Flowering Spencers, which we feel will give entire satisfaction.

The House of Burpee has long been recognized as "American Headquarters for 'Sweet Peas,' and the introduction of these Winter-Flowering Spencers marks an era in commercial Sweet Pea growing.

The novelties offered below, with the exception of "Yarrowa," are the results of crosses made at our Fordhook Farms during the past seven seasons, and all stocks are grown at our Floradale Farm, "The California Home of Sweet Peas."

Fordhook Pink and White—A color that is always in demand, similar to the old Blanch Ferry. Bright rosy-pink standard, wings almost pure white. The large flowers measure two and one-half inches in diameter and are perfect in form. A very early, free and continuous bloomer. Awarded Certificates of Merit at the Spring Show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Philadelphia, March, 1915, and the American Sweet Pea Society, San Francisco, June, 1916. $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., \$1.25; $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., \$2.00; oz., \$3.50.

Fordhook Pink—This is a distinct shade of pink suffused with lavender throughout. Flowers are large size, exquisitely waved, produced in threes and fours on long stems. $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., 40c; $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., 75c; oz., \$1.25; $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., \$3.50; $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., \$6.25; lb., \$12.50.

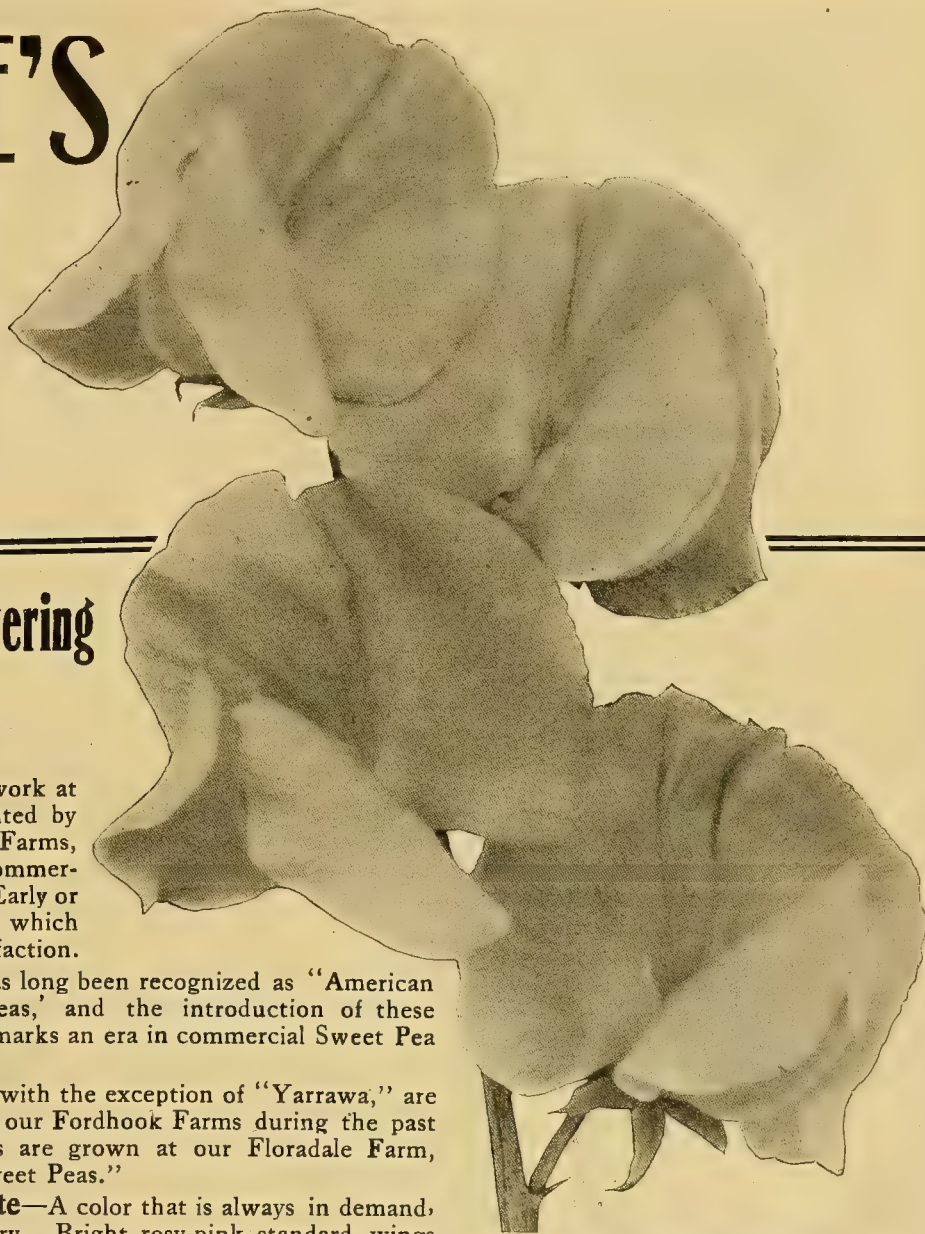

Fordhook Rose—Introduced by us in 1915. Flowers of largest size usually borne in threes and fours. A charming shade of rosy-carmine. Awarded a Certificate of Merit at the International Show in New York, March, 1915, and the Spring Show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Philadelphia, March, 1915. $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., 50c; $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., 85c; oz., \$1.50; $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., \$4.00; $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., \$7.50; lb., \$15.00.

Yarrowa—This magnificent Australian variety has proved its unusual merit with commercial growers in all parts of the country. It has an exceptional reputation as a "sure money maker." First exhibited by us at the great International Show in New York, March, 1914, and awarded a Certificate of Merit by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, March, 1915. Flowers exquisitely waved, averaging two and one-half inches in diameter, many of them being duplex or double. A bright rose pink with a clear creamy base. $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., 35c; $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., 60c; oz., \$1.00; $\frac{1}{4}$ lb., \$2.75; $\frac{1}{2}$ lb., \$5.00; lb., \$10.00.

F. M. HANSEN, Peoria, Ill., July 5, 1916, writes: "Among the Winter-blooming Spencer Sweet Peas which we had under culture for cutting last Winter, 'the best of the best' were your Yarrowa. Never have we seen anything so perfect and exquisite in every respect so, of course, we are wanting your seed again, only much more of it."

SUMMER ROSES

We make a specialty of growing Roses best adapted to handle during the hot weather. Our facilities are exceptionally well equipped and we recommend the following stock for summer:

BEAUTIES--Mostly Medium and Short Lengths Good Shipping Stock.

Rhea Reid—Best red rose.

Mrs. Russell—Best pink rose.

Sunburst—Best yellow rose.

Double White Killarney—Best white rose.

Ophelia and Shawyer—Are also two good pink roses for summer use.

These in addition to the regular varieties of Roses we are receiving in large quantities direct from our greenhouses within a few hours of being cut, enable us to fill all orders with strictly fresh stock. This is the great advantage of buying direct of the grower. Order here.

SEVERE WARM WEATHER AFFECTS TRADE.

The severe warm weather the past week, when the thermometer registered 98° in the shade for several days, has affected trade somewhat, but the majority of the dealers are not complaining any of dull times, for the sales are still showing an increase over July of last year. Stock has suffered considerably from the excessive heat, especially carnations, but at that there is plenty of good stock available to fill all the orders that are arriving. Sunburst, Ophelia and Mrs. Chas. Russell are reaching the market in pretty good condition, and the same holds good for American Beauty roses which are moving well at summer prices. Milady, Richmond, Rhea Reid, Hadley and Hoosier Beauty are having a good call, considering the general market conditions. My Maryland is in good supply and in good demand, and is one of the first varieties to clean up every day. White Killarney is selling well, but there are more than enough to go around. Mrs. George Shawyer seems to have a pretty good call, and the same applies to Killarney Brilliant and Killarney Queen. Carnations have seen their best days, but some very good stock is still seen and is to be had in large lots at very reasonable prices. Peonies are still a factor in the market, and are in fair demand, especially the northern Michigan grown stock. Lily of the valley continues to move quite freely, and while it is not considered scarce at present it is none too plentiful. Orchids are in larger supply, but are meeting with good sale. Gladioli are gradually becoming more plentiful, and while prices have dropped considerably they are good property and clean up as nicely as can be expected at this season of the year. Some fine asters are being offered and a few dahlias are included in the shipments. Sweet peas, snapdragons, stocks, daisies, coreopsis, gaillardias, candytufts, pansies, cornflowers, lilies, callas, feverfews, delphiniums, marigolds, pond lilies and a long list of other miscellaneous indoor and outdoor flowers too numerous to mention are included in the offerings, and at times are in good demand. Green goods of all kinds are in large supply, and the buyer now has a splendid opportunity to make a grand window showing at practically no cost whatever. The shipping trade has been keeping up remarkably well, and the city demand is considered to be quite good this month, compared to former years.

NOTES.

The northeast corner of Wabash avenue and Randolph street, 88x96 feet, has been leased by A. Starr Best, Inc., from Luther W. Bondman and others for 99 years at a graded rental averaging $28,121, or four per cent on a land value of $703,025. Upon this the lessee will construct an eight-story mercantile building to cost $300,000 which he will occupy with his business, the sale of apparel for children and haberdashery for young men. He will not get possession for five years, and the change of ownership will not affect the lease of Percy Jones, wholesale florist, or Joseph Ziska & Sons, wholesale dealers in supplies, who are located in the building on the present site, which will be removed then to make room for the new structure. Everyone has expected for some time that the wholesale florists would be affected by the rapid growth in the

The Raedlein Basket Co., 713 Milwaukee avenue, has added several basket makers to its already increased force and is stocking up heavily for next season. This firm is getting out a new catalogue showing all the latest styles it manufactures and will have it ready for mailing in a very short time.

The George Wittbold Company has a fine stock of Boston ferns which are selling like hot cakes and are considered very scarce at present. Ed. Armstrong and Otto Strobeck, of the retail department, will leave July 22 on a two weeks' vacation.

A. Billerbeck bought out the Kedzie Floral Co., 3403 West Madison street, last week, taking possession July 12. He will move into the corner store about August 1, when the firm name will be changed to the Garfield Park Floral Co.

E. Livingston, gardener for Fred Vogel, Milwaukee, Wis., is visiting old friends at Lake Geneva and Lake Forest this week and will leave shortly for Clinton, Ia., to join his family, who are enjoying a visit with relatives there.

Joseph Ziska, Jr., brother Raymond and father, Joseph Ziska, Sr., have returned from a delightful automobile trip to Oxford Junction, Ia. John Ziska kept shop at Joseph Ziska & Sons' store while they were away.

John Harris, of Harris Brothers, popular florists of Pittsburgh, Pa., attended the christening of Andrew Cronis' new baby boy at Wilmette last week.

Frank Hagen, of the George Reinberg force, has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his father, whose death occurred Monday, July 17. The funeral was held from the family home, at 2610 Winona avenue, and was largely attended. He was one of the oldest settlers in Bowmanville and was well known to a great many of the local florists, especially on the north side. He is a grandfather of Fred Klingel, junior member of the firm of Erne & Klingel.

The funeral of the late John William Poehlmann, held Sunday afternoon, July 16, was very largely attended and every branch of the florist trade was well represented. The floral offerings were unusually many and beautiful and filled four large delivery trucks and gave one a little idea of how much in esteem Mr. Poehlmann was really held by his friends and business associates. He was well liked by everyone who knew him and was a business man through and through and with the assistance of his brothers August and Adolph, built up the largest business of their kind in the country. Mr. Poehlmann will be greatly missed by the trade, who all join in extending their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family. A report of his death appears in our obituary column this week.

J. W. O. Deake, who was vice-president of the Society of American Florists at the Asheville convention in 1902, was a visitor this week. Mr. Deake is now located at Twin Falls, Idaho, farming on the irrigated lands of the Snake river valley. Time has dealt kindly with him for he looks as youthful and full of life as he was 14 years ago, now claiming to be in his sixty-seventh year.

M. C. Gunterberg is handling a good supply of outdoor flowers and is in the market for a good aster grower.

Vaughan's Seed Store is doing a good business with its fine boxwoods and bay trees.

Miller & Musser's store looks much better since it has been thoroughly renovated.

Visitors: Mrs. Ennis, Milwaukee, Wis.; Ed. Cowan, with Cowan Bros. & Co., Terre Haute, Ind.; W. J. Smart, with Knight & Stinck, New York; G. Roethke, Saginaw, Mich.; J. J. Groves, Bloomington, Ill.

N. Bommersbach has sold his business and greenhouses to Andrew Peterson of Gibson City. Mr. Peterson will continue the business in connection with his stores at Gibson City, Clinton and this city. Mr. Bommersbach, after 35 years in the florist business, will retire.

John N. Bommersbach has sold his greenhouses and land to Niels Socudsen of Chicago, who will continue to grow cut flowers for the wholesale trade. Mr. Bommersbach expects to visit the Pacific coast.

MARKET CLEANS UP DAILY.

Stock has shortened greatly and now practically everything is cleaning up regularly. The great bulk of the rose offerings are short stemmed, but some excellent blooms may be had. Easter lilies are plentiful and good. The supply of asters is much heavier than last week and by the end of this week they should be plentiful. Gladioli are in a fair supply. Some excellent sweet peas may be had. Other offerings include snapdragons, water lilies, carnations and cornflowers.

NOTES.

At the annual meeting of the florists' society, Wm. Schumann was elected president, Jas. Allen, vice-president; Alex Ostendarp, secretary; J. Chas. Murphy, treasurer, and Gus Adrian, director.

E. G. Gillett has purchased a Buick "Light Six" touring car and now he and Mrs. Gillett and Mr. and Mrs. Mayhall are enjoying trips about this city and vicinity.

C. E. Critchell has been getting in some excellent early asters.

Henry Goebel has been cutting some excellent cornflowers.

Mrs. Murphy and Miss Claire Murphy have gone to their cottage at the Cheneaux for the summer.

Geo. Berner, of C. E. Critchell's, who was on the sick list, is back at his desk.

Visitors: W. C. Lawrence and wife, Atlanta, Ga., who are attending the Rotary convention in this city; Mr. Jensen, of Washington, C. H., O., and Joseph Marks, Chicago.

The Albert F. Amling Company received four 300 h. p. Kroeschell fire and water tube boilers last week, which are being set in place for brick-ing. Delivery of four Simplex traveling grate stokers is expected this week, and this, together with the pumps supplied by the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., will make a most modern power plant.

Wm. Wichtendahl has all the material for a new greenhouse, about 27 x 100 feet, painted, which is to be erected in the near future. He is also making changes in his service building equipment. A new electrically driven Triplex pump arrived a few days ago, and another Kroeschell boiler is expected soon.

Wm. H. Amling has completed planting chrysanthemums, and is getting ready for an extended auto trip. He prides himself on his good judgment in selecting a car this spring which has proven to be an investment, rather than an expense. His type of car now sells at $80.00 advance.

At the Weiss-Meyer Co.'s plant the installation of pumping machinery is going on, the building for which has recently been completed.

Walter Burhop looks back to a successful season in growing sweet peas and chrysanthemums.

Russell and Ophelia roses are producing in quantity at Ernst Amling's place.

Hugo Luedtke returned July 13 from a delightful fishing trip.

Lon Foster, state vice-president of the S. A. F., is working hard to have a large delegation from this state at the convention to be held in Houston, August 15-17. The round trip fare from this city to Galveston is $20.35. By going over the Santa Fe road, one can take a train from this city at 12 noon, and be in Houston next morning at 7:30. Delegates from other parts of this state who have said they would attend the convention are: A. S. Gray, Chickasha; E. R. Griggs, Shawnee; J. W. Furrow, Guthrie; Eugene Bebb of the Muskogee Carnation Co., Muskogee; Mrs. Ora Hornaday, Lawton; Mrs. L. K. Butts, El Reno; and some member of the firm of the Enid Floral Co., Enid. It is not known yet just who will attend from this city, but no doubt there will be several.

Summer weather has settled with us and each day sees the thermometer registering well above the 90 degree mark. Business has slowed down considerably, and with the exception of funeral work, there is very little activity in the florists' stores.

J. W. Furrow left for Chicago July 16, where he will stay for a month or so, placing peaches on the market from the Arkansas orchards.

RAIN MUCH NEEDED; STOCK SUFFERS.

Hot weather has certainly arrived without question, and with only one rain in two weeks the stock is being injured more and more every day as some of the growers are unable to get water to it. The supply in some lines is falling off considerably. Roses have shortened in supply and while not of good quality generally there are some good Mrs. Russell to be had. Carnations are nearly done for until new stock comes in. Gladioli are coming in nicely and the daily supply of these will be large from now on. Mrs. Francis King, America, Augusta and Pink Beauty are the leading varieties. With a good supply of outdoor stock the trade have a good line to show.

NOTES.

H. Kusik & Co. report supply and demand about on a par. Some very good stocks of roses, carnations, lilies, gladioli and gypsophilas are to be seen at this establishment. The base ball team will soon be home from its long trip, and Mr. Kusik will give up John Kling's electric scoreboard for the real thing.

T. J. Noll & Co. report a good line of trade during the week, especially shipping business. Mrs. Noll, who is now "boss," reports a scarcity of stock, but good roses, carnations, gladioli, lilies and gypsophila were seen.

The news of the death of John Poehlmann, president of the Poehlman Bros. Co., Chicago, was received by the local trade with deep regret. He had a host of friends here who extend their sympathy to his relatives.

W. J. Barnes is now cutting fine stock of Lilium rubrums, which come in very handy in making up just now.

Stock at Adolph Mohr's establishment is looking fine. He is cutting heavily on outdoor stock at present.

Reinhart & Son are bringing in some very good Pink Beauty gladioli as well as outdoor stock.

Jacob Hepting has about finished cutting carnations for this season.

S. Bryson Ayers is bringing in some very good gladioli and gypsophila.

FAIR SUMMER BUSINESS.

Summer in every way—warm and trade only fair. Stock is as good as can be expected, with the exception of sweet peas, which are not up to the usual standard, but another week will see an improvement. Roses, carnations and other flowers show the effect of the weather, while lily of the valley and orchids are of good quality and find a ready sale. Shasta daisies of exceptional size are on sale; also some good gypsophilas. Pink and white pond lilies are seen in some of the windows and lend a cooling effect to the stores. Delphiniums of good quality are also on sale. America and Mrs. Francis King gladioli are arriving, but in limited quantities as yet. Funeral work, during the past week has been good, and was all that kept the stores from suffering a loss of flowers due to the extreme heat.

NOTES.

Last week this city had the largest convention in its history, when the Shriners, about 300,000 strong, clad in gala attire, gathered here. Several banquets of varying proportions gave the florists something to do, but as visitors in hot weather look more for lemonade, etc., the trade was not disappointed and hope they will come again. Several visiting Shriners who belong to the craft called and left cards and we were glad to welcome the following to our city: J. P. Pater-son and W. C. Cook of Montgomery, Ala.; S. W. Coggan, Battle Creek, Mich.; R. L. Dunn, St. Catherine's, Ont.; J. Gammage, London, Ont.; H. N. Bruns, Chicago; M. Steinhauser, Pittsburg, Kan.; Peter Murray, Fairhaven, Mass.; Mark Aitken, Springfield, Mass.

Stephen J. Mahoney, in quiet life a florist, is taking a course in floriculture and also oratory at Cornell University. The last named course will be severely taxed for about six weeks, then floriculture will bud again. If a copy of the Ithaca paper reaches Canandaigua they will be astonished at that point to think that the boy farmer of a few years ago is the same "Steve" who is the socialistic candidate for lieutenant-governor, ex-candidate for mayor of Buffalo and a florist. Depew, Root and other have hopped out of that town and made good—and good ale was made there at one time.

Vacations are now in order. Jerome Deutcher, third in command at the Wm. F. Kasting Co.'s establishment has returned and Oliver Klinkenmeyer, the second in the line is away and from all reports is house hunting. There is one or more away from Palmer's at all times.

Peter Stroh, monarch of S. A. Anderson's stock room, is autoing for two weeks. BISON.

HAMPTON, IA.—C. H. Hollied has purchased the business of the Curtis Floral Co.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co., under the management of J. J. Beneke and D. S. Geddis, has leased the property at 1410 Pine street and will be ready for business early in September.

STOCK PLENTIFUL AT BOTTOM PRICES.

One week is much like another during this spell, nothing out of the ordinary is going on, and everywhere stores are running with half the force on vacations. Stock is plentiful, prices down to the usual summer level, and the demand fair for this season of the year. Gladioli America, Halley and Pink Beauty are in good demand, on account of their keeping qualities, and the quality of the stock now arriving is excellent. A few good early asters are in, and are in good demand. Carnations are still of fair quality, and also quite plentiful. Roses are arriving in their usual summer condition, and mostly short stock. Sweet peas are arriving in large quantities, of excellent quality, and selling at ridiculously low prices. Then there are gypsophilas, larkspurs, snapdragons, achilleas, stokesias, gaillardias, coreopsis, rambler roses, marigolds, bachelor buttons, etc. Easter lilies are still arriving in quantity.

NOTES.

The storm which visited Cleveland and vicinity, July 2, did much damage to outside flowers and greenhouses, notably among North Olmstead and Rocky River florists and vegetable growers. Much glass was broken.

Dennis Zelaski, who grows larkspur, phlox, buddleia and other outdoor flowers near Puritas Springs, lost about $1,000 in stock destroyed by the storm, July 2.

A Dutch lunch was keenly enjoyed at the florists' club meeting by those present, W. A. Vinson giving the boys a treat. A vote of thanks was tendered.

C. F. B.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

Business has been poor, due to the terrific heat, the demand centering in funeral work and a few weddings. Heavy rains last week prolonged the carnation season, but severe electrical storms caused much damage to crops. Stock is plentiful.

NOTES.

The new electric sign of the Flick Floral Co. has arrived. It is a very attractive affair, nine feet long and six feet wide, with a rose entwining the firm name. Mrs. Aaron Shive and Miss Marguerite Flick will leave soon on a business trip to Detroit, Mich.

Hauswirth, The Florist, 220 West Berry street, has announced that he will retire from business, and is offering his fixtures for sale. He will return to Chicago.

FUNERAL WORK ONLY DEMAND.

July so far has shown little to interest florists in the way of business, for except for a little funeral work, there is practically nothing doing. The weather is sweltering hot, and so dry that rain is badly needed for growing farm crops, and incidentally for the florists' outdoor stocks. Sweet peas have gone the trip. Gladioli are in good supply and of good quality. Asters are beginning to help out a little, while Shasta daisies and similar stock are about finished, the hot weather hastening the end. When it gets very hot in Kansas almost everything stops except express shipments and ice men, for we must have a little stock and ice to help keep it.

NOTES.

E. H. Kunzie, for several years foreman for Charles P. Mueller, has bought an interest in the business of Hassler & Son, trading as the Newton Floral Co., Newton, Kan. They have purchased from the owner the greenhouses in the same city, which have been operated under lease as the Rose Bud Greenhouses, and will wreck the houses, using the material at their own plant. They have also purchased the store on Main street operated in connection with the greenhouses and will probably continue it in its present location, which is very good.

A number of out of town funeral orders, too late for the train, gave W. H. Culp & Co. a chance at a 75 mile delivery stunt a few days ago. Ralph Culp made the drive accompanied by the regular driver. They arrived and delivered the orders a full hour before the funeral—yes, it was a Ford.

Russell Bros. have placed an order with the John C. Moninger Co. for four new greenhouses, 21x150 feet each, which will make eight houses of the same make. The four previous ones have been built at intervals during the past few years. The company has recently been incorporated, C. M. Russell being president; E. H. Russell, vice-president; L. E. Russell, secretary and treasurer. The new range will be devoted chiefly to the growing of pot plants. They do considerable outside work, and have had a great deal of success in other lines, and are numbered among the progressive florists. Adolph Hammerstrom, manager of Moninger's New York branch, secured the entire contract, including all the construction material, heating and erection.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

GOOD ROSE STOCK SCARCE.

Very good gladioli in all colors are a feature of this summer market. They are much used in window decoration. Hydrangea arborescens is another showy flower that is seen in quantity; it is especially useful for funeral work. In the rose section there is a scarcity of good stock, Sunburst, Mock and Russell being well sold up every day. Although business appears dull with an over supply of flowers, any little flurry causes a scurrying about among the commission houses to get the orders filled. Lily of the valley is handled by the bunch, a hundred sprays being quite a quantity. Cattleyas, splendid stock, are far too plentiful and go at buyer's prices. Sweet peas, which are getting short in the stem, sell very low in quantity lots. Fair carnations are offered, good for the season. Short stemmed asters, the forerunner of the crop, have been coming in for a week or two. One of the staples is the Easter lily and it is the best of the all the year round flowers, the quality of well grown stock running up to standard at all seasons.

NOTES.

Pennock Brothers' window presents a very unique and beautiful setting for the summer season. The effect is that of a veranda; white lattice work about eight inches in width runs from small white boxes in the front and side corners of the window, extending all the way to and across the top. These boxes are planted with ivy, whose long green sprays are brought out well against the white latticed background. Birds and butterflies are also used to add realism. Two tall, round, white columns in the rear with bases and capitals carry out the porch effect. The floor of the window is covered with a large rug; at one end is a large wicker veranda chair, on which is lying a lady's summer hat and a magazine. A vase of flowers adorns a small table, while several good sized wicker jardinières filled with plants, the latest up-to-date ornaments for the porch, finish and make this one of the most artistic and appropriate summer window decorations.

"New Ideas in Piping and Heating" is to be the topic at the August meeting of the florists' club. A paper will be read by Cornelius F. Roland, of the National Tube Co., who is an expert in his line. He will illustrate his subject with motion pictures. Geo. C. Watson, chairman of the essay committee, is to be congratulated on the good work he is doing for the club. He hopes the members will appreciate this important lecture, and make sure that no summer vacation idea prevents them from being present.

The annual July 1 clean-up at the H. A. Dreer nurseries, which is one of the features of this establishment, was accomplished well within the date. It is a rule here that no matter how great the rush of spring business, everything must be in apple pie order before the celebration of the national holiday. They enjoyed a splendid trade, especially in the rose section, their wonderful display at the national show giving this branch of the business a wonderful impetus.

The kentia stock of the Joseph Heacock Co., at their Wyncote greenhouses, never looked finer. From the little fellows for the ferneries, up to the made-up giants that bother the decorators to handle, there is a great range of well grown plants. Many orders have been booked for fall delivery.

The display of irises and other herbaceous flowers at the July meeting of the florists' club, made by the H. F. Michell Co., Inc., was much appreciated by the members. It is another evidence of the enterprize of this up-to-date firm.

Vacations are now in full swing and everywhere familiar faces in the stores and wholesale houses are missing; they will be heard from later with wonderful fish stories, and other interesting data of their summer outings.

Geo. W. Kerr, the sweet pea expert of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., attended the exhibition and meeting of the American Sweet Pea Society of Bar Harbor, Maine, where the firm had a very fine exhibit of new varieties.

Edward Reid is still roaming around about his southern territory. At last

The regular meeting was held July 11 at Bonnie Brae, Holyoke, the estate of C. E. Mackintosh. Geo. Strugnell has been in charge of the gardeners for several years and is well-known in his district for his all around ability. Members enjoyed a stroll through the flower garden and vegetable quarters, noting with satisfaction the flourishing appearance of the crops. A large berry tree laden with luscious fruit came in for special attention. D. J. Gallivan extended an invitation to hold the annual picnic on his farm at Smith's Ferry. The offer was accepted, but the date depends on the progress of the sweet corn, which is an indispensable item for this occasion. H. E. Downer read an essay on "Herbaceous Perennials" and exhibited sprays of Achillea, Perry's White, Thalictrum Fendleri and Pentstemon glaxinioides.

HEAVY SUPPLY ALMOST UNSALABLE.

There has been very little change in the condition of the cut flower market since our last notes were written. While business is dull with the retailers, it does not seem to be any worse than in previous years at this season. In the wholesale district the trouble is that there is an enormous quantity of stock arriving that is practically worthless. Good stock, of roses and carnations, which is scarce, is wholesaling for as much as can be expected at this time of the year. Good special American Beauties wholesale at the rate of $20 to $25 per 100. Good stock of tea roses wholesales at from $1 per 100 for No. 1 to $4 to $6 per 100 for specials, depending on variety. Good carnations, which are very scarce, range from $1 to $2 per 100. These prices are for what may be termed the pick of the flock. There is a lot of stock arriving that cannot be sold, and it would be better for everybody, excepting the express companies, to dump it at the greenhouses.

July 17.—Business in the wholesale district is very light today. Good American Beauties continue scarce and the best go at the rate of $25 per 100, but to get a dozen good ones, the wholesaler usually has to go over about a hundred, the remainder going into a cheaper grade. The supply of cattles is not heavy but there is little or no demand for them, and there is good stock in the market that remains unsold. The carnations, meaning good ones, are nearly out. Prices on the best stock have moved up a little, but that is only temporary, as the asters are now here. To summarize, there are no fixed prices on any stock; every wholesaler is a law to himself and acts accordingly.

NOTES.

We have received an elaborately printed invitation to attend the outing of the Washington Florists' Club at Great Falls, Va., July 19. A list of committeemen follows, and from personal knowledge we can state that each and every man is well qualified for the position: Wm. Earnest, chairman humepatopcharox; Geo. Shaffer, chairman arrangements; Geo. Cooke, chairman African golf; Wm. Marche, chairman currency; Harry Lewis, chairman medical and hospital; Wm. F. Gude, chairman preparedness; Edw. Schmid, chairman prizes and chickens; G. Milton Thomas, chairman sports; J. J. Barry, chairman lost children; J. Richards, chairman refreshments and ham inspector; A. Schnell, chairman arguments and disputes; A. Gude, chairman Mephisto and fireworks; Dave Bissett, chairman lecturer and guide over falls. There can be no doubt that it will be a very successful event.

The explosion of an ammonia tank in the basement of a meat shop at 418 Sumner avenue, Brooklyn, July 13, wrecked the retail flower store of N. Pepenos, at No. 416, but nobody was hurt. The building where the explosions occurred was demolished and five persons were killed, all that were in the building at the time. It is believed that for some unknown reason the water supply for cooling the ammonia failed, hence the explosion.

Prof. George M. Reed, of the University of Missouri, has been appointed fellow of research for the Brooklyn botanical garden and Prospect park, to investigate diseases of trees and shrubs. Dr. W. C. Rankin of Cornell, who formerly held the position having resigned, Mrs. Clarence R. Hyde has donated to the garden 51 books on botany and gardening.

extensive carnation range at Hempstead, L. I., and sell their stock in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Company, have just purchased a fine commercial auto of the Ford make, for the daily trips to the market. In addition to carnations they are now bringing in quite a supply of asters.

Louis Giatras, who was formerly in the retail business on Columbus avenue, is now located at 239-241 Flushing avenue, Astoria, where he has a nice retail store, and also a finely appointed ice cream parlor. He owns both stores, and in addition, has erected a large apartment house.

We are advised that the Essex County, New Jersey, Florists' Club will hold its annual outing at Berkeley Heights, N. J., August 3. The party will make the trip from Newark and return in automobiles. A good attendance of New York wholesalers is expected.

F. Koller, who succeeded Charles Arnold at 180 Main street, Astoria, has been quite busy of late with funeral work. In Mrs. Koller he has a very active assistant. Peter Fallon, 208 Main street, Astoria, is another retailer who has a good wife to assist him.

W. G. Matthews and wife, of Dayton, O., visited this city, July 13, calling on Young & Nugent and other local florists. They had been on an extended tour of eastern cities and summer resorts, and found it very enjoyable.

Peter Jacobson, of Dean & Jacobson, growers of Astoria, has the fishing habit. He and C. W. Scott and John Miesem will be heard from soon, as a large reward is offered for a shark, dead or alive.

Leo Klein, the retailer, of Lexington avenue and 61st street, has just bought a new Ford auto, and yet the retailers say that it is the wholesalers who make all the money.

William Nigro, of H. E. Froment's staff, took advantage of his vacation to marry Miss Mabel Murray, of Atlantic City, N. J. We wish them happiness.

Many expressions of regret have been heard relating to the death of John Poehlmann of Chicago. Such men as he was are none too plentiful.

Wm. E. Tricker, of St. Paul, Minn., came east to attend his father's funeral and called on a number of his old friends.

CHICAGO

Our friend, Dr. Edward F. Bigelow, of Greenwich, Conn., editor of the "Guide to Nature," has been chosen scout naturalist by the managers of the Boy Scouts of America. For a number of years Dr. Bigelow has been editor of the nature and science department of the "St. Nicholas Magazine." Some of the farmer-florists who inhabit this zone might, with profit to themselves, read Dr. Bigelow's writings.

G. Laskas & Co., 270 Broadway, Brooklyn, have been established there for quite a number of years, and have a good store and a fine business. They also have a stand in the Broadway ferry house.

Mrs. James Capparel, wife of The Boston Florist, Lexington avenue and 34th street, died July 17 of tuberculosis. She was a native of Greece, and about 29 years old. She left no children. A. F. F.

New York Florists' Club.

President Henry Weston has appointed Walter F. Sheridan, chairman; Emil Schloss, J. A. Fiesser, W. H. Siebrecht, Joseph Fenrich, Roman J. Irwin and Peter Duff the nominating committee to select candidates for office for 1917. This committee is to make its report at the November meeting of the club. JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

Summer-Flowering American Viburnums

For many flowers the arboretum is indebted in early summer to four American species of viburnum which have been used in large numbers in its borders and roadside plantations. The earliest of these V. dentatum is already in bloom; it has handsome dark green leaves conspicuously toothed on the margins, and broad flat clusters of white flowers which are followed in early autumn by bright blue fruits on erect stems. This is a common roadside and meadow shrub in the northeastern part of the country. The second of these four viburnums, V. cassinoides, is also in bloom. It is a native of swamps in the northeastern part of the country where it sometimes grows 20 feet high, with slender, straggling stems. In cultivation it forms a broad, low, round-topped bush, and has proved one of the handsomest of all the viburnums introduced into the arboretum. The leaves are thick and lustrous and vary greatly in size and shape. The flowers are slightly tinged with yellow and are borne in wide, slightly convex clusters, which also vary greatly in size. The fruit is larger than that of the other summer-flowering American species, and at first yellow-green, later becomes pink, and finally blue-black and covered with a pale bloom, fruit of the three colors occurring in early autumn in the same cluster. In the viburnum collection, near the junction of the Bussey Hill and the Valley roads, there are a number of plants of this viburnum selected to show the variation in the shape of the leaves and in the size of the flower-clusters. The third of these summer flowering viburnums, V. venosum, resembles in its general appearance V. dentatum, but it flowers two weeks later, and the young branchlets and the lower surface of the leaves are covered with a coat of stellate hairs. This viburnum is found growing naturally only in the neighborhood of the coast from Cape Cod and Nantucket to New Jersey. A larger and a handsomer plant with larger leaves, more showy flowers and larger, later-ripening fruit, V. Canbyi, is the fourth of these species. It is a native of eastern Pennsylvania and northern Delaware, where it is not common, and of central Indiana; and it is the last of all the viburnums in the arboretum to flower. There are large specimens of this plant in front of the Administration building and at other points on the Meadow road. All these viburnums can be improved by cultivation and with generous treatment grow into larger and handsomer bushes than the wild plants, and bear larger leaves and better flowers and fruit. Few shrubs better deserve a place in American parks and gardens where they are still less often seen than they should be. Two rare American viburnums can now be seen in flower in the arboretum, V. molle, a native of southern Kentucky and southern Missouri, with which V. venosum was once confused, and V. bracteatum, which is known to grow naturally only on the cliffs of the Coosa river near Rome, Ga. One of the few plants in cultivation is on Hickory Path, near Centre street. V. mollis is in the general viburnum collection.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin, June 23, 1916.

Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., First Vice-President; L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fifth annual convention, June, 1917.

ONION SET growers in the Chicago district report maggot unusually active in their crops. Rain is needed.

MT. STERLING, KY.—George Hays of Louisville has purchased an interest in the Blue Grass Seed Co. of this city.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, July 19, were as follows: Timothy, $5 to $7 per 100 pounds.

ARNOLD RINGIER, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, returned this week from Wisconsin, where he has been inspecting crops.

TAMPA, FLA.—On August 1, the Allen & Reils Seed Company will open up with a complete line of seeds, feed and supplies.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—W. Atlee Burpee & Co., following last year's plan, close their city office all day Saturday during July and August.

YORK, PA.—James, James T. and Wm. J. Anderson have incorporated the Anderson Bros. Company to deal in seeds in this city. Capital stock of the concern aggregates $40,000.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—W. N. Arterburn, president of Wood, Stubbs & Co., has been confined in a local hospital as the result of injuries received in a collision between his automobile and a motorcycle.

SPRINGFIELD, MO.—The following officers of the Springfield Seed Co. have been re-elected for the ensuing year: R. R. Ricketts, president; W. D. Murray, vice-president; A. S. E. Sanders, secretary-treasurer.

FIXATION and assimilation of nitrogen by leguminous plants is described by A. L. Whiting of the agricultural experiment station, University of Illinois, Urbana, in Bulletin No. 179. The booklet gives account of many original experiments and is profusely illustrated.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—The Courteen Seed Company has started the erection of a modern brick seed house at Twin Falls, Idaho. The plant when equipped with machinery will cost approximately $25,000. The main structure will be 65x100 feet, and modern in every respect.

MITCHELL, S. D.—W. A. Wheeler, secretary of the Dakota Improved Seed Co., has recently been appointed by the federal Department of Agriculture as a specialist in market seeds, a new office recently created by that department. The duties of the position will be to investigate the methods of marketing agricultural seeds, especially the seeds of the cereals, forage grasses and legumes, and to render assistance to producers and dealers in organizing and marketing their products. Mr. Wheeler will begin his new duties about the middle of July.

Catalogues for the Argentine.

The attention of the postmaster general has been called to the practice of American business men in sending catalogues by parcel post to Argentina. Such practice costs the recipient in that country from $1.27 to $1.70 for stamps and expenses, besides costing the American firm more to send catalogues by parcel post than as printed matter. The rate by parcel post is 12 cents a pound and as printed matter it is at the rate of eight cents a pound up to four pounds six ounces, and merchants' samples two ounces for one cent up to 12 ounces, with a minimum of two cents for a shipment. In this connection the attention of the post office department has been called to the following letter written by a leading importing house in Argentina:

The Late W. E. Dallwig.

"Referring to the conversation which the writer recently had with your good self regarding the trouble and expense we are continually put to owing to the custom which North American manufacturers have recently adopted of forwarding us catalogues by parcel post, we desire to again call your attention to this matter, as of late it has become a regular abuse.

"As already explained to you, the first advice we receive of these catalogues is the official notice from the custom house that a parcel, contents unknown, has arrived for us. We have no means of ascertaining beforehand the contents of such parcels, and have to pay in each instance from $3.00 to $4.00 paper ($1.27 to $1.70) for stamps and expenses, only to find that in many cases the catalogues are of no interest to us whatsoever. All this trouble and expense could be avoided if the catalogues were sent by registered book post. We therefore venture to request you to kindly take the needful steps to remedy the matter."

The American consul, who has brought this situation to the attention of this government, says in conclusion:

"In the interest of our export trade, this office considers that it is of the highest importance that American exporters refrain from transmitting samples and catalogues by parcel post, unless expressly instructed so to do by the addressee. If the suggestion may be made, the writer believes that the widest publicity should be given the matter and that, if feasible, it would be well to enlist the co-operation of the post office department in bringing it to the attention of firms mailing catalogues and samples to Argentina."

The post office department earnestly suggests that shippers consult with their local postmasters in regard to the foreign rates and conditions of mailing to avoid unnecessary annoyance and expense to the persons addressed.

Southern Conditions.

G. B. McVay, of the McVay Seed & Floral Co., Birmingham, Ala., writes as follows, May 26:

"The seed season now coming to a close with us has been the most unsatisfactory one in the many years of our business experience, and it is difficult to locate the precise source of the trouble, but from close observation we are led to conclude that unusually prosperous conditions in our section of the country, especially along industrial lines, always seem to have a tendency to lessen the demand for garden seeds and has doubtless diminished the planting of such seeds to a very considerable extent.

"There has been a great falling off in the demand for garden and field seeds, the latter to be attributed to the fact that many farmers are engaging in the field seed business. Farmers are beginning to save and improve their field seeds, and are constantly bringing out new varieties, offering them to the planters themselves. The same conditions apply, in a smaller measure, even to garden seeds, so that it would seem that the southern seedsmen are face to face with serious competition from the farmer seedsmen.

"Another cause responsible for an unsatisfactory season is the fact that up to May 16 our season was unusually dry and cool, creating conditions under which it was impossible to plant certain seeds and inasmuch as these conditions obtained until such a late period many farmers refrained from planting at all.

"Another thing that has contributed no little to present conditions is the extreme scarcity and high price of commercial fertilizers which are always an important factor in southern planting."

SWEET PEAS FOR FALL SOWING

New Early Flowering Long Season Spencers.

The originator says: "One thing we are absolutely sure of is that these we are offering have come absolutely true for three consecutive years."

Early Morning Star.

The color is a deep orange scarlet or flame color in standard with rich orange pink wings. The flower is practically the same color as the late flowering Spencer "Dobbie's Thomas Stevenson." It does not burn badly out in the open and under glass will be magnificent. The flowers are large and of best Spencer form and borne in threes and fours in wonderful profusion. Under artificial light it is superb.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (¼ oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

Early Song Bird.

We are sure this will be the leading pale pink for Florists. The flower is the same color as "Florence Morse Spencer," and a bit lighter than "Elfrida Pearson." It has the same excellent form and features of Mrs. Hugh Dickson but is on white ground. The placement of the flowers is splendid for packing and the flowers are borne on long stems in threes and fours. When in full growth it seems as though every stem carried four large blossoms.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (¼ oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

Early Melody.

This is a deeper shade of pink than "Early Song Bird," on white ground, closely resembling "Countess Spencer" and near "Hercules." It might be described as rose pink on white ground. The effect when bunched is most pleasing.

It is very floriferous. The flowers are borne on long stems and mostly four large well-waved blossoms to each stem.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (¼ oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

Early Spring Maid.

The color is light pink on a cream ground and the blossoms have the same splendid characteristics of "Mrs. Hugh Dickson" for a florist's flower.

It is a most effective flower and carries a great wealth of blossoms borne in fours on long stems. There is no Early Spencer cream pink which is as attractive as "Early Spring Maid."

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (¼ oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

Early Snow Flake.

This is the best Early Flowering White Seeded Spencer. The blossoms are very large and of the best waved Spencer form. The flowers are borne in wonderful profusion on long stems.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (¼ oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

Early Heather Bell.

This will be one of the most popular shades with all Florists, as it will be so useful for making up for any occasion. The flowers are very large, borne in fours and threes on long stout stems, and are of beautiful bold Spencer form. The color is a rich but pleasing mauve, but after standing in water the color becomes a beautiful mauve lavender.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (¼ oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

Witloof Chicory.

Condensed from Bulletin No. 418 of the Geneva, N. Y., Experiment Station, by F. H. Hall.

Salads are now very popular on American tables as they have long been with European epicures. The crispness and delicacy of a well-made salad, with the novel flavor combinations and gustatory thrills made possible by judicious union of new plant tastes and aromas with the mild acids and rich oils used by expert chefs, have a peculiar appeal to delicate palates, long wearied of heavy meats and vegetables or cloyed by rich desserts and pastries. Consequently, in any of our large cities where surplus wealth accumulates, a ready market exists for any salad plant that pleases at once both eye and palate. Such a plant is Witloof chicory; and since its culture in New York state is not only possible but practicable and easy it would seem that market gardeners and forcing-house men are missing an opportunity for a nice supplement to their revenues unless they grow it.

Witloof chicory is a Belgian development of the ordinary chicory whose roots are used as a coffee adulterant or coffee substitute and which has been cultivated to some extent in America, running wild in many sections to become a pernicious roadside and pasture weed with striking blue flowers. The common chicory, or succory, has often or loose leaves (Barbe de Capuchin) been forced in winter to form heads for use in salads or to be cooked for "greens" as are dandelions. But Witloof (White-leaved) chicory is a better forcing plant, with larger roots than the common chicory, and with heavy, broad smooth leaves that make very attractive heads when properly grown. The plant is also known as Brussels chicory, from its supposed place of origin, and, improperly but most commonly in the markets, as "French endive."

Witloof chicory makes very attractive salads, white, crisp, faintly bitter but with a characteristic flavor most pleasing to practically all palates. The heads may also be used as a pot-herb, similar to spinach or dandelions, but are more delicate than either. Great quantities of Witloof chicory have been grown about the larger cities of Belgium and France and sold for local consumption or sent to Germany, Switzerland, England, and, recently, to the United States. Before the war, Witloof was sold in London markets, undoubtedly with profit, at from four to eight cents a pound. It then brought 25 or 30 cents a pound in New York markets and now, because of restricted growth and transportation difficulties, brings nearly double these prices.

Realizing these conditions it seemed wise for the station to ascertain whether Witloof chicory can be grown and forced readily and cheaply in New York state. Both growing the plants and forcing the heads prove to be easy and inexpensive. The seed imported for these tests from England but sold by many American seedsmen, is not expensive, and the growth of the plants to form forcing roots is simple. The seed may be sown any time in May in open ground, in rows 18 inches apart and the plants later thinned to six inches apart in the row. Ordinary garden culture only is needed, but the plants should make a steady luxuriant growth, resembling large, smooth-leaved dandelions. The roots should be lifted just before the ground is liable to freeze, the leaves trimmed to within two inches of the crown, and the roots stored.

When needed for forcing,—January 3, in the station test,—the roots should be placed in beds or boxes where moderate heat can be applied, first cutting them off at the bottom to a uniform length of eight or nine inches. For holding the roots any soil or sand will do, since the growth of the heads is from the food stored in the roots and does not depend at all on the soil fertility. The roots may be set quite close together, but not touching, upright in the soil and covered to the crowns. Various materials may be used for holding and bleaching the heads during their growth, but in the station tests eight inches of clear sand was used with splendid results. This was placed on the bedding material as soon as the roots are set. One or more free applications of water should be made. From experiments at different temperatures, from 50° to 60° F. would seem to be desirable, the latter probably preferable since growth is slower at the lower temperature. Higher temperature than 60° for any considerable period causes the leaves to shoot up rapidly and decrease the proportion of solid heads. At these temperatures the leaves should begin to show through the eight inches of sand in about two weeks, when the heads are ready for harvesting.

In the station tests four grades of roots were used; Extra, averaging two inches in diameter, large, 1.4 inches, medium, 0.9 inch, and small, 0.6 inch. Of these the large and medium roots gave more than 70 per ct. of marketable heads, while the extra roots produced too many divided and loose heads, or heads too large to serve satisfactorily as individual portions at table. The small roots produced many small heads, too slender for market purposes. The heads should be from four to six inches long and weigh two to three ounces to suit the market best. In Europe they are packed in baskets holding 10 kilograms (22 lbs.); but a filled three pound Climax basket makes a very satisfactory package for small American markets. The heads grown in these experiments were pronounced excellent by local grocers who have handled imported Witloof, and far superior to the foreign product in crispness and delicacy.

CHICAGO CONVENTION COMMITTEES.

At a meeting held at the Planters' hotel, Chicago, July 13, a permanent organization, known as the Chicago convention committee of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America, was formed for the purpose of arranging a programme and entertainment of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America during the convention to be held in Chicago in September (exact date to be announced later).

The officers and committees are as follows: Fred Lautenschlager, president; James B. Foley, secretary; E. F. Kurowski, treasurer.

Finance committee — Geo. Sykes, chairman; Leonard Vaughan, W. L. Kroeschell and D. J. Coyne.

Entertainment committee — D. J. Coyne, chairman; Philip J. Foley, Leonard Vaughan, E. F. Kurowski, R. F. Dilger and Aug. Geweke.

Trade exhibit committee — A. Dietsch, chairman; Rudolph Kurowski, Geo. Sykes, Jr., J. E. Pollworth, Leonard Vaughan, and John Leonard.

Hotel, trade space and meeting room committee — W. L. Kroeschell, chairman; Geo. Sykes, Leonard Vaughan, and Carl Ickes.

Programme committee — Sam. W. Severance, Louisville, Ky., chairman.

Reception committee — J. E. Pollworth, chairman.

Banquet committee — Leonard Vaughan, chairman, W. L. Kroeschell, Geo. Sykes, Philip J. Foley, D. J. Coyne and P. L. McKee.

Further appointments will be announced at forthcoming meetings. It is the earnest desire and intention of the committee to make the forthcoming convention a perfect success, and with proper co-operation of all parties interested, success is assured. The Chicago convention promises to embody unique features, and it will be the aim of the committee to bear out the reputation of Chicago as "The convention city" of the United States. Incidentally, the Chicago Association of Commerce is taking a lively interest in this enterprise, and will work with us.

JAS. B. FOLEY, Sec'y.,

New Early Flowering Giant Pansies

Or Winter Blooming

An entirely new and distinct strain of Pansies. The main advantage of these new Pansies over all hitherto existing Pansies is the extreme earliness of flowering and its unusual hardiness, which enables them to withstand quite severe Winters, and to bloom right on into the Summer. Sown at the same time as other Pansies, they begin flowering the early part of March or as soon as the snow is off the ground, many times having four or five large flowers to a plant, when all other Pansies are only showing buds. The flowers are large, well formed and fragrant. They are highly recommended for Autumn planting on graves, and for very early bedding, as well as for early cut flowers.

14. WINTER SUN. Golden yellow with dark eye.
15. ICE KING. Silvery white, with dark blue eye.
16. CELESTIAL QUEEN. Light or sky blue.
17. CHARM OF MARCH. Dark velvety blue.
18. MIXED. The above four colors with other shades and variations.

Each color separate or mixed, 500 seeds 50c, 1000 seeds $1.00,

American Association of Nurserymen.

John Watson, Newark, N. Y., President;
Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-second annual convention will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., June, 1917.

Gross Opens Detroit Office.

After being associated with The Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Chicago, for nearly 15 years, A. R. Gross is leaving their employment in order to open an office in Detroit, Mich., for the practice of his profession as a landscape gardener. He carries with him the good wishes of all with whom he has been associated.

Mr. Gross has had most thorough training and experience, not only in the designing and development of cemetery grounds but, what is almost equally as important, he has a thorough experience in the administration and operation of cemeteries and accounting and recording. He will thus bring to persons securing his services, not only high artistic ability in landscape design, but a proper knowledge and appreciation of the practical matters that are so highly important to be considered in such cases.

He will still remain connected with the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association as consulting landscape gardener.

American Association of Nurserymen.

SECRETARY HALL'S REPORT.

Members of American Association of Nurserymen:

A duty placed upon your secretary by a resolution adopted at the Detroit convention, was to express to the "grand old men" of the association that three pioneers were unable to be present at that gathering. This communication was written to J. Van Lindley, E. W. Kirkpatrick, C. L. Watrous (since deceased), A. N. Willis, and C. S. Harris. Several acknowledgments were received.

In anticipation of queries as to the effect of the new schedule of membership fees under the revised constitution upon the registration, your secretary feels that he cannot answer such in any different language than has already been employed by him in correspondence with the executive committee and in the columns of the trade publications. Predictions were made by some that Article I of the new constitution, creating "active" and "associate" members, and introducing the plan calling for "additional dues" based on amount of business done, would work disastrously to the association. The results to date do not show such to have been the case. They have rather justified the wisdom of the adoption of the new rule, for, without any canvass for new members, the badge book contains 364 names and eight others have registered since that publication was mailed. The cash receipts for the year have been $5,829.85 against $3,151.90 in 1915. For several years past effort has been made by specially-appointed committees to obtain new members, with some success, but in not a few instances was largely intended as a compliment to the individual soliciting the membership, and therefore such have not remained permanent. Your executive committee has passed favorably upon 21 of the 24 new applications for memberships, but after careful investigation have been compelled to decline the other three. To hold membership in this association from this time on will mean very much more to the individual nurseryman who enjoys the privilege, than the mere perfunctory act of registration. For the last six years the average registration has been 378. It ought to be twice that number. To assist diffident members to become more easily acquainted with their brethren, it was decided to try the use of a bar containing a card upon which members are asked to write their name in a good bold hand.

The "tireless reaper", Death, has again attacked our numbers and removed several members during the year.

Captain Charles L. Watrous of Des Moines, Iowa, fell to sleep in March of the present year. Mr. Watrous was one of the "old guard" of this organization.

F. W. Power of the Oregon Nursery Co., Orenco, Ore., died early in this summer, after a siege of ill health, the immediate cause of death being blood poisoning, which developed from an accident.

W. Atlee Burpee, of Philadelphia, Pa., died November 25, 1915, aged 57. He was a former member. We also mention, because of his prominent connection with the division of pomology in the United States department of agriculture, the removal of G. B. Brackett, in December, 1915; also, Major Frank Holsinger, Rosedale, Kan., January 2, 1916. He was not a member, but Holsinger Bros. have recently allied themselves with the association.

There may be others of whose death we have not been advised. Members who know of such are asked to mail particulars to the secretary, that the names may be included with others in the "In Memoriam" contained in the annual proceedings.

The financial statement of the year is as follows:

Receipts.
June 21, 1915, balance and new memberships	$ 93.50
June 20, 1916, membership and badge book	5,720.75
Advertisements, sale of trade term labels	15.60
	$5,829.85
Disbursements.
Paid Peter Youngers	$5,572.10
Balance on hand...	257.75

In conclusion, gentlemen, let me assert that there can be no doubt as to the future of this association. Having broken the spell of traditional routine, which has had so tight a grip upon the organization, the new constitution beckons members to a higher plane of thought and of action, and it is no fanciful theory that we pronounce, when we say that the American Association of Nurserymen is to become the synonym of all that is best in administration and in future development along lines that shall bring the orders of the consumers of your products to your desks in larger numbers.

As a result of the more extended ing the value of those products from publicity that shall be given concerning both the aesthetic and the practical points of view, the more dignified position shall your honorable occupation come to occupy in the estimation of your patrons. Co-operation, liberally and cheerfully given by each member to your executive officers, will make possible all that we have herein presumed to predict.

COLLEGE STATION, TEX.—A convention of the Texas Nurserymen's Association will be held here July 26-28. The annual meeting will be held September 26-27, the place yet to be selected.

Lake Forest County Fair.

In the form of a county fair, the seventeenth annual charity entertainment of the Lake Forest Horse Show Association was given by the courtesy of the Onwentsia Club, on the club grounds at Lake Forest, Friday and Saturday, July 14-15, when $15,000 was cleared and the proceeds donated to the Alice Home (Hospital), at Lake Forest and the Lake Bluff Orphanage, Lake Bluff and Contagion hospital. The exhibits of flowers and vegetables which were held in two separate tents, were very large and attracted much favorable attention. Practically all the private estates were represented in either one or the other exhibits and taken all in all it was a grand show and a credit to those in charge. The exhibit of gladioli particularly was worthy of note and considering the early date of the exhibition it was a grand collection and the best variety on display, and which won first prize, was a magnificent vase of Mrs. Frank Pendleton. The display of sweet peas was unusually large and some very fine stock was noted. Pansies, larkspurs, delphiniums, sweet williams, poppies, cosmos, calliopsis, hollyhocks, snapdragons, hardy roses, (cut) and hybrid tea roses, (cut), dahlias, daisies and a large number of other outdoor and indoor grown flowers usually found at a summer show were much in evidence, and according to all those present it was the best summer display that Lake Forest has held in years. The competition was very keen, but the prizes were pretty well distributed and the judges performed their duties to the entire satisfaction of all the exhibitors for there were no complaints of any kind made. Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, had a large exhibit of ornamental plants which contained some very choice fancy leaved caladiums, crotons, palms, etc. The exhibit in general was of such fine quality that it was sold almost as soon as it was staged. E. Livingston, gardener for Fred Vogel, Milwaukee, Wis., staged a vase of fine yellow gaillardias that attracted much attention. Several large groups of greenhouse plants arranged for effect and occupying not more than 100 square feet, helped considerably to make the exhibit a large one. House ferns, native fern plants, gloxinias, orchids, heliotropes, tuberose, rooted begonias, flowering begonias, petunias, oleanders and hibiscus were prominent in the plant displays. In the decorative class considerable skill was shown and the exhibits consisted principally of center pieces of sweet peas, garden roses, and baskets of annuals, perennials, hardy roses, tea roses, etc., arranged for effect. The contest for decorative pony carts was one of the

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Alternantheras.

The propagating bed will not be full at this season, and it is one of the best times to procure a stock of that splendid carpet bedding plant, the Alternanthera paronychioides major. This plant simply refuses to grow during the winter, and it is almost impossible to procure cuttings until late, with the result that the plants are necessarily small. Any amount of cuttings can be procured now and they can be easily rooted either in flats of soil or in the propagating bed. When the cuttings are inserted give them a good watering and keep them shady for two or three weeks, and they will all root. They can then be placed in flats about one inch apart and placed in a frame outside or in the greenhouse. They can be wintered in a warm dry house on a shelf near the glass, and potted in April, and will make fine plants. The other varieties are much more vigorous and will thrive in a lower temperature. A few old plants can be lifted and propagated in the spring in the usual manner.

Mignonette.

The plants of mignonette from seed sown in July will have to be placed in their winter quarters in the bench in September. If extra large and long spikes, that are always so much admired, are wanted, the soil will have to be very rich. To ordinary compost (that is, two-thirds loam and one-third manure), add about as much manure again, making the soil about half and half. The plants should be set about 12 inches apart. Water only around the plant until the roots begin to spread in the soil. Keep the soil free from weeds, well scratched over and loose, that it may not become sour. The tops should be pinched off until six or eight branches have been formed. The cabbage worm will soon make its appearance unless this has been guarded against, and if a leaf is found eaten hunt for them at once. When they first make their appearance they are only about a quarter of an inch long. They are green, just the color of the foliage, but have a velvety appearance, and are generally found on the midrib of the leaf or on the stem. Hand picking is the only remedy, and it takes sharp eyes to find them, but they must be gotten rid of or they will soon ruin the plants.

Heaths.

During the hot weather the ericas will demand considerable attention. The plants should be plunged in the coolest location possible, yet where they will get the full sunlight. The pots are full of the very fine roots and if these once get dry the tender roots will burn. There is no plant the florist grows that demands closer watching and more careful watering than the heaths. They are so hard wooded that they do not show neglect as quickly as the softer wooded plants, but if they get once fully dried it means absolute disaster with no flowers the succeeding year. The grower well posted in the culture of these plants can tell at a glance when they should be watered and never neglects them. If the plants are growing unshapely they should be pinched back, so that the form will be kept. The plants that are in small pots will need repotting in September; a fine loam with but little fibre and with no manure is to be preferred for these plants, for their fine roots do not like a coarse soil, and manure of all kinds should be omitted from the soil in which they are grown.

Genistas.

The genistas should be potted by September 1 in the pots in which they are to bloom, and a few days before potting should be trimmed into shape. It is a good plan with all soft wooded plants when growing rapidly not to cut at the top the same time the roots are disturbed, so it is better to do the pinching back before the shifting is done, and then not again until the plants are beginning to grow in the new soil, plainly showing that root action has again begun after being disturbed. The plants that are being grown in prescribed shapes should be kept tied to the form, and as soon as established in the new soil, pinched back. They will stand considerable hard cutting back for some time yet, for the blooming shoots do not set until well into the winter. Keep the plants in as cool quarters as possible until the first of the year when if a few plants are wanted early they can be brought into warmer locations but these plants are cool growing subjects and do not like any great amount of heat.

Violets.

It will soon be September and time to house the plants of the double varieties of violets that are grown in the field, the more successful growers being of the opinion that the plants should be under glass before the season of heavy dews. In preparing the beds have plenty of old leaves; it is not necessary that they be rotted; in fact, leaves gathered last fall are to be preferred, for they will generate a little heat in the soil and the violet plants seem to grow and push their roots into half-rotted leaves better than in leaf mold that is finely decomposed. A layer of three inches of leaves in the bottom of the bed will prove of great advantage in violet culture. Whatever manure is used should be thoroughly rotted. The violet will not root into fresh manure at all. An old gardener, who was very successful in violet culture, once told us how he prepared his frames. They were made in a similar manner to hotbeds, only instead of manure a foot of leaves was placed at the bottom and eight or ten inches of soil placed on them. The leaves will furnish a mild heat nearly all winter and greatly assist in keeping the frames warm. We tried that method the following fall and thinking that the leaves would not furnish nutriment enough we incorporated a good quantity of half-rotted manure in the soil, the manure still being more or less lumpy. The violets grew finely and produced an excellent crop of large flowers. In the spring when we lifted the plants we found the roots had all gone into the leaves, there being no feeding roots in the soil, and in making their way through the loam had avoided all the manure, this still being in the lumps as when placed in the soil. In lifting the plants avoid allowing the roots to become dry; lift with a good clump of soil and do not keep the plants too long in the air, only lifting what can be handled expeditiously. Plant firmly, but avoid walking on the beds; water as soon as planted and water well, so that the soil will be firmed around the plants. Shade for a few days until growth starts, and then give all the air and light possible.

Geranium Propagating.

It is none too early to begin the propagation of geraniums, especially if it is doubtful about there being stock enough. Any plants that have become established and made a growth that will furnish a cutting will not be injured by the taking of the growing end, in fact, they will be benefitted, for they will break more shoots for the September propagation. Many growers in making the fall propagation, after trimming the cuttings, insert them in 2½-inch pots in soil, placing the pots on shelves near the glass. This is a very economical way of handling the cuttings after cool weather has set in, but for summer propagation the bench of sand is to be preferred. In making the cuttings trim off all the foliage except the small leaves at the tip. Be sure that the sand is pounded down hard, so that it will retain all the water possible. In inserting the cutting use a small round stick as a dibble, making a hole just large enough in which to place the cutting. This will disturb the bed of sand much less than drawing a knife or other tool through it. After the cutting is placed in the sand, press the sand firmly and then water heavily, so that the sand will settle firmly around the cutting. The cuttings should then be shaded from the sun either by papers or by stretching cheese cloth over them. This will prevent wilting and evaporation. No further watering will be necessary, until the plants begin to root. One of the greatest mistakes made by growers in the summer and fall propagation of geraniums is the continual watering which will invariably cause damping off and rot. Never mind if the surface of the sand becomes dry, if it has been properly packed there will be moisture enough below to cause them to root. If the cuttings wilt a slight syringing or placing wet papers over them will revive them. A good strike can invariably be made by following this method.

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Tumbler Basket.

Supplementing the article on this popular feature of the up-to-date flower shop which appeared in our issue of July 1, page 1234, we present herewith illustrations of two of these dainty receptacles tastefully arranged.

For special sales or for window displays, they fill a place entirely their own, and arranged artistically in the window or placed on the counter, they are bound to attract attention and in themselves offer a suggestion which will result in sales that would not otherwise materialize, especially during the dull summer months, when more elaborate arrangements would not receive consideration. When stock begins to accumulate these baskets are especially desirable, as they can be readily filled with attractive flowers in combination and will appeal to the buyer whose purse will not stand the strain of a heavy purchase, while on the other hand, artistic arrangement, tending to bring originality and the blending of colors to present the flowers in all of their beauty, will result in very satisfactory sales. The small bow of ribbon, usually the finishing touch, adds much to the attractiveness of the entire arrangement. During the holiday season last year the tumbler basket of Christmas greens proved very popular. Arranged with bright sprigs of evergreen and well berried holly, together with statice and red ruscus, and with a red or holly ribbon bow, it was most appropriate and was very acceptable as a small gift, selling readily at from $1 to $1.50 each.

As has been stated, these miniature baskets are to be secured in an ever increasing variety of shapes and colors at prices ranging from $8 to $12 per 100, and can be fitted with tumblers at a cost of two to three cents additional. Oftentimes the glass is first filled with sphagnum moss and water poured in and the flowers, being always in water, are almost sure to keep in good condition until disposed of. For quick selling and the small amount of labor required to make effective arrangements, they have already found a place in many stores.

Outdoor Summer Cut Flowers.

Four-fifths of the demand for flowers during the summer season comes from the messages of love and sympathy that are sent on funeral occasions. This important branch of the business should receive the utmost consideration and study by all departments of the trade. The commission dealers should aim at all times to have a supply of flowers suitable for this work, which the retail florists will soon learn to appreciate, as so many orders, particularly at this season, have to be prepared at very short notice. The suburban florist, who has room enough to grow some of his stock, will find it well worth while to have a supply of his own, which in addition to the money saving, will be of great assistance when things are wanted in a hurry.

There is quite a variety of summer flowers, starting with the earliest of the spring shrubbery and continuing on with a never-failing supply until the frost finally finishes the last of the hardy chrysanthemums, just before the snow begins to fall. Much depends on the amount of ground available for the purpose, but it is astonishing what a quantity can be grown in a small space. Such stocks as candytufts, pyrethrums, and double white petunias can be planted rather closely together and will repay bounteously the comparatively little attention they require; a mulching of salt hay keeps the flowers clean, particularly those of the petunias. The great majority of men, however, who grow and retail most of the flowers they raise, have ample room for the full assortment, such as will meet their demands at all times, with enough to spare to dispose of at wholesale that will add not a little to the annual receipts.

The layout of such a garden is worth considerable planning. There should be a continuation of crops for every month. First comes the shrubbery, of which there should be an amply supply in variety; Spirea Reevesii, Deutzias gracilis and Van Houttei are the best, with weigelas and syringas if there is space. Japanese snowball is one of the best and most useful in its season. The rambler roses are well worth attention. The white and pink Dorothy Perkins, if well pruned and kept within bounds, furnish a crop of beautiful long-stemmed clusters that will be found very useful and salable. The white and pink Maman Cochet produce abundantly the summer through; by a little attention they can be had with fairly long stems, such as can be sold singly or by the dozen. The white Hydrangea arborescens gradiflora is a very valuable flower, coming in about June 20, when the shrubbery is done and furnishing splendid heads of bloom on long stems for at least a month. A row or two of hollyhocks will be found useful, as the long spikes can be cut for decorations and single flowers can be worked up well as a foundation in large design work. Double White altherras along a fence or border, where they will not be disturbed, furnish a lot of good stock in their season; the single flowers stem up nicely for design work and the blossoming spike-like branches are useful in decorative work or as a background for sprays. The Hydragea paniculata has the field almost to itself for decorative and design work during its long late summer and early fall season. Many florists find a good sale for the dried clusters or heads of bloom, which, if cut at the proper time and intelligently cured, work up well with the fall flowers and grasses, making a permanent ornament for room decoration.

Bulbous stock should find a space; the early spring bulbs, planted the fall before, are often found very useful. Lilium candidum is beautiful with its long heavily flowered spikes, which generally find a good sale. The pink and white Lilium eximium, or common Japanese lily, is splendid for all kinds of funeral work; they produce a beautiful effect when arranged over a wreath of solid white flowers, magnolia, ivy or similar design. A few Lilium auratum will also be found advantageous. They are as distinctive as orchids in giving character to good work. Gladioli are a very useful flower, as are also asters. They can have a place in this rather intensive garden, but are now grown so largely as almost to be counted as field crops. A row of the hardy white sweet peas, Lathyrus alba and rosea, which come in after the annual varieties are about done, are very good stock. They should have a permanent position where they will become established. Everyone knows the value of the annual sweet peas, which in the new orchid varieties, are one of our most important summer flowers. With room to spare, they will be found good dividend payers. Dahlias take up a lot of room, but a row of the white pompons will furnish a lot of bloom when other ground work flowers are scarce and they should be added to the list. Hardy chrysanthemums coming at a time when almost all else is gone, unite the out and indoor season. Quite a few florists who have taken up the summer culture of this late fall flower, selecting the best and most saleable varieties, have found a good market for the outside stock at the autumn leaf time, when the colors blend so nicely together with the oak and other highly colored fall foliage.

To get the best results from such a garden requires, of course, constant and intelligent attention. A sprinkler system, so as to be independent of the weather, is a great help. As much is expected from the various plants, they should be encouraged with liberal feeding of the best manure, the ground should be continuously worked, all weeds kept down and the hard wooded stock pruned after the flowering period so that next season's bloom shall be of the best. K.

BEACON, N. Y.—Benjamin Hammond has encouraged the children of this city to beautify their yards, and as a result the "Home Garden Brigade" now numbers more than 300 members. Prizes are awarded as an encouragement for excellence, while all the young gardeners will receive certificates of merit in September.

Summer Time Sweet Peas.

There are many things to be considered when one takes up any line of endeavor, particularly that of a business in which it is necessary to realize a profit which for the attention and work expended and capital invested, should make the greatest possible returns. Full consideration should be given the proposition. Take the matter of growing outdoor sweet peas for the one inch apart, in the row, which latter were three feet from one another; four feet would have been better, but the limits of the fame would not permit it. Sash were then placed on the bed and remained there until about May 1, when the vines, being about a foot in height, had reached the glass and it was removed. Being in some places quite thick, they were thinned out and the vines removed were enough to make an additional row in the garden

ting them off in a short time, often over night. Green fly is another enemy that in warm, damp, and cloudy, to them favorable weather, increase very rapidly. Persian powder, dusted on, is a good insecticide, and a good sharp hosing will knock them off. About two weeks after the sash were removed they were "staked." Six to seven foot poles were driven in, 18 feet apart, to which was attached a roll of two-inch mesh chicken wire netting, five feet in width. This, when finished, made a trellis almost six feet in height, the full length of the rows. As they grew the vines took hold of this and by June 20 were close to the top, with an average thickness of 18 inches. Owing to the late season the first cutting for market was on June 27. Last year the first crop of flowers was secured June 19, although the seed sowing date and care were the same. The first blooms were superb, the stems being 12 to 14 inches in length, with flowers correspondingly large. The vines increased to a height of six feet and over. After 10 days' picking the flowers began to shorten and grow smaller, but until the finish were easily the best stock that came to the Philadelphia market. They were picked early in the morning from 4:30 to 5 a. m. up to 8 a. m., and were then carefully bunched, packed in boxes, as ordered, and for the most part delivered with the aid of a taxi, by Miss Faust personally. The varieties grown were carefully selected, for this year the list read: Pink, Hercules and Margaret Atlee, Lavender Orchid, King White, and Royal Purple. Last season she grew Florence Nightingale, Lavender, Elfreda Pierson, White Spencer and Blanche Ferry, all orchid varieties. She believes one selection as good as the other. In proportion she had one row of white, one and one-half of pink and one-half of purple and lavender. The frame was two hundred feet in length and from these three rows of 200 feet each she picked, last season, during their full period of bloom, 2,500 to 3,000 flowers a day. The early days of this season, owing to the dull cold weather, were very dis-summer market. In the first place, several questions arise: Has one the time to give it the required attention; has one the necessary ground; is the location right, and is there an abundance of water if required; does one thoroughly understand the work? If the crop is a success, is there a market for it? These flowers are found to wholesale for the first cuttings at from 50c to $1.00 per hundred. To get the best returns, the grower must strive to get all he possibly can into the first grade, and to do this he will take advantage of every point in their cultivation that will contribute to their sturdiness, rapidity of growth and hasten their flowering period.

Whether this line of thought was taken up by Miss C. Faust, daughter of H. I. Faust, of Merion, Pa., we do not know, but the results obtained fully justify this conclusion. In order to get some vacation money, all her own, she determined to raise sweet peas and sell them to the florists. She took the matter up with her father and persuaded him to let her have the use of, at that time, an idle cold frame; this was 200 feet in length by six in width, running northeast and southwest. It was fairly well protected on the north by buildings and trees, with plenty of sunlight all day long. Preparation of the soil included a heavy coating of well-rotted manure, which was dug in deeply. Three trenches, six inches deep, were laid out, one each next the top and bottom of the frame and one in the center. About one inch of sand was placed in the bottom of each trench. In these, on March 19, was sown the seed, about adjoining. These moved very well, and came into flower about two weeks later than those in the frame. From the time the sash were taken off, the ground was worked continually, to kill the weeds, keep a dry mulch on the surface and at the same time pursue a vigilant watch for cut worms, which are especially partial to the vines, cut-appointing, as the first two crops of buds failed to mature, dropping off before they had an opportunity to expand; the next, however, opened all right, and since then there was no further trouble from this source. The extent of this undertaking and the application necessary to make it the success it has been, is due to the unbounded enthusiasm Miss Faust throws into her work. Nothing in connection

WITH THE GROWERS

W. H. Gullett, & Sons, Lincoln, Ill.

When writing of very large greenhouse establishments, it seems only natural to associate them with the vicinity of the very large cities, particularly so when they are built up lots of grit and faith, and this same spirit is certainly being exemplified by the Gulletts. At the time of the writer's visit, three large houses were being erected by the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., Chicago, with Philip L. McKee on the job personally in charge of the construction. The most modern ideas known to greenhouse builders are being put into these buildings, and to form some idea of their size, Mr. McKee states that one of the houses being built consists of 33,000 square feet of glass, certainly a good sized place in itself. This house, Mr. Gullett says, will be planted to carnations this season. These houses, together with the others at the same place, all built within the last three years, form the new Gullett range.

Roses, carnations and chrysanthemums are the principal crops grown. One large house is now devoted to cyclamens, but after this season, it is the intention to grow cut flower stock, young roses, carnations and chrysanthemums exclusively at this range and grow all the pot plants at the older place in Lincoln. Adolph Nielson is the superintendent in charge, and the condition of the stock is a great credit to him. Roses form the main part of the crops and they were in excellent condition. We noticed particularly fine benches of American Beauty, Ophelia, White Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Mrs. Shawyer and Richmond. Hoosier Beauty is being tried out largely and the plants are in good shape.

Several houses are given over to carnations, some of which are already planted, the method of indoor-culture from pots being tried, but the majority of the plants were in the field and preparations were going forward getting the houses ready for planting in July. Several benches of chrysanthemums were just recovering from planting, being healthy, young stock.

Considerable business is done in shipping young grafted roses of all the standard varieties—they were in grand condition, several large orders being with it is considered too much trouble from the time the bed is prepared and the selection of the seed made. She is on the job all the time, attending to their every need, watching eagerly for the blooms to appear. Her greatest pleasure is perhaps the first trip to town and listening to her customers telling her how beautiful her flowers are and how anxiously they have awaited for them to appear. Nothing succeeds like success and Miss Faust, with her earnest work and intelligent efforts, can be surely said to have reached that pinnacle for which so many are striving. K.

Sweet Pea Root Lice.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

Please advise of the best method of destroying root lice on sweet peas.

SUBSCRIBER.

Anacostia, D. C.

The presence of lice (Root aphids) on the roots of sweet peas clearly indicates that the plants are not growing healthily. This may either be due to the faulty preparation of the soil, or wrong after-treatment—temperature, ventilation, etc.—but as the query does not give any particulars, I will not touch on that phase of the matter. Root aphids may be eradicated by application of rather dilute kerosene emulsion, applying it to the soil on both sides of the row of plants and repeat in three or four days, if required. Encourage the steady growth of the vines by giving rather weak applications of liquid manure. One application of nitrate of soda might work wonders.

by the hundred thousand square feet of glass each year, but almost on top of a coal mine in the rich corn belt of Illinois, W. H. Gullett & Sons are building up one of the largest and most substantial greenhouse establishments to be found anywhere. It is said that the pioneers of this section had set aside for later shipping. Every facility is arranged for a large business; the packing and shipping rooms are up-to-date, convenient and well laid out, the general plan of the whole establishment being the best that could be thought out.

The older place of W. H. Gullett & Sons is located in the residential part of Lincoln and is under the charge of C. G. Anderson, who has had wide experience, and a general retail as well as wholesale business in pot plants is done. Cyclamens are a big specialty; as many as 10,000 are being grown for flowering, some extra fine specimens being already in eight-inch pans. The whole stock is in a healthy, growing condition and should make fine plants by fall. Ferns are another leading line, several benches being planted with nice sturdy, young plants, which will make salable plants in a very short while. A particularly pleasing sight was a house of asters in full bloom—they were fine stock and a strong demand was being found for them. Many bedding plants are grown, for which there has been a heavy call, Mr. Gullett stating that this and the plant shipping business has been particularly good this season. A large establishment like this requires close attention to the many details, and Ed and Wilbur Gullett will be found on the job all the time.

A. Washburn & Sons, Bloomington, Ill.

Nearly every city of the middle west has one or two old established firms of florists that stand out more prominently than the others, and Bloomington is no exception to this rule. The firm of A. Washburn & Sons was established just after the civil war by the father of the present members. The firm has been doing business every year since it was established and Frank Washburn says that the trade of the past spring is one of the best they have had. A general retail business is done to supply the needs of Bloomington and the surrounding country. They have a large, well-appointed retail store down town in charge of George Washburn and a greenhouse establishment on the outskirts of the city, under the direction of Frank Washburn. The store is on one of the main streets and is arranged to do a big business; the work rooms are situated in the rear, so that the floral designs can be made up without interfering with the store work, and are out of the way of customers.

The greenhouse establishment is a large, well-located place with every facility for growing a big stock to meet the demand, and as on all places of this character, a general line of plants and cut flowers are grown. Several houses of roses were in good condition, most of the standard varieties being grown. The carnations in the benches were nearly over for this season, but the new stock in the field was in first-class condition—nice, clean, healthy plants that were responding to close attention. A large number of chrysanthemums are grown, both for cut blooms and plants; they were in fine growing condition.

This firm has a reputation for growing good single violets. Several of the older houses are given over to these plants and the stock then in the field was particularly fine. Palms, ferns, bedding plants and an assortment of bulbous stock are also grown, a good block of cold storage Lilium giganteum being in bloom at the time of the writer's visit. A good sized nursery is maintained to supply the demand for shrubs and perennial plants, and considerable land is given over to the production of summer flowers, such as asters, sweet peas, etc.

C. W. JOHNSON.

Bar Harbor, Me.

Mount Desert Island is one of the most scenic spots in this country; the rugged rock-bound coast covered almost to the waters edge with pines, the numerous small islands that dot the coast, some barren, but most of them covered with sturdy trees, the mountains rising high on every hand and the deep blue of the sea, seen through the many vistas which open constantly from the ocean drive, the road, 35 miles long, which skirts the entire island, appears to vie with the heavens in its intensity of color. While the greater part of the interior is still in its natural state, including the 5,000 acres of mountain and valley that have just been made a national park by action of Congress, there are many very beautifully laid out estates in which the natural scenery has been augmented by the hands of skilled landscape artists. In a number of places in which the original native trees stand, the underbrush has been cut away and a green sward worked up, together with winding walks and drives, which add greatly to the effect.

There are several quite wide awake men of the craft here aside from the skilled gardeners of the private estates. The Mount Desert Nurseries, of which T. M. Thatcher is superintendent, is a very up-to-date and ornamental plant growing establishment. A very wide and varied stock of everything required for the planting of the largest grounds is grown here in quantity, and planted with such symmetry of arrangement that the appearance is that of a private place. There are winding drives that take one up and down the rolling ground, overlooking lakes, and ponds, and iris beds, and at the foot of rising banks of bloom, that are lost in the deep green of the great mountain forests beyond. It is a charming park effect and one that should produce an open purse string to the millionaire visitors of the island. This firm also conducts a store on Main street for the sale of cut flowers and plants. John H. Stalford, who owns the Malvern Greenhouses just off of Mount Desert street, has also a very well fitted up store on Main street for the retail business. At his greenhouses he raises stock for the store and also makes a specialty of hothouse melons and grapes. These are also for the millionaires, the grapes selling for $2.50 to $3 per pound. The varieties are Bowwood Muscat and Black Hamburg. The customers order or call and select the bunches on the vines; these are tagged and sent home when desired. The melons, which must be cut when ripe, sell at from $1 to $3 each according to size. They are Sutton's Royal Jubilee, a white-meated fruit. As they approach maturity, they are supported in nets to the rafters and present a very tempting appearance. Edward Kirk, of the Vanderbilt estate and Northeast Harbor, also forces melons, with which he has great success. A bed of strawberries seen here bore fruit of remarkable size and delicious flavor.

After the close of the sweet pea show, the visitors were loath to leave, and many small party trips were taken to the various estates and points of interest on the island. The hospitalities of the local craft appeared boundless; autos were tendered to carry the visitors, and after feasting on the beauties of nature as seen on every hand, nobody was allowed to go home either dry or hungry. Some went fishing—Harry A. Bunyard and Wm. M. Hunt, returned with some "40 odd", so they say, and a party of merry fellows, Messrs. Bartsch, Edgar, Methven, Sherwood, Russell and Cahill, caught a lot. Mr. Cahill says his big one weighed 14 pounds, but Nimrods Edgar, Methven and Russell were so busy feeding the gulls and fishes that they could not be prevailed upon to verify this. Mr. Edgar says: "Fishing is great sport, but you kind of lose interest when they get the bait for nothing."

On Sunday visitors to the sweet pea exhibition were admitted free, as the authorities would not allow any entertainments or exhibitions on Sunday, to which an entrance fee was charged. The sweet pea growers, and there are many in Bar Harbor, are unanimous in the opinion that a week later would have given a chance to make one of the best shows of the country, the season had been very bad, there having been in May and early in June a period of 28 days in which the sun was not visible at all.

GOOD LATE SEASON BUSINESS.

In spite of the lateness of the season, business is holding up very well. There has been considerable funeral work of late and a few recent weddings have helped. Stock is about as previously reported although dahlias are arriving in greater variety and roses are also better. American Beauties are retailing as high as $7.

NOTES.

At the Redondo Floral Co., Mr. Borden has returned from his vacation and Mr. Knopf is now at San Diego enjoying a few days' recreation. Phil D. Hester, one of the older employees is also enjoying his vacation among the orange groves near Colton. A busy time with funeral orders is reported at this establishment.

O. C. Saakes has been making a showing of excellent Mrs. Russell roses; also, a splendid display of Baron Hulot gladioli, a fine deep purple. Golden West dahlias were also a feature here this week and he was one of the few showing orchids.

Wright's Flower Shop, Inc., have had considerable funeral work of late; also the decorations for several big weddings. Fine American Beauty roses from their own range are a feature here.

S. Murata & Co. are always busy in their shipping department—they advertise. The first appearance of chrysanthemums was noted at their salesrooms.

H. Englebrecht, the efficient lady manager of the flower seed department of the Germain Seed & Plant Co., is enjoying her vacation at Catalina Island.

Mr. Morris, of Morris & Snow is spending his vacation at Big Bear valley. He has the reputation of being "some fisherman."

Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldenson report very good business, the season considered. They are showing stock in good variety.

The Broadway Florists have been showing some fine red asters and report considerable business in ferns.

G. H. H.

Newark, N. J.

We have had occasion to note the activities of W. R. James, who a few months ago opened a store at the corner of Bloomfield and Mt. Prospect avenues. The location is a fine one, and his store is admirably planned for display, having two large show windows. He is keeping a good variety of plants and cut flowers and is doing business. He has greenhouses on 14th avenue.

Harry Stein, who conducts the flower and plant department in the Hahn department store, on Broad street, has had a busy season, up to the beginning of hot weather.

Everybody is going to the outing of the Essex County Florists' Club, at Berkley Heights, N. J., August 3. Put a heavy pencil mark on your calendar at August 3.

Broad Street, usually a busy mart of trade, is now rather quiet, so far as the florists are concerned, funeral work being the leading feature.

Ernest Radaney, of Central avenue, keeps quite busy with funeral work. In his greenhouses he has a nice stock of chrysanthemums coming on.

William Strahan, of Wolfinger's, had just returned from his vacation, which he spent at Atlantic City and other seaside resorts.

We found Phillips Brothers busy on a large order for funeral work and noticed a number of fine designs.

At Begerow's, it was stated that business was as good as expected at this season.

A. F. F.

Arlington, N. J.

The business of growing aquatics and other stock, which was conducted by the late William Tricker, will be continued, under the same name, by his son, Charles. A new house, 25x100 feet, had just been completed at the time of Mr. Tricker's death. It is finely fitted up with concrete ponds, or tanks, for growing water lilies. The house and all its appointments are well constructed. William E. Tricker, who is now foreman for Holm & Olson, St. Paul, Minn., came east to attend his father's funeral and spent a few days calling on friends.

Gottfried Marti has a well constructed range of about 10,000 square feet of glass and grows a variety of stock, having now a good stock of chrysanthemums coming on.

O. Verilhae has a considerable glass area and grows a variety of stock, both in plants and cut flowers. His geraniums and other outdoor stock look fine.

John Moyle now has the store and greenhouses formerly conducted by Bird Van Emburg, and makes a specialty of cemetery work.

Raymond Taylor has a neat retail store at 141 Midland avenue.

GOOD STOCK SCARCE.

Continued warm weather has had a serious effect on all flowers, making it almost impossible to get good stock. Gladioli are not plentiful as yet. Roses are inferior, as are also carnations. Sweet peas are very short. Lilies alone are good and fill in a big gap.

NOTES.

Buffalo's wholesale florist establishment, the Wm. F. Kasting Co., suffered a severe loss by fire, July 18, which practically gutted the whole place, driving them into temporary quarters. The origin of the fire seems unknown and was discovered by the watchman after it had a good start. Several lodges were meeting in the different lodge rooms at the time, but all got out in safety. The firm will in all probability locate in a new and more convenient building, better adapted to their business. It takes more than a fire to disable the firm of Wm. F. Kasting Co., for by 8 a. m. the following morning they were doing business at 493 Washington street. E. C. Brucker and W. H. Eiss are to be commended for their promptness in getting opened up.

The Lenox Flower Shop broke the record last week for summer and had an order for a casket blanket.

The annual picnic of the florists' club will be held at the automobile club Wednesday, August 2. Every one is invited. Automobiles to take you out and back.

E. C. Brucker, secretary of the Wm. F. Kasting Co., has the sympathy of the trade in the death of his father, which occurred July 23.

Miss A. L. Faul, Miss Edna Goehring and Miss Loretta Mead of S. A. Anderson's force are enjoying their vacations.

W. J. Palmer & Son are putting in a very attractive summer window at their Genesee street branch.

BISON.

Bangor, Me.

Mrs. T. Allen, with a store at 9 Hammond street, and greenhouses in Court street, had experienced the best season in many years. Miss Allen, who is in charge of the store, has up-to-date ideas in conducting the details of the retail business. A wax paper envelope to enclose customers' cards is original with her. The greenhouses are in charge of her brother, who grows a general line of plants and cut flowers, all of which are sold in the store.

A. J. Loder's city store, at 30 Columbia street, has a good range of glass on Main street, two new houses, each 27 x 150 feet, being recently added. He has also a growing establishment at Pittsfield, Me., all of which stock is sold, wholesale and retail, at his city store. Business has been very satisfactory.

C. M. Conant Co., 182-196 Broad street, seedsmen, have farm and garden seeds, and deal largely in farm implements and dairy supplies. They reported the potato crop as looking well, with a good supply in prospect.

Adam Sekenger, whose store and greenhouses, of almost 25,000 feet, are together at 32 Newbury street, had a good run of funeral orders. Very good Ophelia roses were a feature. He reported a very good season.

R. B. Dunning & Co., 54-62 Broad street, have extensive warehouses and handle all kinds of field and flower seeds, agricultural implements, fertilizers, etc. They have had a great spring business.

This city is well supplied with cut flower and seed stores. Although the dull season is on, (the third week in July), several of the retail establishments were quite busy getting out funeral work.

H. L. Cushman, 62 State street, has a purely retail establishment. His is a growing business, but is increasing rapidly. His winter and spring season was above his expectations.

J. Martin, Jr., 268-270 Center street, is situated in the residential district and does quite a business in bedding and house plants.

K.

Southampton, N. Y., Flower Show.

The annual flower show at Southampton, L. I., N. Y., scheduled for July 26-27, promises to be one of the greatest local events of the season. People of well-known social standing, from various parts of the country, many of whom have large estates with gardens and greenhouses, and who display more than ordinary interest in plants and flowers, are interested visitors at this exhibition. There have been many prizes contributed for choice blooms of all sorts, as well as for ferns, palms, decorations arranged by the cottagers and vegetables. The competitive classes are arranged in a large tent on the spacious lawn of the new school house grounds, outside of which are the commercial displays. Evergreens, rock gardens, rose gardens and outdoor plantings arranged by commercial firms are also advantageously placed.

Personal.

Prof. A. H. Nehrling, of the Floricultural Department of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, passed through Chicago this week, returning from Colorado, where he and his bride had been spending their honeymoon.

The Late John Poehlmann

E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., writes: "The late John Poehlmann will be missed by the trade at large, for he was greatly liked and very much admired for his splendid business qualities and his comprehensive outlook on the trade. We deeply regret his passing so long before he had time to enjoy the wide success of the Poehlmann Bros. Co."

PRESIDENT PENNOCK, of the American Rose Society, is making a vigorous campaign for new amateur members and solicits the cooperation of the trade in securing them. Mr. Pennock also hopes for assistance in the preparation of an authoritative catalogue of all roses grown in America, a publication greatly needed.

American Gladiolus Society.

The schedule of prizes for the annual exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society, which will be held at Boston, August 11-13, may be had upon application to Secretary Henry Youell, 538 Cedar street, Syracuse, N. Y. Those desiring to make trade displays should advise the secretary at once. Spaces are limited to 150 square feet, for which there is no charge.

Gladiolus Society of Ohio.

The fourth annual exhibition and flower show of the Gladiolus Society of Ohio will be held in the assembly rooms of the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, Friday and Saturday, August 18-19, 1916. Premium list will be mailed to members, and to intending exhibitors on request. All who intend to exhibit please notify R. E. Huntington, chairman executive committee, Painesville, O., stating number of vases or space desired.

WILBUR A. CHRISTY, Sec'y-Treas.

Roses Awarded Gold Medal.

At the exhibition of the National Rose Society of England, held June 30, gold medals were awarded to new roses as follows:

C. E. Shea, H. T. (raised by Lowe & Shawyer, shown by E. J. Hicks, Twyford).—Clear bright rosy tint shading to blush at edge of petals; big well-formed, pointed flower of good substance, on strong stems, sweetly scented. A fine forcing rose, already known in Covent Garden.

Nellie Parker, H. T. (Hugh Dickson, Ltd., Belfast).—A well-formed flower of medium size and great substance, good stalk, and stout, healthy growth. The color is creamy-white, with blush-pink center the buds are strongly flushed with yellow, which, however, disappear as the flower comes to maturity. A decidedly promising novelty.—Horticultural Advertiser.

Floricultural Education in Ohio.

Floriculture in Ohio is a large business, but up to the present time the College of Agriculture at the Ohio State University has not been able to give the work of developing instruction in floriculture the consideration it deserves, due to a lack of proper facilities. Alfred Vivian, dean of the college, makes the announcement, however, that with the new horticultural building with its excellent greenhouse equipment, it is now possible for this institution to take up the work and put it on a firm basis.

Alfred C. Hottes, who was graduated from Cornell University in 1913, receiving his master's degree the following year, and who since that time has been instructor in floriculture at Cornell University, has been engaged to take full charge of the development of the work in floriculture at the College of Agriculture at Columbus. He is a member of the nomenclature committee of the American Gladiolus Society, has contributed several articles to horticultural publications, and the floral interests in the state of Ohio, one of the most important in this line in the country, will welcome his appointment.

Chicago to Houston.

GREATLY REDUCED ROUND TRIP RATES.

After showing considerable lack of interest in the coming convention of the Society of American Florists the railroad organizations identified with transportation between Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Houston, have awakened and at the last moment given our national society the consideration to which it is entitled, granting greatly reduced round-trip rates to the convention city as follows:

Chicago to Houston and return. $46.25
St. Louis to Houston and return. 34.65
Kan. City to Houston and return. 32.00
Memphis to Houston and return. 28.25

The Chicago party occupying special cars will leave via the Wabash Midnight Banner Express at 11:55 p. m., Sunday, August 13, and arrive in St. Louis at 7:40 Monday morning. The special cars will be attached to the Iron Mountain Texas Limited, leaving at nine o'clock, due at Houston, Tuesday, August 15, at 2 p. m., in time for the opening session.

Round trip tickets from Chicago going August 12, 13 and 14 are good returning until September 5. The charges for Pullman sleepers from Chicago are as follows: double lower berth, $6.75; upper berth, $5.40; drawing room, $24.

CIRCLE TOURS.

One can purchase a circle tour ticket which permits going to Galveston (with a stop at Houston), boat from there to New York, a seven-day cruise on the Mallory Line, including one-day's stop over at Key West, and return to Chicago, via Niagara Falls and Detroit; or via Philadelphia and Washington. One can also take the Atlantic Line from New Orleans direct to New York, a five-day trip, and from New York as above mentioned. Cost of either of these tours is but $80. Meals and berth on boat are included.

For further details, Pullman reservations, and other particulars, address H. L. Purdy, care of Wabash Railway Co., 808 Edison building, Chicago. Telephone, Harrison 4500.

New York to Houston.

The transportation committee of the New York Florists' Club has selected the following route for those who intend to attend the S. A. F. convention in Houston, August 15-17.

The S. S. "Morus" will leave New York, Wednesday, August 9, arriving at New Orleans, Monday, August 14, whence the journey to Houston by train, the Sunset Limited, is only 11 hours. The rate will be $80 to $83 for the round trip from New York City to Houston, which covers the trip by steamer to New Orleans, train to Houston, then by all rail returning. Those who desire may also return by boat. This rate includes berth and meals on steamer, but not on trains.

As this is evidently the route favored by most of those who intend to go, it is hoped that all members of the New York Florists' Club and friends from the eastern section of the country will travel in this party. The transportation committee is composed of Chas. H. Totty, chairman; John Young, Wm. C. Rickards, Jr., and J. R. Lewis.

As the steamship traffic on this line is heavy at this season, it is necessary that all reservations be made well before August 1. Make your reservations at once if possible. Further information will be gladly furnished by J. R. Lewis, secretary of transportation committee.

Oklahoma City.

Business has gradually fallen off until it has now become extremely quiet and will no doubt remain in that condition for several weeks at least, as the warm season will be with us for some time. We had a temperature of 100 degrees for three days in succession; then a good wind and rainstorm came and made everything more comfortable again.

Interurban trolley connection between this city and Guthrie has just been completed and cars have commenced making regular trips. This service enabled C. W. Stiles, and the greenhouse foreman, Ed. Ryan, to make a trip to Guthrie and visit the growers there, Furrow & Co.

The Stiles Co. has commenced benching field grown carnations. The plants have made a very satisfactory outdoor growth this season.

BURPEE'S EARLY

WINTER-FLOWERING SPENCERS

The House of Burpee has long been recognized as "American Headquarters for Sweet Peas," and our introduction of these Fordhook Strains of Winter Flowering Spencers marks an era in commercial Sweet Pea growing.

The Novelties offered below, excepting Yarrowa, are the results of crosses made at our Fordhook Farms during the past seven seasons. All stocks are grown at our Floradale Farm, "The California Home of Sweet Peas."

FORDHOOK PINK AND WHITE:—A most popular Winter Flowering Spencer. A color that is always in demand, similar to the old Blanche Ferry, bright rosy pink standard, wings almost pure white. The immense flowers measure 2½ inches in diameter and are perfect in form. A very early, free and continuous bloomer, awarded a Certificate of Merit at the Spring Show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Philadelphia, March, 1915, and the American Sweet Pea Society, San Francisco, June, 1916. ¼ oz., $1.25; ½ oz., $2.00; oz., $3.50.

FORDHOOK PINK:—This is a distinct shade of pink suffused with lavender throughout. Flowers are large size, exquisitely waved, produced in threes and fours on long stems. ¼ oz., 40c; ½ oz., 75c; oz., $1.25; ¼ lb., $3.50; ½ lb., $6.25; lb., $12.50.

FORDHOOK ROSE:—Introduced by us in 1915. Flowers of largest size usually borne in threes and fours. A charming shade of rosy carmine. Awarded a Certificate of Merit at the International Show, New York, March, 1915, and the Spring Show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Philadelphia, March, 1915. ¼ oz., 50c; ½ oz., 85c; oz., $1.50; ¼ lb., $4.00; ½ lb., $7.50; lb., $15.00.

YARROWA:—This magnificent Australian variety has proved its unusual merit with commercial growers in all parts of the country. It has an exceptional reputation as a sure-money-maker. First exhibited by us at the great International Show in New York, March, 1914, and awarded a Certificate of Merit by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, March, 1915. Flowers exquisitely waved, averaging 2½ inches in diameter, many of them being duplex or double. A bright rose pink with a clear, creamy base. ¼ oz., 35c; ½ oz., 60c; oz., $1.00; ¼ lb., $2.75; ½ lb., $5.00; lb., $10.00. Our Special Leaflet on Winter Flowering Sweet Peas free on application.

SUMMER ROSES

We make a specialty of growing Roses best adapted to handle during the hot weather. Our facilities are exceptionally well equipped and we recommend the following stock for summer:

BEAUTIES--Mostly Medium and Short Lengths Good Shipping Stock.

Rhea Reid—Best red rose.

Mrs. Russell—Best pink rose.

Sunburst—Best yellow rose.

Double White Killarney—Best white rose.

Ophelia and Shawyer—Are also two good pink roses for summer use.

These in addition to the regular varieties of Roses we are receiving in large quantities direct from our greenhouses within a few hours of being cut, enable us to fill all orders with strictly fresh stock. This is the great advantage of buying direct of the grower. Order here.

TRADE SHOWS A LITTLE IMPROVEMENT.

Business the past week was a trifle better than it has been for some time and while it is not as brisk at it might be, it is as good as can be expected in July and no complaints are heard from anyone. Trade on Saturday, July 22, was very good and all fancy stock cleaned up quickly at satisfactory prices. Good stock is none too plentiful and a few brisk days would find the market pretty well cleaned up. American Beauty roses are steadily increasing in quantity, but are in good demand and clean up in fine shape every day. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses in the better grades are moving fairly well and the same holds true for Milady, Richmond, Rhea Reid, Hadley and Hoosier Beauty. White Killarney and Double White Killarney are in good demand and so are Sunburst, My Maryland and Mrs. Aaron Ward. Some fine Killarney Brilliant, Killarney and Killarney Queen are included in the shipments and at times have a good call. All the other roses grown in the vicinity for the local market are to be had in large supply, including Champ Weiland, Mrs. Moorfield Storey, Francis Scott Key, Ophelia, Mrs. Bayard Thayer, Sunburst, Tipperary, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, etc. The miniature roses, George Elgar, Cecile Brunner and Baby Doll are seen in large numbers, but do not appear to be moving any too well. Carnations are plentiful and are being sold in large lots at low prices notwithstanding the fact that there is some fairly good stock in certain varieties available. Lilies are to be had in quantity and some very choice stock in their line is obtainable. Gladioli are gradually becoming more plentiful, but so far the shipments consist principally of Chicago White, Pink Beauty and Myrtle. Asters are more plentiful and the same applies to dahlias, which are not selling any too well. Orchids are in good supply, but lily of the valley seems to be holding its own. There seem to be more outdoor flowers than ever this week and at times this class of stock has a good call and then again it accumulates to such an extent that it is dumped into the barrels almost as fast as it is received. Gypsophila of fine quality has been offered in quantity the past week and has sold quickly at prices that are surprisingly good. Green goods of all kinds are plentiful and taken all in all there is more than enough stock of all kinds to go around. The coming S. A. F. convention at Houston, Tex., is the principal topic of conversation in the wholesale district and from present indications it appears as if this city will be prettily well represented after all.

NOTES.

A. E. Kunderd and daughter Marie, of Goshen, Ind., visited Weiland & Risch's establishment Thursday, July 20. Miss Marie celebrated her fourteenth birthday on that day and brought a fine lot of her own new seedling gladioli with her on her first visit to this city.

Victor Young & Company, 1239 North Clark street, had the floral decorations for the opening of the Swedish art exhibit at the Art Institute last week.

—2,000,000 Feet of Modern Glass—

A. E. Hunt is minus a new Ford, which someone stole from him in front of the LeMoyné building, Saturday noon, July 22, and so far the police have been unable to locate it. He discovered the thieves just as they were starting away and tried to follow them, but they made their getaway, and neither they nor the car have been heard from since. Fortunately, the car was insured, so his loss is not as big as it might otherwise be.

Felix Reichling is back from a pleasant visit with relatives on a farm near Great Bend, Kans., and is again attending to his duties at Peter Reinberg's store. Mrs. Reichling and the children will remain there a few weeks longer, which accounts for the song that the boys have been humming since he returned, and which is "Hurrah! My wife has gone to the country."

A. T. Pyfer is back from a fishing trip on the Rock river, where he had a most delightful time and succeeded in catching several good-sized channel catfish. He is back on duty at A. T. Pyfer & Co.'s store, feeling as fit as a fiddle and ready to tackle another successful season's business.

J. A. Budlong is one of the fortunate ones in having a large supply of lilies and lily of the valley on hand, for both items have been in good demand the past week. This firm is cutting a fine line of roses, which consist of an unusually large number of varieties.

Percy Jones is handling a large quantity of fancy asters and gladioli in addition to a complete line of all other miscellaneous indoor and outdoor stock. Business has been very good at this house all during July, with the sales running away ahead of those of the same month during 1915.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has about completed the planting of American Beauty roses and according to Mike Gabel, over 40,000 are being grown this season. The plants are looking fine and the stock now being cut is of splendid quality and in good demand at the store. The plant department, under the able supervision of Thos. Conlon, is in a flourishing condition and four more houses will be used by him to keep pace with the rapid growth. In the palm department H. M. Oeser is busy as a bee, getting the imported stock sorted and graded, which is some task in itself, when one considers that this year's shipment consisted of nine carloads. August Poehlmann says that they have been working with 45 men short all through the summer, but notwithstanding this everything is going along nicely and the planting is well under way.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a tremendous supply of fine Ophelia roses, which they are growing 10,000 strong this season, and they always clean up well every day at the store at good prices. Charles Drissler, manager of Wietor Bros.' shipping department, is back from his vacation, and reports having had a most delightful time. Their store is in the hands of the painters this week and is being given a thorough overhauling from top to bottom.

Frank Oechslein will have 150,000 square feet of glass, all told, with his new plant on Harlem avenue, which was formerly known as the W. E. Lynch Co. range. The new range of Foley houses at the Harlem avenue place is completed and Mr. Oechslein is now busy planting same. He reports an unusually good season and says that the sales during May and June were particularly good.

Allan Gerhling, of the Bassett & Washburn force, is back from a delightful visit at Burlington, Wis. Arthur Pasternik, of this firm, leaves July 29 for Saugatuck, Mich., where he will enjoy a two weeks' vacation. Miss Ruth Wattman, of the office force, is expected back to work next week, when Miss Schriber will leave to enjoy a well earned rest.

Nicholas Mogo, gardener in the employ of the Chicago Saddle and Cycle club, Foster avenue, it is alleged threw a pair of grass shears at Wm. Ulrey, 14 years of age. The boy died of his wounds July 24. Mogo is held pending the action of the coroner's jury.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are handling a large quantity of gladioli in all the seasonable varieties and report an unusually brisk demand for same. Miss Charlotte Paradise has returned from a three weeks' visit at Denver, Colo., and is again acting as cashier at this ever growing establishment.

H. E. Philpott, of Winnipeg, Can., was in the city several days this week on business connected with A. T. Pyfer & Co., of which firm he is president. He will attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Society to be held at Kitchener, formerly Berlin, Ont., August 8-10.

Paul Kingsporn says that Stielow Bros. Co., of Niles Center, is shipping in a good supply of Ophelia and Mrs. Chas. Russell roses to the Chicago Flower Growers' Association store, which it is cutting in the new range of Garland houses that were erected this spring.

John Michelsen says that the E. C. Amling Co. received its first shipment of Golden Glow chrysanthemums July 25, which is one day earlier than the first shipment in 1915, and that they were sold to the same party who bought the first lot last year.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg, George Asmus, August Poehlmann, A. Henderson, W. J. Keimel, M. Barker, Tom McAllister and August Lange and wife have signified their intention of attending the Houston convention.

Joseph Ziska & Sons' wire working department is always running full blast and no matter how hard or how late the crew works, the demand seems to clean up the designs as fast as they are turned out.

John Weiland, of Evanston, was a visitor at Chas. W. McKellar's store this week, and is somewhat of a stranger in the market, even though he is in close touch with it.

Miss Nettie Parker, of A. T. Pyfer & Co., and O. A. Tonner, of O. A. and L. A. Tonner, will leave for Sturgeon Bay, Wis., next week, where they will spend a three weeks' vacation at Cabot's lodge.

Miss Florence Scriven is again keeping the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's books after enjoying a pleasant visit with friends at Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Ernest Rober, of Wilmette, was discharged from a local hospital this week, where she underwent a serious operation for throat trouble.

Hoerber Bros. never seem to be off crop with My Maryland roses for their daily shipment always includes a liberal supply of them.

George Reinberg is cutting a fine supply of Richmond roses, which are in good demand considering the general market condition.

The E. F. Winterson Co. says that gladioli are in brisk demand this season and clean up surprisingly well at good prices.

Peter Hile is back from his honeymoon, and is again attending to his duties at D. E. Freres' store.

Miller & Musser are handling their share of gladioli this season and report a ready sale for same.

George Gobel, formerly with Kennicott Bros. Co., is now in the employ of the John Kruchten Co.

Ernest Oechslein is building a new storage house and garage at his River Forest establishment.

Peter Sgoros and Charlie Rogers will leave next week for northern Wisconsin on a fishing trip.

Erne & Klingel are strong on outdoor flowers, including a fine grade of asters and gladioli.

Frank McCabe will represent the A. L. Randall Co. at the Houston convention.

Steve Keller, with George Keller & Son, manufacturers of red pots, was severely injured a few weeks ago when he got caught in a belt and was thrown up on the shaft and then fell on his stomach on a rip saw, which cut him so terribly that he was immediately removed to Alexian Bros. hospital to undergo an operation. He is feeling some better at this writing, and is able to be up and about, but it will be some time yet before he will be able to leave the hospital.

A. L. Kirchgraber, of Mattoon, was a visitor at Kennicott Bros. Co.'s store, July 25, and had several old price lists with him from 1888 and about the only rose that was on the list then that is being grown for the local market now is the old favorite American Beauty, which is far from being a dead one and will be still in commerce when many of the popular varieties of today will be thrown in the discard.

Zech & Mann are having a new door put in at the east end of their store, which will give them a new entrance to the Weiland & Risch, Kyle & Foerster and E. F. Winterson Co.'s establishments. Allie Zech and wife are expected home this week from a two weeks' visit with relatives at Rock Island.

Reinhold Schiller, manager of Schiller's downtown store, is taking the bath treatments at West Baden, Ind. Fred Ronsley is giving the regular force a hand during his absence.

Lubliner & Trinz have leased the new Covent Garden theatre on North Clark street and will turn it into a moving picture house, opening Saturday, July 29.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Hancock and daughters, Frances, Belle and Miriam, will leave next week for Deer Park, where they spend their vacation.

Fred Lautenschlager reports a heavy demand for Kroeschell boilers and states that telegraph orders are being received every day.

L. Loeser, with Kyle & Foerster, and family, are visiting with relatives at Ashland, Wis.

Joe Pfeffer, Weiland & Risch's efficient bookkeeper, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

WORST DRY PERIOD IN YEARS.

The extremely hot weather of the past week put a quietus on business in general; only the more dainty flowers used for table decorations and stock for funeral work are in demand at times. Otherwise everything is very quiet. The dry, hot spell which lasted the first half of the month of July was one of the worst in some time past. Then, as if to make up for lost time we had two severe thunder and wind storms, the first, July 18 and the other, July 22. Although the heat has not moderated after the rain, still everyone interested in outdoor vegetation is feeling more contented.

NOTES.

Secretary F. Craneheld, of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, attended a meeting of the state fair board on the grounds July 19. As all Milwaukee Florists' club members belong to the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, there is more co-operation now. This was shown when Mr. Craneheld consulted the club's state fair committee regarding space and other details which would be satisfactory and beneficial to all concerned.

Frank Sylvester, of the J. M. Fox & Son, Inc., force, spent the past week with his folks at Oconomowoc, Wis. He says that all the stock in the field, especially the carnation plants, suffered considerably during the recent dry spell.

At the Greenwood Carnation Co., at North Milwaukee, they say that Leon B. Thorpe, their foreman, who is confined in a hospital in Duluth, Minn., has informed them that he is getting along nicely.

At the C. C. Pollworth Co.'s greenhouses they are busy as bees. Owing to unavoidable circumstances, they are planting roses, late chrysanthemums and housing carnations, all at the same time.

It will take a few days yet to put the finishing touches to the new home of the M. A. McKenney Co., at 113

Wisconsin street. When completed it will be a fine store in the right place.

James Livingstone, private gardener to Fred Vogel, Jr., and treasurer of the florists' club, who is enjoying his first vacation in 20 years, will be back in the harness by July 29.

Harrison Mann (better known as "Harry"), who has been with Gust Rusch & Co. since its inception, severed his connection with that firm a short time ago.

Frank Berndt, foreman at the Holton & Henkel Co.'s Brown Deer plant, has taken to the northern part of the state to spend his vacation fishing and the like.

Most of the local carnation growers are busy emptying and filling benches, preparatory to housing the field grown stock.

Nic Zweifel, who left July 15 to enjoy a water trip up the great lakes, is expected to return about July 26.

The annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society will be held August 22 at Lake Geneva.

E. O.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

With the mercury hovering close to the 100 mark, business has suffered considerably. Greenhouse stock is poor in quality, roses being very inferior, and carnations are small and scarce. Gladioli are becoming more plentiful and asters are to be reckoned with. Outdoor flowers are good.

NOTES.

S. Hudson, orchid grower at the W. J. & M. S. Vesey range, is expected home from Washington, D. C., where he has been engaged in packing for shipment the collection of orchids recently purchased by the Vesey firm from George Fields. The greenhouse force at the Vesey range is busy planting the young rose and carnation stock in the houses. They are cutting fine Shawyer roses and Easter lilies.

Edward Markey, of Markey Bros., who with Mrs. Markey has been visiting relatives in Michigan, will return home this week.

Miss Mildred Flick, accompanied by her aunt, Miss C. B. Flick, will leave shortly for a northern Michigan lake trip.

Wright's Gladioli & Bulb Farm is sending in some fine blooms which meet with quick sale.

Robert E. Davis is sending in some fine gladioli from his farm.

SUPPLY MEETS WITH READY SALE.

The market is not any too long on stock, and what does come in is meeting with a pretty ready sale. Roses are in a fair supply. The receipts of gladioli are good, but at times the lighter varieties run short. Among the offerings are some excellent American and May gladioli. Easter lilies are in a good supply. Asters are becoming very plentiful and the good ones sell very readily. Other offerings include water lilies, snapdragons, carnations and cornflowers.

NOTES.

Among last week's Rotarian florist visitors were Edward A. Seidewitz, president of the Baltimore Rotary Club, member of the S. A. F. and former mayor of Annapolis, Md.; Mr. Bayer, son of Geo. Bayer of Toledo, O.; V. J. Gorly, St. Louis, Mo.; Theodore Zetlitz, Lima, O., and C. S. Niednager, Evansville, Ind.

C. E. Critchell is about ready to move into his new store. The arrangement is excellent and will result in an economy of time within the store in handling stock and supplies.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange have almost completed the remodeling of their new place and will move into same about August 1.

Gus. Adrian, Sr., and wife, have gone to their cottage at Le Cheneaux to spend the balance of the summer.

E. G. Gillett has been getting some excellent May gladioli from Pommert, "The Goldfish Man."

Arthur J. Gear left the first of this week on a six weeks' trip through the northwest.

EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD BUSINESS REPORTED.

"Our receipts during the first 20 days of July have exceeded those of the entire month a year ago," stated a member of a leading firm of florists. An unusually good business for the time of year appears to be the general experience of the trade. One firm says that it is better than the supply of flowers justifies. Sweet peas and carnations are practically out of the market, except for some stunted stock which does not find much favor with the consumer. Roses are the big staple in gift cut flowers. Prices are suited to the dull period, $1.50 per dozen being realized for blooms that would bring $2.50 in the regular season. Gladioli are still enough of a novelty to bring $1.25 to $1.50 a dozen. There is prospect of a big crop, and dealers look for a glut a little later when they begin to be cut freely. Snapdragons are on the wane, but are still a good seller. Dahlias are overdue, the showing being very light so far. Funeral work and hospital and sick room flowers are expected to be the main standby for the next month or more.

NOTES.

It is not often, in the experience of Columbus florists, at least, that a funeral calls for an expert to look after the floral appointments of such an event. The Ritter Lumber Company, of Columbus, is a multi-millionaire corporation, with big operations in the south. On Thursday of last week George W. Litz, assistant to the president, was fatally injured in a collision of motor "hand" cars near one of the mills in North Carolina. A surgeon was dispatched from here, to supplement other medical attendance, but Mr. Litz died the following day. The lumber company ordered through the T. J. Ludwig store here, flowers to the value of $275, and paid the expenses of E. D. Ludwig, connected with the store, to go with them and see to their proper arrangement. He left here in a private car on Saturday, to be in time for the funeral on Sunday. Some $200 worth of flowers forwarded from Roanoke, Va., was also given into Mr. Ludwig's charge.

The Munk Floral Company will devote nearly all of its 50,000 feet of glass to rose cultivation, and is now completing planting, incident to this specializing of their business. Some 11 varieties will be grown, with the Ophelia as one of the leaders. They will sell to the wholesale trade through their retail store, where all kinds of flowers are to be handled, as heretofore.

WARM WEATHER AND INFERIOR STOCK.

Hot weather continues with the result that stock is suffering especially where the hose cannot reach it. Gladioli are deteriorating both in quantity and quality and are far from A-1 stock. Carnations are rarely seen and roses are small and poor in quality. They are wide open almost before they are unpacked. Lilies are good and play a big part on the market at present.

NOTES.

Stock has been scarce with the W. L. Rock Flower Co., with a good call for funeral work. Hugo Neff of this firm's force is away on a trip to Denver. Miss Schmedinghoff is on her vacation and Lloyd Mason is in Pittsburg, Kan. Miss Richards is recovering from an attack of ptomaine poisoning.

Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports a good week with a heavy demand for funeral work, which was hard to handle owing to the limited supply of stock. Charles Thomas of this firm is on his vacation and Geo. Brackenbury is at the greenhouses at Pleasant Hill for the summer.

H. Kusik & Co. have received a car of sphagnum moss, which has been very scarce here. They handled a large quantity of gypsophila last week. Ray Blessing is on his vacation.

Ray Sturgeon, formerly in the employ of A. Mohr, has leased the latter's old stand for three years and will specialize in carnations, chrysanthemums and sweet peas.

W. J. Barnes had a busy week with funeral work. H. H. Coffee, bookkeeper at this establishment, is spending his vacation in the Ozarks and will also visit his parents.

T. J. Noll & Co. are making quite a hit with Colorado grown carnations. Mr. Noll has returned from his northern trip and is ready for business again.

M. E. Chandler reports his gladioli are slowing up and his dahlias will be a failure if rain does not come his way shortly.

E. R. Griggs, of Shawnee, Okla., has been in the city during the past week purchasing supplies for his fall trade.

James Payne has installed a new boiler at his establishment which he believes will be a big improvement.

Miss J. E. Murray reports good summer business. She will leave for a trip to Michigan about August 4.

Arthur Newell and wife have returned from a northern trip and report a delightful time.

Assembling for their annual banquet, members of the New Orleans Horticultural Society made merry at the Heidelberg Cafe, July 20. Charles R. Panter, who has so ably filled the position of secretary in the organization for the past 15 years, delivered a splendid address which sounded the keynote of the gathering, the members of many nationalities all living in the bonds of friendship in the great United States. growth and accomplishments of the organization extending over a period of 32 years, and the cementing of friendships that has helped so much to add to the successes of past years. He made a strong plea for a large representation at the S. A. F. convention to be held at Houston, Tex., August 15-17, urging that the delegation from this city make visitors to the Houston meeting remember New Orleans. At the election of officers, P. Abele was selected for president, E. A. Farley was chosen vice-president, Chas. R. Panter was re-elected secretary, and John Eblen was re-elected treasurer for his thirty-second term. Those in attendance included the following: Henry Scheurmann, Joseph Stecker, C. W. Eichling, Paul Ebele, E. A. Farley, C. R. Panter, John F. Bollwinkle, P. A. Chopin, A. Alost, A. Verlande, Frank Reyes, Henry Rehfeld, Man Scheinoux, Xavier Grillot, Chas. Tarles, W. A. Dinkel, Henry Kraak, L. H. Mard, A. V. Dammeroui, E. F. Dormoy, P. Ackermann, H. C. Doescher, C. L. Orly, B. E. Eble.

NOTES.

C. W. Eichling reports his farm at Bayou, La., coming along nicely. He is not troubled with citrus canker and has figs and other fruits in abundance.

Herman Doescher is maintaining his reputation as the greatest fern grower in the south.

A. Verlendi will have the largest stock of ficus and ferns this fall that he has ever grown.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

OUTING AT SEWICKLEY.

The outing of the florists' and gardeners' club at Sewickley Heights, July 19, proved a most enjoyable event. Led by a pilot on a motorcycle, 75 members left the establishment of Wissenauer, The Florist, in 14 autos, and the first stop was made at the H. R. Rea estate, where the tastefully arranged and well filled borders of herbaceous perennials and extensive plantings of conifers and the beautiful Italian garden were greatly admired. Franklin Farms, the summer home of Mr. Laughlin, were next visited, where in addition to a riot of bloom, succulent vegetables were noted, both in quantity and quality; thence, to Mrs. Wm. Thaw, Jr.'s, place, the feature of which is a well-planned rock garden, while overlooking these miniature Alps was a quaint garden house. Another sharp run brought us to the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Horne. Mr. Curran, one of our fellow members, is gardener here, and all were anxious to see the place where the good things come from that he brings to the meetings, and after an inspection of the place a much enjoyed luncheon was served. The new residence being erected for Mrs. Willock was next visited, which commands an inspiring view, and then on to the residence of W. P. Snyder, which boasts of the finest avenue of pin oaks in the state, while on the veranda is one of the finest Bull Moose ferns in the country. Wm. Thompson, one of the escorts, is gardener here. Many other points equally as interesting were visited, including the estates of W. P. Schiller, Binns, Fritz Ryers, Schoonmaker, R. H. Boggs and E. A. Woods. At the last named stop at a camp in the woods refreshments were served, after which a vote of thanks was tendered to all who assisted in the day's entertainment, one of the most enjoyable events in the history of the club.

VARIETY IS LACKING IN MARKET.

With the exception that the supply has shortened somewhat, there is little change in market conditions. There is not much of a variety to offer at the present time. Carnations are about over, and asters are not making a very strong appearance. Roses with most growers are either off crop or very poor in quality.

NOTES.

The Horticultural Society of Sewickley is a new organization in our fair suburb. The first meeting was held July 17, with an attendance of 30. George Wessenauer is president of the organization. Success!

Earl Tipton, formerly identified with the trade here, but now with Penn. The Florist, Boston, Mass., visited friends here during the past week.

Milton Alexander, now the proud daddy of a little daughter, called on the trade here this week.

Visitors: Julius Dilhoff, New York; L. E. Shaw, Pittsfield, Mass.

FALL SHOW, NOVEMBER 10-12.

The fall show for the Carrigan cup will be held November 10-12, under the auspices of the Cleveland Florists' Club, the Ohio State Horticultural Society and the Cleveland Garden Club. The entries will be open to all growers and retailers the same as last year, and the competition will also be open to private gardeners of the state. Last fall the cup was won by Wm. Fisher, head gardener for H. S. Firestone, Akron. In the retailers' section there will be awards for table arrangements, baskets and corsages and prizes will be offered the growers for plants and cut flowers. Premium lists will be mailed later. The class for the Carrigan cup, which is valued at $500, and must be won three times to become the permanent property of any private grower, is as follows: Thirty-six blooms chrysanthemums, six varieties, six blooms of each to be staged in two vases. Exhibitors may furnish their own vases and accessories. The use of greens permissible. Arrangement will be considered. The cup is to be the tem-

CLUB OUTING.

A general good time was had at the annual outing of the florists' club at Willoughbeach park, July 20. The crowd although not a very large one was imbued with the holiday spirit and enjoyed the occasion immensely. Even the rain held off long enough to enable the entertainment committee to carry out a splendid programme of sports, all of the events being keenly contested, one of the principal contests being the tug-of-war in which the wholesalers' team was victorious. PRICES ON GOOD ROSES STIFFEN.

Early in the past week there was a great falling off in the supply of stock, and although business was light, prices stiffened up a little on good roses. The same might be said of carnations, but there are now so few good ones that they are scarcely factors in the market. In tea roses, the most of the business is being done with Ophelia, Shawyer, My Maryland and the Killarneys, for the reason that they are the most plentiful, but the growers have to cut them very tight. Russell, Mrs. Bayard Thayer and Francis Scott Key are well spoken of as summer roses, but the supply is light. The summer habit of Richmond is well known, and Hoosier Beauty also opens very freely. Considering the season, the supply, the quality of stock and the demand is about what was to be expected. On Saturday, July 22, special American Beauties wholesaled at the rate of $30 per 100, and the quality was very poor at that. There is a marked increase in the supply of gladioli, but they are moving slowly. In green, smilax is down to 60 cents per dozen strings with little demand. A great quantity of gypsophila is on the market, which is taking the place of asparagus, and for the time being is putting the latter in the discard. Asters are arriving quite freely, but very few good ones have been noticed. Cut stock of Hydrangea paniculata is a feature and it goes fairly well. There is a variety of other outdoor stock on the market, of which more or less is sold—generally less—but it does not loom large.

July 24.—There is a very light supply of stock this morning, but buying is slow. The large retail stores are doing very little business, and even with a light supply of good stock, it moves slowly. The most noticeable features are gladioli and asters, which are becoming plentiful.

NOTES.

We have recently had occasion to notice the activities of the Gramercy Florist, 3830 Broadway, A. Pulas, manager. This store does an annual business of $10,000, supplying a great quantity of geraniums and other plants to the real estate firm of Pease & Elliman, which has large interests throughout the city.

A. M. Westwood, the Pennsylvania Terminal Florist, arranged a fine decoration July 19 at the Hotel McAlpin, for a dinner given for the heads of departments of the Westinghouse Company. At his home at Valley Stream, L. I., he has a nice garden in which he grows a variety of stock for his store.

Two interesting visitors, the past week, were Robert Craig, of Philadelphia, Pa., and George Asmus, of Chicago. The latter, with his wife, children, and two friends, had been on an automobile tour for two weeks and reached this city July 20, leaving for home July 22, in good health and spirits.

John Strates, the well-known retailer of Seventh avenue and 23d street, and Lysero Anderson of the "Garden Florist", Broadway and 112th street, are spending their vacation at Sunnyside Inn, Star Lake, N. Y. Their many friends wish them a pleasant vacation and a safe return.

The first crop of asters is usually poor, but we have noticed good ones at the store of William P. Ford, 107 West 28th street. William Mack, of this store, has gone on a vacation and William Sheehan, well known as a hustler, continues to hustle.

CHICAGO

Portland, Me.

UP TO DATE ESTABLISHMENTS PLENTIFUL.

D. R. Fogg has just purchased the E. J. Harmon Co. store at 657 Congress street and has a very commodious place, with a real metropolitan appearance. Mr. Fogg has been learning the business in Philadelphia and New York and will have here a good chance to put his ideas to the test. Miss Bertha F. Longee has a very prettily arranged store. A good stock of flower holders, vases, jardinières and many dainty things in this line are seen displayed. The furnishings and placings of the stock all suggest an artistic touch. A number of vases hold samples of the stock in season. Miss Longee is much pleased with the volume of business. Philip H. Talbot, 673 Congress street, has a very up-to-date place, everything being handy and convenient. A large show window is kept nicely decorated. He is a new comer, but says he is much pleased with the prospects, his past season's business being very satisfactory. Miss Hayes is managing the business of the E. J. Harmon Co., at 493 Congress street, since Mr. Harmon's death, which occurred July 1. They have a good business conducted in a well arranged store, right in the best of the retail district.

This, the largest city in Maine, with a population of over 63,000, is beautifully situated on a high bluff, commanding a fine view of the ocean, as well as the surrounding country and mountains, even the distant White mountains being visible on a clear day. The eastern and western boulevards are laid out on high plateaus with splendid drives at each end of the city. The central retail street, on which are situated most of the flower shops in an up-to-date business thoroughfare, brilliantly lighted at night and full of activity at all times. The oldest flower store is that of J. W. Minnot Co., Inc., Mrs. Smith manager. The entire interior of this shop is lined with hemlock bark, giving it a very unique appearance. This was put on when the store was fitted up 40 years ago and is still apparently as good as ever. A greenhouse in the rear affords needed room for holiday displays and palms.

The growers, most of whom do a retail business as well, are situated on the outskirts of the city. Alex Wallace, of the Sunnyside Greenhouses, makes a specialty of landscape work, in addition to his cut flower department. Hans Nielsen, of Bentwood street, and W. A. Ramsey, of Forest avenue both ornament their places with samples of nice bedding. Charles E. Clark, of Ashmont street, "Charley", the Portland "boys" call him, is a philosopher and the best read man in the business. L. C. Goddard, of Stevens avenue, has a very well arranged store and greenhouses and reports that business has been very satisfactory.

Portland has two large seed stores and farm supply houses. Allen, Sterling & Lathrop, 49 Exchange street, have a commodious store. In addition to seeds they make a specialty of poultry and dairy supplies. They enjoyed a very good season. Kendall & Whitney, Federal and Temple streets, have a very commodious building, doing a large farm implement business in addition to that of seeds. Mr. Kendall has been in the seed business for a continuous period of over 55 years and is still actively on duty every day.

Mrs. Dennet, who also conducts the Portland Flower Store, reports business good for the season. Her two stores are commodious and well situated for business. Miss Marion E. McGonigal, proprietor of the Oak Street Flower Shop, has a corner store, which keeps her busy all the time.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND BALANCE.

More or less rain every day or two has characterized the present season, warding off the insufferable heat usual at this time of year, and at the same time has been rather beneficial than otherwise to those things that can be grown out of doors—notably the asters. The general heigra to the springs and watering places, the closing of the social season, and the end of all the many recitals has caused a great falling off in the floral trade, and business has been rather dull. There are a few good wedding orders still being handled and there is always the funeral work. The supply of flowers is about equal to the demand. There are some good roses, but their tendency to flare open as soon as cut, is rather a drawback to their beauty and usefulness. A nice crop of asters is coming in and every one seems to have a good supply of longiflorum and speciosum lilies. The dealers are working up the unpaid bills and getting in all those accounts chronicled as "good but slow". As a rule collections are very good, but there are always some left-overs that come in handy in the summer time when trade is dull.

The second exhibit in the city beautiful contest has been given and was very successful in every particular. A large and very creditable variety of flowers were exhibited, showing a widespread interest, and an equally large variety of vegetables all grown in the back yards of the city. Very good premiums were offered, inducing many to enter the contest.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, July 26, were as follows: Timothy, $5 to $6.50 per 100 pounds.

WASHINGTON, IA.—The F. B. Mills Seed Co. has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $72,611 and assets, $16,497.

NEW YORK CITY shippers are stirred up over the attempt of New Jersey interests to secure a differential rate of three cents per 100 pounds in favor of Jersey points.

SEEDSMEN of Australia and New Zealand complain that much of their American correspondence is mailed under a two-cent stamp when a five-cent stamp is the minimum for letters to these countries.

WITLOOF is the subject of Bulletin No. 418, issued by the Geneva, N. Y., experiment station, containing much information on this salad plant and its culture, which should be of interest to seedsmen and market gardeners.

BULLETIN 254, issued by the Wisconsin agricultural experiment station, Madison, contains a synopsis of the state seed law, discusses methods of weed control, and gives the results of analyses of 376 samples of seeds and illustrations of 25 kinds of weed seeds.

THE agricultural appropriation bill as amended and passed by the senate, contains (page 25) an item of $3,000 for cooperation with horticultural organizations in the standardization of botanical names. Of course, the house will have to concur in this amendment.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—William T. Logan, who has been identified with the seed trade in this city for more than 30 years, and who bought the business of Crossman Bros. about 18 months ago, died at his home, July 19, aged 67 years. The business will be discontinued.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The Rudy-Patrick Seed Co. recently purchased a warehouse and elevator on the Kansas side, which is now being remodeled, and on completion will be used for cleaning and storing, thus relieving the congestion of their present plant at Ninth and Santa Fe streets, which they will continue to occupy.

French Bulb Shortage—Prices Higher.

Cable advices of July 24 indicate scarcity of Paper White narcissus, as well as Romans. It is believed that the medium grade of Paper Whites will bring 30 francs and the extra size 34 francs at the present time. If the growers who contracted in March at $4 per 1,000, American money, get delivery from American dealers at that very low price they will certainly be fortunate and make some real money. It will be interesting to see what deliveries are made on such contracts. The lack of rain seems to have shortened the crop very materially.

Parcel Post to China.

A parcel post convention has been concluded between the United States and China, effective August 1, after which date parcel post packages up to 11 pounds in weight may be sent from any post office in the United States to any post office in China at the postage rate of 12 cents a pound or fraction of a pound. Heretofore, packages of merchandise, other than bona fide trade samples not exceeding 12 ounces in weight, could not be sent by mail from this country to China except to a very few places that could be reached through Japanese or other foreign post offices in China, but hereafter, packages up to 11 pounds in weight can be sent to any office in China direct to the Chinese postal service.

Onion Seed Crop Prospects in Canaries.

Onion seed constituted one-fourth of all exports to the United States from the Teneriffe district in 1915. The coming crop, which should begin to move next month, shows a decided increase in the amount of choice, expensive wax (or white) seed. The ordinary canary-yellow onion seed, however, has suffered because of the winter drought and shows a loss estimated at 40 to 50 per cent. The red seed, which is in less demand, also suffered from drought, but to a smaller degree than the yellow, according to United States Consul George K. Stiles, Teneriffe, writing June 10.

Yellow seed will consequently be scarce, and there may be difficulty in filling contracts for this grade, while the stock of "wax" seed will be in excess of orders.

The average contract prices are reported as follows, per pound: Fancy white "wax," $1.50 to $2; yellow, 85 cents (American gold); and red, 80 cents.

The stocks of onion seed last year were fairly cleaned out, so that this season there appears to be less probability of old seed being mixed with the new. Both adulteration and inferior quality of onion seed are difficult to detect until after sowing. The long-established firms here, however, can be counted on to allow just claims when made by American buyers, especially as regards damage in transit.

As practically all onion-seed contracts to the United States are made on an f. o. b. basis in a Canary port, the higher freights of this year must be met by the American buyers. Last season a number of complaints of bad seed were caused through long delays in transshipment via England. Owing to this fact the Liverpool route has been largely abandoned this year, according to statements made by prominent shippers.

The larger percentage of the crop will be routed via Porto Rico to New Orleans or via Habana to New York. Freight rates are estimated here as from 40 to 50 per cent higher than last season, when they were already much higher than before the war. As the bulk of the crop goes to southern destinations, the Porto Rico-New Orleans route should prove decidedly cheaper for most shipments.

The crop is slightly earlier than last year and first shipments are expected to be made by July 15, and should extend to the end of August.

Argentine and Cuban buying of this year's crop has fallen off as compared with last season. Generally speaking, prices may be taken as somewhat lower and showing a tendency to weakness this season. In 1915 there were more orders than could be filled, and prices stiffened considerably. It seems probable that the values of American purchases will show more or less of a decline.

A statement of interest to American onion-seed growers is contained in a report made by two of the larger dealers growing their own seed, to the effect that too intense a selection of onion seed for the points of size and color shows poor results in the quantity of seed obtained at the next harvest.

The so-called "select" stock, when used for rebreeding, is said to produce less seed than the more ordinary specimens. In other words, the plants producing onions less distinctive as to color and size are claimed to be "hardier" and to produce more and better seed of their respective classes. This will perhaps interest American specialists who are growing onion seed for the trade.

Incubator Used in Seed Testing.

A new and more satisfactory way of testing seeds for germination has been discovered by W. L. Oswald of the state seed laboratory at the Minnesota State University farm. Mr. Oswald has found that an incubator, such as is ordinarily used to hatch chickens, can be made an almost ideal seed tester.

SWEET PEAS FOR FALL SOWING

New Early Flowering Long Season Spencers.

The originator says: "One thing we are absolutely sure of is that these we are offering have come absolutely true for three consecutive years."

Early Morning Star.

The color is a deep orange scarlet or flame color in standard with rich orange pink wings. The flower is practically the same color as the late flowering Spencer "Dobbie's Thomas Stevenson." It does not burn badly out in the open and under glass will be magnificent. The flowers are large and of best Spencer form and borne in threes and fours in wonderful profusion. Under artificial light it is superb.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

Early Song Bird.

We are sure this will be the leading pale pink for Florists. The flower is the same color as "Florence Morse Spencer," and a bit lighter than "Elfrida Pearson." It has the same excellent form and features of Mrs. Hugh Dickson but is on white ground. The placement of the flowers is splendid for packing and the flowers are borne on long stems in threes and fours. When in full growth it seems as though every stem carried four large blossoms.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

Early Melody.

This is a deeper shade of pink than "Early Song Bird," on white ground, closely resembling "Countess Spencer" and near "Hercules." It might be described as rose pink on white ground. The effect when bunched is most pleasing.

It is very floriferous. The flowers are borne on long stems and mostly four large well-waved blossoms to each stem.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

Early Spring Maid.

The color is light pink on a cream ground and the blossoms have the same splendid characteristics of "Mrs. Hugh Dickson" for a florist's flower.

It is a most effective flower and carries a great wealth of blossoms borne in fours on long stems. There is no Early Spencer cream pink which is as attractive as "Early Spring Maid."

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

Early Snow Flake.

This is the best Early Flowering White Seeded Spencer. The blossoms are very large and of the best waved Spencer form. The flowers are borne in wonderful profusion on long stems.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

Early Heather Bell.

This will be one of the most popular shades with all Florists, as it will be so useful for making up for any occasion. The flowers are very large, borne in fours and threes on long stout stems, and are of beautiful bold Spencer form. The color is a rich but pleasing mauve, but after standing in water the color becomes a beautiful mauve lavender.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade Pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

THE KENILWORTH Giant Pansy

Seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

22. GIANT KENILWORTH STRAIN. The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are from $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 inches. It is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.
24. GIANT KENILWORTH SHOW. An extra fine strain of large flowers; the immense flowers are of circular form and great substance. A beautiful collection of colors and markings.
26. GIANT KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE. Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 to 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.
28. GIANT MASTERPIECE. A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance; large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stem.
30. GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES. A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich, velvety colors; reds are particularly conspicuous; the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large, dark blotches.
32. GIANT PARISIAN. The flowers are of enormous size and beautifully marked, mostly fine dark blotches on white and yellow ground; an unusually showy mixture.
34. GIANT BRONZE. A fine mixture of all shades of velvety brown, bronze, Havana brown, mahogany and copper shades.
45. GIANT APOLLO (Masterpiece type). New bronze, veined and blotched. Strongly frilled petals. A superb Pansy.
49. GIANT MERCURY. New. A deep blackish purple, really self-colored, without blotches or spots. The flowers are extraordinary in size and substance, being the largest flowers of all self-colored Pansies.
82. ORCHID FLOWERED, Mixed. A dwarf, free bloomer, with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other Pansies; a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamamois.

New Early-flowering or Winter-blooming Giant Pansies

An entirely new and distinct strain of Pansies. The main advantage of these new Pansies over all hitherto existing Pansies is the extreme earliness of flowering and its unusual hardiness, which enables them to withstand quite severe Winters, and to bloom right on into the summer. Sown at the same time as other Pansies, they begin flowering the early part of March or as soon as the snow is off the ground, many times having four or five large flowers to a plant, when all other Pansies are only showing buds. The flowers are large, well formed and fragrant. They are highly recommended for Autumn planting on graves and for very early bedding, as well as for early cut flowers.

14. WINTER SUN. Golden yellow, with dark eye.
15. ICE KING. Silvery white, with dark blue eye.
16. CELESTIAL QUEEN. Light or sky blue.
17. CHARM OF MARCH. Dark velvety blue.
18. MIXED. The above four colors with other shades and variations. Each color separate or mixed. 500 seeds 50c., 1,000 seeds \$1.00, $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., \$2.00, $\frac{3}{4}$ oz. \$3.75, 1 oz. \$5.00.
20. PRINCESS. The New Upright Pansy.

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weatherproof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy, velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.

500 Seeds 20c., 1,000 Seeds 35c., $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. \$1.00, $\frac{3}{4}$ oz. \$2.00, 1 oz. \$7.50.

FREE OFFER RAINBOW is a mixture of the most beautiful, gorgeous colors, blotched, striped, veined, margined, etc. With every $1.00 worth of Pansy seed I will send, free, 1000 seeds of Rainbow and with other amounts in like proportion.

Prices of Kenilworth Pansy Seed

All sorts and mixtures except the new Pansy Princess and the Early Flowering or Winter Blooming are \$5.00 per oz.; \$1.25 per $\frac{1}{4}$ oz.; 5000 seeds \$1.00; trade pkt. of 1000 seeds 25c; any 5 pkts. \$1.00. Please order by number.

Next annual convention will be held in Chicago, September, 1916.

NEW CABBAGE grown in Chicago is now moving in carloads.

CLARINDA, IA.—The Clarinda Greenhouses are erecting a vegetable house, which will give them 5,000 feet of glass additional to their present area.

CALIFORNIA has shipped 3,602 carloads of cantaloupes this season up to July 1. The southern states and California have shipped more than 13,349 carloads of potatoes; Florida 2,101 carloads of watermelons and 4,642 carloads of tomatoes. Missouri was the banner strawberry state, shipping 1,114 carloads.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, July 25.—Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 85 cents per pound; lettuce, tomato boxes 15 to 20 cents; radishes, $1.00 to $1.25 per 100 bunches; celery, 50 to 60 cents per box; tomatoes, four baskets, 50 cents; cucumbers, per box of 2 doz., 50 cents.

New York, July 25.—Celery, per crate, $3.00 to $6.00; cucumbers, 75 cents per dozen; mushrooms, $3.50 to $4.00 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, per carrier, 40 cents to $2.00; radishes, per 100 bunches, 50 cents to $1.00; lettuce, per basket, 50 cents to $1.00.

Greenhouse Tomatoes.

Growers in this section have just pulled through a very satisfactory season with their spring crop of tomatoes. Prices have been very good, owing to the slow progress of the outdoor crop. Where formerly this was entirely a "Beauty" market, Beauty is now seldom seen, Bonny Best having displaced it. We have in these notes referred to our own selection of Bonny Best, which is a larger strain. This season we have made another gain in size; where the original strain would average four tomatoes per pound, this year the average was slightly below three fruit per pound. We have had numerous single specimens as perfect as can be at ½ pound each. There is a steady demand in our market for large tomatoes, hence we have followed up this line closely. We have sold bushels of Bonnies that even experts would mistake for Stone; and with this size we seem to have lost nothing in carelessness or productiveness. Bonny Best with us fills a long felt want—it is so much better than the English varieties and sets fruit more readily than the American sorts. However, to do its best it needs generous feeding; whenever stunted, crowded, or underfed it is sure to come small. Our own success proves that it is of the utmost importance to have good seed, which we have produced ourselves for a number of years, rather than take chances with some other stocks. Greenhouse tomatoes are popular with the buyer and seller alike; the seller has no loss, as they are all sound and perfect, and the buyer enjoys the fine quality because he paid a good price for them.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

John Watson, Newark, N. Y., President;
Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-second annual convention will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., June, 1917.

THE Texas peach crop is light this year.

HARTFORD, CONN.—W. W. Hunt & Co. are reported to have purchased the business of Geo. B. Turner.

CUMBERLAND, R. I.—Local authorities have appropriated $450 for the purchase and protection of shade trees.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—William Hamant has purchased ground near Riverside park and will engage in the nursery business.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIF.—The sixth annual convention of the California Association of Nurserymen will be held here, October 19-21.

THE annual convention of the National Commercial Apple Growers' Association will be held at St. Louis, Mo., August 2-3. The secretary is H. C. Irish, 1227 Childress avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

BURLAP. Forty-inch 7½-ounce spot burlap is scarce. Holders quoted 6.65 cents on carload lots. Good inquiry for spot lightweights—very little trading in spot goods. Spot heavies held at figures that ranged from 7.90 cents to eight cents a yard.

WILMINGTON, DEL.—The W. B. Davis Greenhouse Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $200,000 and will make a specialty of fruit and foliage trees. The incorporators are Herbert E. Latter, N. P. Coffin and C. L. Rimlinger.

THE cherry crop of Door county, Wis., a district famous in the production of that fruit for many years, is very far short of the usual output, some 30 cars instead of 125. The wet and cloudy weather of the growing period last year is said to be the cause of the light crop.

NEWARK, N. Y.—G. C. Perkins, of Jackson & Perkins Co., and Mrs. Perkins returned last week from a two months' trip on the Pacific coast. The return journey was made over the Canadian Pacific railroad with stops at Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff, Winnipeg and other points of interest.

Nursery Stock Regulation.

New rules and regulations governing the importation of nursery stock in the United States have been issued by the federal horticultural board and took effect on and after July 1. In the revised regulations the most important change is the provision which makes permits for the importation of nursery stock from countries which maintain nursery-stock inspection, and for the importation of orchids and tree seeds from those which do not maintain such inspection, valid until revoked. Hitherto all permits had to be renewed each year. The other changes in the regulations are chiefly minor and matters of form.

Trees Planted by Machine.

A machine which plants from 10,000 to 15,000 forest tree seedlings a day is now being used at the Letchworth Park Forest and Arboretum, in Wyoming County, N. Y., according to officials of the forest service of the United States department of agriculture, who are acting as advisers in the work. Previously the planting has been done by hand at the rate of 1,200 to 1,500 trees each day per man. The machine was designed to set out cabbage and tomato plants, but works equally well with trees. It is about the size of an ordinary mowing machine and is operated by three men and two horses. One man drives the team while the other two handle the seedlings. The machine makes a furrow in which the trees are set at any desired distance, and an automatic device indicates where they should be dropped. Two metal tired wheels push and roll the dirt firmly down around the roots. This is a very desirable feature, it is said, because the trees are apt to die if this is not well done. Two attachments make it possible to place water and fertilizer at the roots of each seedling. Another attachment marks the line on which the next row of trees is to be planted.

No cost figures are available yet, but officials say that the cost will be much less than when the planting is done by hand. It is stated that the machine can be used on any land which has been cleared and is not too rough to plow and harrow.

Codling Moth Hatching Days.

We are advised by the Illinois state entomologist's office, and from other sources, that eggs from second brood codling moth, will in all probability, begin to hatch on the following dates at the places listed below:

Ozark, Ill. July 1
Olney, Ill. July 9
Plainview, Ill. July 15
Urbana-Champaign, Ill. July 21
Northern Illinois August 1

Apple orchards consisting of fall and winter varieties, and situated in the latitude of the above places, should be sprayed on the dates mentioned above.

For this spray use four pounds of paste, or two pounds of powdered arsenate of lead, and four pounds of lime to each 100 gallons of water. Where bitter rot infection is anticipated, Bordeaux arsenate of lead should be substituted.—Illinois State Horticultural Society.

HARTFORD, CONN.—The salesroom of W. W. Hunt & Co., at 24 State street, has been closed for the season. This firm will make an elaborate display at the state fair and reopen the store early in September.

 LOUIS WITTBOLD, President.

Lancaster County Florists' Club.

ANNUAL OUTING.

Thursday, July 20, an ideal day, hot, but with a slight breeze blowing and a cool tempting look under the shade of the trees, made the majority of the "boys" get ready for the afternoon picnic on the shady lawn of our past-president, B. F. Barr. The committee in charge, Elmer Weaver, Rudolph Nagle and Abraham Strickler, had everything planned so well that the affair went off like clock work, and every one was delighted. The invitation called for florists and their friends, and the friends turned out in goodly numbers. A few of the craft were missing; among them was our regular attendant, John Shreiner, who was with his family at Atlantic City; Thomas Fries, C. S. Leffler and a few others, all of whom are sorry now that they did not drop everything else and come. There was a progressive game of cards for those who wanted to play; three games of quito pitching were going on at one time; there were croquet and bowling on the green; all this for the older people, with potato races, bag races, three-legged races, and every imaginable form of amusement for the youngsters, with prizes for each event.

Mr. and Mrs. Barr make an excellent host and hostess, every comfort being looked after. This being a basket picnic they had plenty of coffee ready for us, and tables and camp stools for our comfort, as well as helping to serve the ice cream donated by our president, H. A. Schroyer, for the "kids both young and old." The Barr home is everything that any mortal could crave for, and there was simply nothing lacking toward the success of the picnic.

The florist end of the party, of course, made an inspection of the grounds and the nursery end of the farm. The evergreens of every size and value were in the pink of condition, and the young stock especially was what some of the experts called "just right." Mr. Barr is working up a stock of hardy perennials, and has an ideal place to demonstrate their value on his lawn. He also has a formal garden, which last summer was a blaze of color and beauty. This time we found three good solid beds, one of heliotrope, one of petunia and one of lantana. The others were planted to hardy stock and lacked the uniformity that one looks for in a formal garden, some of the stock being in bloom, some just over, some to come later on. The farm end of this place is equally interesting, and his stock of blooded cattle and acres of farm products made quite an interesting side show.

At an informal meeting of the club in the evening it was decided to hold

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Sweet Peas.

To have sweet peas in bloom by Christmas the seed should be sown by September 1. If it is intended to grow them to follow some crop that is now in the beds they can be sown in pots, but if the beds are now ready it is better to sow them in the beds themselves. The growers of large quantities have the rows running lengthwise of the houses, two rows in each four-foot bed, one on each side, with a path in the center, but they can also be grown in rows running across the beds, the rows being about three feet apart. This distance will be found necessary or the plants will get twined together, making a bad snarl of the vines. In sowing the seed in pots, place five or six seeds in a 4-inch pot, and in sowing in drills in the bench, plant the seeds about an inch apart. It is very easy to thin them out if they come up too thick, and one good strong plant to a pot and about eight inches apart in the row is about what should be left to grow on. It is often difficult to get good germination during the hot weather, therefore it is well to plant enough seed. Many growers have trouble with the seed rotting and also the plants dampening off after they have grown to quite a height. They must be watered very sparingly until they begin to climb on the strings. The white seeded varieties are often very difficult to start; a good way which we have found very successful is to sow the seed in the drills on top of the soil, throwing a little sphagnum moss over them until they begin to grow, when they can be lightly covered with soil, and when they begin to climb, the drill can be filled in. This will prevent the seed from rotting and proper watering will remedy the damping off.

Nephrolepis.

The Boston fern and its sports, which have been grown in the bench all summer, should now be potted. The bench is full of young suckers, which, if saved, will make fine stock for another year, so in lifting the old plants take a knife and cut around the plant about two inches from the center, and place a trowel under the plant, leaving the young stock in the bench. They will soon start to grow, when they can be placed close together in flats and grown on in a fairly cool house until next spring, when they will make excellent stock for planting out. The plants that are lifted should be large enough to plant in a 6-inch pot. If there is a demand for larger sizes two, three or four may be planted in seven, eight or nine-inch pots. Many of the plants have probably not made an even growth, being more or less one-sided. These should be the ones selected for doubling up in the larger pots. As soon as potted they should be kept close and warm for one or two weeks and frequently syringed; they will then have obtained a good hold in the soil, and should be given plenty of light and air. The call for these plants will begin by October 1, and it is much better to have them well established before they go into the residences, and to do this they should be potted by September. The greatest source of disappointment in these plants is in sending them out before they have become established. The Whitmani and finer leaved varieties are now growing rapidly, and should be given room enough to spread and make fine plants.

Marguerites.

The marguerites for winter blooming will soon have to be potted in their blooming pots. This can be done now at any time, and if they are becoming 'pot-bound' the sooner the better. Nine and ten-inch pots are none too large if good flowers are to be grown, and the soil should be good and rich. Pot firmly, using a rammer that the soil can be made solid, and use good drainage. Keep the buds picked off until cool weather sets in; the blooms that are made during the warm weather are of inferior quality and no good flowers will be produced until the plants get a good hold in the new soil. The plants are far better plunged in frames for some time yet than in the houses, for they may become infested with red spider under the glass. The plants in the benches will need to be frequently sprayed to keep them free from insects and the blooms should be kept picked chase a good strain of double seed, and sow in a shaded frame, and as soon as large enough pot up in 2-inch pots. Grow them in a frame until November 1 and then pot in 3-inch or 4-inch pots. These can be carried over the winter in a cold greenhouse or in well protected frames, and started in the greenhouse in March and nice plants for summer blooming be assured.

ly to allow a good circulation of air around the plants. In potting the plants if there are no arrangements so that they can be watered with manure water later, leave a good inch of space at the top, so that they can be given a topdressing when the bracts begin to form. An extra feeding at that time will greatly increase the size of the bracts and brilliancy of the color. Close the ventilators on all cool nights as soon as the temperature falls below 60 degrees, and as soon as the night temperatures begin to run lower than that point a little fire heat will be necessary. The one great point in growing poinsettias is in keeping them at an even temperature and growing rapidly.

A Church Decoration.

A. S. Gray, of this city, and well known throughout the state as one of its representative florists, recently arranged a wedding decoration here which brought forth much favorable comment on the artistic effect produced by the arrangement. Russell roses and huckleberry foliage predominated in the decoration of the church, palms and ferns being used in the background. Attractive vases of roses and carnations with asparagus and smilax were also a feature. The bouquets, which were also furnished by the Gray establishment, were all splendid creations, as were the baskets carried by the flower girls. The ring bearers carried clusters of callas.

The Summer Store and Window.

When the dull days of the vacation season set in, the appearance of many stores is very apt to reflect, and almost can be said to emphasize the fact, that there is little demand, and there is no use trying for what on the surface appears to be a useless endeavor.

off of them for some time yet. When cool weather approaches allow the flowers to come along. Cutting can be made at this time which will make nice flowering plants about the turn of the year, at a time when the large plants seem to take a rest and do not bloom profusely. This will insure a cut throughout the season.

Wallflowers.

The wallflowers that were sown in the spring should now be planted in the benches that they may get a good start before the cool weather sets in. They should be planted in a house that can be held at a cool temperature to procure the best results, a house that does not have a night temperature exceeding 50 degrees, and even 45 degrees is better. They will not bloom to any extent until after the turn of the year when they will stand a little higher temperature. The soil should be a good rich compost and the plants can be set about eight inches apart. Stake the plants as soon as they begin to grow and keep them tied up so that the spikes of bloom will not become crooked. Constant fumigation will be necessary, for they are likely to be infested with aphids unless guarded against.

Hollyhocks.

During August and early September is the right time to sow hollyhock seed for the next season's flowering. Seed sown in the spring will not produce a plant that will flower to any great extent that year, and they will have to be carried over the winter to make good, large plants, but seeds sown now will make fine plants for next year. For the last few years the fungus that has attacked hollyhocks has made it difficult to carry the old plants over with any degree of certainty, but with late summer sowing much of this trouble is obviated. Be sure and pur-

Poinsettias.

The plants of poinsettias, in the northern section of the country, should be in the houses by September 1, for cool nights are apt to occur from that date on, and the successful culture of these plants requires an even temperature. The early struck cuttings should be potted into 6-inch pots and properly staked, the smaller stock to be grown in pans can be grown until October in the small pots. Give the plants a light location in full sunlight, and space out sufficient-

CHURCH DECORATION BY A. S. GRAY, CHICKASHA, OKLA.

SECRETARY JOHN YOUNG IN THE S. A. F. CONVENTION GARDEN, HOUSTON, TEXAS.

For the man, however, who keeps his business constantly in mind, there is, even during this enforced season of rest, opportunities that when they knock, find him alert and awaiting the call, anxious and willing to make the best of the large or small orders that his evident readiness have attracted.

It is this readiness, this wideawake and inviting appearance of the store, that helps so materially to mark the successful establishment. How can I improve my store? What can I do to increase the business? should head every daily remainder sheet. Every flower shop should be noted for its cleanliness. The nature of the business makes litter and dust unavoidable, as pots must be handled and watered, they will get broken and the dirt tracked about. Dust also blows in through the open doors. There are brooms and mops, however, and there should be willing hands to reduce this evidence of neglect to a minimum. The stock that especially commands the patronage of the winter season should be carefully put away, so as to be fresh and salable when the fall business sets in. Vases and baskets, such as might be called wash goods, should be kept in a salable condition at all times; to have to apologize for or dust an article before handing to a customer is bad storekeeping.

It is natural that the volume of business shall fall off during the summer season, particularly in the large cities, when the flower-buying population, as a rule, seek their country or seaside homes. There are then few if any social events, or courtesy debts to be paid in flowers; there is no sale for plants, except in the suburban districts, nor is the demand for bric-a-brac worth mentioning. There still remains, however, that important branch of the trade, the furnishing of flowers for funerals, without which patronage but few could carry on their business. There should always be on hand made-up wreaths of magnolia or prepared oak leaves, which, with the addition of a few fresh flowers added in a short time, present a very acceptable piece for immediate delivery.

Even at this dull time the interior of the store should be made as inviting as possible; with a clean interior, furnished with up-to-date fixtures, or with what there are made the most of, it requires but a few nice ferns or a palm or two to give a fresh and tidy appearance. Add to this a few vases of gladioli, larkspurs and low baskets or bowls of sweet peas, and there is presented the necessary and enlivening touch of color.

The window is very important, and the display here should at all times be a reflection of the skill of the artists of the business. It should be artistic, and at the same time carry a punch with it that is sure to make an impression. Just to stick a few ferns in and let it go at that produces an effect that may or may not get even a passing glance, but surely nothing more. Thousands of people throng the downtown streets daily, every one of which is a possible customer. The majority of these should be made to notice the window, and this can only be done by the quality or uniqueness of the decoration.

A country scene, with a mill, the large wheel of which is turned by a stream from a mountain in the rear, the waste water forming a pond, on the surface of which float water lilies, with gold fish swimming beneath, is always an attraction. Around the edge of the window a train of cars can be kept running through a tunnel underneath the mountain and out again into the open; this is worked by a mechanism and power from the water wheel. A few choice ferns in various sizes, all salable, will help to furnish such a window, and at the same time invite customers. Another attractive summer window feature is a fountain, in the basin of which there are gold fish and water lilies. These aquatic flowers are beautiful, and while not as salable as roses and other long-stemmed blossoms, they are especially valuable for the summer window decoration. For a variation, a handsome magnolia wreath, with seasonable floral decoration and appropriate ribbons, in a setting of ferns, is generally attractive. Another pretty feature that is not expensive and yet presents a very artistic appearance is the floral picture in a gilded frame. A vase, basket or spray of flowers, with a velvet background of an appropriate color, and adapted to the size of the frame, is very appropriate and sure to get more than a passing glance.

A window of the fancy caladiums almost shouts halt to the pedestrians, it is so odd and unusual, while another of gloxinias, with their brilliantly colored throats, is also sure of recognition. Many other combinations will suggest themselves to the wide-awake man, whose skill as a decorative artist increases with each demonstration.

Ivy, nicely trained to white trellises, does well in the stores during the summer time, and will be found quite salable. Ivies are also very useful as an upper window decoration in hanging baskets. Tradescantias in baskets also produce fine decorative effects. The green lycopodium or saligenella, planted in narrow boxes, makes a fine window border, keeping green the entire summer.

FLORISTS' FERNS.

Summer Care.

The fern grower finds work aplenty during the summer months, for after the spring trade is over, the houses need a general clean-up; there may be benches to repair and woodwork that needs paint, and even if these particular items do not require attention, the houses should have a good washing these young plants for a few weeks, after which the full light will encourage a sturdy growth.

The original Boston fern still finds many friends, and for a large specimen is hard to beat, but where four, five or six-inch stock is chiefly required, some of the many dwarf forms of this fern may prove more satisfactory, such, for example, as Scotti, or Teddy, Jr., although the latter may scarcely be recommended as an example of botanical nomenclature. Young plants of

This is an excellent way for the small grower to secure a stock in good condition for potting off into 2¼-inch pots without any of the trouble or risk of raising the said ferns from spores, and also without occupying space during the spring season that may be especially valuable for other purposes. Those young plants may be potted off in any ordinary potting soil that does not contain too much clay, and the plants may be placed in a lightly shaded greenhouse, or else in a frame outdoors, the frame to be covered with shaded sashes that are raised above the frame to a height of about one foot. Such stock naturally needs proper care in watering to insure its establishment, but will make good material for fern dishes by the time the weather makes it necessary to bring the plants indoors in the autumn.

One of the newer ferns that has made many friends in the trade is the so-called "Glory Fern," a hardier form of Adiantum Farleyense that originated in Europe a few years ago. This fern also differs from its parent in the fact that it produces spores in moderate quantities, and the spores seem to germinate quite freely under proper conditions of heat and moisture. These characteristics make it possible to offer the Glory fern at somewhat lower prices than Adiantum Farleyense, and this is in favor of its more extended use, so altogether there are advantages in the favor of this newcomer, even though it is not quite so beautiful as a well-grown Farleyense.

The "bird's nest ferns," Asplenium nidus, are also giving a good account of themselves since the trade growers have taken them up, for this asplenium, or thomopteris, as it was known to a former generation, is an excellent house plant when it is not abused by a shortage of water. Asplenium nidus also comes up readily from spores, and young plants in 2¼-inch pots in July will make good plants for next winter, but this fern seems to prefer a lighter and more open soil than that generally used for growing the nephrolepis, and may resent overwatering during dull and damp weather.

down with the hose, followed by thorough ventilation, and when dry enough for the purpose, should be given a good dusting, both on top and beneath the benches, with air-slaked lime, for this treatment tends to discourage snails and also some fungoid troubles.

The young stock moves on quite rapidly at this season, especially the various nephrolepis, and those who grow young ferns of this character for the wholesale trade, find much to do in taking off and potting up the runners that are now coming in quantity. Some growers keep a stock bench for two or more years, by giving it an occasional top-dressing to encourage the young growth, and also by cutting back the large fronds in order to let the light in among the plants. There is, however, the danger of getting the plants infested with scale or other insects when the same stock is continued too long, and when these pests get down on the stems of the ferns it is not easy to eradicate them. Of course much may be done toward controlling the insects by regular spraying with one of the nicotine solutions, using the spray pump once a week, but even with the best of care the insects will be likely to get a footing in a lot of old crowns, and it is therefore safer not to continue a stock bench too long without replanting.

When taking off the young plants in readiness for potting in 2-inch or 2¼-inch pots, the foliage should be shortened to a length of about four inches, thus making them more conveniently handled in potting, and at the same time giving the plant less foliage to support until the roots become established in the pots. Some protection from the sun is required by these ferns, being sold at reasonable rates, it is a good practice to bunch two or three of them together when ready to make up 5-inch or 6-inch pots, thus getting a saleable plant much quicker than may be done when they are potted on singly. The various small ferns that are used in such prodigious quantities each season for fern pans are usually offered in flats containing 200 plants or clumps of plants and these flats are prepared for delivery by the specialists in July or August.

Boston Ferns From Spores.

Two reports have come to the writer of the development of spore-grown plants from Nephrolepis Bostoniensis. The reports come from widely separated localities and growers, but agree more or less as to details. Unfortunately the results were obtained years ago, and none of the plants so produced are now alive.

The writer is interested in getting information as to any authentic cases of the Boston fern being grown from spores, and will especially welcome an opportunity to see living plants so produced. N. Wittboldi was supposed to be a spore sport from Bostoniensis, but the characters of all the plants which I have obtained under the name of Wittboldi seem to indicate that it is a form of some Malayan species. N. Philadelphensis, a chance sporeling at Horticultural hall, Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, Pa., seems to be the same as N. Washingtoniensis, itself, I believe, a chance sporeling, and both are undoubtedly to be identified with another Malayan species, sometimes called M. floccigera. These are all broad-leaved forms, very different from Bostoniensis or exaltata. N. Elmsfordi, reported as a sporeling from Whitmani, stands, I believe, as the only form in the Boston fern series credited with this origin.

Information is asked therefore on the following points:

1. Is there any known instance of the development of plants from Boston fern spores?

2. From the spores of any variety of the Boston fern?

3. What were the characteristics of the plants so grown?

If living plants are now being grown, the writer would like an opportunity to call and see them if near New York, and in any event would be glad to receive small plants for which an exchange from a list of a hundred named forms is now available. It may be noted that microscopic examinations so far made have shown complete sterility of spores among Boston fern forms, but it is not impossible that they may occasionally produce fertile spores.

R. C. BENEDICT.

Brooklyn Botanic G'd'n., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Welchs', Boston, Mass.

Welchs' the new wholesale cut flower and florists' supply establishment, 280-282 Devonshire street, in the heart of the whole district, is very inviting in its spick and span newness. It is a model in its every department. A large room, 30x100 feet, with very high ceiling, finished in light colors, with large show windows in front and abundant light in the rear, makes the whole interior very bright, one of the most necessary features for the proper handling of flowers. The floor is on a level with the street—no steps to go down or to climb to get into the store. A very large refrigerator, or cold storage room, occupies about a third of the space on one side of the store, and this is up to date and very complete in its appointments. The cashier and bookkeeper's department is in front, while the private office of the firm is in the rear. Telephones connect all departments. The usual tables for handling and packing the stock are conveniently placed; the desk of the clerks and their system of getting out and packing the orders is the best that the long experience of the Messrs. Welch have found to be the most practical. An entrance from a street in the rear is also a great convenience.

The firm is composed of David Welch and Edward J. Welch, whose long experience in the business has made them known personally to almost every florist in the New England territory and insured them a good patronage from the start. They are very well satisfied with their young business and are planning for a large stock of the best flowers when the fall season opens.

Fred W. Arnold, Cambridge, O.

Fred W. Arnold, who purchased the stock and leased the range of I. A. Oldham for a period of three years from July 1, 1912, and in June, the following year, bought the establishment of John Davis, has been very successful, as evidenced by his new range of modern 300-foot houses, erected on 30 acres of land adjoining the principal cemetery of this city which he purchased about a year ago, Mr. Oldham having decided to re-enter the business at his old stand upon the expiration of the lease. A number of new ideas have been incorporated into the new Arnold range, which is one of the most up-to-date in this vicinity, and the attractive flower shop located at 915 Wheeling avenue is among the most inviting retail establishments here. Notwithstanding the fact that the rush of business during the past season has made it necessary to work from early until late, Mr. Arnold has developed a new idea in concrete bench construction, and has perfected something new in double-action doors, both of which are said to be possessed of much merit.

ANACOSTIA, D. C.—M. J. McCabe is rebuilding his range. Four houses will be replaced and the capacity increased.

NEWPORT, R. I.—The Garden Club will hold its annual exhibition in conjunction with the Newport Horticultural Society, August 15-17.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—The Mohawk Greenhouse Co., composed of John F. Horman and Henry A. Miller, have engaged in business on Van Kracken avenue for the sale of plants, shrubs and cut flowers.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—A feature of the annual outing of the florists' club, which was held at Ramona park, July 20, was the automobile parade from the wholesale market to the park. The crowd in attendance numbered about 400.

McAlpine Bros., Exeter, N. H.

To get quantities of roses, and get them quick, is the modern method. McAlpine Brothers, Exeter, N. H., with experience in both growing and handling flowers for the market, good practical men, purchased four years ago a farm of about 70 acres in Exeter, 60 miles from Boston, which city was to be their market. Their plan was to erect as quickly as possible modern rose houses that would produce the best stock in quantity, so that they would become a factor and have

Brunner, Alice Stanley, Killarney Queen, Double White Killarney and Crimson Queen. About 60,000 plants are required to fill the houses. When the Hadley was asked for, Mr. McAlpine said he did not think the Hadley produced enough in the winter. Hoosier Beauty and Crimson Beauty he liked better, although all red roses seemed to do well in their soil. Their beds were three feet six inches wide and planted with four rows, which was found more profitable than when only three were used, the greater number Lake Geneva Midsummer Show.

To hold a flower show during the hot days of summer is usually attended with more or less worry on the part of the exhibitors and others interested in making the exhibition a success. Lake Geneva, Wis., has been the scene of very successful shows in recent years, but then the sun and moon did not play hide and seek around the marks on the thermometer from 90 to 105 degrees as was the case for two weeks previous to show time this year. The death of the owners of two very large estates was also a cause for this year's exhibition not being up to the usual high standard. Large competition was lacking in most classes and the interest therefore was not so keen. There were, however, a number of notable displays, among others being the following, together with the awards:

Table of foliage plants—F. T. A. Junkin, (Axel Johnson, Gr.) 1st, with splendid showing of fancy leaved caladiums; Wm. Wrigley, (Chas. Lockwood, Gr.) 2nd.

Collection of outdoor roses—Mrs. S. W. Allerton, (R. Blackwood, Gr.).

Cut flowers, 36 vases—J. J. Mitchell, (A. J. Smith, Gr.); F. T. A. Junkin, 2nd.

Collection of wild flowers—C. L. Hutchinson, (Wm. Longland, Gr.).

Greenhouse grapes, nectarines and pears—F. T. A. Junkin.

Greenhouse melons—J. J. Mitchell, 1st; F. T. A. Junkin, 2nd.

Collection of vegetables—J. J. Mitchell.

Small vegetables—S. B. Chapin, (Chas. Akerson, Gr.).

a ready market for their product. An iron frame house, 60x400 feet was their first, followed by another of the same size the second year. The third season found them working on an additional house 80x600 feet, just twice the size of the others. This was finished and planted in due season, so that in their fourth year they successfully marketed the product of 98,000 feet of glass, an achievement that should satisfy the most ambitious. For a time, at least, there are to be no additions, their energy this season being confined to a new barn and cold storage and packing house for their flowers. The rose houses are of the latest iron construction type, seemingly lighter inside than out, with an abundance of top ventilation as well as at front and rear of the houses.

The roses are planted in ground beds, which are thoroughly drained. First on a wedge-shaped, sloping foundation, is a drain pipe covered with cinders; this conducts all surplus moisture to an open pit across the center of the house, and in this are also carried the main steam pipes and connections, so as to be conveniently gotten at for any repairs. The soil here is rather heavy, but ideal for roses, as Wm. McAlpine says they have practically gotten along without fertilizers of any kind. They are now using a top dressing of cow manure, although it does not seem necessary.

The quality of the stock is fine, showing great vigor. A large number of the beds were in the drying off condition or just being started (July 22), but the young stock was getting away splendidly, and that in bearing looked very good. The varieties are Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty, Sunburst, Ward, Cecile of plants seeming to do almost as well and furnishing a larger crop.

In speaking of their getting a large plant up at the start. Mr. Alpine said that with a place of slow or gradual growth, one had continually to be repairing, as the oldest houses would need looking over and be a constant care, but with houses of large capacity at the start they soon earned enough money to pay for themselves and then showed a profit for quite a long time before any repairs were necessary. The stock is all handled by McAlpine & McDonald in the Boston market.

Washington, D. C.

The annual outing of the florists' club, held at Great Falls, Va., July 19, was attended by more than 350 persons, and was one of the most highly enjoyable in the history of the organization. J. Milton Thomas was in charge of the sports, of which there were a lengthy programme, and the prizes were numerous. The fireworks display in the evening was a pleasing feature.

Improvements to cost in the neighborhood of $2,000 are to be made at Wm. Marche & Co.'s store at Fourteenth and H streets, and will include a very attractive front.

LANCASTER COUNTY FLORISTS' CLUB PICNIC, LANCASTER, PA.

Boston.GOOD STOCK VERY SCARCE.

There has been a scarcity of stock during the past week, asters being about the only satisfactory flower in the market. There was a good demand for them at from $2 to $4 per 100 on extra fancy stock. Practically all are as yet the Queen of the Market variety. Carnations are very poor in quality and only the best of them bring over $1 per 100. Sweet peas are out of the market entirely. The gladioli have just commenced to arrive and are bringing $6 per 100, Halley being the most common variety. Indoor America sell for 8 cents. Roses are scarce and sell fairly well, considering the season. Nine-inch flowers bring $2 per 100, 12 inch sell at $4 per 100 and $6 per 100 is received for the longer stemmed stock. There is an abundant supply of gypsophilas, which sell very well at 25 cents per bunch for the double variety. Sprengeri sells poorly. The plant trade consists mainly of hydrangeas, some very fine specimens of which are seen.

NOTES.

Wm. Sim, of Cliftondale, has been cutting a fine crop of Gladiolus Halley. He has a large field devoted to gladioli of nearly every variety, many of which will soon be shipped to the market. He also has a 12-acre field devoted to sweet corn, which, according to the present outlook of the market, should net a good profit.

John Barr, of South Natick, has completed the replanting of his range with carnations. He has a large stock of Good Cheer and Nancy for the coming year. Pink Delight, Matchless and Ward are the main varieties of his stock.

Wm. Simpson, of Woburn, has the largest and best asters coming to Boston. They are far better than are usually seen in the market and he is to be congratulated on the excellence of their culture.

Wm. Penn has returned from his vacation, nicely tanned and two pounds heavier. His brother, Henry Penn, left for Poland Springs, July 31, to spend two weeks in recreation.

Thos. Roland, of Revere, is shipping a few roses, but the bulk of his income now comes from tomatoes. During the past week he averaged a ton a day.

F. L. W.

Cleveland.SCARCITY OF GOOD STOCK NOTICEABLE.

Good stock is scarce. Roses of all varieties are arriving open, and only short stemmed stock is available. Carnations are still to be had in considerable quantities of fair quality, and in the absence of better stock are moving nicely. Water lilies are meeting with a good demand. Gladioli are plentiful in all colors and varieties, and are being used quite freely, especially in windows for decorative purposes. Easter lilies can be had right along, some excellent stock. Sweet peas remain in good supply, but are mostly short stemmed, and the heat has affected most of them. Gypsophilas, larkspurs, phlox, achilleas, etc., in outdoor stock are seen. Greens of all kinds are plentiful. A few orchids are seen—vandas, dendrobiums and cattleyas. Lily of the valley remains scarce.

NOTES.

Plans and arrangements for the flower exhibition to be held in connection with the carnival at Edgewater park are moving along in fine shape. Manager Vinson has booked several out of town people for space and has a lot more all but signed up. Following are several of the early ones; Stump & Walter Co., New York; B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass., gladiolus specialist, had such good results here in Cleveland last year from his stock grown at Cedar Acres that he will be here again this fall; A. H. Austin, Wayland, O.; Joe Coleman, Lexington, O.; Cleveland Bird House Association; John Scheepers & Co., Inc., New York; Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa. Templin, Crockett-Bradley Co., who operate the Children's Flower Mission, are in for two spaces, and Hitchins & Co. will erect a model greenhouse. Every florist is interested and a good show is assured.

The Late John W. Lyon.

Geo. Asmus, Chicago, and Chas. Totty of Madison, N. J., visited this city in the interest of the next national flower show. They were welcomed by Herbert Bate, president of the florists' club; H. P. Knoble, Fred Brown, and Chas. Russell. The opinion of the parties seemed to be that Cleveland at this time was unable to have the next show because a suitable place was not available at present. After visiting several places of interest in and around Cleveland the visitors left for home.

Chris B. Wilhelmy and family are spending their vacation at Geneva-on-the-Lake.

C. F. B.

Oklahoma City.

The question of having a flower show here in the autumn has again been revived; whether anything toward that end will materialize or not remains to be seen. Some of the local members of the craft seem very hard to get interested in exhibitions.

Business of late has been much better than is usual for this time of the year. One of the reasons for the demand for flowers at this time is the calls for funeral designs that come in from the smaller towns throughout the state.

Visitor: A. S. Gray, Chickasha, Okla. S. S. B.

HARTFORD, CONN.—Wm. Doogue was chosen temporary chairman and A. Dixon, temporary secretary at a preliminary meeting, July 7, when it was decided to organize The Florists' Club of Hartford.

OBITUARY.John W. Lyon.

John W. Lyon, member of the well-known firm of Lyon & Anderson, wholesale and retail florists of Belvidere, Ill., died July 28, at the General hospital, Freeport, where he was taken several weeks ago suffering from a physical breakdown, which terminated in heart failure. He had been steadily sinking for several days, and while his death was not unexpected, it created sorrow among a large circle of friends.

John W. Lyon was born at Stockton, Ill., in 1859, and moved to Belvidere in 1891, where he entered the florist business and built up an establishment that is a credit to northern Illinois. He had for many years been prominent in political and business circles, having been at one time mayor of Belvidere and served several terms as alderman. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum and other organizations. He is survived by a widow, one son and two daughters. The business will be continued under the present firm name.

John Supper.

John Supper, 70 years of age, a well known florist of Lakewood, N. J., committed suicide by shooting himself, July 29. His family and friends cannot account for his act. He is said to have left a note, saying he wished no flowers at his funeral, and to bury him in the back yard. He is survived by a widow and two sons. One son, Gottlieb Supper, died recently in Washington, D. C.

A. F. F.

DECATUR, ILL.—Andrew Peterson, of Gibson City, has acquired the John Bommersbach greenhouses.

CINCINNATI, O.—A. Forder has been under the weather, but is improving. Mrs. Forder is not very well.

WORCESTER, MASS.—John U. Gibbons has made an assignment with liabilities of $660 and assets $271.

NORTH ADAMS, MASS.—W. E. Cady has opened the "Flower Box" on Bank street, one of the main thoroughfares.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—The San Francisco Floral Co. has opened a wholesale establishment at 431 Bush street.

SEDALIA, MO.—Among the attractions at the greenhouses of the Archias Floral Co., at the present time, are a number of banana plants in fruit and bloom.

HARTFORD, CONN.—The Rose Hill Floral Co. has been incorporated by Louis L. Barton, Abner P. Pitner and Ralph M. Grant, with a capital stock of $50,000.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Charles Eble has renewed the lease on his present location in the Hotel Grunewald building and is making extensive improvements in the store.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—The greenhouses at Ward-Belmont College are being remodeled and extensive improvements made. Flowers and vegetables for the use of the school exclusively will be grown.

RHINEBECK, N. Y.—The Violet Growers' Mutual Association at its annual meeting re-elected the present officers for another year. They are Chas. R. Traver, president, and F. L. Asher, secretary-treasurer. Fred Moore was elected a director to succeed A. C. Toof.

WHEN the heat at Chicago broke a five-year record, July 27, with the temperature at 100 degrees, killing four persons, the maximum temperature at Galveston, Tex., that day was 86 degrees.

THE parcel post appears to have given a new turn to the British embargo on Holland bulbs. Parcel post shipments are still permitted, and some members of the trade are protesting vigorously against this invasion of their retail business by the Holland growers.

Texas State Florists' Association.

The third annual convention of the Texas State Florists' Association will be held at Houston, August 14, 1916. The morning and afternoon sessions will be held in the banquet hall of the City Auditorium, while the evening session will be held on the Rice hotel roof garden. All florists, in or out of the state, who contemplate attending the S. A. F. convention at Houston, August 15-17, are invited to come early and attend the convention of the state organization. The programme follows:

MORNING SESSION, 10 O'CLOCK.

Meeting called to order by President R. C. Kerr, Houston.

Invocation—Dr. Peter Gray Sears, Houston.

Address of Welcome—Hon. Ben Campbell, mayor of Houston.

Response—E. E. Stone, Dickinson.

New York to Houston.

The transportation committee of the New York Florists' Club has selected the following route for those who intend to attend the S. A. F. convention in Houston, August 15-17.

The S. S. "Mamus" will leave New York, Wednesday, August 9, arriving at New Orleans, Monday, August 14, whence the journey to Houston by train, the Sunset Limited, is only 11 hours. The rate will be $80 to $83 for the round trip from New York City to Houston, which covers the trip by steamer to New Orleans, train to Houston, then by all rail returning. Those who desire may also return by boat. This rate includes berth and meals on steamer, but not on trains.

As this is evidently the route favored by most of those who intend to go, it is hoped that all members of the New York Florists' Club and friends from the eastern section of the country will travel in this party. The transportation committee is composed of Chas. H. Totty, chairman; John Young, Wm. C. Rickards, Jr., and J. R. Lewis.

As the steamship traffic on this line is heavy at this season, it is necessary that all reservations be made well before August 1. Make your reservations at once if possible. Further information will be gladly furnished by J. R. Lewis, secretary of transportation committee.

S. A. F. Convention Reception Committee.

Following the evening session of the Texas State Florists' Association at the third annual meeting of the organization at Houston, August 14, the florists of the state will be organized into a reception committee and will look after the comfort of the visitors to the S. A. F. convention from points outside of the state. The florists of Houston are doing everything in their power to make the 1916 meeting a grand success, and every member of the national society is urged to attend.

R. C. KERR,
Vice-President, S. A. F.

Chicago to Houston.

GREATLY REDUCED ROUND TRIP RATES.

After showing considerable lack of interest in the coming convention of the Society of American Florists the railroad organizations identified with transportation between Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Houston, have awakened and at the last moment given our national society the consideration to which it is entitled, granting greatly reduced round-trip rates to the convention city as follows:

Chicago to Houston and return. $46.25
St. Louis to Houston and return. 34.65
Kan. City to Houston and return. 32.00
Memphis to Houston and return. 28.25

The Chicago party occupying special cars will leave via the Wabash Midnight Banner Express at 11:55 p. m., Sunday, August 13, and arrive in St. Louis at 7:40 Monday morning. The special cars will be attached to the Iron Mountain Texas Limited, leaving at nine o'clock, due at Houston, Tuesday, August 15, at 2 p. m., in time for the opening session.

Round trip tickets from Chicago going August 12, 13 and 14 are good returning until September 5. The charges for Pullman sleepers from Chicago are as follows: double lower berth, $6.75; upper berth, $5.40; drawing room, $24.

CIRCLE TOURS.

One can purchase a circle tour ticket which permits going to Galveston (with a stop at Houston), boat from there to New York, a seven-day cruise on the Mallory Line, including one-day's stop over at Key West, and return to Chicago, via Niagara Falls and Detroit; or via Philadelphia and Washington. One can also take the Atlantic Line from New Orleans direct to New York, a five-day trip, and from New York as above mentioned. Cost of either of these tours is but $80. Meals and berth on boat are included.

For further details, Pullman reservations, and other particulars, address H. L. Purdy, care of Wabash Railway Co., 808 Edison building, Chicago. Telephone, Harrison 4500.

With the thermometer registering 105 degrees, the demand for flowers has been very slack. Outdoor stock is very poor due to lack of rain and greenhouse products are only fair. Roses and carnations have disappeared. Gladioli, asters and Easter lilies are the principal offerings.

NOTES.

The new rose house of the Doswell Floral Co. is nearing completion. It is 30x100 feet and will be planted to Hoosier Beauty and Russell. The demand for funeral work is reported good and several wedding decorations have kept the force busy.

A. J. Lanternier and wife, Misses Hilda and Ruth Lanternier, and E. J. Lanternier and wife, have been enjoying short vacations.

A handsome wreath of roses was sent by the school children of this city for the funeral of the late James Whitcomb Riley. H. K.

SUMMER ROSES

We make a specialty of growing Roses best adapted to handle during the hot weather. Our facilities are exceptionally well equipped and we recommend the following stock for summer:

BEAUTIES--Mostly Medium and Short Lengths Good Shipping Stock.

Rhea Reid—Best red rose.

Mrs. Russell—Best pink rose.

Sunburst—Best yellow rose.

Double White Killarney—Best white rose.

Ophelia and Shawyer—Are also two good pink roses for summer use.

These in addition to the regular varieties of Roses we are receiving in large quantities direct from our greenhouses within a few hours of being cut, enable us to fill all orders with strictly fresh stock. This is the great advantage of buying direct of the grower. Order here.

HOTTEST JULY IN MANY YEARS.

The recent heat wave was the longest on record at the local weather bureau and the government records go back to 1871. The oppressive wave of heat as the month closed made this July the hottest ever and the previous hottest July was in 1901 when the temperature averaged 77.4. This July the average was a trifle over that. The amount of sunshine has been way above normal and the weather bureau reports a new record of eight consecutive days of 100 per cent sunshine and which ties the eight day record from September 27 to October 24 in 1897. Rainfall was one-half inch below normal for the month and it might be added that there were thirteen consecutive days from July 3 to July 15 without a drop of rain which is a local record without parallel. Thursday, July 27, was the hottest day of all when it was 103 above just before 1 p. m. and at night was the hottest night ever experienced here. At 7 p. m. on that day this city was the hottest town in the United States with the single exception of Yuma, Ariz., so one can just about imagine what the market conditions might be. It was almost impossible to work in the greenhouses for the temperature under the glass averaged from 120 to 140 degrees above, consequently stock suffered considerably and reached the market in rather poor condition. Carnations are practically done, but there are plenty of roses obtainable although good stock in this line is none too plentiful. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses in some instances are of good quality and the same holds good for American Beauties. My Maryland and Ophelia are also reaching the market in good shape and clean up well right along. Some of the other roses are holding up fairly well considering the warm weather, but taken all in all every variety has suffered, but the stock offered is pretty good all things considered. Gladioli are selling unusually well this season and have commanded good prices up to this writing but the receipts are steadily increasing and a drop in prices may be expected.

Asters are moving quickly at fair prices and clean up nicely each day. Lily of the valley is as scarce as ever with the old prices holding firm. Orchids are in good demand and at times bring good prices. Lilies have been in good demand all week and cleaned up completely Saturday, July 29. Stock in general sold well Friday and Saturday, July 28-29, which were two of the best days experienced for several weeks. Stock did not bring much higher prices but everything moved and left the tables and ice boxes pretty empty. The shipping trade especially has been very good and the city demand has also shown some improvement.

NOTES.

Frank Ayres, Chas. W. McKellar's right hand man, and wife will leave next week on a 2200 mile lake trip, stopping off at Buffalo, N. Y., for a few days. Mr. McKellar's many friends are pleased to hear that his health has improved and that he is able to be back on duty at the store again regularly.

2,000,000 Feet of Modern Glass

Peter Seiler, of 1835 Birchwood avenue, Rogers Park, has been missing since July 11. His wife and three children fear that he is dead. Mr. Seiler conducted a greenhouse and was in prosperous circumstances. At the time of his disappearance he had more than $200 with him. The missing man was 33 years old. He is described as weighing about 145 pounds, 5 feet 6 inches in height, and of light complexion. Police search for the man has been unavailing.

James Friedl, accompanied by his wife and daughter, are enjoying a three weeks' vacation at Fox Lake. The Friedl flower shop at West Twenty-sixth street and Clifton Park avenue is being capably managed during their absence by J. Papacek, formerly in business on West Twenty-sixth street.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are handling a large supply of choice gladioli and asters which clean up at good prices at an early hour each day. Mr. Vaughan says that the shipping trade has been remarkably brisk all this week and that the local demand never was so good at this time of the year.

John Sinner is spending his vacation at Sinner Bros.' greenhouses this year, where he is giving the boys a lift with their planting. A little hot weather does not bother him even though the thermometer registered over 125 degrees above under the glass.

John Walsh has returned from a pleasant visit at Boston, Mass., and is on the job again at the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's store. Ed. Hunt, who takes care of the packing at this house for Manager Kling-sporn, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has made a contract with Buchbinder Bros., well known manufacturers of florists' refrigerators and store fixtures, to handle their line according to T. C. Waters, manager of the supply department, who will be pleased to figure with anyone in the market for same in the future. August Poehlmann and family are spending a week at Delavan Lake, Wis., but he will return in time to join the local delegation to the Houston convention. Miss Burkhardt, of the supply department, has returned from a pleasant visit on a farm in Wisconsin and is again attending to her duties at the store.

O. J. Friedman and family have returned from a pleasant outing at Oneida, Mich. His efficient bookkeeper, Miss Cassoretto, will leave this week for Donaldson, Wis., to enjoy a well earned rest. Miss Nelson, also of this firm, is visiting with her mother on an island in Puget Sound near Tacoma, Wash. Thos. Fogarty is next on the list to enjoy a vacation and denies the report that he will spend it with his family on the Emerald Isle. He is a genuine American now and is satisfied to spend it right here in the good old United States.

Wietor Bros.' Store is taking on a most inviting appearance and it is rumored that some of the art students from the Art Institute will be over next week to decorate the walls if satisfactory arrangements can be made with them. N. J. Wietor says that his firm sent out its first shipment of field grown carnation plants Tuesday, August 1, and that the stock is in splendid condition this year and that the greenhouse crew is now busy benching their plants, which includes all the best new and old standard varieties.

E. C. Amling and family and a party of friends are back from a most enjoyable five day automobile trip to Green Bay, Wis. The tour was made in Mr. Amling's Twin Six along Lake Michigan and Lake Winnebago and the picturesque Fox River, which played such an important part in history in days of Father Marquette and other early adventurers. A. C. Kohbrand is back from a successful fishing trip in Wisconsin and is again attending to the shipping trade at the E. C. Amling Co.'s store.

headquarters at 172 North Wabash avenue in the vacant store adjoining the E. C. Amling Co. Samuel Seligman, formerly with Wertheimer Bros., New York, A. Miller, with A. Henderson & Co., and several others are reported to be actively interested in the new concern.

Chas. Erne, of Erne & Klingel, called on his friend, Wm. Duntemann, of Bensenville, this week, and found him much improved in health, but still confined to his bed and with his right leg in a cast. It will be several weeks more before he will be able to be about but at that he is recovering more rapidly than the attending physician at first hoped for.

Lloyd E. Shirley, manager of the Garland Manufacturing Company, Des Reichling, who says that it was no trouble to sell all the stock as fast as it arrived, which is doing exceptionally well for his firm is cutting heavily in roses at present. The house is also cutting a large supply of fine asters which are in brisk demand at high prices.

Lloyd E. Shirley, manufacturer of the Garland Manufacturing Co., Des Plaines, reports that his firm has just received an order from Davis & Steiner for two new trussed steel frame greenhouses, 76x900 feet, to be erected at Ottawa, which is an additional order from the same firm which is building 12 new Garland houses at Streator.

John Kruchten and family and a party of friends will motor to Sister Lakes, Mich., the latter part of the week, where they will spend their vacation. Mr. Kruchten is seriously thinking of attending the Houston convention, where he will represent the John Kruchten Co.

Michael Fink cut his first tuberose last week, which is just exactly one month later than last year and if the writer is not mistaken they are the first to reach the market this season.

He is consigning the stock to the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, where he is employed.

L. R. Bohannon, Walter Adams, Victor Bergmann and Lou Bunt have returned from a fishing trip to Long Lake, Wis., and according to the stories they are telling there are not any fish left in the lake for they claim to have caught all that were there.

Martin Schoeffle, son of John Schoeffle, well known Belmont avenue florist, has returned from a pleasant sojourn in the east where he visited all the leading cities.

Joe Weis, 3445 Southport avenue, motored to Starved Rock this week and reports having had a most delightful time.

Miller & Musser are handling a large quantity of choice asters which are in brisk demand and command good prices.

George Kaspar is back from a well earned rest and is again attending to his duties at the Batavia Greenhouse Co.'s store.

Reinhold Schiller, manager of Schiller's downtown store, is back from West Baden, Ind., much improved in health.

Emil Reichling, superintendent of the Peter Reinberg greenhouses, has invested in a new seven passenger Buick.

Harry Conn has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his wife, whose death occurred Saturday, July 29.

James Curran, 2909 Archer avenue, is the proud owner of a new five passenger Kissell car.

H. N. Bruns, 3034 West Madison street, has a new panel top Overland delivery car.

Kennicott Bros. Co. reports a good demand for gladioli, which it is handling in quantity.

William Abrahamson is now connected with Wertheimer Bros., New York.

The Foley Greenhouse Manufacturing Co. reports business as very good at its factory, 3100 South Spaulding avenue, which is an ideal location for shipping purposes, being located on a belt line with a switch that enables a car to be backed right into the receiving and distributing room. The factory is three stories high and everything is so arranged that not a foot of floor space is wasted and as one walks through the various departments he will notice that each machine is operated by a separate electric motor. A large stock of greenhouse lumber is on hand and a big quantity of hot bed sash ready for delivery is piled up in the warehouse, which enables the firm to fill an order practically as soon as it is booked. P. J. Foley will represent the Foley Manufacturing Co. at the Houston convention.

Allie Zech and wife have returned from a two weeks' automobile trip through the southwestern part of the state and parts of Wisconsin and report having had a most delightful time. Ed. Armstrong and wife were with them on their trip through the Badger state, where they found the fishing unusually good. They covered about 1,000 miles all told and Allie performed the remarkable feat of driving home from Princeton, Wis., without taking a rest and without a single mishap. Joe Erringer, of the Zech & Mann force, is spending his vacation in Michigan and Miss Nelda Wolf, who so capably attends to the office duties, will leave August 7 to enjoy a well earned rest.

M. C. Gunterberg is a strong booster for the Houston convention and has figures to prove that the Texas city is not as warm a place to go during the summer as some of the trade are inclined to believe, for the temperature there last week was not as high as it was right here or in certain cities in northern Wisconsin, which are recognized as one of the ideal resort districts by the many tourists who spend their vacations there each year.

Frank Johnson says that the A. L. Randall Company is having a big run on the new electric store fountain that it is handling in quantities in the supply department. Frank McCabe will represent this firm at the Houston convention, where it will have a large exhibit. Eric Johnson and wife are spending their vacation at Mackinac Island. Otto Goerich is also away on a two weeks' vacation.

Rudolph Kurowski, of the John C. Moninger Co., has been entertaining Chas. Meyer, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and A. Whithum, Cleveland, O., the past week, and even though the weather was exceedingly hot they had a good time for their guide knew where all the cool places were and the best of refreshments kept. Both of the visitors are in the vegetable growing business.

Several of the local growers report the loss of horses the past week from the intense heat and add that it was almost impossible for the men to work in the greenhouses, where the temperature registered between 125 to 140 degrees above. The cool spell, which set in July 31, was most welcome, and resulted in a sudden shortage of stock.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg, George Asmus, August Poehlmann, A. Henderson, P. J. Foley, W. J. Keimel, M. Barker, Fred Lautenschlager, John Kruchten, Frank McCabe, E. C. Pruner and August Lange and wife are some of the local people who will attend the Houston convention.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. will handle the output of Pyfer & Olsem's new range recently leased from Peter Nepper, which will be devoted principally to carnations. Mr. Pyfer will do his own bookkeeping the next two weeks, while Miss Parker is away on her vacation.

At Percy Jones' establishment asters and gladioli are the principal offerings and clean up almost as quickly as they reach the store. The shipping trade has been remarkably good all last week and there is no sign of it weakening at this writing.

Weiland & Risch are receiving many compliments unbeknown to them for the rose Champ Weiland, which they placed on the market this spring and which is destined to be a big factor in the market next fall.

J. A. Budlong is cutting a good supply of roses in all the leading varieties but trade has been so good the past week that Manager Schupp has experienced no trouble in disposing of the heavy cuts.

Milton Alexander, with Lion & Co., New York, is the proud father of a baby girl, which accounts for the happier than ever smile that he is meeting his local customers with this week.

Bassett & Washburn are having a splendid demand for Belle Washburn field grown carnation plants and from present indications this variety will be grown on a large scale next season.

Henry Arnold, with O. A. & L. A. Tonner, is expected back from Eagle River, Wis., this week, where he is spending his vacation.

Hoerber Bros. have had a good call for My Maryland roses all during the summer months. This variety is always in brisk demand at their store.

Wm. F. Schofield, 734 North State street, and family, are back from a delightful outing in northern Wisconsin.

Gust. Collins and family will take in the sights at Niagara Falls next week.

E. Liebermann is now with Victor Young & Co., North Clark street.

The E. F. Winterson Co. is handling a large supply of choice gladioli.

Visitors: Frank Gorly and wife, St. Louis, Mo.; Max Knees and wife, Moline; Julius Dilloff, representing Schloss Bros., New York; George Crabb, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Milton Alexander, with Lion & Co., New York; Vincent Gorly, St. Louis, Mo.; George Hampton, representing J. G. Neidinger Company, Philadelphia, Pa.; F. J. Foster, St. Louis, Mo.; Theo. Hefco and wife, Marshfield, Wis.

Pasadena, Calif.

Wm. and Colin Campbell visited the L. D. Waller Seed Co.'s establishment at Guadalupe, Calif., recently. They are growing a much larger line of florists' flowers than in previous years. The place was a blaze of color. Noteworthy were a carmine annual larkspur, a double cosmos and a double godetia, also schizanthus in separate colors, all of which looked good.

This city is already planning and working for its annual fall flower show, which promises to surpass all records. The Maryland hotel management have promised the use of their new palm garden, which will be an ideal location. Being under cover, a big display of tender flowers and plants is assured.

The Orchid Flower Shop reports good business in funeral work, though quiet along other lines. However, it is their opinion that trade is in a better condition than a year ago. All kinds of stock is reported plentiful.

Eldred's Flower Store also reports fair business, and a profusion of flowers.

Some of the street stands have closed for the summer.

DEMAND TAKES UP SUPPLY.

Business is fair. The demand for stock, while only a summer demand, is steady and is taking up the greater part of the receipts. All good and choice stock is moving readily, while the balance sells at times. Shipping trade is fairly good. Roses are not quite as plentiful as they have been. A good many are short stemmed, but the blooms generally are excellent. The cut of Easter lilies is sufficient for all present demands. Gladioli are in good supply and asters are now plentiful while rubrums are meeting with a good call. Other offerings include hardy hydrangeas, Lilium auratum, water lilies and snapdragons.

NOTES.

The workmen have finished the remodeling of C. E. Critchell's new store, and the painters are now getting to work.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange have moved to their new location, 10 East Third street.

Wholesale Commission Florists

163-5 No. WABASH AVE., CHICAGO
Telephone Central 466Detroit.*WEATHER CONDITIONS VERY UNFAVORABLE.

Florists, both growers and retailers, are now experiencing most trying conditions, due solely to the unprecedented heat and drouth. There has been no rain here worth mentioning for over six weeks and field crops of all kinds are suffering greatly. As a consequence outdoor flowers are very scarce, no item of the usual list being even in fair supply. The retailers are daily embarrassed because of their inability to fill the orders they receive, and at present there seems but little prospects of an early improvement in these conditions. Indoor stock, too, is also scarce and of poor quality and growers are sharing with the retailers the misfortune of both, traceable alone to weather conditions.

CLUB MEETING.

The club meeting, July 26, was held on the spacious lawn at J. F. Sullivan's residence, Gratiot avenue and Conners creek, and though the heat was unfavorable for the occasion, nevertheless the attendance was good. Henry Goetz, Jr., of Saginaw, Mich., was a visitor, and was here for the purpose of getting the co-operation of our club in his efforts to form a state organization of florists. The project was thoroughly discussed and favorable action taken. A committee was appointed, consisting of M. Bloy, Joseph Streit and J. K. Stock to confer with similar committees already at work on the matter in Grand Rapids and Saginaw. Eli Cross is the chairman in the former city and Henry Goetz, Jr., in Saginaw. Mr. Goetz is enthusiastic and most hopeful for an organization in this state similar to that of Illinois.

NOTES.

The Michigan State Fair Association, desiring to stimulate greater interest in its floricultural department at its annual exhibition, has enlisted the co-operation of the local florists' club, and on the latter's suggestion a new building is being erected on plans drawn by Wm. Dilger to properly show and care for plants and flowers. The premium list, too, was made up to meet the ideas of the local florists and this encouragement, it is believed, will result in many florists here and throughout the state being large and regular exhibitors at these annual shows.

Joseph Streit, late of Buffalo, who now has the Taepke greenhouses, on McLellan avenue, is hard at work preparing stock for the local trade.

The McHugh Floral Co., for many years on Michigan avenue, has moved to a new and modern store on Grand River avenue, near Jones street.

Very little interest is shown here in the approaching S. A. F. convention at Houston, Tex. It is not likely any one from this city will attend.

Walter Taepke, Jack Carey, Jr., and Norman Sullivan, who took an auto trip east, are now back, much delighted with their journey.

The death of John W. Poehlmann is much regretted by the trade here where he was so well and favorably known.

Robt. Rahaley is now summering on the Canadian shore above Walkerville, making his daily trips to the city by auto.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

DEMAND EXCEEDS THE SUPPLY.

For the season of the year there is a very fair amount of work, the demand being really greater than the supply. All high grade stock is scarce, particularly roses, the quality of which is now about at the lowest ebb. Double White Killarney holds out fairly well, while those who still grow Kaiserin have much to be thankful for, as they are now the best white and bring the highest price. Some fair Hadley and Hoosier Beauty are offered with Ophelia and Mrs. Ward next in favor. Asters are now beginning to make themselves felt, and although a couple of weeks late on account of being spoiled by the copious rains, will from now on be a strong factor. Gladioli are in good demand; they clean up every day now, while a year ago they were a drug on the market. Cattleyas are to be had in quantity and there is lily of the valley enough, except for an extra demand. All the wholesale men say they have a good out-of-town trade, rather better than is usual for the season.

CLUB MEETING.

The lecture of Cornelius F. Roland, representing the National Tube Company, was the feature of the August meeting of the florists' club, giving in moving pictures a very comprehensive idea of how steel pipe is made, from the time the ore is taken from the ground, through all the various manipulations, until the finished product is produced. Mr. Roland explained lucidly the many processes as they were thrown on the screen. It was a wonderful series of pictures, very instructive to the rather small audience of about 50 members. A very enjoyable address was also made by J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, who being in town, attended the meeting. He spoke of the great value of the plants introduced from China by Mr. Wilson for the Arnold Arboretum. Lillium regale was especially mentioned; also the new buddleias and other plants, which were all very valuable, especially a hardy cedar of Lebanon. He said the time was coming when men would look at horticulture as a beautiful art to be engaged in for other than material gain—a means of beautifying this country and making it a better place to live in. He was roundly applauded for his inspiring address.

NOTES.

S. S. Pennock, president of the American Rose Society, is much encouraged in the responses to his appeal for the fund to help the authorities at Cornell, who are investigating diseases of the rose. A thousand dollars were asked for and up to August 1 over $700 of this had been subscribed and the balance Mr. Pennock thinks will be but the matter of another week or so. There is some very cheery news for those interested in the rose—something as yet under cover, that will add very materially to the pleasure of those attending the annual meeting in Philadelphia in March next.

The Robert Craig Co. is doing a large business, furnishing growers in quite a large part of the country with stock for growing on—Dracenas, crotons, rubbers in the newer sorts and a host of nephrolepis ferns. The John Wanamaker and a sport from Teddy, Jr., are much in demand. Their stock of cyclamens was never in better shape. These and young flowering begonias are leaders in the flowering section.

Edward Reid points with pride to his Kaiserin roses, which are in the A1 grade and coming in quantity. He is well stocked with asters, the best in the market. On his recent southern trip, a bridge over which his train passed at Camden, S. C., was washed away about six hours after.

H. M. Weiss & Son, Hatboro, Pa., are benching the finest lot of carnation plants they have ever had; over 70,000 have been set out on the benches and more are to follow. The principal varieties are Alice, Gorgeous, Pink Ward, Matchless and White Ward.

The Leo Niessen Co. also finds stock scarce; asters and gladioli, so plenti-

DEMAND ALMOST IMPERCEPTIBLE.

Business was very quiet during the past week; so quiet, in fact, that at times its movement was almost imperceptible. Heavy rains, with intense humidity during the early days of the week made life uncomfortable. There has been very little good stock on the market, but considering the light demand, there has been about enough to supply it. Cattlyeas are somewhat light in supply and the best are up to 50 and 60 cents per flower. Lilies are also in light supply and are selling at 5, 6 and in some instances, 8 cents per flower. Lily of the valley, as one dealer said, July 29: "was laying around here all the week, but was scarce today", but it is likely to be a temporary scarcity. There is considerable American Beauty stock arriving, but most of it is poor and the best goes at the rate of $20 per 100. In tea roses, there is some good stock, for the season, which is quickly taken, but much rose stock is wide open when it reaches the market. There is a fair supply of asters, but many of them are poor. Good gladioli are now plentiful and they move fairly well. The carnations, to drop into the vernacular of the ring-side, have taken the count. There are a few on the market, but they are not factors.

July 31.—The arrival of stock is very light this morning, and what is good is generally taken. The weather, which has been cool for the past three days, is again warming up, and old "General Humidity" is said to be again moving his forces in from the west.

NOTES.

In the great explosion that rocked this city to its foundation, Sunday morning, July 30, the florists and seedsmen came in for their share of damage. The plate glass fronts of the stores of P. J. Smith and Walter F. Sheridan, 131 and 133 West 28th street, were blown out. A. H. Langhar's establishment, at 130 West 28th street, was also damaged. At the seed store of Peter Henderson & Co., 35 Cortlandt street, several large plate glass windows were broken. The Stumpp & Walter Co., 30 Barclay street, and Burnett Bros., 98 Chambers street, suffered similar damage. At the A. T. Boddington Co., Inc., establishment, 128 Chambers street, a skylight was blown in and S. D. Woodruff & Sons, 82 Dey street, escaped with the loss of a few panes of common glass. On Cortlandt, Barclay and other streets that end at the harbor, the damage was heavy, in the loss of plate glass. The front of the retail store of W. G. Elliott, 135 Monticello avenue, Jersey City, was blown out. In proportion to its size and the property involved, Jersey City suffered most. The damage to greenhouse property was comparatively light. In comparison with other buildings, the greenhouses are low and the frames will expand under pressure. The range of Robert Leach, 676 Garfield avenue, Jersey City, stands on a hillside directly opposite the scene of the explosion, but about a mile distant. It was considerably damaged, but not demolished as might have been expected. The windows in the brick residence of Henry Leach directly across the avenue from the greenhouses, had practically every window broken and the family had to move out. Ocean, Jackson, Monticello, and other avenues and streets of Jersey City, were scenes of destruction, relating to glass. Among the trade in Brooklyn, James Weir, Inc., and John V. Phillips, both on Fulton street, suffered slight property damage.

Under the caption: "Surf rose-laden," a local newspaper tells of cases of rose bushes having floated ashore at Long Beach. Our contemporary sagely remarks that: "When it was learned no wreck had occurred some one volunteered the information that the bushes were Holland rose bushes, normally worth at least $1 apiece, and that their importation into this country is forbidden because of some insect which lodges in them. Probably some incoming ship, finding she could not land the shrubs, threw them overboard. Insects or no insects, however, the beach was filled with crowds of summer resorters, who gathered the rose bushes and carried them away to plant them." We do not think they were thrown overboard on account of insects, but here is a question, "Will salt water kill insects?"

W. G. Badgley, of Badgley & Bishop, Inc., who is also mayor of Chatham, N. J., had quite an experience, July 28. Five young people in a canoe on the Passaic river, which flows through Chatham, were swept to the dam and four went over and were drowned. Mayor Badgley and a policeman went into the river and swam down a mile and a half in a heroic attempt to recover the bodies.

George W. Crawbuck, Inc., 75 West 28th street, is receiving good roses from the Budlong range, Auburn, R. I., lilies from Klugman & Schnerow, Brooklyn, and very fine stock of Gladiolus America from the Stone Greenhouses, Blue Point, L. I., N. Y. George W. Crawbuck is on a trip to Rhode Island.

Calling recently on Nat. Bernstein, 1081 Lexington avenue, we found him busy. He is one of the veteran retailers of the east side and has a large acquaintance. He is also a humorous entertainer, and has appeared before the New York Florists' Club and many other organizations.

Jack Trepel, buyer for his brother Joseph's chain of Brooklyn stores, has with his wife, made the overland trip to California by automobile and they are now touring the Pacific coast. They visited the Rocky mountains national park and other points of interest on their way west.

On July 24, an automobile that had become unmanageable, smashed through the show window of the Garden Florist store, 2556 Broadway. The occupants of the store had a narrow escape and the damage to the establishment amounted to several hundred dollars.

Waldron Bishop, of Badgley & Bishop, Inc., who has been at his cottage at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., for several weeks, is again at business. John Eigenbrod, head salesman for this firm, has gone to the Adirondacks for a month.

The fishing trip of the bowling club to Barnegat Bay was very successful. They caught one shark and many other innocent fish. The official historian of the trip has not yet completed his labors, but we expect a report from him soon.

William C. Mansfield and wife, of 1184 Lexington avenue, are summering at their camp in the Maine woods. James Wallace, who is in charge of the store, is very anxious over the serious illness of his eight year old son.

Thomas Doganges, 695 Columbus avenue, now has a very attractive show window. There is a fine aquarium stock with gold fish, a miniature statue of Liberty, the whole being encircled by a scenic railway.

Henry Hof, formerly in Abram & Straus' flower department, opened an attractive store of his own at Nostrand and Marcy avenues, Brooklyn, about three months ago, and seems to be doing well.

Henry Hart, of 1000 Madison avenue, is spending the summer at Edgemere, L. I., where he has a summer hotel, but there is a capable force of men and women at the Madison avenue store.

Callas Brothers, Nostrand avenue and Bergen street, Brooklyn, have a fine store and a good business. They have recently been entertaining a florist friend from Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. F. Pollachek, wife of the "Lenox Hill Florist," is on vacation at Schroon Lake in the Adirondacks. On her return, her husband will take a vacation at Atlantic City.

Mrs. William H. Long, of 412 Columbus avenue, is spending the summer with her parents, Captain and Mrs. Alexander Fraser, at Bras'd'Or Lake, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia.

One of the clever Brooklyn retailers Mrs. Edna W. Terris, proprietor of the Flower Basket Shop, 147 West 44th street, has sailed for the West Indies to make a collection of tropical plants.

recently visited is Frank G. Seymour, 17 McDougal street. He has a very neat store and seems prosperous.

At the store of Goldstein & Futterman, 102 West 28th street, we have recently noticed fine gladioli, asters and a variety of other stock.

The Plaza Floral & Fruit Co., is the title of a new venture recently launched at 698 Lexington avenue, corner of 57th street.

George J. Polykranas, the wholesaler, went to Sullivan county, N. Y., July 29 to visit his family, who are summering there.

Myer Othile, of Riedel & Meyer, Inc., 49 West 28th street, has returned from his vacation, wearing a fine coat of tan.

Guttman & Raynor, Inc., 101 West 28th street, are handling good roses, lilies, asters and a variety of other stock.

FAIR BUSINESS FOR SEASON.

Business has been fairly good considering the extremely warm weather. Mrs. Charles Russell and Kaiserin roses are the best sellers at present, although lilies and gladioli of good quality are meeting with ready sale. Asters are arriving, principally the Queen of the Market variety, and while not of extra quality are much used in design work and are disposed of.

NOTES.

August Baumer's delivery car is on the job again after having a wheel amputated in a recent collision. Luckily no one was seriously hurt.

Professor Ernest Walker, state entomologist of Alabama, has returned to his home at Auburn, after a visit with relatives in this city.

F. H. Hustedt, carnation grower, is completing a residence at his range near Jeffersonville, Ind.

Brady & Bryant are completing a packing and storage room for cut flowers.

A. Rasmussen and family are spending their vacation at Bay View, Mich.

Visitors: W. W. Randall, representing the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago; R. R. Harris, Huntsville, Ala.

Montreal.

The annual outing of the gardeners' and florists' club, which was held at Otterburn park, July 26, was a most successful and enjoyable affair. The special train carried about 150 to the grounds which were in fine condition and the refreshing breezes from the river offset the heat of the day. A good programme of sports had been arranged and the events were all keenly contested, a baby show with 20 entrants, being a feature.

fifth annual convention, June, 1917.

MICHIGAN bean growers believe the crop is damaged by heat and drought.

VISITED CHICAGO: Lawrence S. Payn, representing Simon Louis Freres & Co., Bruyeres-le-Chatel, France.

LAKE FOREST, ILL.—D. D. P. Roy, Chicago, has opened a seed store here in the new Arcade building.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE is shipping Lilium Harrisii both at Chicago and New York this week and says L. Formosum and French bulbs will be on hand next week.

ONION SETS.—The continued drought has been of no benefit except to help the quality and give a crop of small sets, but continued dry weather will certainly reduce the crop in bulk.

MEMBERS of the seed trade will be up against very high prices for their catalogue paper for spring 1917. Prices are reported to be double last year's. One large eastern house is reported to have paid $8.50 per 100 pounds for paper for its next season's catalogue.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—A. J. Brown, of the A. J. Brown Seed Co., is out on a crop inspection tour. Pea conditions are reported favorable to an average crop while the bean situation is discouraging on account of the protracted dry weather.

HELENA, MONT.—In the early mining days virgin gold was freely used in payment of bills but nowadays such transactions are rare. Recently, however, the State Nursery Co., of this city, received a gold nugget worth $65 in payment of a seed and plant bill.

ROCKY FORD, COLO.—Reports of June 22 indicate that the condition of the garden beans growing in this district is very fine, and barring hail storms the harvest should be good. Dry land crops are reported less favorable. It is very hot and dry, with no rain since last August, but plenty of ditch water.

Burpee Estate Over Million.

Doylestown, Pa., July 20.—Appraisers of the estate of the late W. Atlee Burpee, Philadelphia, have filed an inventory in the register of will's office, which appraises the estate at $1,211,990.62, including real estate valued at $298,450. The Fordhook Farm, property, the Burpee home here, is appraised at $122,500.

Crosman Bros. Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Crosman Bros. Co., Rochester, N. Y., advise that the statement in our issue of July 29, page 84, to the effect that their business will be discontinued is an error and we are pleased to make this correction. This firm, established in 1838, is still doing business with office and wholesale house at 903 Monroe avenue and retail store at 355 Main street east.

Bolgiano & Son, Baltimore, Md.

One of the largest seed houses in the United States is that of J. Bolgiano & Son, located at Pratt, Light and Elliott street, Baltimore, Md. Field, flower and garden seeds are handled by this firm on a very large scale, and in season, bedding plants, shrubbery of all kinds and dormant and pot roses are also disposed of in immense quantities. The sale of 1,000 six-inch pot roses in a single day is not an uncommon occurrence at this establishment. This firm believes in advertising and entire pages in the Sunday papers are used in calling attention to special sales; liberal space is also taken during the week.

The quality of the seed and its fertility is safeguarded by a laboratory on the fourth floor of the building. This is equipped with the latest appliances for sorting, grading, germinating, and in every way determining the quality of all varieties. Records are kept of the results of the analyses and these are often found very useful for reference. To show percentage of germination, the seeds placed between moist blotters or wet cloths in germinating cabinets, soon show their value in this respect. Some state laws are more stringent than those of the United States government, and too much care cannot be taken to keep up to the required standard. An electrically driven chaff separator with vertical air blast, capable of handling the most delicate seeds, is a very interesting feature. This department is under the supervision of Miss Jessie L. Anderson, seed analyst, who has had special training for the work. The firm does all of its own printing on the premises, having the latest appliances in this line; only the binding of catalogues is done outside. The poultry large scale, as many as 50,000 chicks department is also conducted on a having been sent out since February last.

At the large storage warehouse, Key highway and Baltimore harbor, there are immense quantities of fertilizers and field seeds. Here there is also elaborate machinery for cleaning and bagging the seeds; one machine will weigh and bag the seeds while another attachment sews the container. Six hundred bags are handled in an hour by this piece of mechanism—more than three men could do in a day. A scarifying machine cracks or scars the hulls of some seeds, enabling them to germinate much faster. In the winter 75 to 100 carloads of onion sets are kept on racks in this warehouse, and when sorted, they are carried out on a belt conveyor over a long table, on either side of which a number of girls eliminate the imperfect sets. A moving platform, the entire length of the warehouse and wharf, is a feature. Articles loaded on this from the barges are carried as far as desired. It is operated by electricity and has been found most economical.

Twelve salesmen in Ford automobiles are on the go all the time, covering the trade within 50 miles of the city. The business was established 98 years ago and is now being directed by the fourth generation, the owner now being Charles J. Bolgiano. K.

Leonard Seed Co., Chicago.

The Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, recently held a convention of its travelers, many of their men being called in and going over the trial grounds and fields of onion sets, getting first-hand information to give their patrons. It is the custom of the firm to take representatives into their confidence and have them examine carefully all trials and growing crops so that they are well informed on conditions and are thus enabled to give their customers valuable information when they call. Treasurer A. H. Smith says this was one of the best such meetings the company has ever held.

Mr. Smith reports as a result of their inspection they find the onion set acreage this year around Chicago very much reduced and in addition the crop was badly damaged early in the season by wet weather and the maggots ate the sets quite badly, leaving spaces and skips in the rows, so that with the very best weather conditions from now until they are pulled, onion sets will be a very light crop and the prices should be correspondingly higher this season. The quality around Chicago promises to be very good, as the last two or three weeks the weather has been dry and hot, which had a tendency to make good-keeping sets, and if there is not very much rain during the next 10 days or two weeks Chicago should harvest choice, small, good-keeping sets of the very finest quality.

Beans in Michigan are being hurt now by the hot, dry weather, but up until this week, the crop was growing well and the prospects good. If Michigan is fortunate in getting some good showers during the next few days it will help the bean crop considerably, otherwise there will be a great deal of damage done as beans are just beginning to bloom and the next week or 10 days will tell the story in regard to the bean crop.

The pea crop in Wisconsin is a very light one. The firm's men are now taking in peas at different growing stations throughout the state and report the quality very good indeed. Peas are a better sample than they have been for two years.

Louis Bloom has taken over the firm's eastern and northeastern territory, taking the place of Wm. Sutherland, no longer with the company.

BURPEE'S EARLY

— OR —

WINTER-FLOWERING SPENCERS

The House of Burpee has long been recognized as "American Headquarters for Sweet Peas," and our introduction of these Fordhook Strains of Winter Flowering Spencers marks an era in commercial Sweet Pea growing.

The Novelties offered below, excepting Yarrowa, are the results of crosses made at our Fordhook Farms during the past seven seasons. All stocks are grown at our Floradale Farm, "The California Home of Sweet Peas."

FORDHOOK PINK AND WHITE:—A most popular Winter Flowering Spencer. A color that is always in demand, similar to the old Blanche Ferry, bright rosy pink standard, wings almost pure white. The immense flowers measure 2½ inches in diameter and are perfect in form. A very early, free and continuous bloomer, awarded a Certificate of Merit at the Spring Show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Philadelphia, March, 1915, and the American Sweet Pea Society, San Francisco, June, 1916. ¼ oz., $1.25; ½ oz., $2.00; oz., $3.50.

FORDHOOK PINK:—This is a distinct shade of pink suffused with lavender throughout. Flowers are large size, exquisitely waved, produced in threes and fours on long stems. ¼ oz., 40c; ½ oz., 75c; oz., $1.25; ¼ lb., $3.50; ½ lb., $6.25; lb., $12.50.

FORDHOOK ROSE:—Introduced by us in 1915. Flowers of largest size usually borne in threes and fours. A charming shade of rosy carmine. Awarded a Certificate of Merit at the International Show, New York, March, 1915, and the Spring Show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Philadelphia, March, 1915. ¼ oz., 50c; ½ oz., 85c; oz., $1.50; ¼ lb., $4.00; ½ lb., $7.50; lb., $15.00.

YARROWA:—This magnificent Australian variety has proved its unusual merit with commercial growers in all parts of the country. It has an exceptional reputation as a sure-money-maker. First exhibited by us at the great International Show in New York, March, 1914, and awarded a Certificate of Merit by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, March, 1915. Flowers exquisitely waved, averaging 2½ inches in diameter, many of them being duplex or double. A bright rose pink with a clear, creamy base. ¼ oz., 35c; ½ oz., 60c; oz., $1.00; ¼ lb., $2.75; ½ lb., $5.00; lb., $10.00. Our Special Leaflet on Winter Flowering Sweet Peas free on application.

New York, Aug. 1.—Celery, per crate, $5.00 to $6.50; cucumbers, $2.50 per basket; mushrooms, $1.50 to $3.50 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, per carrier, 30 cents to $2.50; radishes, per 100 bunches, 50 cents to $1.00; lettuce, per basket, 75 cents to $2.00.

Berry Market Development.

An effort is being made by the Dominion & Atlantic Railroad Co. and the Boston & Yarmouth Steamship Co. to increase the production of strawberries and blueberries in Nova Scotia by developing a larger market for these products in New England. According to a report on the berry situation by the agent of the Boston & Yarmouth Steamship Co., at Yarmouth, 118,000 quarts of strawberries, valued at $12,000, and 800,000 quarts of blueberries, valued at $75,000, were shipped from Yarmouth to Boston last season. It is estimated that about 215 acres were planted with strawberries last year, while blueberries are found extensively and grow practically uncultivated.

The strawberry season begins about July 5 and continues about six weeks. The season for blueberries begins about August 1 and continues until the last of September.

Berries are landed daily at Boston 16 hours after shipment at Yarmouth.

[The names of berry dealers in Yarmouth can be obtained at the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce or its district offices. Refer to file No. 78118.]

Kansas City, Mo.

TRADE IMPROVES BUT SUPPLY LIMITED.

Continued hot weather is telling on the stock, but the new crop coming on looks promising and will make good material with the help of a little rain. The supply is a little better than a week ago, but continues limited with a slight increase in the sales. The quality of the rose stock is improving and the demand was brisk, Ophelia and Sunburst being the favorites. Asters are making headway and look more promising; they sell the minute they reach the market. Carnations continue scarce and small. Gladioli play a big part and Easter lilies are still doing their share.

NOTES.

T. J. Noll & Co. are handling fine roses, gladioli, Colorado grown carnations, lilies and pink gypsophila, but the supply is limited. The new supply show room is fast nearing completion and when stocked will present one of the best and most complete lines in the middle west.

H. Kusik & Co. are receiving large quantities of gladioli and Easter lilies, and asters are more plentiful. The rose supply is of good quality, but not large enough to meet requirements. This firm has recently received a large shipment of fall supplies.

W. J. Barnes has been busy with a good run of funeral work. Accompanied by E. J. Barnes and family, he went to Forest Lake, July 27, and returned with 21 good sized members of the "finny tribe." Enough to grease the pan all right.

Dust is playing havoc at the greenhouses of the W. L. Rock Flower Co. and at H. Ackermann's on the opposite corner, due to grading that is being done nearby. At the latter place it is hard to tell whether the roof is glass or tin.

Edward E. Stockdale of Kansas City, Kan., is completing two new houses, one for carnations and the other for pot plants. He is showing some fine Cincinnati begonias; also, cyclamens in 5-inch and 6-inch pots.

M. E. Chandler is cutting a few good gladioli and reports the prospects look good for a better supply of outdoor stock. He has planted dahlies in quantity.

Gilday & Skidmore, formerly on East Eleventh street, are now in their new quarters at Eleventh and Baltimore streets.

A. Newell has had a brisk demand for funeral work, but reports difficulty in securing sufficient stock.

Visitors: H. E. Humiston, Chicago; W. A. Miller, St. Louis, Mo.

E. J. B.

Newburyport, Mass.

E. W. Pearson has a nicely arranged store at 47 State street with every facility to handle his excellent retail business. His range is located on Marlboro street. This comprises about 30,000 feet of glass and for the season, the stock is in fine condition. An interesting feature was a house of tomatoes, planted in March along the edges of the carnation beds. The first picking is generally made in June, but this was delayed this year until July 10. The crop amounts to from two and one-half to three tons and there is no waste as it meets with a ready sale at the store at 10 cents per pound. The fact that 70,000 carnations were cut from a house 42x150 feet, where the carnations and tomatoes were growing, proves that the growth of the flowers was not interfered with.

J. J. Conley, Otis Kent, T. J. King and C. J. McGregor are all in the running here, and are pushing out for business, as is J. A. Kenniston, who has a very successful nursery establishment.

New Early Flowering Giant Pansies

Or Winter Blooming

An entirely new and distinct strain of Pansies. The main advantage of these new Pansies over all hitherto existing Pansies is the extreme earliness of flowering and its unusual hardiness, which enables them to withstand quite severe Winters, and to bloom right on into the Summer. Sown at the same time as other Pansies, they begin flowering the early part of March or as soon as the snow is off the ground, many times having four or five large flowers to a plant, when all other Pansies are only showing buds. The flowers are large, well formed and fragrant. They are highly recommended for Autumn planting on graves, and for very early bedding, as well as for early cut flowers.

FALL RIVER, MASS.—Claims against the estate of the late George L. Freeman, orchid grower, said to be insolvent, will be investigated by commissioners who have been appointed for that purpose.

SEWICKLEY, PA.—Robert W. Hutchinson, well-known landscape gardener for the Pennsylvania Lines West, who died at Palm Beach, Fla., July 18, was buried from his late residence here, July 23. The funeral services were largely attended.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The property of the Franklin Davis Nursery Co., bankrupt, will be sold at the company's farms at Mitchellville, Md., August 23, 1916, by order of the United States district court for Maryland. Willis E. Myers is referee. Charles R. Woods, 717 Title building, Baltimore, is attorney.

Mistletoe Is Forest Pest

A recent study, conducted by the United States department of agriculture, of the injury done by mistletoe to coniferous trees in the northwest, indicates that in many regions this is a serious forest problem. The western larch, the western yellow pine, the lodgepole and the Douglas fir suffer the most. Each of these is attacked by a particular species of mistletoe which gradually reduces the leaf surface of the tree and thus causes a great reduction in growth, both in height and in diameter. Excessive mistletoe infection of the lower branches of the tree may cause the upper portion of the crown to die, giving rise to what is commonly called staghead or spiketop. Severe infection throughout the entire crown often results in the death of the tree. Young seedlings from three to six weeks old may be killed within a comparatively short time after they become infected. Furthermore, trees weakened by mistletoe infection are much more susceptible to attacks from fungi and forest-tree insects.

Bulletin No. 360, a professional paper of the department in which the results of this study are reported, also contains suggestions for the control of the mistletoe in those sections where it causes serious economic loss.

Dwarf Hawthorns.

Among the dwarf hawthorns of the United States are a number of plants which promise to be of great value for the decoration of gardens, where, however, they are still almost unknown; indeed until a few years ago they had been almost entirely overlooked, or neglected by botanists and gardeners. One dwarf species, however, C. uniflora, was cultivated in England by Bishop Compton as early as 1713 and is still occasionally met with in gardens. It is a shrub a foot or two high with small leaves, and small flowers in one or rarely in two-flowered clusters, and green fruit. This little shrub grows in sandy soil from Pennsylvania to Alabama, usually in the region near the coast. It is now in flower in the arboretum and has no great value as a garden plant. It is interesting, however, as the type of one of the natural groups, the uniflora, in which the species of hawthorns are arranged. Another species of this group, C. Smithii, is also in flower. This little shrub is a native of western Pennsylvania and is distinguished by the serration of its leaves and by its two or three-flowered flower-clusters. Only one other dwarf species, C. intricata, was cultivated before 1900 when the arboretum began the systematic study of American hawthorns. This shrub was described in Europe in 1894 from a plant cultivated in the botanic garden at Copenhagen and has been made the type of the intricata group. The plants of this group are mostly shrubs from one to four feet high, although in the southern Appalachian region a few of the species become small trees. The largest number of species is found in Pennsylvania but these plants are not rare in southern New England, New York and Ontario. Only a few have been found in the region west of the Mississippi river and they do not occur in the coast region of the South Atlantic and Gulf states. These plants mostly flower late and have large and showy flowers, usually in few-flowered clusters, and large, red, yellow or green, late-ripening fruit. A number of the intricata are flowering in the arboretum this year where they can be seen on the lower side of the road at the eastern base of Peter's Hill, directly north of the crabapple collection. Crataegus triflora, the type of another group, the triflora, is also in flower here. This is a shrub with large leaves, flowers probably larger than those of any other dwarf hawthorn, and often an inch and a quarter in diameter, in from three to six, usually only three-flowered clusters, and large dull red fruit. A comparatively rare plant, C. triflora, grows on the bluffs of the Coosa river, at Rome, Ga., in one or two places in northern Alabama, and in northeastern Mississippi. —Arnold Arboretum Bulletin, June 15, 1916.

SATISFACTORY MID-SUMMER BUSINESS.

Trade holds up remarkably well for the season; in fact, the past week's business was very good. There was one funeral at which the call for flowers has surpassed any similar demand for many months. One local firm alone furnished 175 designs, some quite large; also, many bunches. A unique design was a large pillow of pink roses, lily of the valley and lilies, veiled with pink gauze, which was very effective. The supply of flowers is none too good and consists of Russell, Radiance, Aaron Ward, Kaiserin, Maryland and other roses from the summer stock. In the smaller flowers there are double altheas, snapdragons, hydrangeas, grandifloras, asters and gladioli, and just a small quantity of lily of the valley. From these all, the design work is done, with plenty of longifloras, album and rubrum lilies. All the planting has been done and in most establishments the benches are ready for the winter season.

NOTES.

The families of the Geny brothers are still summering at Old Jefferson Springs, but the manager, Leon Geny, comes in each day to look over things. Oscar Geny, whose health was somewhat impaired, is greatly improved.

The Joy Floral Company is overhauling many of its houses and has thoroughly renovated the boilers and heating apparatus, but the work of repair and improvement ever goes on.

M. C. D.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.—Charles Baum, father of Charles L. Baum, the well-known florist of this city, died July 10, aged 85 years. While the deceased was not actively interested in the florist business, he was a frequent visitor to his son's store and had a wide acquaintance among the trade.

Make the Garden More Beautiful

They have a special style of construction which, while very strong, does away with heavy shadow casting supports. This makes every King especially sunny and productive and enables you to give your garden an earlier start.

Then this special construction, noted for its graceful sweeping lines, can be adapted to suit any style architecture or landscape plan. The King is in itself the beauty spot of the garden.

Write for Bulletin No. 47—Send us a picture of your home. Tell us your own ideas, and let our experts prepare a sketch and plan showing just how a King can add dignity and grace to your garden—No obligation on your part of course.

BACTERIZED PEAT PLANT MANURE.

The Modern Fertilizer.

A few years ago the plant world was more or less electrified when it was told that the discovery of nitro-bactarine was such a wonderful fertilizer that even a slag heap could be made to produce an excellent crop of almost anything. Hopes thus engendered were not, however, realized, and the failure was eventually attributed to the fact that only one kind of bacteria had been captured for the purpose of inoculation. This was one called Bacillus radicola, a vigorous little chap obtained from the nodules of certain leguminous plants. Notwithstanding the first failures, the idea of harnessing the bacteria of the soil for the benefit of the horticulturist and agriculturist was not abandoned, and Professor Bottomley of King's College, London, Eng., worked energetically upon the principle of "if at first you do not succeed, try, try again."

And now it really does appear as if the persistent professor has attained success at last, after several years of continuous experiment. It appears there are several species of a micro-organism called azotobacter, but the one favored for horticultural purposes is named A. chroococcum. This is a kind of egg-shaped organism which has a marked tendency to form agglomeration, and flourishes best in a soil containing an abundance of lime. It also has the power apparently of being able not only to fix the nitrogen from the atmosphere, but also to transform nitrogenous bodies in the soil from unsuitable to available plant foods.

The two organisms mentioned when living apart from each other are in no way remarkable for their effect upon the soil or upon plants. But bring them together, as Professor Bottomley has done, and they seem to work so well that much larger quantities of nitrogen are secured from the atmosphere, and are thus made available for the benefit of plants.

The trouble has been to find some suitable medium in which these two micro-organisms can be cultivated to such an extent as to make them of practical use. At last Professor Bottomley has come to the conclusion that sterilized peat answers the purpose better than anything else. Peat is available in large quantities in various parts of the world, and being almost entirely organic in its nature, affords a suitable breeding ground for the Bacillus radicola and the Azotobacter chroococcum. The peat, however, must first of all be sterilized by exposure to steam heating, so that other, and perhaps pernicious bacteria may be destroyed, or at least rendered incapable of interfering with the work of the two special kinds of nitrogen-fixing organisms.

Quantities of this inoculated peat have been used for various kinds of plants, both in the open air and under glass, and the writer has seen some of the marvelous results of the experiments. Indeed, he has himself carried out experiments with the bacterized peat (now known as "humogen"), and while the results obtained in the open ground have not been very marked on the whole, there can be no doubt at all as to the conspicuous success of the material under glass, especially in the case of pot plants. A series of severe tests was carried out in the Royal Gardens, Kew, under the supervision of Curator Watson, a pronounced skeptic as to the fads of the laboratory gardener as a rule. Such plants as zonal pelargoniums, coleus, begonias, carnations, lilliums, fuchsias, crotons, radishes, maize, etc., were cultivated with and without the bacterized peat, and in every case there was a wonderful increase in growth accompanied by earlier fruition. Various quantities were incorporated with the soil, and the curious point was that the small doses seemed to give quite as beneficial results as quantities two to four times greater. This of course shows what an economic fertilizer humogen is likely to be. In connection with the particular experiments at Kew, it must be understood that other cultural conditions were as perfect as possible. The temperature was regulated, and water was given by trained men, while the compost was mixed and drained in accordance with the nature of the various plants.

It is obvious that such conditions cannot possibly prevail with plants cultivated in the open air. There it is not possible to secure the elaborate drainage accorded to pot plants, nor can the temperature be regulated by day and night; while it may often happen that the soil may become too wet at one period, and too dry at another, without the cultivator being able to rectify the conditions. These disadvantages must in a measure interfere with the work of the harnessed bacteria, and the only apparent way in which one might possibly assist them is by deeper cultivation. This would not only improve the drainage system, but would also increase the temperature of the soil, and liberate larger quantities of foods to be operated upon by the bacteria in the humogen.

One very interesting theory of life arising out of Professor Bottomley's experiments is that some mysterious powers of life beyond the bacteria themselves is essential to bring about the best results of growth. These mysterious powers have been called vitamins or auximones, and are regarded in the light of accessory food bodies. It has been found that the terrible "sleeping disease" or beri-beri, in human beings has been caused through constantly eating milled rice—that is, rice from which the outer layers have been artificially removed. It was noticed that those who ate unmilled rice were exempt from the sleeping sickness disease. To make quite sure of the matter, the victims of beri-beri were cured merely by the addition of a water extract of the rice polishings to their diet, or by adding the rice polishings to the diet. Similar results were obtained with fowls. Those fed entirely on milled or polished rice rapidly lost weight, and developed a nervous disease; while the birds fed on the natural unmilled rice were immune from the disease. Further, those suffering from the disease were cured by the addition of the rice polishings themselves, or in the form of a water extract. From these experiments it is concluded that something similar is responsible for the extraordinary results obtained from bacterized peat in the cultivation of pot plants under identical conditions.

There is one point, however, that requires to be cleared up. So far plants fed on bacterized peat, although remarkable when compared with the untreated ones, cannot be said to be any finer, bigger, better or healthier specimens—indeed, on the whole they are not to be compared with plants of the same nature to be seen in hundreds at almost every market nursery in England. Must we therefore assume that without any scientific knowledge of bacteria or auximones, that the practical gardener has been able to produce in his soil those very conditions which result in the production of the finest specimens? Is it possible that the real gardener knows, as it were by instinct, exactly what his plants require (without being able to give a Greek or Latin name to the various factors), and that the highly successful cultivator is born and not made?

THE RETAIL TRADE

The Aster as a Cut Flower.

Now that there is a full assortment of asters in good white, light and dark pink, and shades of lavender to dark purple, an abundant supply of material is at hand for almost all cut flower arrangements. With such a variety of form and color as that flower affords, it should be made a feature at this time and kept to the front as the flower of the season; most appropriate to be used as a cut flower for room or table decoration, to send to brighten the sick room, or a box, nicely arranged, as an acknowledgement of courtesies received. As about 80 per cent of the demand in summer is for funeral flowers, the aster will be found to be the most suitable flower for the work. The size of the larger flowered varieties makes them useful and economical for filling in where a solid ground is desired. A large closely made, white or purple wreath, relieved with spray or nicely arranged cluster-like formation of other colors of asters in the center or along one side, when tied with a suitable ribbon, makes one of the most satisfactory of designs. There are many different combinations that may be used in the make-up of the wreath, which is without doubt now the most popular of all set pieces. The arrangement can be very simple, as in the small size, but in the larger arrangements, in the full round or crescent forms, with the addition of palm leaves, they can be made very elaborate, as when placed on an easel or as a standing wreath, they become the most conspicuous in almost any group of design. All such work is possible with the proper manipulation of the aster alone.

With the addition of other flowers of the season, there are added grace and color combinations that are artistic to a degree and command the limit in price. Cattleyas and lily of the valley, arranged on a solid wreath of purple asters make a very rich combination. Auratum lilies on such a background, where the piece is a large one, as in a standing design, are most elegant and showy. Easter lilies on a purple or lavender wreath, with a bunch of lily of the valley or a cattleya or two at the ribbon are very effective. Solid white wreaths, with an embellishment of white and pink Japanese lilies are very satisfactory and there are many other flowers that can be used in similar combinations. Loosely constructed wreaths of asters in their own color combinations make moderate priced and very pleasing pieces. In connection with the already prepared magnolia wreaths, for quick work, quite elaborate designs can be arranged in a very short time; pieces that will carry long distances and show up well when the boxes are opened. This is a very important feature in the wreaths, when some flowers do not keep from one day to another.

As a flower for the popular spray, there is nothing better than the aster with its long and yielding, yet efficient stem; it is one of the best for this purpose. The little cluster of only a dozen flowers, with the chiffon bow, is a beauty and all sufficient to the modest purchaser. The large flowered and long stemmed specials and the full, loosely tasselled ostrich flowered sorts, lead themselves to much more elaborate work and many handsome sprays, backed with palm leaves to hold up and add to their effectiveness are seen at this time. The double spray, so large that it can be used as a casket cover, is very efficient and satisfactory where something of importance to represent a number of persons is desired. Two large loosely constructed sprays, with palm leafed background, are tied together at the stems so as to cover a space six feet in length. The center is then filled in, the stems of the bunches making a good foundation, with the desired flowers stemmed on match sticks or pointed skewers as some call them. Many beautiful combinations are possible here. If for an elderly person, the sprays are of all purple, with the center of cattleyas and lily of the valley, or of Lilium auratum or of white roses and lily of the valley. Easter lilies are also good, while the white or lighter gladioli, are very efficient. Before such a piece is finished, the ribbon should be placed and the final touch of the choicest flowers placed where they are sure to show. A handsome ribbon adds much to the appearance of such a piece and should be so arranged to take the place of some of the flowers and not to cover them up as is too often the case. A looping of narrow ribbon all around such a piece, when in position, with a few flowers tied, makes a more elaborate finish and is at times a worth while addition.

In most sprays the ribbon is an important feature; in many shops it is tied around the bunch. This I think is not as good as to make the bow first and attach it with a narrow piece of ribbon. Many just tie it on with the wire that holds the bow together; it is very easy to work a wired bow when one once gets the "hang" of it, but to make the milliners' tie is much more difficult, but worth learning, and like many other apparently difficult things, quite easy when you know how. A very pretty finish is to place a choice flower—orchid, rose, lily, or few sprigs of lily of the valley and maidenhair or Sweetheart roses in the center of the bow, after it is attached. Such little touches are sure to be noticed and favorably commented on. Where the card is attached to the ribbons, a small bud, sprig of lily of the valley, or a sweet pea spray, caught in with the pin, which by the way should be one of the pearl headed kind, adds a finish that is well worth the trifling cost.

Very good lettering can be made of the purple aster by wrapping (with a fine stemming wire on to a long single or double No. 23 wire) bunches of the petals which can be tied to any desired width. Square or script letters can then be formed of these strands and after being trimmed with the scissors make real flower inscriptions.

Overhead Decoration.

In stores having lofty ceilings, overhead space often presents a vacant, empty appearance, being difficult to fill or decorate satisfactorily. Hanging baskets are tried, but while presentable at first, soon begin to look shabby, mainly from neglect in watering, they being difficult to reach and being immediately out of range of the eye are easily forgotten until damaged beyond relief. All such baskets should contain a zinc pan, which will hold the drip, the water being taken up as the plant dries out. The matter of their attention while occupying the out of the way place, is solved by hanging the baskets in pairs, attached to either end of a rope over pulleys in the ceiling, directly over each basket. In this way one balances the other one, being pulled down to be watered, and raising which, lowers the other for similar attention. Large, round, rattan or wicker inverted beehive shaped baskets, or others with cone points, are now made and suspended by jack chains. They are zinc lined. These baskets are admirable for large Scott, Boston or Harris ferns. Nothing could be more graceful than well grown ferns suspended in these baskets where there is space for them. They are especially suitable for skylight openings; where there is only room for one it can be balanced with a sash weight which need not be seen.

ENGLISH IVY BASKETS.

Baskets of English ivy are also graceful when suspended in this way. They should always be zinc lined to catch any drip. Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia, Pa., filled a number of ivy baskets this season and found them very good sellers with the trade. Asparagus Sprengerii is also a beautiful stock fixture; if well arranged and protected from the dust, so as to be ready to show it may perhaps catch a committee who do not know what they want. With this foundation the addition of a handful of flowers held here and there proves very effective, and the order is clinched. This design seems especially appropriate for an elderly person. All kinds of flowers can be used, but violets, or in the summer, purple asters, with center of valley and orchids makes a very choice piece. An ivy cross, while a little tedious to make, when nicely done is much admired. Sprays of the small leaved variety relieve the sameness. The addition of a few orchids or other choice ferns in the center will give it character.

WITH THE GROWERS

Wm. Sim, Expert in Crop Succession.

The sweet pea continues to gain in popularity as a florist's flower. For years it was a welcome addition in the spring, both from under glass and the sturdy stocky blooms of the outside vines. Since the introduction of the orchid type by Anton C. Zvolanek, W. Atlee Burpee & Co. and others, to whom so much credit is due for their untiring work in development of size and coloring of this splendid strain, a wonderful impetus was given to their culture, they now being brought to such perfection that the recent introductions are as popular with the public as any other flower that seeks recognition. Their great variety of color, from purest white, through dainty tints of pink and lavender to reds, orange, lavender and purple, allow for combinations and artistic color effects that satisfy the most fastidious. No longer do they have to be crowded together, as was the case with the older grandifloras, as in the new type, stems 12 to 18 inches in length are the rule with the early cutting. Their earliness of bloom, getting them in the market for the Christmas holidays, and from that time on, has made the sweet pea one of the most valuable forcing flowers.

Wm. Sim, of Cliftondale, Mass., was one of the first to force sweet peas. He was successful with the old type, and welcomed the orchid variety with open arms, being one of the first to grow it in quantity. His specialty was violets, and for many years his Princess of Wales has been the choice of the Boston market; the sweet peas were at first a side crop, but now are of as much if not more importance than the violets planted in the same houses and coming into flower with the early warm spring days when the violets are about over. Mr. Sim endeavors to keep his glass in active service all the time; his products are violets from November until Easter, sweet peas from the middle of January in earliest houses until Memorial day, the vines then being removed and tomatoes, variety, Comet, as far advanced as possible in 4½-inch pots, some of them in blossom, take their place, the crop from these being gathered from early July until fall.

The soil is not changed in the houses, but in the fall is covered with three inches of cow manure that has been out of doors all winter where it becomes mellowed and made friable with the frost, which freezing, Mr. Sim believes, is very necessary. This is dug in deeply. The sweet peas are sown from September to November, so as to get a succession of crops. Each seed is handled separately, planted two and a half inches apart and the same in depth, with the rows five feet apart to allow plenty of light for the violets. As the vines get up they are supported between strings running from one inch cypress sticks or posts set about eight feet apart the length of the houses; they are kept well tied in, even up to a height of eight or ten feet. The houses run northeast and southwest; they are 30 feet in width, even span, and 18 feet to ridge pole, with a height of eight feet at the eaves.

The violets are divided as soon as through flowering, young vigorous crowns being selected, and after all the leaves are removed, planted close together in the north beds of the houses they are grown in, where they get the least sun. They soon recover and make new growth and roots. They are set out in the field about the middle of May. The Skinner system of overhead irrigation removes all danger of drought. The water supply from an artesian well is forced through the pipes by a pump run by an electric motor. Mr. Sim finds this very efficient and economical. The violets are housed in October after they have had several quite heavy frosts, which appears necessary to properly ripen the wood and set the buds. The temperature is kept low, just above freezing, as if started into growth the crop would be ruined. Warm, soft weather in the fall, which is apt to start a new growth, while still in the field, is very injurious, as to insure the best results the plants must be hard, with well ripened wood.

The sweet peas make a slow growth at first, and do not shade or interfere with the violets until late in the season, when these latter begin to go off crop. Growing the two together does interfere somewhat with the efficiency, but the combined results are very much greater than if the house was given over to either for a separate crop. To get the earliest crops of sweet peas the temperature is raised, which shortens the life of the violets; the vines from which the first flowers were picked the middle of January were about done May 15. Houses sown later were then in full crop, while a large range from the last sowing are just coming in and will run until July. As a catch crop after the last houses of sweet peas are done, White Spine cucumbers from pots, as far advanced as possible, are planted and prove very satisfactory, there being a good demand for them in the Boston market.

Mr. Sim says the reason sweet peas drop their buds is the variations in the temperature and atmosphere. When the buds begin to show the temperature is gradually raised to 50° at night and 67° in daytime, and later in spring about 60° daytime. In cloudy weather in winter they will drop buds below 67°; there must be a lively atmosphere, but it takes experience to be able to feel the right conditions. When the air seems too heavy, run a pipe and give a little ventilation. They are never troubled with buds dropping at the Sims establishment, although it would be easy to bring about conditions that would cause them to fall. The varieties grown are Christmas Pink or Blanche Ferry, Mrs. Skaach, Yarrawa, Venus, Orchid Beauty, White Spencer, Orange Orchid and Apple Blossom. A dark blue seedling of his own, not named, is a good one. He thinks Venus the best shaped flower. New orchid varieties will in the future be developed from seed fertilized by bees, as the keel of the orchid is sometimes open, while in the old grandiflora type it was always sealed. He does not save his own seed, preferring to sell all the flowers and buy from those who make a specialty of growing the seed in favorable climatic conditions.

Pansies are also a specialty here, Mr. Sim having worked up a superb strain of these popular flowers; in a long house, nine feet wide and six feet high, there are two beds with a walk down the center that were wonderful, with their wealth of fine bloom. He had been picking from these all winter, getting good length of stem, which counts so much in this flower. The soil is made very rich with horse manure. The seed is sown in the middle of June, in frames, and the beds covered with cheese cloth about 12 inches above. The plants are housed in the latter part of September, and kept very cool—down to 40° at night. A large block in the field for seed, for which Mr. Sim finds a good demand, were a wonderful sight, being so covered with flowers as to almost completely hide the foliage. A plant which he has found very profitable is the yellow polyanthus or primrose. He imported some plants a year or two ago, and has worked up a fine stock. This yellow primrose has been a feature of the Boston market the past winter. From 7,000 plants in one house, he cut 6,000 bunches for Easter alone. He says it has paid him better than anything he has ever grown. The posts supporting this house also held sweet peas, which had furnished quite a crop of flowers without interfering with the other plants.

The primulas are divided much the same as violets, and grown during the summer in field beds about four feet in width but must be covered outside with a cheese cloth about 18 inches above the plants to give room for free movement of the hose underneath, as they have to be sprayed frequently in hot weather. They are planted in the house in ground beds like violets in late September, and flower from Christmas on to May 15. Mr. Sim has been crossing the primula and has set out 20,000 seedlings from which he expects good results. The heating plant consists of boilers with 500 horse power and were among the first to be built on the surface of the ground, Mr. Sim having a great antipathy to the old fashioned boiler pits, the condensation being brought back and returned to the boilers by pumps.

The whole establishment consists of 50 acres. A large block of this contains one million gladioli; some of the space between the greenhouses is taken up with beds of these for the earliest cutting, but most are grown in the field. The varieties are America, Mrs. Frances King, Halley, Augusta, Europe, Panama, Willie Wigman and Myrtle. Fifty thousand Darwin tulips, planted outside, were coming in just right for Memorial day. Twelve acres are planted in sweet corn, the variety being White Cory. This sells readily in the Boston market. Mr. Sim's residence, on high ground in front of a large rocky bluff, is splendidly located, affording a grand view of the whole place, and the ocean, which is only about one mile away. Handsome evergreens and hedges adorn the driveway and lawn, while pillars of climbing roses afford a setting for the rear. These latter must be a grand sight when in flower. Taken altogether, this is one of the most successful establishments of its kind in the country, the intensive culture in the succession of crops keeping the houses working all the season round, while the outside sections fill a gap in the flower supply in summer. Mr. Sim is a thorough grower and business like in everything, the whole place reflecting his constant attention. He is also interested in promoting horticulture, exhibiting at all the national and local exhibitions, and has won many certificates, medals and other prizes.

F. G. Strout's Carnations at Biddeford, Me.

Some call them "pinks", those who grow them always talk about their carnations, and some dreamers say they are the "divine flower." To the practical grower, however, it is what the returns figure out that counts—just the common, small flower does not satisfy him, as he knows it will not show up well in the returns. With some growers, $2 a hundred average the entire season is satisfactory, but others look higher, and in some cases the crop averages from $3 to $3.50. To get these latter figures, however, there must be good business methods from start to finish, everything possible in up-to-date cultural methods, selection of varieties that are most in demand, and then their disposal in the best markets.

F. G. Strout, of Biddeford, Me., took up the culture of carnations as a diversion, some years ago; he found pleasure and profit in the work and it is now a matter of business with him, and there are few places in the United States where carnations are grown with more skill, and brought to greater perfection than here. At the time of our visit, July 21, there were two tables of Matchless that for quality and size of blooms, length of stem, and vigor of plants, were as good as seen with many growers at their best season. These were in a house, iron construction, 50x200 feet, which Mr. Strout said, while it was expensive, he felt convinced it was the cheapest in the end, and always satisfactory.

Asked as to the best cultural methods, he said he considered the matter of soil very important and always prepared the supply a year ahead. He believes he gives more thought and money to the preparation of the soil than any other branch of the business. It is composed of old sod and one-third cow manure, laid out in the field in small windrows, so that the frost is sure to get to the center and is turned several times during the season to break up any lumps and thoroughly mix it together. The soil should be very friable, as the delicate roots of the carnation will not go into a lump of any kind, even of manure, so that to get the best results it must be made easy for the roots to get at and take up the nutriment. It may sound strange, but the soil that is taken out of a house after a season's use, may be better than that that is put in for the new crop. Certain necessary elements are gone, but plants grow wonderfully in this soil out in the field, where used as a top dressing. Some chemical action has taken place by the end of the season in the house and the roots cannot get the required food to sustain their vigor and productiveness. Where roses and other plants are kept from one season to another, the top soil is removed as far as possible and replaced with new. Wallace Pierson, Mr. Strout said, told him that he secured good results with washing out the undesirable elements with water, which seemed to dissolve and carry away objectionable particles and revived the soil, getting it back to the loose, open condition so that the water, air and the roots can go through. When he thought they needed a stimulant he used a light top dressing of a little bone and sheep manure and sometimes tankage, mixed with soil. This he prepared and turned several times at intervals to get the heat out. Wood ashes are also good mixed with soil.

The best varieties to grow depend on the local conditions and principally on the cultural methods of the various growers. His best varieties are Matchless and White Wonder, which were so far the best whites. Matchless was a fine shipper. White Enchantress, he found, did not ship well.

White Winsor is also one he banked on, it doing splendidly here, being a great producer. He grows this inside, the young plants never being allowed to get a check, being planted in a bed from the small pots, where they grew rapidly and from there are lifted carefully and set out on the benches in July.

The plants are "staked" with a round wire support at first; then the wires are stretched the length of the table as the plants grow, until the third or top is placed, the strings of white cotton being run crosswise about six inches apart. To stiffen this arrangement, Mr. Strout uses slight bamboo stakes, cut the height and width of the wires as they were stretched. These are fastened with Cort's wire stake clips. This makes a rigid frame work that is always trim and in place, and is easily removed when the beds are changed. A handy contrivance to gather up these support wires is a bucket, arranged on a spindle placed at one end of the bed on which the lengths were wound up and tied separately, so as to be in order when wanted again.

Pink Delight is considered the best light pink, on account of its good keeping qualities, many stores always putting it first in their orders. Alice, another good pink, is a very pretty flower and a splendid producer. Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., has done this variety better than anywhere he has ever seen it. Dornier's Nancy he thought one of the best of the new light pinks. Beacon is considered the most reliable red, and for a new one, Champion looked very promising. Mr. Strout gets the plants out into the field as early as weather conditions will permit. A little frost does not hurt them; they had been frozen down to the ground with him, but soon revived and came back bushy and much stronger.

As to insects, it is one everlasting struggle; syringing is best for red spider, but one has to be careful and not get the beds too wet. Nicotine is a good insecticide, but it seems hard to get it with the necessary strength. Smoking is also resorted to. Anything that will affect the bloom or luster of the stem or foliage is injurious to the plants, and is carefully guarded against.

Mr. Strout believes carnations to be a more conservative crop than roses, there being a more general demand for them, at least with his trade. His season lasts 11 months in the year and his market is within a hundred miles or more in all directions. Carnations, however, will carry much farther. He secured seven first prizes at the American Carnation Society's show in St. Louis out of eight entries. This test in competition with so many good growers of the middle west, proved, he believes, that his blooms had about all the good qualities one could get out of the flower. Mr. Strout strives for quality rather than quantity. Average prices the season through, rather than the high extremes of holiday seasons, are more satisfactory to his regular trade. While some growers are satisfied with $2, his results ran considerably over $3, due possibly in part to his longer season. Square foot returns from the beds depend on how close the stock was planted, one row more to a table meant more flowers, but at the expense of quality, and as he is after quality, so that nearly every flower graded high, he preferred to give all the room necessary. He planted five rows on a bench of four feet and eight inches apart. Some varieties, such as Benora and Pink Delight, stand closer planting than others. He has secured 36 Enchantress Supreme to a square foot, the table averaging this amount. White Ward has produced 19 for the same space and Matchless, 19 flowers to a plant. Mr. Strout always strives for the best, as what he called fun went with it. Satisfaction of achievement and then nearly every flower brought the top price or was first in demand on a dull market. While most of the tables were being changed, several of White Wonder and Matchless had been left to supply the summer demand and were seen in splendid condition with a wonderfully clean foliage, producing large flowers on stems from 30 to 42 inches in length. The accompanying photo is of these beds, taken July 21.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston, Mass.

New England is noted for its many beautiful estates, a great number of which are to be found in the neighborhood of Boston. Here is also the famous Arnold Arboretum, with its wonderful collection of ornamental trees and flowering shrubs, many of which are natives of China, Japan and Asia, collected in these foreign climes expressly for the arboretum. Many of these have been found to do as well here as in their native habitat and are especially valuable for lawn decoration. Requests have been constantly made for plants, which it has been impossible for the authorities of the arboretum to supply. They took the matter up with R. & J. Farquhar & Co., who now propagate and offer the most desirable of the novelties to be found here. A catalogue just issued by them contains a list of more new and rare plants of this character than has ever been offered before at any one time.

Lilium regale (myriophyllum) introduced first under the name myriophyllum, was brought from China by this firm about six years ago. It is truly a wonderful species, proving itself under every test to be extremely hardy, very floriferous, free from disease and one of the most beautiful of garden lilies. Its graceful yellow anthers, which against the white petalled background add so much to the beauty of the flower, do not drop or shed the pollen, which in nearly all other lilies is a great objection. It forces equally well with the longiflorum, making a beautiful specimen in a pot. At their nursery is a block of over 300,000 plants, which, during July, were a mass of flowers—a most gorgeous sight. The stems are sufficiently rigid to hold the flowers upright without stakes; each stalk carries from two to as high as six blooms, according to the age of the plant. Old established bulbs have carried as high as 38 good flowers to one stem. It is propagated readily from seed and is destined to be the garden lily of the country.

The Dedham Nurseries of the firm, containing 70 acres, are a model of up to date efficiency. Their commodious packing shed, 50x360, with its high half glass roof, affording floods of light, its adjoining and convenient office building, the immense storage cellars and sheds, one of concrete, 50x140, another surface structure 60x200, are very important and necessary fixtures. Railroad sidings admit of shipments of coal, manure and other staples being hauled economically. A large shed containing sheep manure brought in carload lots from far western Montana, is a feature. Several greenhouses, each 56x200, of King construction, were wonderfully light. Cement tables of very light weight, but strong, as seen here, should supplant wooden structures everywhere. Supporting posts are 3x3 with side or edges and bottom of tables one inch in thickness. Mr. Farquhar believes that $\frac{3}{4}$ inch would be sufficient. One inch holes near the edges of the tables, plugged with sphagnum moss, give the necessary drainage. A large range of small houses on sloping ground, were efficient and economical from every point. They run at right angles from either side of a wide shed, and were eight feet apart to allow for snow in winter. These structures were 12 feet in width with concrete walls. The front pitch was slightly longer than the back, allowing the iron post supporting the ridge to stand on the edge of the path, over which the ventilators opened. We have never seen better planned houses. Down one side of the commodious shed was a number of concrete bins for soil, by aid of which there is stored a large quantity for winter use.

An immense stock of hardy herbaceous plants is grown here; they are seen in the greatest variety. Choice evergreen and ornamental shade trees also occupy acres of ground. An interesting feature was a block of over 300,000 strawberry plants in pots, splendid looking stock. Rhododendrons are grown in large quantities from seed; millions of them seemed to be in the baby boxes. They are grown here until large enough to be set outside, when they are sent to their Cape Cod nurseries to be grown into salable size.

A hybrid buddleia, between officinalis and asiatica, is a novelty as it is the first successful cross to have been made. It has been named Farquharii.

A beautiful flower which should be a great acquisition for the trade at Easter is Hemerocallis aurantiaca major. Its individual blooms are as large as any longiflorum lily, and are borne in great clusters of buds, which open to the last one. The blossom has great substance and lasts for several days. It is a gorgeous yellow in color. There are also many other interesting and valuable plants; those grown from the Arnold Arboretum stock being especially noteworthy. The business here is very satisfactory. One order filled this spring, of which they are quite proud, was for 40,000 bedding plants furnished for the planting of a large estate in Ohio. Altogether it is a most interesting and instructive place for any visitor of the craft, particularly if he has the good fortune to be shown around by the genial J. K. M. L. Farquhar personally, who appears to have the name and good qualities of every plant instantly available.

Mealy Bug on Begonias.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

We would like to have a little information about how to rid Cincinnati begonias of mealy bugs. Our plants are covered with these bugs and we cannot get rid of them.

W.

In reply to your inquiry regarding mealy bug on begonias, will say that we use nicotine according to directions on bottle, spraying regularly once every week. This keeps the pest pretty well in check and we have but little trouble. If neglected, the bugs would soon destroy the plants.

ORCHID NOTES.

Orchid Fly.

The following directions for the detection and eradication of the cattleya or orchid fly are reproduced from the Bulletin of the Missouri Botanical Garden where some considerable study has been made of this pest:

DETECTION AND ERADICATION.

When importations arrive from South America it is almost impossible to find any traces of the pests except in the developed pseudo-bulbs, from which they have made their escape. However, it is advisable to take the precaution of fumigating with hydrocyanic gas, as there is always the possibility of the winged insect having developed in transit. After the plants have become established and the dormant eyes begin to show activity, daily examination is essential, since this is the critical period when the larvae are feeding and may be detected. The first fumigation should not be relied upon as final, because if the young growths contain eggs, it is not possible to reach and destroy them with gas.

The presence of the insect in the young growths may be detected by their abnormal shape. Under normal conditions they are strap-shaped and slightly rounded at the base. If the growths are infested with the larvae or pupae, they will appear unnaturally large, rounded and gradually tapering to a point, especially when they are about two or three inches in height. If these characteristics are noticed, there should not be the slightest hesitancy in cutting the growths off close to the parent pseudo-bulb and burning them, because each contains eight to ten small black pupae which will eventually develop into adult or winged insects. Commercial growers would no doubt hesitate to cut these young shoots because of losing the blooms. However, if they are left, the growths are finally too crippled to develop flowers and an opportunity is given the insect to reproduce. The parent pseudo-bulb is always supplied with dormant eyes or growths which will soon develop after the infested growth has been removed, and will produce flowers almost as fine as the lead, although the flowering period will naturally be a few weeks later.

CYANIDE FUMIGATION.

Even if the orchid fly has been located during its early stages, there is still a possibility that some have been overlooked and have developed into winged insects. In any case it is advisable to fumigate with hydrocyanic gas weekly until the pseudo-bulbs are well developed. This will certainly eradicate the pest in the final stage, preventing the possibility of reproduction.

Careful preparation should be made for fumigating, evening being the best time for the work. The greenhouse and plants should be kept dry the entire preceding day, the plants not to be watered under any circumstances, because of the succulent nature of the leaves. The cubic feet of space in the house should be exactly determined, the ratio to be one ounce of cyanide of potassium (98 to 100 per cent pure) and one ounce of commercial sulphuric acid in three ounces of water, to 2,000 cubic feet. Earthenware jars should be used, as glass jars will break when filled with the sulphuric acid. The water should be poured into the jars first, then the sulphuric acid added, and the jars placed at equal distances throughout the house. Before adding the cyanide, the steam valves should be regulated to carry the necessary temperature throughout the night. When these preparations are complete, the cyanide (previously wrapped in tissue paper to prevent contact with the hands) should be dropped into the solution by two men—one on each side of the house—and the house immediately vacated and locked, and signs attached warning against entrance.

Next morning the doors should be left open for a few minutes, and then the top ventilators opened to allow the remaining fumes to escape. It should be borne in mind that cyanide is a dangerous poison, and the utmost care is necessary in using it in fumigation.

Summer Care of Orchids.

Unfortunately, the present season has not been of the best for growing orchids. Lack of the usual amount of sunshine, with continued cold weather, cannot fail to have some effect on their growth, especially in the northern sections. Weather, such as the past spring has furnished, has been out of the question for any orchid grower to attempt to follow the precedents of any previous season, owing to the excessive rains and moisture that have been general, and under such conditions the usual commercial varieties have been best left without watering for a week at a time, nothing being necessary but to open and close the ventilators.

Now that the new growths are well advanced, a little time spent in setting over and spacing the plants out will help the new bulbs greatly. Cattleya labiata is naturally most advanced, and the plants will need lots of water at the roots. About twice a week pour water over the leaves and body of the plants, giving them a good soaking; also, give them plenty of air, and then leave them alone till they dry out again. The same may be said of Dendrobium Phalaenopsis, but see that these plants stand in a very sunny position, with not too much shading on the roof glass above them. D. formosum enjoys the same treatment, and will also take water at the roots almost every day from now on until the flowers are cut, and later bulbs to enable them to send out their blooms when needed. However, as warmer and more genial weather is in sight, the outlook is brighter, so every attention should be given to renewing any shading that may have been washed off.

Perhaps the most essential thing to look after is to see that all plants that are growing rapidly receive plenty of unnecessary labor is wasted in caring for orchids, when conditions can so easily be made to do without damping and syringing the plants twice or three times daily. Most florists admit they know nothing whatever about the growing of orchids, yet it behooves them to take notice of a few facts regarding these plants, for in not a few cases florists have entrusted a valuable lot of new imported stock to so-called orchid growers, who have no more practical knowledge than the florists themselves. The reason, no doubt, exists in the common error that orchids must be treated differently from other plants. For many years this idea has prevailed, so that in comparison to the cost of producing other flowers, the man who grew and disposed of orchids had a little gold mine for his outlay. True, at times during the past year the prices received for orchid cut blooms has been low compared to other years, still even at this, from the investment made in buying these plants, the market is good for years to come to those who use them wisely.

C. Y. PRIPEDÉ.

Missouri Botanical Garden.

Resume of an address delivered by Dr. George T. Moore, director, before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

The cultivation of plants for their healing qualities by the monks of the middle ages is generally supposed to have been the forerunner of the modern botanical garden, although these mediæval gardens doubtless had their origin in others of greater antiquity. In a recent treatise on embroidery and lace by a Frenchman, the ingenious theory is advanced that the idea of a botanical garden originated during the sixteenth century in France, when the demand for flowers and fruits to serve as patterns for the designing of brocades caused the horticulturist, Gene Robin, to open a little garden, with conservatories in which he cultivated strange and little known varieties. This proved to be such a success that Henry IV purchased the establishment and under the name of "The Garden of the King," it became crown property. In 1626 the learned Guy de Brosse sugshould always receive a liberal supply, even when it is at rest.

Oncidium varicosum is now swelling up; even now the flower spikes are showing; so, of course, they will take an abundance of water whenever they show signs of dryness, which will be every three or four days, providing there is not too much shade on the glass and a nice airy atmosphere. Sometimes small snails will eat the flower spikes just as they appear. A good way to get rid of these pests is to place the whole plant in lime water for a few minutes, for it is hard to find them otherwise.

Calanthes will now take plenty of water, and are also benefited by liquid manure just as the roots commence to run through the soil. Unfortunately, this species rarely succeeds with many growers, but when well grown it is found to be quite profitable, as the pink variety, C. Veitchii, is at its best at Christmas, and should be useful, as the demand for spray spikes is increasing.

Cattleya Harrisonæ is just now coming into bloom. This is a variety that generally fits in between the spring flowering sorts and C. Labiata. It is beautiful when well grown, but few have succeeded with this variety for many years, as it has a tendency to deteriorate. It is somewhat different from the labiata section, both in the shape of its flowers and its growth. The bulbs are long and slender, and appear to succeed best if kept wet at the roots when at rest, which is just opposite to the C. labiata section, yet it is a most useful cattleya to have.

All other commercial species are now sending up good strong growths, but may need every encouragement from now on to mature and ripen the water all over them at intervals of three or four days. At the same time they must receive plenty of air; this prevents the surroundings from becoming sour and pots becoming green and slimy. A suggestion is here made to those who have been in the habit of keeping their plants in a wet, sour condition all the time, and meeting with only moderate success. Turn around and do entirely the opposite, and see the difference with less labor and still less worry.

Many years' experience with various methods has proved that very much gested that medical students might study these plants without interfering with the designers of embroidery and tapestry. Hence the first Jardin des Plantes, with its natural history museum, came into existence. This institution served so many excellent purposes that other countries rapidly attempted to duplicate it—the author concluding with the naive statement, “Who would have thought it possible for embroidery thus to come to the aid of science?”

Unfortunately for this notion as to the origin of botanical gardens, the Jardin des Plantes was founded by Louis XIII in 1610 and although the æsthetic study of plants and of flowers must undoubtedly have appealed to those who visited the garden, just as it does today, it seems quite certain that such collections of living plants were primarily brought together because of their real or supposed medicinal value.

The function of a botanical garden as an aid to scientific teaching and research did not develop much, if at all, prior to the middle of the seventeenth century, when those at Bologna, Montpellier, Leiden, Paris and Upsala became more or less noteworthy in this respect. The taste for ornamental and decorative plants had meanwhile slowly been gaining ground, as well as the desire to cultivate rare and unusual species. Many persons of wealth and influence, during the eighteenth century, became, through the employment of men skilled in botany and horticulture, generous patrons of science. The world was searched for new and rare plants which were brought to Europe for cultivation, and magnificent volumes describing these collections were published. The older gardens were essentially private institutions, but later many of the existing establishments, with an increasing number of new ones, were opened to the public, either without charge or for a small admission fee.

The modern botanical garden has a number of functions which did not appear simultaneously, but were a matter of gradual development. Beginning with the utilitarian idea, there were added the æsthetic, the scientific and the educational, using these words in the broadest sense. Depending largely upon local conditions, these functions have been given different degrees of prominence, some gardens being essentially æsthetic, some mainly scientific, and others combining in about equal proportions all of the elements mentioned. Certainly the modern tendency is to make the botanical garden something more than a “museum of living plants” which, however necessary, is to a large degree uninteresting and lacking in its appeal to the public.

Most botanical gardens in this country are either connected with some institution of learning, or maintained wholly or in part by the municipality. In this respect the Missouri botanical garden is unique, since it has no connection whatsoever with the city, paying taxes on all its revenue-producing property and and only indirectly being associated with Washington University, through the graduate school of botany.

The garden as it now exists is the development of the private garden of Henry Shaw, who came to this country from England in 1818 and soon after settled in St. Louis. Acquiring a fortune within about 20 years, Mr. Shaw devoted the larger part of the remaining 50 years of his life to the enlargement and management of this garden, which, although freely opened to the public, remained his private property until his death. Seeking the advice of such men as Dr. George Engelmann, Sir William and Sir Joseph Hooker, and Professor Asa Gray,

Mr. Shaw, in a will, remarkable for its breadth and farsightedness, left to a self-perpetuating board of trustees the administration of his property and, through a director, the management of the garden which he himself designated as the Missouri botanical garden.

It may truly be said that practically all the various aspects of the work of this garden at the present time, whether they be scientific, educational, or æsthetic, were conceived by Mr. Shaw and provided for in a very definite manner by his will. As funds have become available, various aspects of the work have been enlarged and it is possible that in some respects the development has proceeded further than Mr. Shaw imagined possible, but the germ of the idea may be found in his will and had he lived to the present time it seems more than likely that his own management would have produced practically the institution as it now exists.

The garden comprises about 125 acres in the heart of the city, about 60 acres of which are as yet unimproved. It is in no sense a part of the park system, being enclosed within a stone wall or fence, and pleasure vehicles are not admitted. In addition to the ordinary landscape treatment of such a garden, including the usual plantations of trees, hardy shrubs, and flower beds, there are also special outdoor collections comprising such features as the so-called 'North American tract' in which are included a systematic arrangement of a considerable number of plants hardy in the vicinity of St. Louis; a small arboretum; a medicinal garden; a large Italian garden, laid out on strictly formal lines; a so-called "Linnean garden," which takes its name from one of the older greenhouses, called by Mr. Shaw the "Linnean house," and which because it is bounded on three sides by a wall, is patterned after some of the English gardens; a rose garden; an economic garden, in which are displayed special collections of useful plants, such as rice, peanuts, tobacco, sugar cane, cotton, farm crops of various sorts, examples of vines, hedge plants, annuals and perennials suitable for growing in the vicinity of St. Louis; bee plants, herbs, small fruits, and anything which can serve as a demonstration to the public of what may be accomplished in the growing of useful and ornamental plants. Four sample back yards of varying size and treatment are included, and plans for the future contemplate the addition of various other features for which there seems to be a demand.

Within the last three years about 100,000 square feet of display greenhouses have been added, within which are maintained permanent collections of palms, economic plants, ferns, desert plants, cycads, orchids, etc. There is a floral display-house 50x200 feet, where a continuous flower show is maintained from October to July. This house is admirably adapted for the purpose and probably nowhere else in the country does the public have an opportunity for seeing such an exhibition of blooming plants. Next spring this house is to be devoted to a typical Shakespearean garden with beds, hedges, trellises, fountains, garden furniture and plants mentioned by Shakespeare, and will duplicate as nearly as possibly the Elizabethan garden of 300 years ago.

DANIEL MACRORIE, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

President Society of American Florists.

In addition to the outdoor and indoor collections of plants, the garden maintains one of the best botanical libraries and herbariums in the United States, and these two features serve as most important adjuncts to the Shaw School of Botany which, with adequate laboratory facilities, devotes its principal endeavor to the training of graduate students in botany, these students receiving their master's or doctor's degree from Washington University. This school, although largely maintained by the funds of the garden is a department of Washington University. A small experimental greenhouse, just completed near the laboratory, provides the necessary working space for the graduate students. Under this greenhouse there are cellars, devoted to the experimental side of mushroom growing, as well as a large pit in which investigations concerned with the rotting and destruction of timber are carried on.

The small museum and library building, erected by the founder, is now devoted to a remarkably fine collection of specimens illustrating the diseases of wood, and from time to time special exhibitions of special interest are shown here.

In addition to the graduate students, a school for gardeners is maintained, which, because of the unique opportunities available, and the special character of the work, is perhaps not to be equaled elsewhere in this country. Young men and women who have received a high school training or its equivalent are admitted on examination and devote three years, of 12 months each, to the practical and theoretical aspects of landscape designing, floriculture, horticulture, engineering, etc. The courses include such subjects as diseases of plants, entomology, soils, mechanical and freehand drawing, plant breeding, general and systematic botany, as well as the various more strictly horticultural subjects. The morning of each day is spent in practical work, both indoors and out, and by the end of the third year the student has had an opportunity to become personally acquainted with the definite growing methods and management of such groups of greenhouse plants as orchids, palms, tropical economic plants, desert plants, etc., as well as the actual propagation, growing and care of practically every sort of plant which can be grown out of doors in St. Louis.

While the plan and conduct of such a garden is essentially scientific, differing from most private estates or parks, the public apparently appreciates the efforts being made, since the attendance is constantly increasing. It has been amply demonstrated that a garden of this character will furnish recreation and pleasure to thousands who are not seeking merely for amusement, and every effort is made to have the collections, in so far as possible, informational if not instructive. Naturally, such a place must be attractive and the mere accumulation of numbers of botanical species, crowded together, will not answer the purpose. By maintaining floral displays of plants which are either little known, or because of the wealth of bloom and color cannot be seen elsewhere, and by showing rare tropical plants which, because of their fruit or use in commerce, are known to the average individual, as well as the commoner things which are frequently read about but seldom seen, the garden is able to make a definite appeal to many. Such an institution, with the various enterprises referred to, is naturally expensive to maintain and it is impossible to do all in any one department that might be desirable. However, it is believed that the income will eventually be sufficient to support the various projects now under way and that ultimately the Missouri botanical garden will become an even greater monument to the greatest patron of botany and horticulture that this country has ever known.

PLANT NOTES.

Tulips and Narcissi.

The tulip and narcissus bulbs should be placed in the pans and boxes as soon as possible after their receipt. It does them no good to leave them lying around, and it is far better to get them in the soil as early as possible. Much of the trouble in blooming these bulbs is laid to the tardy treatment of the growers by the bulb merchants of Holland, and in case of failure they are quick to use this as an argument, as the cause. If the bulbs are planted early, they will at once start to make roots and the forcing of them is then a comparatively easy matter. Have the flats all ready, as has been written of Paper White narcissus of convenient size. Any old rose or carnation soil is good enough, but if it binds too closely, mix in a generous quantity of sand. Set the bulbs close together and pack the soil firmly around them. Have a place prepared outside and set the flats on strips of boards and water thoroughly. It is not advisable to depend upon a rain, but unless the fall is exceedingly dry they will not need further watering. Cover the pots and boxes with about three inches of soil, over which throw some old straw or litter to prevent too rapid evaporation. Here they can remain until freezing weather sets in, when if there is a dark, cold cellar, those that are to be forced during the winter can be moved into these quarters, while those that are to be bloomed in the spring can be more heavily covered and be easily handled after the warmer days of spring arrive. If there is no suitable cellar they can be wintered outside, but it would be better to build a frame around them and cover with shutters, for it is a very disagreeable job shoveling off the snow and frozen covering during the cold winter days. Where they are to remain outside, it is better to plan about how many are to be brought in each week, and place them together so that it will not be necessary to open up too many places, but have the different varieties that are to be taken out successively placed after each other and together, and much of the hard, cold work can be dispensed with.

Decorative Plants.

The return of the customers from their country and seaside summer homes will create an immediate demand for palms, ferns and other decorative stock, and the retailer or grower who has not already prepared himself should do so at once. Plants can be purchased at this time and shipped safely, and in order to save expense they should be purchased at once before colder weather sets in, for they can be transported by freight now and after freezing weather it will be necessary that they be forwarded by express and the difference in the charges of these two methods is considerable, adding materially to the cost of the plant shipped by express. A fine assortment of palms is a necessity at this season and should be obtained at once in the salable sizes as befits the trade. Kentias and arecas from two to four feet high can be bought from $1 to $5 each, and are the sizes most in demand. Phoenix Roebelenii is a very decorative palm, and in the smaller sizes finds a good sale, but the larger sizes are still quite expensive, and can be handled only by high class trade. Ferns of the nephrolepis family and dracaenas will be in demand; in fact, a full line of good decorative stock is a necessity at this time in any up-to-date establishment having a retail trade. The stock on hand should now be in active growth and should not receive any check. It is well to be prepared to give these plants a little fire heat as soon as the nights become so cool that the temperature in the houses drops much below 60 degrees.

Geraniums.

All the cuttings that can be taken should be secured now, for a frost that will cut everything down may be expected before many weeks in the northern part of the country at least. In making the cutting all the large leaves should be removed, leaving only the small leaves and the top. The most economical way to propagate these fall cuttings is to insert the cuttings in 2½-inch pots filled with sifted soil, into which a liberal amount of sand has been mixed. After the cuttings have been placed in the pot, they should be given a good watering and placed on shelves, preferably near the glass, and shaded with papers for a couple of weeks. The papers will prevent too rapid evaporation, and consequently continual watering, as the stem is likely to rot if the cuttings are kept too wet. It is much better not to wet the cuttings, after the first watering, until they show signs of wilting. A sprinkling of the foliage in the morning will carry the plants along for some time before watering the pots will be required. If cuttings enough cannot be secured the plants should be lifted and potted that a good supply of cuttings may be secured early in the winter.

Peonies

Now is the best time to move or divide peony roots. Plants that have been in one location for a number of years will grow too thick, and will not produce either so many or so good flowers as younger plants, although the peony does not produce the best quality flowers the year after transplanting. The ground in which peonies are to be planted should be well enriched and deeply spaded in preparing it for the young plants. In digging the plants, dig all around the plants and then carefully insert the spade underneath and lift the plant, taking pains that the large roots are not broken, for these pieces of root if left in the soil sometimes start new growths and if other varieties are later planted in the ground, cause a mixture. The roots can be cut up into quite small pieces, but it is better to leave three strong eyes to each piece and not divide into too small plants. Set the plant good and deep and firm and if the ground is dry, give it a good watering.

Winter-Blooming Geraniums.

The late cuttings that were saved for plants for winter blooming should now be thrifty, well-branched plants in 3-inch or 4-inch pots, and should be shifted to 5-inch pots. If they have been kept disbudded, as soon as they become well established in the 5-inch pots they will come into flower. There will be a demand for these plants as soon as the first frosts kill the outside stock and a few with flowers on them at that time will be wanted. The larger amount of the plants will not be in demand until later, and by that time the pots will be full of roots and a constant blooming plant will be assured. There may be some small, shapely plants in the field that will do for winter blooming; if so, they should be lifted and potted, but they will not bloom as well as the pot plants grown for this purpose.

Annuals and Herbaceous Perennials.

Raised from seed, their cheapness and the simplicity of their culture, combine to commend them to flower lovers. A plant that lives only one brief summer would be a poor investment of time and money if one has a permanent home, unless it has fragrance, form or color. Where a person does not own the land he lives on, but rents, and quick returns are required rather than future gain, a wealth of bloom and a pyrotechnic effect of color may be had with annuals for a small expenditure. The best results with perennials come only after the second year, or when the plants are thoroughly established; but annuals are at their best in three or four months.

Stevia.

All stopping of stevia should cease by the middle of August and the tall-growing varieties should be potted in their blooming pots, or if to be grown in a bench, planted out. The potting of these plants should be done carefully for the plant is very brittle where the branches break from the main stem, and are easily broken. The better way is to tie a piece of raffia around the plant, and if it is very large two or three pieces before moving the plant. As soon as potted or benched place a stake in the center to keep the plant erect. Pot firmly, ramming the soil down hard with a stick or other tool. After potting, water thoroughly, and place in a shady place; the plants will wilt more or less and a light syringing will help them to recover from this, but do not keep the soil soaked, yet daily watering for those in pots will be required. As soon as the plants begin to grow remove all shade and the pots can be plunged again outside in a frame. The dwarf varieties will not require to be potted outside until early in September if planted outside, but if grown in pots should be shifted in their blooming pots, generally 6-inch, before becoming badly pot-bound.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

August Care of Bench Stock.

The bench stock being grown for cut blooms requires special attention from this time on. We are now entering the month of August, which means that in about two weeks some of the early varieties and early planted plants will be setting their buds. One of the principal parts of our work with these plants at present is to keep the side shoots pinched out and the sucker growth at the base of the plants removed. To pinch out the side shoots, start at the top of the plant and work down; then, if by any chance, the main shoot is broken, you have the lower one to fall back on. When it can be done the best time for this work is early in the morning; the shoots are more brittle then and are easily rubbed out.

Referring to the dates when it is safe to take the buds of the different varieties, this depends greatly on the condition of the plants and how they have been grown. Early planted plants of most of the so-called exhibition varieties will begin to set their best bud for taking around August 10. When these plants have been grown strong, the buds they set August 10-15 will develop into their best blooms, and to be sure of full double flowers, it is essential that the early buds be taken. Late propagated and late plantings of these exhibition varieties will not set their buds as early as the more matured plants, and very few of the buds will be ready for taking before August 20. The early varieties are another section which will have many of their buds ready for taking by August 15. We grow a large number of the early white variety, Patty Rose, which matures its blooms the first two weeks of October, and we have found that the best blooms of this variety are developed from buds taken about August 15. Oconto is another early variety that will shortly bud up, and any buds ready after August 15 are perfectly safe to take. This latter variety is a fine, full double white from buds taken around August 15, but flowers from buds of later date usually come loose petaled and not nearly so large or full. August 20 is a date set by growers of commercial cut blooms as a guide for taking the buds, and the buds of any variety setting after that date are taken as they appear.

JOHN YOUNG, NEW YORK.

Secretary Society of American Florists.

In preparation of the buds appearing, be sure the plants are properly supported so that there will not be any crooked stems, and that the wood of the plants will ripen up properly. It is also very important that the plants be kept free of insects; this applies to them at all times, and more especially at the time the buds are forming. Should the insects be allowed to get a foothold in the new-formed buds, it will be a hard job to dislodge them. During the hot dry weather, the red spider and thrips are very numerous, and the best means of eradicating them is by a strong force of water from the hose. Syringe freely and often, playing the water strongly to the underneath part of the leaves, but now that the foliage growth of the plants is so thick it is time to arrange for the watering and syringing to be done earlier in the day so that the foliage does not remain wet over night. Extra attention is also necessary as regards watering the beds. The soil is now full of roots and dries out quickly, and should be gone over twice daily if necessary.

Beds full of roots are in shape for a thin mulch of well rotted manure and soil mixed, or well rotted manure alone, according to the growth of the plants and the strength of the soil in the beds; this mulch gives nourishment to the plants and prevents the buds drying out as quickly, but do not make the mistake of putting it on too thick to prevent the air penetrating the soil.

The pompons and single varieties are growing rapidly, and the most important part of the work in caring for them is to attend regularly to the work of tying up the branches so the stems and sprays will be long and straight. The plants require lots of water, especially now that the soil is full of roots; also, pay close attention to the syringing. The red spider and thrips attack these plants as well as the single stem stock.

When long stem sprays are wanted, rub out the side shoots to the desired length of the spray. Quite a number of the pompons are being disbudded to single stems, the same as the larger flowering varieties, and in the east are much in favor, the light pink variety, Lillian Doty, being very pretty when grown in this manner.

Watch the specimens and bush plants closely—do not let them suffer for want of water, or allow the branches to become broken for want of supports. Do not pinch back the shoots any more, but bend every energy to the building up of as large and well shaped plants as possible.

Drug Growers Cautioned.

Interruption of importations of many drugs, spices and oils made from plants has resulted in certain cases in abnormally high prices for the raw materials and the products derived from them. As a result, many people are looking into the possibility of profit in growing these crops in the United States. Many letters are received each week at the United States department of agriculture asking how to raise this or that drug plant.

In almost every case the drug plant specialists reply that it is doubtful whether the inexperienced grower can grow these plants successfully, or, if he succeeds, will find a satisfactory market for his crop. The raising of such plants, they point out, is a distinct specialty and calls for exact knowledge and skill comparable to that needed by the florist, who, to satisfy his market, not only must raise flowers, but must produce blooms at certain seasons and with unusual characteristics. Of even greater importance, however, is the fact that the total amount of drug plants that can be consumed in this country in any year is very small compared with our consumption of any of the staple crops. Overproduction in the case of drugs is more serious than in the case of staple crops, because staple crops such as corn and grain, if not sold, can be used at home for food or for feeding stock or chickens. The drug plant, however, is profitless to the grower unless a drug manufacturer will buy it for use in medicine.

It is entirely possible, for example, to grow belladonna from which is derived atropine and other alkaloids very valuable in medicine. The total amount of belladonna plants the entire country uses, however, could all be grown on a few hundred acres. Because of the present interruption in the supply of belladonna, a few domestic growers have made a profit recently from this crop. A slight expansion of the industry would quickly increase the supply beyond the demand and this, together with importation, when resumed, might soon glut the local market and leave little or no profit to the raiser, unless an export market were developed.

Digitalis, although one of the most important and valuable of heart tonics, as a crop has relatively small monetary value. The drug plant specialists who have been developing this plant and testing possibilities of its culture in this country have done so, not merely with the idea of fostering an industry, but because this plant is so important in saving human lives that should all supplies be cut off a serious calamity would result. For the same reason the specialists have been working with many other drug plants. It was believed that the drug specialists should be ready to raise these plants in this country if for any reason the foreign supply should be entirely cut off.

For years, therefore, the department has been producing many of these plants experimentally, but when the supply of certain of these drugs failed or their prices reached prohibitive figures, a few skilled growers, with the advice of the department, were able to raise small quantities of some of the more important drugs needed in the present emergency. Thymol, widely used for antiseptic purposes, is a drug manufactured in Germany from a seed grown in India. A few days after the interruption of imports, the price leaped from $2 to $17 a pound. The department, however, had been experimenting with a common weed known as horsemint, which grows readily in the south, and yields this substance. This horsemint was brought into cultivation, its drug-bearing quality improved, and a simple process for manufacturing thymol from it developed, with the result last year that there was produced commercially a small quantity of this drug. The industry, however, can not be widely extended because the total consumption, as indicated by previous reports, is only about 17,000 pounds a year, an amount which can be produced probably on less than 1,000 acres.

Lemon grass, producing lemon grass oil used widely by soap and perfume makers, can be grown in Florida on land not suitable for citrus fruits. At most, however, only about $100,000 worth of this oil is used per year in this country, and even if none were imported, only 2,000 or 3,000 acres of the grass could be raised without overproduction. Red pepper, used both as a drug and as a condiment, seems to offer one of the most promising fields for replacing an imported by a domestic article. In 1915, in South Carolina, 118 acres, yielding 152,000 pounds, were harvested. There is indication that this year nearly 500 acres may be devoted to this crop. As one acre produces nearly 1,300 pounds and our total imports in 1914 were only 8,829,487 pounds, it readily can be seen that a limited acreage would provide all the pepper this country ordinarily consumes.

Camphor trees, years of experiment have established, can be grown successfully in Florida, along the Gulf coast and in some coast regions as far north as Charleston. Only within the last seven or eight years, however, have the department specialists considered it at all feasible to grow these trees as a source of camphor. The specialists have discovered that instead of being able to take camphor from trees only once in 50 years, as has been the rule, it is possible to produce camphor each year by pruning the leaves from the trees and distilling them. The possibilities offered by this discovery led to the planting of camphor trees and there are at present 1,000 acres of trees growing in Florida. A second tract of some 18 square miles is being cleared rapidly and planted. Importations of camphor in 1914 were only about 3,500,000 pounds, valued at $929,000. A limited area in addition to that projected should supply all the domestic camphor for which there would be a profitable demand. The specialists point out that the domestic product, when produced in any volume, must compete in price with imported camphor. It is impossible, therefore, to estimate what prices growers could obtain for their product after full importations are resumed. This is especially true because prices for imported camphor in the past have been regulated more or less by foreign control which, in the face of domestic competition, might make important reductions in the prices heretofore charged for the imported article, unless an export market be developed.

In addition to the products mentioned, there are hundreds of other drugs, oils and spices which are imported and which it is possible for this country to produce for itself. In the aggregate, the value of these imported articles is rather imposing, as the figures indicate that this country has been bringing in and using about $25,000,000 annually of the various drugs, oils and condiments. Much of this money undoubtedly can be kept at home. The mistake made by most people who consider raising these crops is that they are inclined to consider them as staple crops, whereas the domestic demand for them is relatively small, and no foreign market has been developed for them by Americans.

At the same time those in charge of the work realize that here and there in our agriculture, where soil and climatic and other conditions are right, there is room for certain small industries. For many years there has been a distinct tendency for agriculturists to direct their energies along limited lines. This is indicated most clearly by certain types of agriculture prevailing in the south, where the farmers have confined their efforts very largely to the cultivation of a single crop. These small crops may therefore offer to a few of our farmers opportunities in highly specialized lines of production which will divert to a certain degree the activities of capital and labor from some of the crowded industries and also supply peculiar products for which the country has been spending money abroad. The drug specialists point out, however, that prices of these articles prevailing under the present disturbed conditions are abnormal and therefore should not be regarded as a safe basis on which to estimate regular returns from such activities.

The Perennial Sunflowers.

In years of scorched and withered vegetation the perennial sunflowers always prove their claim to a place in the herbaceous border. In years of plenty we are apt to look upon these flowers as coarse and scarcely worthy of consideration; but now, when the phloxes have shed their fugacious blooms and the bulk of the Michaelmas daisies and early chrysanthemums are in the bud stage, we are only too glad to welcome the bright yellow blossoms of the perennial sunflowers. That refined, tall and graceful variety, Miss Melish, is always a beautiful sight, and in common with other members of the family appears to have been quite happy during the protracted heat and drought of June and the subsequent rainy spell. H. G. Moon, though not so well known, is equally good, and possesses the additional merit of a dwarfier habit, attaining a height of about four feet. True, its flower-stems are not quite so long, but as a border plant it is almost unequalled in its kind. Of similar height is Helianthus rigidus grandiflorus, the prairie sunflower, the beautiful golden yellow flowers with their central boss of brownish crimson creating a bright patch of color even when planted in the poorest soil. Apart from their value in the garden during a dry season these perennial sunflowers are admirably adapted for indoor decorations. They should, however, be cut early in the morning, have their stems slit upwards for about two inches, and then be immersed in water for two hours. Treated thus, they seldom fail to take up sufficient moisture when placed in vases to keep them fresh for several days. Unless this or some other special treatment is given, the flowers have a tantalizing habit of drooping when cut and placed in water. —London Garden.

Gullett Employees' Annual Outing.

The employees of Gullett & Sons' wholesale and retail establishments, Lincoln, Ill., as shown in the accompanying illustration, spent a very enjoyable day recently when 70 of them held their annual outing at Baker's fish trap on Salt Creek, near Lincoln. The day was spent in boating, fishing and athletic contests of all kinds, including a ball game in which the cut flower department team defeated the nine of the plant department. Refreshments of all kinds were served, and the event proved to be a most delightful one.

THE ROSE.

Mid-Summer Work.

During the extreme hot weather, when the thermometer is registering 95 degrees in the shade, the temperature of an iron-frame rose house is—at noon, about 120°. This temperature can be reduced considerably by spraying over-head, under the benches and by damping down the walks to the benefit of the plants and to the relief ly all of the available plant food will be obtained from the mulch.

Perhaps there has been an extremely early planting of roses made, which have by this time filled the beds with young feeding roots near the surface. Remember that cultivating the beds when there is the least danger of disturbing the roots is very detrimental to the growth of the plants. Stop the stirring of the soil at this stage and apply a light top dressing of old composted manure to keep the soil from baking and shrinking away at the sides of the beds. Old hot bed manure will answer the purpose quite well, as it around on the surface and keep the soil in prime condition, besides furnishing a slight stimulating effect, promoting strong growths and good foliage. E.

Budlong's Rose Factory.

The greenhouse establishment of the Budlong Rose Co., at Auburn, R. I., about five miles from Providence, comes very near to being ideal, at least from the rose grower's standpoint. While "factory" is hardly a synonym for greenhouse, the products of the entire place and the appearance of all the houses are so uniform that the flowers may be said to be factory made, with the Budlong brand stamped on them. The Budlong Co. own and operate about 1,000 acres, most of which is farmed or used for trucking. The original business was started in 1850 and is now carried on by the third generation.

About 20 acres are covered with greenhouses, boiler sheds, packing house and other necessary buildings for this department. There are 28 greenhouses, many ranging from 400 to 600 feet in length, 30 to 35 feet in width; one is 50x700 feet, and there are some a trifle smaller—vegetable houses they call them, where plants for the truck farm are started, followed by young budded roses, and these later by chrysanthemums for flowers, of which some 30,000 plants are grown. One of the rules here is that every square foot of greenhouse space must be pulling all the time. Crops of lettuce are taken out in winter, then follow the vegetable seedlings; after that the young budded rose stock, to be succeeded by the chrysanthemums, which when cut out, leave space for the lettuce to start the new season.

The greenhouses, all frame, are of equal pitch and built so far apart (about 20 to 30 feet), that one does not shade the other. The south side is glass to within 18 inches of the ground; the north side is solid wall to eave, about eight feet high. All houses are protected with vestibuled doors. Inside, the stock of the various sorts, house after house, looks to be in the very best possible condition, full of vigorous, stocky growth, and decorated almost like the clover in the field, with a sea of buds in all stages of development. These were growing in beds about five feet in width, the plants set three in the first row, with two in the next, opposite the spaces of the first row. In this of the employees. At times one finds the heat so great that it is not only dangerous to work inside during the hottest part of the day, but much of this discomfort can be avoided by having the employees do some of the necessary outside work (and there is always plenty to do around any rose growing establishment.) For instance, the boilers can be overhauled, thoroughly cleaned inside and out, and any other work can be tackled during the very hottest part of the day, and very often the employees are more than willing to lay off during the middle of the day for several hours, and make up the time early and late. We have found by following either of these working rules that much more work can be accomplished and the employees will as a rule appreciate this much thoughtfulness shown by their employers.

The pruning should now be getting under way and if there is much to do no time should be lost in getting this work off your hands. One of the hot day jobs is to get at the manure pile and work it over, making it as fine as possible, the finer it is broken up the better it will be for the mulch, as it will evaporate much more slowly and there will be but little waste from drying or baking on the beds. A good plan at this time, when putting on the first mulch after pruning (which should not be applied very heavy), is to scatter a thin layer of good, fresh soil over the mulch before washing it in. This will be a great protection to the mulch if enough soil is used to cover the surface nicely, but when applying the mulch, one had better wait until the first growth made after pruning has been pinched and the foliage thoroughly ripened, then, when the soil is in a condition to take a fair amount of water, apply the mulch and water by washing out the mulch in part. After several waterings the mulch can be moved over and in this way practical-is not intended to act as a feeding medium.

The American Beauties should be growing vigorously now and will require very careful watering to avoid giving them a check, which they will receive quickly if the soil is allowed to become too dry for any length of time. And do not let these plants lie around. Keep them well tied, and although wire stakes are rather expensive, we still advocate the use of two stakes to a plant, one on each side in the row about eight inches apart. Later on, when all the air possible will be required to circulate through the plants, in order to have the foliage dry off rapidly, the practicability of the double staking of the American Beauties will be evident. Also bear in mind that the American Beauty is "some feeder" and do not be too light-fisted with her. We may state that among the very best manures for light top dressing immediately after cultivating stops, are the shredded cow or sheep manures, as these, when applied lightly, will wash way each plant had all the air and light that could be given it. They were tied to four foot galvanized iron wire stakes, supported by longitudinal wires the length of the bed. The beds held about six inches of soil, resting on a twelve-inch foundation of stones to insure perfect drainage, there being no boards between. Generous mulchings of manure are given every two weeks when the roses are growing freely. This is held in place by a 4-inch edging above the soil box. The material is fresh horse manure, straw and all, and put on by a good force of men who can finish one of these large houses inside of an hour, and is wet down with the hose immediately, there being no sign on any of the growth of burning the edges of the foliage from the ammonia.

Judging from appearances, the plants were like the foremen of the various ranges, each trying to outdo the other. Depending somewhat on the condition of growth, some bore more buds than others. One house of Double White Killarney (this is the home of that famous rose), was very floriferous. Another, of Francis Scott Key, was working hard for the lead, with Mock a close second. Even Hadley had a very good showing of buds, but Mr. Budlong says Black Beauty pays more per square foot. Printed record sheets for each month are kept in the vestibules of the houses, ruled for the amount of the cut for a. m., noon and p. m., with total for the day, which in the footing shows totals for the month. Eight thousand plants in the Francis Scott Key house showed results in thousands as follows: August, 32,000; September, 32,000; October, 27,000; November, 7,000; December, 19,000; January, 11,000; February, 12,000; March, 19,000; April, 18,000. The additional hundreds of each month would mount up to several thousand more, showing a very good percentage of ruled for hourly records of day and blooms per plant. Temperature cards, ruled for every hour of the night, were placed at the thermometers in each house. A house of Indiana, a rose not very well known, was well budded and promising. Ophelia looked splendid, but Mr. Budlong thought there was danger of its being overdone the coming season, as so many appeared to be putting it in. All the stock here is grafted. A great number of young plants are seen set out on tables of about four inches of soil; this had all been mulched quite heavily with manure, and the stock looked very vigorous and strong. When transplanted, squares of earth are taken up with each plant, the roots being but little disturbed.

As the roses are kept in, three, four, and sometimes five years, what was going to be done with these tens of thousands of young stock plants was a natural query, to which Mr. Budlong replied that some of the houses were changed every year; new sorts were tried out, as the vagaries and demands of the market had to be met. Pink Killarney was now a back number, and there were others that did not come up to the square foot percentage of profit that would have to give way to those that made a better showing.

Lady Alice Stanley was seen in several houses, looking very well. The old Maryland also appeared a favorite, judging from the quantity grown. While, as a rule, a house was filled with one variety, yet in some, those liking the same treatment were found together, as in one range were seen Lady Alice Stanley, Dark Pink Killarney, Mock and Sunburst. Milady was another sort that grew here like a weed and was full of flowers. Russell, while it looked good, was said to be too shy. Five houses in one section of assorted varieties cut over 300,000 flowers in April. While the hose was depended on mainly to keep down insects, they also used the various tobacco products, punk, etc., with good results.

Mildew is considered carelessness at this establishment; black spot was also avoidable; there was no secret about it. Roses are just as susceptible to mildew as the individual to catching cold, when one places himself in a position or condition to take it. Proper clothing and diet were necessary for the man, and the same care should be given all kinds of plant life. There must be uniform attention, proper watering, air and food. They do not use bone meal, as they do not see any beneficial results from it. The compost for the beds is good fresh soil and horse manure, piled up under shelter in the fall, then cut down and well mixed when required.

Asked why cement had not entered into the construction of the houses, instead of all frame, we were told that it was believed frame was best, lasting a long time if cared for and being easily repaired when necessary. The heating is all done from a central plant by the vacuum system. The boilers are of 1,800 horse power and forced draft was provided, so that they could be increased 30 per cent if necessary in extreme weather.

"Our whole plant is laid out and worked in a way that seems best to suit our conditions," said Mr. Budlong. "Others might look us over, duplicate our system, and be much disappointed with results. Success in growing flowers means close attention to the details. One cannot afford to build houses, burn coal and provide the other expenses and let the details of culture go; very careful attention here is necessary for success."

A trial bench of gardenias was so successful that they are to be planted on a larger scale. In addition to the large ranges of glass steam-heated frames cover acres of ground. Dandelions are largely grown in these frames, and also on the farm, where 40 acres are given up to their culture; it is cut and used the same as spinach; as many as 3,000 bushels per day were sent to market during April. Tomatoes and lettuce are largely forced in the frames, the sash being removed when the weather is warm enough. On the sunny side of all the large greenhouses are wide beds of lettuce, making good use of a space that would otherwise go to waste.

The packing house is an interesting place. Here the roses, as fast as they are brought in, are potted up and placed in large cooling rooms; then as they harden up, they are brought out and graded and remain in other cool rooms to await packing. Ice keeps the temperature wherever desired.

Everything is done on a very large scale. There are 52 horses and innumerable wagons, the farm requiring so much of this kind of motive power; also three large trucks. Asparagus was seen loose in large boxes and is sold this way by the pound, the way it has always been handled here. Lettuce is a very large crop, and there are 10 acres of strawberries. Potatoes are also given a very large acreage.

Finally, in speaking of the merits of the various varieties of roses, Mr. Budlong said that it all came down in the final analysis to the net income per square foot of house space occupied. The high price of a variety, no matter how well it sold, would not compare with another sort which only brought one-fourth the price, but produced eight times the flowers. Cecile Brunner was a two cent rose or less, but paid very well. The system here appears admirable. Each section of houses, divided according to their size, is in charge of a foreman. There is no general foreman, Mr. Budlong himself being the director general. There is not a foot of waste room, even a narrow space next the cross ends of the houses holds a box of Asparagus Sprengeri. Each house is as clean and orderly as is possible to make it. All of the stock is handled by New York and Boston, the company's own agent selling in the growers' market in Boston, and the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. in New York.

This is a model up-to-date establishment with "made in America" stamped all over it, and full of interest to every rose grower.

Annual Flowers for the Greenhouse.

"Are the merits of some annuals sufficiently recognized?" is a question of some importance when, combined with the production of a wealth of bloom, strict economy has to be practiced, as in many gardens to-day, owing to the exceptional circumstances employers of labor have to face. The usefulness of the schizanthus needs no comment, but some other annuals almost equally desirable as pot plants may justly claim more attention. The following varieties can be safely recommended, and where it is only convenient to grow a few, those marked with an asterisk should receive first consideration:

Alonsoas.—Those with orange and scarlet shades of color are best.

Antirrhinums.—The intermediate strain is most suitable. Some pale shades are apt to be a little "washy." The new pink Nelrose is very nice.

Asters.—Useful for the autumn. Grow in the reserve garden and transfer to flowering pots.

Candytuft.—The tall ones make excellent edging plants for groups.

Clarkias.—Impossible to speak too highly of. (Elegans variety preferable.) These and schizanthuses make a wonderful display together.

Godetias.—Another extremely useful and showy family.

Larkspurs.—The taller varieties give the best results. A bold group of rich blue is very telling.

Nasturtiums.—These give a mass of flowers if not grown in too rich a soil. The small-foliaged ones should be chosen and those having decided tones of color.

Nicotianas.—Sutton's Miniature White is a gem for pot culture. Affinis and Sanderæ are also useful.

Nemesias.—Wonderfully free and showy. Effective for groundwork or edging.

Phlox Drummondii.—I can only speak of one as proved, and that is Sutton's Purity.

Salpiglossis.—Owing to the many brilliant shades, this is probably one of the coming plants for pots.

Stocks.—The lovely scent emitted from a few flowering plants is of itself sufficient recommendation.

Venidium calandulaceum.—A plant which does well in pots. It is bright yellow with an orange tone, and perhaps somewhat resembles gazania. Very free flowering.

Cultural Hints.—For a spring display a pinch of seed should be sown in August, September and October in a cold frame, using a light compost over some well-drained pots or pans. The seedlings may remain in the cold frame on a bed of ashes close to the glass after being pricked off, until atmospheric conditions render it necessary to remove them to safer and drier quarters. Only a few are so fortunate as to be able to devote an entire structure to annuals during the winter, so shelves in carnation and fruit houses must be made use of, as a rule. Coddling of the plants is not at all necessary, but at the same time dampness and fog must be guarded against, the latter especially so.

From the seedling stage to the flowering one nearly all annuals appreciate a light and open rooting medium and only moderately firm potting. If there is added to the compost for the final potting a little soot, wood-ash and bone-meal the results therefrom will be beneficial. Unless for some definite purpose, large pots should be avoided, for some wonderful plants may be grown in 5-inch and 6-inch pots. Alonsoas, Phlox Purity and nemesias may well be grown in 4½-inch pots, though it may be a trifle untidy, for this is much to be preferred to violating nature altogether.—H. Turner, in London Garden.

OBITUARY.

Jackson Thornton Dawson.

Jackson Thornton Dawson, superintendent of the Arnold Arboretum, Jamaica Plain, Mass., died at his home, 1090 Center street, August 3. He was in his seventy-fifth year, and had been failing in health since last April, but his death was unexpected by his family, as his condition was not regarded as critical.

Jackson Dawson, as he was known to all his friends, was born in York, England, in 1841, and came to America when eight years of age, going to Andover, Mass., to live with an uncle who had a nursery. Here he developed a great love for plants and became a student of their life and later was associated with the Hovey establishment at Cambridge, Mass., at that time one of the noted nurseries of America. At the breaking out of the Civil War he enlisted and went to the front where he honorably served his adopted country. During his service in the south, he closely studied the flora of the country and gathered and sent home a valuable collection of seeds.

After returning from his service in the army he accepted a position in the school of horticulture of the Bussey Institute, and began the work of raising and cultivating the trees and laying out the grounds of the Arnold Arboretum. How well this has been done is attested by the fact that this is the greatest collection of trees and shrubs in America. By his ability as a propagator and in grafting and his knowledge of trees and shrubs he acquired an honored reputation among the horticulturists of the world. As a hybridizer of roses, especially with the multiflora, rugosa and Wichuraiana types, he produced many valuable seedlings for which he was awarded several medals. In 1910 he was awarded the George Robert White medal by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, which is bestowed upon the man or woman, commercial firm or institution, that has done the most in the current or in recent years to advance the interest of horticulture.

Of a genial and unselfish disposition, he would freely give to a friend not only what knowledge he could impart but also anything that he possessed, and he loved to regard every one as his friend. Few ever visited him who did not leave with knowledge gained and often with some new and rare specimen for trial. He was one of the last of that coterie so long known as "The Old Guard," that helped to make Boston a famous horticultural center. He was a member of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society where he was regarded as an authority in his chosen field, of the Society of American Florists, having served on the executive board in 1895, 1896 and 1897, and ex-president of the Gardener's and Florists' Club of Boston.

John Charlton.

John Charlton, well-known nurseryman of Rochester, N. Y., and founder of the firm of John Charlton & Sons of that city, died at his home August 2, aged 80 years. He was born in Horningsham, Wiltshire, Eng., and came to America, locating in Rochester in 1857. In 1865 he entered business for himself, having secured two acres of land on which he built a greenhouse, enlarging his establishment from time to time, until he had about 150 acres under cultivation. When his sons, John A. and Joseph M. Charlton, became old enough he associated with them under the firm of John Charlton & Sons. Surviving him are his widow, two sons, two daughters and three grandchildren. The funeral was held August 4, and was largely attended. Many handsome floral tributes accompanied the remains to their last resting place.

Mrs. Louise H. Dillon.

Mrs. Louise H. Dillon, who has successfully conducted the florist business of J. L. Dillon, Bloomsburg, Pa., since his death in 1906, died at her residence in that city, July 25. The business which was founded by Mr. Dillon in 1875 has been greatly enlarged and improved under the management of his widow until it is now recognized as one of the largest in that section of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Dillon is survived by two sons, Charles H. and Harold P. Dillon, who will continue the business under the name of J. L. Dillon.

Mrs. George C. Shaffer.

Mrs. George C. Shaffer, wife of George C. Shaffer, well-known retail florist of Washington, D. C., died at her home in Brunswick, August 6, after a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband and one son, Clarence. Funeral services were held August 8 with interment at the Congressional cemetery.

Clinton De Witt Smith.

Clinton De Witt Smith, of Cornell University, died in Buffalo, N. Y., August 5, aged 62 years. He is said to have been one of the leading authorities on agricultural matters in this country.

Butterfield Nominee for Legislature.

S. S. Butterfield of Oklahoma City, a contributor for a number of years to THE AMERICAN FLORIST columns, has won the nomination for representative for the second district of Oklahoma county in the next legislature after a spirited campaign. Mr. Butterfield was admitted to the practice of law in Oklahoma in June, 1915.

Society of American Florists.

DEPARTMENT OF PLANT REGISTRATION.

Public notice is hereby given that as no objection has been filed, the following registration becomes complete: Salvia splendens, var., Elizabeth Dunbar, by John Dunbar, Rochester, N. Y. August 5, 1916.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

Carnation Stem Rot.

We have just received from the Agricultural Experiment Station, at Urbana, Ill., an elaborate bulletin on "Parasitic Rhizoctonias in America," by George L. Peltier, Associate in Floricultural Pathology, University of Illinois. This bulletin gives an exhaustive account of the stem rot of carnations but in a hurried perusal of the contents we have failed to find reference to the stem rot questions in which we are principally interested, namely prevention and cure. Perhaps the discussion of these questions has been reserved for a future bulletin.

British Bulb Importations.

Owing to certain misunderstandings which have arisen on the part of nurserymen and seedsmen as to the restrictions recently placed on the importation of bulbs into this country, the Horticultural Trades Association on Monday last interviewed the Comptroller of the Imports Restrictions Department of the Board of Trade. As a result of the representations made by the former body, through a deputation consisting of W. Cuthbertson and Geo. Barr, it was elicited that all importations from Holland, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden are interdicted, the prohibition applying no less to parcel post deliveries than to the usual shipments. In regard to certain licenses which were mentioned some time ago, as possible in the case of growers who actually possess bulb stocks under cultivation in Holland, we are informed that no such licenses will be granted. In respect to Japanese bulbs, the Board of Trade has decided that growers may import 50 per cent of the quantities they imported last year, provided shipment is effected not later than October 31 next. The new restrictions do not apply to bulb importations from France.—London Gardeners' Chronicle, July 22, 1916.

Texas Horticulturist's Invitation.

Prof. F. W. Hensel, of the horticultural department of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, writes as follows, July 25:

"Vice-President R. C. Kerr, of the Society of American Florists, has been doing yeoman service in getting up 'pep' and interest in the coming convention at Houston, and while we are all very sure that city will prove an ideal host, I would like to remind all florists who contemplate attending the convention that Houston is in Texas and not Texas in Houston, and that the rest of us, located in different parts of the state, would also like to have a hand in entertaining you. It is only a matter of two hundred miles to San Antonio, with its missions, soldiers, chile and hot tamales; only a short distance to Austin, our state capital, and although El Paso is not exactly in our near vicinity a trip to that thriving border town would be of extreme interest to everyone—incidentally it would be perfectly safe, although Mexico lies just on the other side of the Rio Grande. We believe that a general exodus to Texas will follow the convention, but we do not want you to concentrate in Houston. There is plenty of room for all, and the more of you who come, the better we will like it.

"The cotton fields are in full bloom, fruits of all kinds are here for the asking, and carloads of the biggest, finest, most luscious watermelons that ever gladdened a darkey's heart are now moving—and mostly toward Houston. 'Go thou and do likewise.'"

Pittsburgh Proposed Summer Show.

A great flower show will be held in Pittsburgh in June of 1917 under the auspices of the Garden Club of Allegheny County. The proposed date is June 13 to 16. One of the largest and most centrally located halls in Pittsburgh will be engaged wherein to make the display. The plan and scope of the exhibition will be of the most comprehensive character. The choicest products of the many fine gardens in Pittsburgh and vicinity will be displayed in competition to an extent never before attempted in this city. An opportunity will also be afforded to florists, nurserymen, seedsmen and allied trades to participate therein. A preliminary schedule offering $5,000 in prizes is now being drafted. This will be sent out to gardeners, growers and everyone interested as soon as possible so that they may have ample time to grow and prepare their exhibits.

Arthur Herrington of Madison, N. J., who has so successfully managed and arranged recent large floral exhibitions in New York, Philadelphia, Newport and other places, has been engaged as manager.

Houston Convention Rates.

In addition to the rates already quoted, the Southwestern Passenger Association announces under date of August 7 that interested lines have individually authorized an open rate of fare and one-third for the round trip from New Orleans, La., and Shreveport, La., to Houston, Tex., and return, tickets to be on sale August 12, 13 and 14, 1916, limited for return to reach original starting point prior to midnight of September 5, 1916.

MICHAEL BARKER,

Chairman Transportation Committee,
Chicago Florists' Club.

Hail.

Commenting on the recent serious hail losses recorded in our issue of July 8, page 1292, John G. Esler, secretary of the Florists' Hail Association, says: "With us Iowa and Missouri are the two states that get the money. We will pay out about $155,000 this year. Some of it goes to parties in Missouri who have been members of the association since its organization and without a previous loss in 27 years."

Personal.

Eugene Dailedouze and wife, of Brooklyn, N. Y., returned from the Yukon, reaching Chicago late August 5, and left for home on the 7th, covering some 13,000 miles on their trip. Paul and Henry Dailedouze are making a similar trip, taking the Canadian route.

BUSINESS EXCEPTIONALLY BRISK.

The market has held up remarkably well during the past week. Prices have been far above normal on all lines of flowers, and the market cleans up well every day. Gladioli are becoming more plentiful each day, but sell fairly well at $2 to $3 per 100. Asters have been rather scarce, as so many growers lost their crops, and they continue to bring good prices, from $1 to $3 per 100 being the price on first-class and fancy grades. The dark pink varieties are selling best. The beginning of the mid-season crop has arrived and are in good demand. Roses are bringing mid-winter prices on good quality stock, though there is not much demand for the small first crop flowers, which are always on hand at this season. Francis Scott Key and Ophelia are the best sellers, bringing from $2 to $10 per 100. Carnations are very scarce, but there is practically no demand as the quality is so poor; $1 per 100 is about the limit in price.

NOTES.

The severe storm which swept over this section July 31 caused quite a lot of damage in Saugus and Revere. The wind damaged to a great extent the large crop of corn grown by Wm. Sim of Cliftondale, besides blowing out a large quantity of glass at his greenhouses. Thos. Roland, at Nahant, also lost considerable glass, the estimate of amount of damage being $250.

Edward Welch, of the new firm of Welch's at 180 Devonshire street, is spending a vacation at Old Orchard, Me. David Welch is managing the business during his partner's absence. They are very well pleased with the trade which they have acquired since beginning business. They now are shipping a fine lot of gladioli and asters.

F. L. W.

Jackson Dawson, known throughout the world as an authority on American trees and shrubs and their propagation, long identified with the work of the Arnold Arboretum, died at his home in Jamaica Plain, Mass., August 3. Some account of Mr. Dawson's life and work will be found in our obituary column.

Buffalo Florists' Club Outing.

The annual outing of the Buffalo Florists' Club, which was held at the Automobile Club grounds, August 2, proved to be the most successful in the history of the organization. The attendance far exceeded the expectations of the arrangements committee, but the 193 who were at the dinner table were well taken care of. With few exceptions, all stores or greenhouses between Buffalo and Batavia were well represented. A splendid programme of athletic events had been arranged and was hotly contested in nearly every instance. The ball game came first, and while the score was close, the team composed of storemen captured the honors from the greenhouse aggregation. In the tug-of-war, the greenhouse team won "hands down" for want of competition. The grounds were ideal for an outing in a pretty spot 18 miles from the city, and while there were no "snow banks," there were plenty of automobiles and no walking, and although it was a long way from the "trestle" it was not so far from home. President Brucker, Wm. Grever and Ed. Stratmeyer, who composed the outing committee, are certainly entitled to much credit for the splendid time enjoyed by all present.

BISON.

Lowell, Mass.

This thriving manufacturing city, with more than 100,000 population, has a very busy business section in Merrimac square, and in this vicinity will be found a number of up-to-date establishments. J. J. McManmon at 6 Prescott street, just off the square, handles seeds in addition to cut flowers and plants. Much of his stock is grown at his greenhouses at Brookside, a suburb of this city. This store is large, well stocked and presents a very live appearance.

Morse & Beals, 8-10 Merrimac square, have a busy shop, purely retail, where everything is most conveniently arranged so that all orders can be filled with dispatch. A good stock of flowers always fills the case.

R. A. Griffith makes a specialty of funeral work. He appears to be a hustler and a good stock of cut flowers is the rule here.

Whittet & Co., 293 Central street, have a shop that is most complete in its appointments, not the least of which is a very handsome delivery wagon. A satisfactory season's business was reported.

W. H. Collins, on Gorham street, utilizes every foot of space in his busy shop, a gallery in the rear providing storage space and room for the office. He takes pride in his window decorations.

H. B. Green, of the Highland Conservatories at 175 Stevens street, handles plants and cut flowers and grows quite a stock at his establishment.

George A. Tyrell has a well appointed, up-to-date shop. He is the youngest florist in the city, but looks like "a comer." Some very good work was seen here.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE MARKET WILL PROFIT BY READING THIS TIMELY ADVERTISEMENT.

TO make a long story short we wish to state that we represent over seventy-five expert growers who have in many cases recently increased their glass area to such a large extent that we will find it necessary to add many new customers to our list, and will be pleased to hear from responsible interested parties who wish to make permanent connections with a reliable house, whose management makes it a rule never to disappoint a customer. Our supply of Cut Flowers will be extraordinarily heavy and will consist of everything grown for The Great Central Market. So if you desire to get the best stock obtainable in the Chicago Market at all times at the most reasonable prices, become one of our customers at your earliest possible opportunity. -- --

H. S. Niswinger, assistant state entomologist, has just examined the nurseries in this vicinity. The law does not authorize the examination of florists' stock, and, as they do not get any certificate, often have trouble in getting the express companies to forward shipments of plants.

There has been considerable funeral work of late, but stock of all kinds has been poor in quality, with the exception of gladioli.

The F. Walker Co. had the decorations for the Klauber wedding, using lyrata foliage, gladioli and lilies in profusion.

E. G. Reimers & Sons Co. have about completed remodeling and building and their stock appears to be in fine condition.

August Baumer entertained the members of the Society of Kentucky Florists with a bountiful repast following the recent meeting of the organization.

ASTERS AND GLADIOLI BULK OF SUPPLY

Stock of all kinds is on a par with the business. Just at present it is impossible to get good roses, and the stores have to resort to asters and gladioli to meet requirements of almost every kind. Lily of the valley is scarce, as is the orchid supply.

NOTES.

Geo. Gauldman, after enjoying his vacation at Atlantic City, is back on the job with a beautiful tan complexion. But, how did you get it, George?

Mrs. Geo. C. Shaffer, wife of the well-known retailer of 900 Fourteenth street, N. W., died at her home in Brunswick, August 6, after a lingering illness.

F. H. Kramer is cutting from 2,000 to 4,000 gladioli every day, and has little trouble in disposing of all of them.

From all reports the local delegation to the S. A. F. convention will not be a very large one.

M. Redman, of S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., is enjoying his vacation at Atlantic City.

Fred Miller has been laid up during the past week with an attack of acute indigestion. G. C. D.

CLUB MEETING.

Twenty-seven of the members of the florists' club journeyed to Newtonville to attend the August meeting, which was held at Henkes Brothers' place in the country. Louis H. Schaefer, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported progress on the plans for the annual clambake to be held at Henkes Brothers' grove, Newtonville, August 19. Chairman Schaefer reported 86 tickets pledged, with the prospect of a considerable number of others. If the day be fair, the attendance should easily be 100 persons or more. In answer to an inquiry from one of the members, it was announced that the price of children's tickets for the bake will be 75 cents each; men's tickets, $2.00 each, and women's, $1.25 each. Robert P. Corbin of 512 Yates street, whose name was proposed at the July meeting, was unanimously elected a member. A paper on "Seeds" was read by Louis H. Schaefer, who has spent many years in the business. In brief, Mr. Schaefer showed that the bulk of the vegetable seeds are grown in this country but the greater percentage of flower seeds still come from abroad. Edward P. Tracey, of the Rosery, 23 Steuben street, was instructed to read a paper on the retail business in Albany at the September meeting. All papers presented hereafter at the club meetings are to be limited to 15 minutes each. The meeting was adjourned at 9:55 o'clock for a social hour and refreshments supplied by the hosts. The September meeting will be held at the home of F. A. Danker, 744 Central avenue.

Haverhill, Mass.

There are several wide awake retailers in the trade in this city who are after business all the time. Charles H. Kaulbach, 28 Main street, with large greenhouses in the suburbs, is quite a factor in the trade, having the oldest establishment. His daughter manages the store, most of his time being taken up with the growing of plants and flowers, all of which stock is sold at retail.

The Haverhill Rose Conservatories of W. F. Eaton, comprise over 20,000 feet of glass. Roses are the main crop, together with a house of carnations. The stock has done very well the past season and he found a good market for all he could grow.

Yoffe Brothers, 5 Main street, are two live wires, who although comparatively new in the trade here, are much pleased with the way their business is growing. A good looking delivery car is an attractive feature.

Karl S. Brackett, 38 Winter street, in business but a little more than one year, is well satisfied with his progress and prospects, his first season being much above the mark he had set for it.

Frank Leuth & Son, Primrose street, are growers for the trade and have a good stock of ferns and other foliage plants. Christmas and Easter stock is also grown in quantity.

Chas. Emerson & Sons have a very nice stock at 39-41 Merrimac street, and are on the job for all that comes their way.

John B. Minton, 35 Main street, has quite a commodious store, well equipped for the business.

We respectfully call the attention of the trade to our Large Stock of FOLIAGE and FLOWERING PLANTS.

CRAIG QUALITY CROTONS

Crotons have long been a specialty with us. We have this year grown only the Standard Sorts, together with our new Seedling Varieties, all of which are the best suited by reason of their high colors and handsome foliage for florists' use. We offer them in all sizes from 3-inch pots for basket work up to handsome made-up plants in the largest specimens.

CRAIG QUALITY FERNS

Our stock of Ferns comprises over 150,000 plants in sizes from 2-inch pots up to handsome pedestal specimens. We have never before been able to offer such quality in quantity. Varieties are: Teddy, Jr., John Wanamaker, Smithii, Todeoides, Scottii, Scholzellii, Elegantissima Improved, Harrisii, and others.

CRAIG QUALITY FICUS

The Ficus is another of our specialties.

FICUS PANDURATA, FICUS UTILIS

We grow much the largest stock of these varieties in this country, in all sizes from 6-inch pots up to noble specimens in tubs.

CRAIG QUALITY DRACAENAS

Strong, splendidly colored plants of Terminalis, Massangeana, Lord Wolseley, Kelleriana, Godseffiana, Sanderiana.

CRAIG QUALITY CYCLAMEN

Some 60,000 of them, the largest and best grown stock ever seen in this country. All sizes from 2 to 8-inch pots.

We also offer large stocks of Areca Lutescens, Pandanus Veitchii, Phoenix Roebelenii, Gardenia Veitchii, Hydrangea Otaksa, and the best French varieties, Otaheite oranges, Begonias Cinnamati and Lorraine, and many other meritorious plants.

Send for our illustrated Free Catalogue which contains our entire list of plants.

Canadian Horticultural Association.

The nineteenth annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association was called to order in Janzen hall, Berlin, Ont., August 8, the three-day programme including many features of interest. The visitors were welcomed to the city by Mayor Hett and following the response by E. B. Hamilton, London, President F. W. Adams delivered his address, which was followed by a discussion. The reports of the secretary-treasurer, plant registration committee and the tariff committee were presented, after which a paper entitled, "Commercial Ferns," was read by E. J. Hayward of Montreal. At the close of the first session, automobiles were in waiting and the visitors were taken on a sight seeing tour, among the points of interest visited being the Janzen greenhouses, Waterloo Park and the trial grounds of the Ontario Seed Co. At the evening session two very interesting papers were read, "Success With a Home Garden," by Geo. H. Baldwin, Toronto, and "Commercial Culture of the Peony and Dahlia," by Harry Tatle, Toronto.

Other interesting papers included in the programme were the following: "Bedding Plants," by Frank Wise, Peterboro; "Gladioli," by John A. Campbell, Simcoe; "Problems of the Retailer," by H. Dilleuth, Toronto; "Outdoor Roses," by J. Luck, Montreal.

The local committee in charge arranged a delightful programme of entertainment for the guests, auto trips being made to a number of the florists' establishments in Berlin and Bridgeport, with a base ball game at the latter place, followed by a supper. A visit to the model farm at Guelph was also included in the itinerary.

GOOD STOCK OF ALL KINDS IS SCARCE.

Business has been very good the past week and stock of all kinds is scarce and bringing high summer prices. There is not much stock reaching the market and what does arrive is sold before or almost as soon as it is unpacked, consequently the wholesalers are handling much less stock at higher prices than they did last summer, when flowers were plentiful and prices were low. Roses are scarce and clean up at an early hour each day, especially Mrs. Chas Russell, which have improved somewhat in quality since the cooler weather set in. The quality of the roses in general is nothing to speak of, but anything is selling now and at good prices. American Beauty roses are reaching the market in pretty fair condition, all things considered, and are in good demand. My Maryland roses are having a good call and command high figures. Champ Weiland roses are more plentiful and are bringing very satisfactory prices and appear to be the favorite with the city buyers. Ophelias are in good demand and so are Sunburst and Mrs. George Shawyer. All the other roses are having a good call and when the stores close at night there is hardly ever any surplus to speak of. Gladioli are gradually becoming more plentiful, but the demand seems to keep pace with the supply, with prices keeping up well. Gladioli have sold unusually well this year, with no great surplus noticed since the season opened. Prices in general are better than last year, so far and from present indications it appears as if the late varieties will share in the high prices for the outlook for an increased supply of other stock for the next month is not very encouraging and the only thing that can weaken the market now is a sudden slackening up in trade or in other words practically no business whatever to speak of. Asters are moving nicely at satisfactory prices, especially in the better grades and more stock could be used to good advantage in this market right now. Lily of the valley is having its usual good call and is still commanding high prices with very little stock offered and a short supply. Orchids are moving at good prices and are none too plentiful. Some fine sweet peas are now being offered, which the dealers claim are coming from eastern points and are selling at surprisingly good figures. Lilies are good property and there are not enough to go around. Miscellaneous stock in general, both indoor and outdoor flowers, has been selling unusually well during the shortage of roses and it has been a long time since the market has been so well cleaned up of stock as now, at this season of the year. Green good of all kinds have been selling and the demand for ferns the past week was so brisk that on several occasions it was difficult to locate any great quantity which some of the dealers attribute to the fact that several of the shippers were off guard for they were right on the job with their shipments as soon as they were notified of the conditions. The Houston convention is much talked of in the wholesale district and it appears as if this city will be represented by a larger delegation than was at first expected.

NOTES.

August Poehlmann and E. C. Pruner will represent Poehlmann Bros. Co. at the Houston convention, where the firm will have a large exhibit. Mr. Poehlmann and family have returned from a pleasant visit at Lake Delavan, Wis.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are handling a good supply of American Beauty roses which are in good demand at their establishment. Mr. Vaughan reports that business continues to be brisk and that the sales in some instances compare most favorably with those of last winter. Mrs. Vaughan and daughter Thelma are making a trip to the Pacific coast and will spend considerable time at San Francisco and Los Angeles, Calif.

Peter Reinberg is cutting a good supply of the new rose Champ Weiland, which is selling unusually well, owing to its splendid color and rich foliage. Emil Reichling, superintendent of the Reinberg greenhouses, is having a fine time with his new Buick which he will find that he can use to good advantage in making his regular trips to and from the rose and carnation ranges.

A. T. Pyfer says that Pyfer & Olsem have their new place on Murphy avenue about half planted to carnations already and that work on the balance is being pushed as rapidly as possible. Peter Olsem is thinking of buying a racing machine so that he can travel from their Wilmette place to the new range in Rogers Park in as short a time as possible.

At Weitor Bros.' store the receipts of Ophelia roses are extra heavy and every time one visits their place it seems as if the whole force is grading this variety. This firm is all sold out of chrysanthemum stock which moved unusually well this year and is now pushing field grown carnation plants of which they have a large supply.

J. A. Budlong is offering a good supply of gladioli and asters in addition to a complete line of roses. Several of Manager Schupp's assistants are pretty fine checker players and claim to be the champions of the wholesale market and are ready to defend their titles against all comers.

Erne & Klingel have increased their store force in the shape of a baby boy who arrived at the home of their able storeman, August Barnett, last Sunday, August 6. Mr. Barnett is so happy over the increase in his family that he has taken a two weeks' vacation in order to celebrate the event.

Miss Mabel Louise Wheelock, who has quite a reputation as an architectural water colorist, will join the staff of the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co. as soon as she returns from a vacation trip to Montana, where she is taking in the sights at Glacier National park.

James E. Jones will represent the Advance Co., of Richmond, Ind., and the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., of this city, at the Houston convention. He is visiting relatives in Oklahoma at present but will be in the convention city the opening day of the meeting.

W. N. Nisson, who has charge of the credits at the Chicago Flower Growers' Association store, is enjoying his vacation. Ed. Hunt is expected home from Michigan this week and will report for duty at this house August 14.

Miss Hardesty, of Hardesty & Co., Cincinnati, O., was a welcome visitor this week and is spending a few days here on business and pleasure. She visited Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s greenhouses at Morton Grove during her stay here.

G. E. Chadwick, who has been filling a temporary position in the A. L. Randall Co.'s cut flower department, has accepted a position as grower with the Storm Lake Floral Co., Storm Lake, Ia.

Fritz Bahr, of Highland Park, has invested in a new Ford passenger car. He has also placed an order with the A. L. Randall Co. for one of its new electric store fountains.

John Furrow, of Guthrie, Okla., and P. J. Foley left this week for St. Joseph, Mo., and from there they will travel on to Houston to take in the S. A. F. convention.

Fred Hoerber is doing double duty at Hoerber Bros' store during the absence of Harry Mannheim who is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Frank Schleiden is back from a delightful visit at Saugatuck, Mich., and is again attending to his duties at Chas. W. McKellar's store.

Kennicott Bros. Co. is experiencing a good demand for gladioli which are being handled in quantity in all the seasonable varieties.

A. E. Turner, of Rosin & Turner, fern dealers with headquarters at Mosinee, Wis., is calling on the wholesale trade this week.

Adolph Benesh, manager of the E. F. Winterson Co.'s supply department, is spending his vacation with his family in Michigan.

J. F. Wolniewicz, 1530 North Kedzie avenue, has sold his retail store to Miss May Flynn, who took possession August 1.

George D. Reid, formerly with the Ernest Wienhoeber Floral Co., is now in the employ of D. D. P. Roy.

Leo. Bather and wife, of Clinton, Ia., were visitors at Zech & Mann's establishment this week.

Guy W. French and family are spending their vacation motoring in northern Wisconsin.

Fred Nichols, of the George Reinberg store force, is visiting old acquaintances in Peoria.

E. C. Amling, H. N. Bruns and John Michelsen spent a few days at Fox Lake last week.

Chas. A. Samuelson is back from a month's visit on his fruit farm at Wendell, Idaho.

J. F. Kidwell is the proud possessor of a new Buick touring car.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has a fine stock of palms on hand in all the desirable varieties and sizes and is having a splendid demand for same. The supply department under the able management of T. E. Waters is featuring a large quantity of pastel and natural prepared foliage that is attracting much favorable attention at the store and is selling on sight. Otto W. Frese of the cut flower department denies the rumor that has been circulated in the market that he was going to make a change and has requested that his friends be notified that he is still at the old stand ready to look after their interests as carefully as before.

Bassett & Washburn are building a fireproof cold storage building 28x28 feet at Gregg's station and have let the contract to Kroeschell Bros. Co. for a 10-ton ice machine and all the necessary equipment, including the piping, etc. Bassett & Washburn are also building a fireproof packing room and storage plant, 35x60 feet, at Gregg's and both structures will be two stories high and modern in every respect. Peter Knowe has the contract to erect the building and the Johns-Manville Co.'s roofing will be used.

Percy Jones is having a good season and Manager Van Gelder is busy making preparations for a big fall trade. Luke Schrer, who has been spending a month's vacation at Muskegon, Mich., will be back to work next Monday, August 14. Miss May Nissen of the office force will be the next on the list at this establishment to enjoy a vacation and will leave Saturday, August 12.

The Raedlein Basket Co. has had a number of out-of-town visitors at its establishment the past week and never had such a large and complete line of stock to show. This firm is issuing a new catalogue which will be ready for mailing soon and all that is necessary to secure one is to send them a postal at 713 Milwaukee avenue.

Bert Cole, of the E. C. Amling Co., and wife have returned from a delightful 2200 mile lake trip on the steamer South America. He says that while he was at Mackinac Island he saw some of the finest sweet peas and Shasta daisies of the season and that the stock did not seem to be affected any by the warm weather.

The Alpha Floral Co. is featuring one of the A. L. Randall Co.'s new electric fountains in their window display which is attracting much favorable attention. Andrew Chronis reports that the firm has been very busy with work the past week when it had several large orders for the Lytton funeral.

Miss Zandra Anderson is again attending to her duties at the John Kruchten Co.'s store after a delightful two weeks' vacation, part of which was spent at Saugatuck, Mich. Mr. Kruchten and family are enjoying their vacation at Sister Lakes, Mich., and made the trip by auto, leaving early Monday morning, August 7.

The Wittbold apartment building on Buckingham place is rapidly nearing completion and work on the George Wittbold Co.'s new store building adjoining the west end will soon be well under way. Louis Wittbold will occupy one of the new apartments as soon as they are completed.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg is a member of the introductory committee of the Ladies' Society of American Florists and will be on hand at the Houston convention to perform her duties. She will leave with the local delegation next Sunday evening, August 13.

Zech & Mann are handling a large quantity of Mrs. Chas. Russell roses which Allie Zech reports in brisk demand. Miss Nelda Wolf, who looks after the office duties at Zech & Mann's store, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

J. L. Johnson, of De Kalb, was a visitor at Kyle & Foerster's store this week. He reports business as good and has no complaint whatever to make in regard to dull times.

The A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co. is always glad to show visitors through its new factory and when C. B. Arnold is away, Joe Marks is on the job to show the guests around.

The A. L. Randall Co. is having a heavy run on its electric store fountain which is proving to be an exceptionally good seller on account of its very reasonable cost.

Mrs. Diemer, of the Diemer Floral Co., St. Louis, Mo., and son Carl, spent a few days here this week after returning from a delightful lake trip to Buffalo, N. Y.

Weiland & Risch are having a good call for gladioli which they are offering in quantity in a large number of seasonable varieties.

John Sinner is again on deck at Sinner Bros.' store after giving the boys a lift at the greenhouses for a couple of weeks.

O. A. & L. A. Tonner have a nice stock of supplies of all kinds on hand and are steadily building up a splendid city trade.

Miller & Musser are strong on gladioli and asters in addition to a good supply of other miscellaneous outdoor stock.

Joseph Ziska & Sons report trade this summer as remarkably good especially in the wire department.

Julius Schnapp has returned to the Pacific coast and is making his headquarters at Seattle, Wash.

FAIR SUPPLY MOVES WELL.

The blazing hot weather of the past several weeks has seriously affected the cut of flowers. The asters and gladioli in this immediate vicinity, are feeling the want of rain and but a part of the receipts are of the highest quality. While the supply in the market apparently is adequate, still receipts are not very heavy and generally clean up readily. Roses are not as plentiful as they were. Easter lilies are in good supply and are having a good market. The better grade of asters are selling well. Gladioli are in fair supply, but at times the higher colors are short of the demand for them. Hardy hydrangeas are excellent and are having a good call. Other offerings include water lilies, rubrums and snapdragons.

NOTES.

E. G. Gillett and Wm. Mayhall, accompanied by their wives, drove to Amelia, O., August 6 to visit Chas. Pommert.

STOCK SUFFERS FROM HEAT.

The weather continues on the hot side with practically no rain and outdoor stock is showing the effects of the drought. Asters, while not as good as they might be, are of fair quality and are arriving in large numbers. Gladioli have fallen off both in quality and quantity and carnations are practically a thing of the past. Roses on the other hand have shown a decided improvement over last week and sell at sight. Lilies continue plentiful and the quality is good.

NOTES.

Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. are busy with out-of-town business and have been compelled to turn down some orders owing to a shortage of stock in some lines. Mrs. Mollie Brown is enjoying a two weeks' vacation and Manager Parker and his family, accompanied by a party of friends, will leave August 12 for an auto trip through Missouri, Iowa and Illinois with Chicago their objective point, returning by way of St. Louis.

Chas. Biederman & Son report trade quiet outside of funeral work. "Billy" Biederman is contemplating a trip to Texas to look over some land he owns there, but he jokingly says that at present he does not know whether Uncle Sam or the "greasers" have it now.

Adolph D. Mohr may find stock scarce in the florist line, but he led the flower of his choice to the altar August 2, and is now numbered with the benedicts. All of the local trade wish him and his bride unlimited happiness and prosperity.

H. Kusik & Co. are handling a good supply of asters of fair quality. Gladioli and lilies still meet with a good demand. Stock cleans up well daily. This firm has disposed of one-half of the carload of moss it received recently.

The Rosery reports a good week, there being a heavy demand for funeral work. Business was much better than the corresponding week a year ago.

A. F. Barbe reports excessively hot weather at his range, but the chrysanthemums, carnations and roses are in fine shape.

August Luther, Jr., is cutting some fairly good asters and his gladioli are better than the average seen in this market.

T. J. Noll & Co. report the demand in excess of receipts. Asters, gladioli, roses and a large quantity of lilies are seen here.

Arthur Newell reports a satisfactory trade for the season, but experiences difficulty in getting quality stock.

W. L. Rock Flower Co. reports fair business with a shortage of stock.

E. J. B.

Cleveland.

The floral industry has not suffered from the heat; comparisons with the corresponding period last year shows a small gain this season, but it is very warm here, and the heat and drouth have had a telling effect on gladioli and asters, many being burnt or dried up in the field, and receipts of good outdoor stock are limited at this time. Water lilies are moving nicely but Easter lilies have shortened in supply. Sweet peas are plentiful with a fair demand. Gladioli and asters are now in better supply and in good demand. Roses continue scarce. Field carnations are beginning to arrive. Greens are plentiful.

NOTES.

At the regular meeting of the florists' club, held August 7, the following officers were nominated to be voted for at the September meeting: Sam Pentecost, president; Timothy Smith, vice-president; M. Merrick, second vice-president; Al Barber, secretary; A. C. Fox, treasurer.

The gladioli show at the Hollenden hotel, which takes place August 18-19, promises to be another big event, and retailers who want to stage baskets and table decorations should get busy. Growers also, who have not exhibited before should get into the game.

Miss Bayley, of the Westman & Getz Co., left this week for New York, where she will meet Miss Getz of the same firm.

Carl Lee and H. Brothers, of the J. M. Gasser Co.'s retail store, leave Monday for Cincinnati, O., on their vacation.

Geo. W. Smith, of the Cleveland Florists' Exchange, spent several days the past week in Philadelphia and New York.

Geo. Schaub and Clarence Meyers, of the Smith & Feters Co., are spending several weeks at Twin Lakes, Mich.

John Coombs, one of the pioneers in the business here, has a handsome store on Main street, with greenhouses on Benton street. Latticed ceiling and enameled woodwork in white with artistic formations are the features in the store and window decorations. Handsome palms add a tropical effect. It is certainly a handsome store, while the additional store on Asylum street, under the Garde hotel, is a good second. The interior here is handsome and conveniently arranged for the quick transaction of business so necessary to a retail store and the commodious window is kept well decorated.

Wm. J. Dogue, 262 Asylum street, has an elegant and showy corner location. While one of the most recent of the larger stores, this being the second season, and the proprietor is much gratified with his success so far and prospects for the future. The latest ideas in decorative effects—cases, mirrors, flower case, etc.—are seen here, and the arrangement is very pleasing. Cibotiums, handsome plants on high pedestals, produce a very decorative effect.

This wide awake New England city has more high-class flower stores than any other of its size in the United States. They are all up-to-the-minute in finish and equipment and are making a bid for business in such a live way that their influence in increasing the taste and desire for flowers is very apparent in the expanding trade.

Spear & McManus, 242 Asylum street, have an elegant store, with a greenhouse in the rear, not often seen in connection with a store so centrally located as this establishment is, making it very complete. The offices are in the balcony at the rear of the store.

Welch, The Florist, 264 Asylum street, has a fine shop, the handsome show windows being at all times nicely decorated. All of the appointments of the store are most modern and reflect excellent taste in its arrangement. A good line of seasonable flowers is well displayed.

The McManus Posey Shop, 526 Asylum street, near the railroad station, has a very practical and neatly furnished store. Every foot of space is utilized and made to do its part. Much attention is paid to the window which is kept effectively decorated.

G. G. McClunie, 165 Main street, has a neat store and is always on the job. This establishment is near the residential district and enjoys a good family trade.

GOOD TRADE DESPITE HOT WEATHER.

Trade has been holding up quite well for the season, notwithstanding the hot weather. There is a scarcity of flowers at present, with roses off crop, only a few good varieties being seen with any regularity. Among the best just now are My Maryland, Francis Scott Key, White Killarney and Sunburst. Carnations are very small and poor. Sweet peas are also short-stemmed and poor in quality. Easter lilies are to be had but they too are small. Asters have made their appearance.

NOTES.

Charles H. Vick, who has been in charge of the floricultural division at the state fair, is chairman of the flower section at the Rochester exposition which opens September 4. Associated with him on the committee are George B. Hart, A. H. Salter and E. P. Wilson. Prizes are to be offered in both professional and amateur classes for plants, cut flowers, floral designs, etc. Entries will be received in these sections until August 24.

Salter Bros. have been making a splendid showing of statice in a number of colors at their downtown store. The decoration at their uptown establishment is attracting considerable attention. It consists of a pool with pond lilies, groupings of aquatic plants with a background of palms, etc.

The trade extends its sympathy to the family of the late John Charlton, who died in this city August 2, after a long and useful career. A more extended notice will be found in our obituary column this week.

Several of the "new" flower shops which were opened on a small scale last spring have found the rents in the downtown section rather high and are moving into smaller quarters.

M. L. Keller, of J. B. Keller Sons, and family are rustivating. Miss Carrie Hildweiler, of the Keller force, is also enjoying her vacation.

George Cramer has been engaged to do the decorating at the floral hall at the exposition, September 4-11.

CHESTER.

Providence, R. I.

STOCK IN MOST LINES PLENTIFUL.

Stock in general has been rather plentiful during the past week, sweet peas being an exception, as the damp weather has spotted them badly, and there are practically no carnations to be had. Good rose stock can now be bought at low figures. The demand for floral work has been slow but cut flower sales have been good. There will be several large weddings in this city in a few weeks that will keep the trade busy.

NOTES.

Westminster Greenhouses have had their delivery car repainted and it presents a very fine appearance with its striking grey and gold.

Olney Williams is cutting good asters and his sweet peas are coming in again.

Macnair is making improvements at his flower store on Weybosset street.

HEAT THREATENS OUTDOOR STOCK.

The long expected hot wave has finally reached here, and if it lasts any length of time the outdoor stock will be cut down. Up to this time it has been a remarkable year, and florists have commented on the profusion of bloom of all varieties during the season. Nearly all flowers have been on the market steadily in good form, and for this reason florists, who are selling their own indoor grown stock, will naturally welcome some shortage in the outdoor varieties that may result in an increase in prices.

NOTES.

The Groen marigold is attracting much attention at the store of the Redondo Floral Co., some of the specimens measuring four and one-half inches in diameter. This firm reports that aside from funeral work there is not much doing at present, but they have several weddings booked for August. Albert Knopf is back on the job again after an auto tour, and Mr. Borden is now busy turning down his grease cups and getting ready for an extensive trip next week.

A. G. Bruce, with Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldenson, who was among the guardsmen who went to the Mexican border from this city, has returned, his term of service having expired.

Seki Bros. & Co. continue to bring in some very good carnations from their Hollywood establishment.

J. W. Wolters is doing some business. The first golden glow of the season was seen here recently.

Mr. Morris, of Morris & Snow, is at Monon lake in the Yosemite country, enjoying an outing.

S. Murata & Co. are shipping large quantities of new crop carnations and asters.

Aside from an occasional funeral, the Broadway Florists report business quiet.

G. H. H.

Worcester, Mass.

Worcester is fortunate in its horticultural society, with its splendid building, situated in the very center of the city, the first floor of which brings in an income of $10,000 a year. Exhibitions, free to the public are held in spring and fall. These principal shows last two days. Other exhibitions are held in the afternoon of the third Thursday of each month from May until October. In addition there are displays of summer flowers on Thursday of each week from June until September. These are open from 3 to 4:30 p. m. and in some cases as in gladioli, rose, grape and other important shows the closing hour is 9 P. M. There is a chance for all to get honors as from three to five prizes are offered in each class. The prizes are all money, and considering the quantity, are very liberal. The building is well equipped; the hall is well lighted and commodious. A well furnished library room in the front of the building has a splendid and valuable collection of all the standard works on horticulture. Accessions are made of all the new books of value relating to plants, fruits and flowers. The Encyclopedia Britannica, 29 volumes, as well as some 20 other valuable books, were added the past year. The secretary's office is adjoining the library. The exhibitions held here are quite up to the standard of the monthly shows seen in the larger cities, although the competition here is restricted to residents of Worcester county.

There are a number of high class retail stores in this live city of over 160,000 people. The H. F. A. Lange establishment, with its immense range of glass in the suburbs and the commodious store at 371-373 Main street, in the center of the shopping district, have all the facilities within themselves of operating this large business. E. C. Lange is in charge of their splendidly arranged store, while L. R. Lange commands the greenhouse force. It is one of the best balanced combined retail and growing places in the country.

Randall's Flower Shop, at 13 Pleasant street, is right in it with its up-to-date equipment—it has all the earmarks of a thriving business. A very effective fixture is a wide marble-topped table or shelf along the wall at the rear of one show window. Over this is a pergola frame work. An immense mirror on the wall at the back reflects the flower case on the other side of the store. There are many other utility and ornamental features that mark this a modern shop. A good stock of flowers was attractively arranged.

Thayer, 889 Main street, in the residential district, does a nice family trade. Latticed work decorations are a feature here. Business was reported good the past season. Mrs. May Fisher, 537 Main street, is one of the oldest in the business here, and does a good transient trade. Funeral work is a specialty.

H. F. Littlefield, 552 Main street, has a handsome store with mirrors, tiled floor and fine flower case. The two large show windows are nicely decorated. The greenhouses on Kast street are an important adjunct to this business-like establishment.

WEATHER WARM; BUSINESS SLOW.

August has been ushered in very warm and quiet. The calm which is noticeable in the retail shops and the intense heat in the greenhouses have a tendency to fit the florist for almost anything or place. Roses are struggling to show forth as good blooms, with My Maryland and Double White Killarney looking the best. Safrano appears larger than Aaron Ward, Francis Scott Key are very good, and while American Beauties are plentiful, the quality is only fair. Sweet peas are so dry they appear cooked and the asters present a pitiful appearance, compared with what are generally seen here. Carnations are equal to all demands but are small. Gladioli are not plentiful in any color and the demand is mostly for store decoration. Some fine phlox of unusual size are to be seen. Store alterations and redecorating are now in order and many of the establishments will be brightened up in anticipation of good trade to come.

NOTES.

D. Newlands & Co. are making extensive improvements at their range, included in which are three new houses. Situated as they are adjacent to Forest Lawn cemetery, it shows their business is increasing. Oscar Lowenthal, in charge, has been very successful with cemetery work and his stock for the fall trade is in fine shape.

Jerry Brookins and son of Orchard Park have everything in such good shape that they can spend part of each week at their summer home in Angola, N. Y.

W. J. Palmer & Son are renovating their establishment at Lancaster, N. Y., and Wm. Stroh is making improvements at his establishment at Attica.

The annual outing of the florists' club, August 2, was a most enjoyable affair. A more extended account of the event will be found in another column.

Schwert & Berner are very optimistic and say their stock will be good this fall.

BISON.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.—S. Bryson Ayers, florist, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities, $4,300; assets a small amount of personal property.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

GLADIOLI PLENTIFUL AND SELL WELL.

Gladioli now lead the market, in bulk at least. Some very good stock is seen, which cleans up much better than last year at this time—America, Augusta, Mrs. Francis King are the leading sorts. Anything high class in roses is very scarce. A few good MY Maryland, Kaiserin and Ophelia, together with fair American Beauties, are the best, and considering the great heat which they are now experiencing, are very fair flowers. Asters are disappointing—quite a quantity are offered, but the quality is far from satisfactory. They appear to be cut too soon, but the growers say that by the time the unopened buds are expanded on the plant, the open flowers would not be saleable. Some few growers have good stock and are rewarded for their trouble by satisfactory returns. Carnations are about down and out; they have held splendidly this year. Outside flowers are in good demand. Hydrangeas, gypsophilas, feverfews, larkspurs, and Clematis paniculatas are fast commencing to come in. There are also a few dahlias. Lily of the valley is scarce; hardly enough to fill regular orders and little for the occasional buyer. Cattleyas are not nearly so plentiful, with from 25 to 33 per cent rise in values.

NOTES.

Philip Fruend, of the H. F. Michell Co. force, has charge of all the decorative features of the store and gives a good deal of thought to their two large show windows. Last week one was filled with choice gladioli, while the other was a strawberry bed in full fruit. This latter was a picture with its quantity of plants heavily fruited with berries of all sizes; the leaves and fruit were artificial, but the appearance was just like a part of the garden. Out on the street, in front, boxes of strawberry plants in pots, fine stock, were for sale. This week all is changed, for, as Mr. Fruend says, "We very seldom carry a window for more than a week. We believe our windows are the most effective advertising, and they are kept up to standard all the time."

Next week is convention week, but so far, outside of representatives of the supply houses, this city will have but one member in attendance, Hon. Joseph Heacock who has gone with the New York delegation, by boat from New York. There was a death in Mr. Heacock's family last week. His sister, Miss Gaylor Heacock, passed away at age of 87. She had scarcely ever been ill and was about the day before she died, the end coming suddenly from heart failure. For many years she assisted her sister in conducting a young ladies' seminary.

Wm. P. Craig has resigned from the Robert Craig Co. and is to go into the business of forcing cut roses for the market. If satisfactory buildings cannot be secured, a new plant of considerable size will be erected in the neighborhood of this city.

Robert Craig and some of his department heads, spent the last week end with Commodore Westcott at Waretown. A large shark from 10 to 12 feet in length, seen in the bay, interested them. Fortunately they saw him first and there is no tragedy. The Philadelphia Wholesale Cut Flower Exchange is busy fitting up its new store, 1615 Ranstead street, which will be very complete when finished. John Cunningham has now associated himself with the company.

S. S. Skidelsky has just had a cataract successfully removed from one of his eyes. What little use he has given his eye since the operation leads him to believe that his sight is now fully restored.

Stuart H. Miller reports his first summer's business to be very satisfactory. Good gladioli and very fair asters are handled in quantity.

One of the cut flower commission houses in Pennsylvania is reported to have done a business the past year running into seven figures.

Large quantities of carnation plants, field grown, are offered by the Leo Niessen Co. The stock is said to be very fine.

Edward Reid is featuring My Maryland, Mock and Kaiserin roses. Good asters are also leaders.

The regular meeting of the Holyoke and Northampton Gardeners' and Florists' Club was held at the establishment of R. S. Cary, South Hadley, Mass., August 1. The attendance was well up to the average and practically the entire time was devoted to the reading and discussion of essays. H. E. Downer read a paper received from the National Association of Gardeners, entitled, "Horticulture as a Profession From the Standpoint of a Gardener," written by J. Johnson, New York. The paper was full of good points and a most interesting discussion followed. G. W. Thornley, florist at the state hospital, read a paper entitled, "Reminiscences of Bedding Plants," from OUTLOOK FAR FROM ENCOURAGING.

Business was very light in the wholesale district during the past week. Most of the stores are now closing at 4 p. m., but for that matter they might close at noon without missing much business. July 31 was a very hot day, but contrary to expectations, the remainder of the week was fairly comfortable. This week opens with a higher temperature, and with a prospect of the various street car lines being tied up, the outlook is not reassuring. The quality of stock, as a rule, continues poor. Not much can be expected of roses at this season, and the quality of asters, up to this time, has been unusually poor. No fault can be found with the lilies, but they are more plentiful and can now be bought at the rate of $4 per 100. The supply of orchids continues light and the best wholesale at the rate of $75 per 100. Lily of the valley is also rather scarce and the best stock goes at $5 per 100. There is an increasing surplus of gladioli on the market and the bulk of sales are at 75 cents to $1 per 100, for common stock, and there have been sales of America as low as $1 per 100. A few gardenias are arriving, which are soon taken, but the supply is not large enough to class them as factors. The best stock of roses seemed to go a little better during the past week than the week previous.

August 7.—With a light demand, an increasing supply of stock, much of it poor, business is down to bedrock dullness. A great quantity of asters and gladioli are on the market. One dealer has stated that he does not expect to average over 50 cents per 100 for his gladioli, as many cannot be sold. A few asters bring $2 per 100, but six dozen for $1 is nearer the ruling figures for the better grade of stock and there are quantities going cheaper. Lily of the valley and orchids are scarce. Small quantities of the former have sold at the rate of $8 per 100, but $6 is about the top price for a large quantity.

NOTES.

Mrs. Julia E. Tichenor, of Brooklyn, has come out strong for the columbine as the national flower. A. L. Miller, the well-known grower of Jamaica and Brooklyn, seems to be of the same mind, as he has made a selection of columbine petals, which are illustrated in the New York World of August 6. Here are the reasons therein advanced for the selection of the columbine: "(1) It grows in every state of the Union, from the cold latitudes of the Canada border to those of sub-tropical Florida. (2) It is the only plant that produces flowers in the three national colors—red, white, and blue. (3) Its botanical name, Aquilegia, designates the eagle, our national emblem. (4) The common name, columbine, means doves, because of the resemblance of the petals to the heads of doves gathered in a ring about a dish—many in peace and union. Also, the name is very near Columbia, in which the discoverer Columbus is honored. (5) The five spurred petals when removed from the flower are so many Liberty caps for the Republic's goddess. (6) The five petals remaining on the stem after removal of the Liberty caps form a perfect five-pointed star for the flag."

Young & Nugent, 42 West 28th street, had a very large amount of funeral work during the past week, and the designs arranged for the funeral of William T. Rock, formerly president of the Vitagraph Motion Picture Company of America, filled a large auto-truck. There was a cross six feet high of orchids and lily of the valley, and a number of standing wreaths, largely of orchids and lily of the valley. As orchids were not plentiful, they nearly cleaned up the market.

It appears, at this writing, that the delegation from this city to the Houston convention will be small. We learn that Joseph A. Manda of West Orange and C. W. Scott of the Yokohama Nursery Co. are booked for passage, also Richard Vincent, Jr., and wife, of White Marsh, Md. There will probably be some delegates from Philadelphia, and Washington. The long trip and a dread of hot weather seem to be the deterring features.

Mrs. Emma Lewisohn, wife of Adolph Lewisohn, banker and capitalist, died July 28 at the summer home of the family, Elberon, N. J., aged 61 years. The Lewisohns have been widely known in this city and state for their interest in horticulture, and John Canning, their gardener, has staged many fine exhibits at the shows. Mrs. Lewisohn was also noted for her charities.

Mrs. Leo Klein, wife of the retail florist of Lexington avenue and 60th street, recently fell through a fire escape at her home and was taken to Flower hospital in a serious condition, but is now improving. She fell two stories, and though no bones were broken, she was unconscious for 36 hours.

Walter Mott, who travels for Benjamin Hammond, Beacon, N. Y., selling the famous "Slug Shot" and other condiments that exterminate bugs and other "varmints," visited this city recently.

C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., advises us that Japanese lily bulbs will hereafter be admitted to England, but bulbs from other countries are yet barred.

Knight & Struck Co. have removed to more commodious quarters and now occupy the entire fourth floor at 258 Fifth avenue, near Twenty-eighth street.

Hentz & Nash, Inc., in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Co., are receiving a good stock of Hadley, Ophelia, White Killarney and other roses.

Most of the seedsmen have received shipments of Harrisii lily bulbs from Bermuda, and they are said to be good.

James Coyle, 64 West 26th street, who has been laid up with rheumatism for three weeks, is again at business.

William G. Loeser, bookkeeper for Badgley & Bishop, Inc., 34 West 28th street, has gone on his vacation.

At the range of Dalledouze Brothers, Flatbush, we recently noticed exceptionally fine stock of Chrysanthemums Chrysolora and October Frost. They have made fine growths and the foliage looks exceptionally clean and healthy. They have quite a stock of Early Frost that is now flowering. Paul and Henry Dalledouze have gone to Alaska, and Eugene and wife have returned home from there.

At the Henry Hession range, Flatbush, one found great activity in carnation planting and the stock looks well. A. Demeusey and G. Messeberg, also Flatbush growers, have good stocks of carnations planted. Considering the very wet weather of early summer, these carnations have done better than might have been expected. Much outdoor stock has not done well this summer.

Walter Lee, manager for the Astoria Florist, 2188 Broadway, has just returned from a vacation of several weeks at the Delaware Water Gap. M. Vlachos, proprietor of the store, and wife, are now at a New England resort.

John Donaldson, now of Patchogue, L. I., formerly of Elmhurst, and a popular and familiar figure in the wholesale district, was a visitor the past week.

William Moore, of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, Pa., visited a number of old friends in this city, August 5, while on his vacation.

Miss O'Brien, bookkeeper for Guttman & Raynor, Inc., has gone to the Catskill mountains on a two weeks' vacation. A. F. F.

This society will hold an exhibition August 19-20, in the museum building, New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park, New York City. It will be mainly a gladiolus show, but premiums are also offered for montbretias and also collections of annual flowers. The exhibition committee is also authorized to award prizes for exhibits not included in the regular published schedule of premiums. Such exhibits will be welcome. Schedules are now ready for distribution and will be sent on application to the secretary, George V. Nash, New York Botanical Garden, Bronx Park, New York City.

This large business center, with a population of almost 100,000 people, has large manufacturing interests with a foreign population above the average. They are most prosperous at this time, every man at all willing, being employed at good wages. There are a number of active, up-to-date men in the trade here. Thornton Bros., on Essex street, sell both cut flowers and seeds and have a large well appointed store, particularly well stocked with all the requisites of a modern retail shop.

W. C. Campbell, 17 Lawrence street, just off of Essex street, the main thoroughfare, is one of the live wires. A collection of decorative plants is a feature here. This establishment has all the appearances of being a busy one.

Swan & Berndtson, in the residential district, have a conveniently arranged store and greenhouses, growing much of the stock they sell. They report a very satisfactory business during the past season.

Wm. F. Regan, 504 Essex street, makes a specialty of waxed flowers and wreaths, but also carries natural flowers in stock. Funeral work is his specialty.

A. H. Wagland, 647 Broadway, does a general business, covering all branches, including cemetery vases and bedding. His has been a satisfactory season.

Omaha.

The annual outing of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Florists' Club was held at Lake Manawa, August 3, all flower shops in both cities closing at 2 p. m. with the result that there was a good attendance, florists and their families and friends to the number of over 200 being on hand and all had a most enjoyable time. The weather was delightful and a fine programme of sports was carried out, liberal awards being given the winners. In the tug-of-war, which was one of the features, the Council Bluffs team had things much their own way. Following the games, a group photograph was taken, after which a splendid repast was served in the spacious dining room of the Lake Manawa boat club. After the dinner the entertainment committee distributed hundreds of tickets for the many side shows at the resort to the ladies and children. Mr. Gardiner, of Herman Bros. Co., Inc., Council Bluffs, and L. Hine, of Hess & Swoboda, Omaha, who were in charge of the arrangements, are receiving many compliments for the success of the affair, it being conceded the most enjoyable outing in the history of the craft in this vicinity.

Lewis Henderson has consolidated his business at his old location in the New Rose building, 1519 Farnam street, the lease on his store in the Fontenelle hotel having expired August 1.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., First Vice-President; L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fifth annual convention, June, 1917.

ALASKA Peas not hand picked are worth now $3.10 for food.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.—The American Bulb Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000.

A LEADING Wisconsin pea grower reports recent crops taken in as in fine shape, plump, clean and sound. Six-fold yields are not uncommon.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, August 9, were as follows: Timothy, $4.50 to $6.75 per 100 pounds; Red Clover, $14 to $16.75 per 100 pounds.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—To satisfy claims aggregating $512, the O. H. Dickinson Seed Co. is reported to have had an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against it, July 19.

ONION SET crops in the northern Chicago district are promising a yield of five to six bushels per pound of seed sown. In other sections a fourfold yield is nearer the average.

THE crop of winter onion sets at Chicago is beginning to come forward. W. C. Bruce, of Vaughan's Seed Store, says the crop is excellent and well cured because of continued dry weather.

A CORRESPONDENT writing from Holland July 15 says: "Until now we have had a cold summer with very little sunshine. June, according to the Meteorological Institute, has not been so cold here since 1849."

AXEL KNUDSEN, of Minneapolis, Minn., representing L. Daehnfeldt, Odense, Denmark, has favored us with copy of his firm's June report on seed crops. Most of this firm's specialties will be short owing to unfavorable weather, but better conditions during July and August may improve the crops.

WESTERN reports indicate that the pea crop will be below the average. It looks also as if the bean crop will be decidedly off. It would not be a surprise according to the present outlook if the harvest proved anywhere from 20 to 30 per cent below normal, although it is true that in some acreages in Michigan the plants have withstood the heat and dry weather remarkably well.

MARELEHEAD, MASS.—James J. H. Gregory & Son write as follows regarding seedcrops August 7: "The corn crop is exceedingly backward, just commencing to spindle, in low spots is absolutely ruined. Carrot seed crop from present indication will give about 50 per cent. The heads run very small. Squash is picking up well during the last week and if we do not have early frosts there ought to be an average crop. There must be shortages in garden crops as many acres of low land were too wet to be used. Beans are rusting and spotting badly all through this section."

NAVY BEANS are selling at Chicago from $6 to $6.75 per bushel. From crop reports now coming in it is believed they are likely to go as high as $7 to $8 per bushel.

The Late Nathaniel N. Sherwood.

British papers just received record the death of Nathaniel N. Sherwood, head of the well-known firm of Hurst & Son, London, Eng., July 20, at his country home, Prested Hall, Kelvedon, Essex. By his demise, says the London Garden, British horticulture loses one of its greatest workers. For many years we have known Mr. Sherwood as a bluff, hale and hearty man of genial and extremely generous disposition and the essence of kindness. His name will long be remembered for his deep interest in and generous support of the gardening charities. In the early sixties he entered the firm of which he was destined to become the principal. The firm had been founded 19 years previously by William Hurst and W. G. McMullen, and was therefore at that time in its youthful stage. Six years later he was taken into partnership, a happy social feature of his association with the firm being his marriage with the youngest daughter of William Hurst. In 1890 he became sole principal of the firm. In consequence of a serious illness in 1902, he relinquished the entire management of the business, which has since been ably carried on by his two sons. A very pleasing feature of his business career was the celebration in 1912, at his charming country home, of his 50 years' connection with his firm. When in 1897 the Royal Horticultural Society decided to institute a Victoria medal of honor in horticulture Mr. Sherwood was deservedly one of the original recipients. Mr. Sherwood was fond of art treasures and had at his home in Streatham a collection of paintings of great beauty and value.

The Late Nathaniel N. Sherwood.

J. C. Vaughan, of Chicago, who made Mr. Sherwood's acquaintance on a visit to London in 1889, and who, in company with Mrs. Vaughan visited him again in 1913 at his Kelvedon estate on the memorable occasion of the annual outing there of the Hurst employees together with many of his neighbors of the surrounding countryside, speaks enthusiastically of the wonderful entertainment there given. A regimental band of 45 pieces furnished the music and there were seven tents for the men and women employees who contested in the games, a special tent for the wonderful prizes, articles in silver and gold, which were graciously bestowed by Mr. Sherwood's daughter and an elaborate collation in another mammoth tent. Hurst & Son and Mr. Sherwood certainly have done things on a grand scale.

California Seed Crops.

Gilroy, August 3.—Seeds that have been cleaned to date are not turning out well, and early estimates of delivery will need modification. Sweet peas have been injured quite seriously by aphids. Lettuce has not filled well on account of the dry spring. Onion just now being cut shows very marked damage from "burn." The crop promised well a month ago, but now it will be doubtful if enough is sacked to fill orders.

At this time it looks as if there would be some little shortage along most lines, and the buyer who has contracted will get fairly good deliveries with practically no surplus for the dealer who buys on the market.

Mills Seed Co. For Sale.

The property of the Mills Seed Co., Washington, Ia., consisting of a three story brick building, with two lots in connection, together with stock on hand, mailing list, supplies, full equipment for carrying on a mail order seed business and personal property of the company, is offered for sale. Charles C. Cunningham, of that city, trustee in bankruptcy for the company, is authorized to dispose of the property at private sale before August 31, 1916. If not then sold, same will be offered at public auction at 10 o'clock a. m. on that date. The trustee will gladly furnish any special information desired upon request.

Nebraska Seed Crops.

Fremont, August 5.—Sweet and field corn crops are looking fairly well, but have been hurt more or less by the hot dry weather in some localities, which will reduce the crop prospects to a certain extent, but it is too early to tell the exact range of the damage.

The same will apply to the water-melon section, where it has been too dry, and we look for 25 to 50 per cent on most of the crops, and some of them possibly not that much, as some crops that were planted have not even come up on account of no rain.

Cucumber, muskmelon, pumpkin and squash are somewhat better, and we look for fair prospects of most of these varieties, providing the balance of the season is favorable and that crops are not damaged by hail or other unfavorable circumstances.

W.

Valley, August 2.—We have been having some very dry weather for a month or more until night before last when we had a very good rain, about an inch or so, which brightened things up considerably. We understand that the western part of the state has also had good rains. Some of the fields of squash and pumpkin were in desperate condition on account of no rainfall but this last shower will do much towards insuring at least a fair crop, providing conditions are favorable from now on. Cucumbers and muskmelons will make a good crop providing conditions are favorable for the balance of the season. Corn is looking fine and we are hoping for a bumper crop, although we will need more rain to insure a large yield. In general, things are looking well but the ultimate outcome depends upon the weather conditions during August.

Bean Prices.

Speak no more of the "lowly bean," for it has risen to a high estate while Mars is disporting himself in Europe and in Mexico. Beans in Indianapolis are selling at $6.50 a bushel, or more than 10 cents a pound. Before the outbreak of the war five cents a pound was considered a high price, and in 1890 the price of beans was a little more than one cent a pound.

Good Cyclamen Talk

But no talk can make good Cyclamen. The best grower ever, cannot make bad, good; neither does a seedsman build up a reputation with inferior stocks. We have over 40 years international reputation, and we want you to feel its glamour. Tick off your requirements and write us. DO IT NOW, as this advertisement will not appear again. We have a heavy crop of seed, and can dispatch without delay.

Cyclamen Novelties

Connecticut Seed Crops.

Milford, August 2.—We have had one of the heaviest rainfalls ever experienced during July, which has materially damaged the seed crops, for as is generally conceded, a good dry season makes for the best growing of these crops.

Beet seed looks very well at this writing, although it has been seriously injured by the heavy rains, but if the nice weather that has now started in continues, we will make a pretty fair crop.

Corn is exceedingly backward but looking very thrifty and promises to make a fair crop.

Onion is looking well at this writing.
C.

Orange.—Today, August 1, finds us in the midst of our harvest of kale seed and the month of August opens up with a beautiful bright, sunny morning which is a real novelty, having had about four weeks of dull rainy weather in July. We start threshing kale seed today and have, we believe, a very fine crop of it.

The crop of beet is by far the absorbing interest now and up to date looks very good indeed. With a couple of weeks now of good bright weather, which is certainly due us, we ought to harvest one of the best crops of beet seed ever in Connecticut and what we say of our own crops applies equally, we believe, with other growers in Connecticut and this state's crop of beet seed ought to cut a good deal of a figure in the trade, and is grown from a quality of bulbs, I believe, better than anything that has been produced in America for years.

Sweet corn is looking splendid and I do not think over 10 days later than usual although some think it is considerably more behind than a 10-day period. I have never seen corn look finer color and more vigorous than now. It only needs warmth and sunshine, but of course, August is the month that makes corn.

The crop of onions is looking extra fine up to this time, although we have been very dubious regarding it dur-

New Early Flowering Giant Pansies

Or Winter Blooming

An entirely new and distinct strain of Pansies. The main advantage of these new Pansies over all hitherto existing Pansies is the extreme earliness of flowering and its unusual hardiness, which enables them to withstand quite severe Winters, and to bloom right on into the Summer. Sown at the same time as other Pansies, they begin flowering the early part of March or as soon as the snow is off the ground, many times having four or five large flowers to a plant, when all other Pansies are only showing buds. The flowers are large, well formed and fragrant. They are highly recommended for Autumn planting on graves, and for very early bedding, as well as for early cut flowers.

- 14. WINTER SUN. Golden yellow with dark eye.
- 15. ICE KING. Silvery white, with dark blue eye.
- 16. CELESTIAL QUEEN. Light or sky blue.
- 17. CHARM OF MARCH. Dark velvety blue.
- 18. MIXED. The above four colors with other shades and variations.

Each color separate or mixed, 500 seeds 50c, 1000 seeds $1.00, 1/2 oz. $2.00, 1/4 oz. $3.75, 1 oz. $15.00. For list and price of other Kenilworth Pansy Seed, see my ad. of July the 29th.

FREE OFFER RAINBOW is a mixture of the most beautiful, gorgeous colors, blotched, striped, veined, margined, etc. With every $1.00 worth of Pansy seed, I will send, free, 1000 seeds of Rainbow and with other amounts in like proportion.

ing the very bad spell of weather we have had through July. We have had no stalk blight, as yet and if we are not troubled with the head blight, which seldom comes before August 1, we shall harvest a very satisfactory crop of onion.

Turnip seed is all harvested and a very light, rather unsatisfactory crop.

There is about the usual acreage of carrot, parsnip, tomato and cucumber.

New York Seed Trade.

Another seed store will open on Barclay street about September 1, under the firm name of Peth & Duggan. The street number is 87. Both members of the firm are well and favorably known in the trade, and a complete line of seeds and bulbs will be handled. Edward A. Peth was for a number of years connected with the old firm known as Bridgeman's Seed Warehouse, and has for some years past been with William Elliott & Sons. Frank M. Duggan was also with Bridgeman's Seed Warehouse, and has since filled other responsible positions. Both men have a thorough knowledge of the business and should be successful.

J. C. Vaughan, Mrs. Vaughan and party have returned from South Haven, Mich., where they spent the hot weather. Carl Cropp and wife expect to go west for their vacation, starting next week. Leonard H. Vaughan left to join his family at Boston, Mass., August 4. Miss Peek, of the New York house, is spending her vacation here.

The contract fields of onion sets grown for this firm according to the first midsummer report promise a fair yield of fancy quality.

Melons Under Glass.

One of the choicest products of the garden is the muskmelon or cantaloupe. They are especially fine forced under glass when fresh from these vines, that have had personal attention from the time the seed is sown until the ripened fruit is ready for the table. Their great popularity has encouraged growers of Florida and southern California, where they mature early in the year, to raise them in quantity for the market, and as they ship very well, particularly the netted Rocky Ford, they have been found a very profitable crop.

The greenhouse melon, with the exquisite flavor, so much desired, is the white skinned variety that is forced under glass to such a large extent in England. It is called Sutton's Royal Jubilee. When ripe and fresh from the vines, it is one of the most delicious of all fruits. The members and visitors to the recent American Sweet Pea Society's exhibition and meeting in Bar Harbor, Me., who inspected the Malvern Greenhouses of John H. Stalford, saw several house of this melon in a high state of cultivation—vines loaded with fruit, each melon being supported by a net to a frame work next the glass, which relieved the vine of its weight. Such houses are a beautiful and very tempting sight. The matured fruit sell according to size, at $1, $2 and $3 each, with a good demand at these, which are the retail prices, Mr. Stalford having sale for all he grows as soon as they are ready for delivery. They do not keep a great while after being cut, being very averse to cold storage. These are grown as a summer crop being planted after the winter carnations have been thrown out, the first week or two of May. For soil, he uses a good sod, well broken up. Seed is sown singly in 2½-inch pots, then put into fours, and from these quite well advanced planted out; he has several sowings so as to have a continuation of the crop. They are planted on the outer edge of the benches, at the walls of the greenhouse, on either side, and trained up to wires next the glass as grapes are grown. As all the flowers must be fertilized, only as many fruit as desired (about three to a plant) are allowed to mature. They require careful handling, particularly as to temperature, which must be kept up to 70° and 75° at night. They require to be well fed to get the best results, but no animal manure of any kind must be used, as it has a tendency to spoil the flavor. Clay's fertilizer, Mr. Stalford finds to be the most satisfactory. When in full growth the skin of the fruit is smooth, but as it ripens it becomes netted, which adds much to the appearance. There is also a variety, green in color, which appears to be in all other respects the same as the white one. This sort was seen in fine quality with Edward Kirk at the Vanderbilt place, he also having several fine house of these melons. Mr. Stalford also had two houses of hothouse grapes, Bowwood Muskats and Black Hamburgs. These looked very luscious. All the largest bunches had been selected and were tagged with the customers name, being sent home when desired.

"Practical Landscape Gardening."

"Practical Landscape Gardening" is the title of a book of 266 pages, handsomely illustrated, and designed to assist all who are interested in the artistic development of home surroundings. The basic principles which will bring about the most desirable environment from a gardening standpoint of the moderate sized city lot or the suburban estate are set forth in a clear and logical way by the author, Robert B. Cridland. Among the many subjects treated are included: Arrangement and construction of walks and drives; Ornamental planting of trees and shrubs; The flower garden; Architectural features of the garden; Hardy borders and rose gardens; Wild gardens; Planting plans; Glossary of technical terms. The book is now ready and can be obtained at this office, price $1.50 net; by mail, postpaid, $1.65.

Johnny Appleseed Monument.

Supplementing the interesting history of the life and burial place of Johnny Appleseed, historic character who traveled through Ohio and Indiana for many years planting apple seeds and teaching the farmers apple culture, which appeared in our issue of April 29, page 810, we are pleased to present herewith an illustration of a monument erected to his memory in Sherman-Heineman park, Mansfield, O., the gift of Martin B. Bushnell of that city, a fitting tribute to the well-known character of pioneer days to whom orchardists of the states mentioned owe so much. Probably the most authentic account of his work is found in the Historic Annals of Ohio published by the Ohio Archeological and Historical Society in 1861. It is there stated that he was born in Massachusetts in 1775, but little is known of his early life. His appearance in Ohio was first recorded in 1801, at which time he planted his first orchard near what is now Steubenville. For years he planted apple seeds wherever he found suitable ground for a nursery and each year returned to care for the growing trees and plant new nurseries. It is said that his favorite apple was Rambo, and a substantial proof of this is disclosed in the fact that this variety was afterwards found on nearly every farm in the region he traversed. The history of Johnny Appleseed's life, published in pamphlet form under the direction of E. R. Smith, president of the Indiana Apple Show Commission, was distributed to the school children this year throughout the state as part of their Arbor day programme and to keep alive the memory of this pioneer who brought us the apple tree and taught our forefathers how to grow it. The following verses by Lydia Maria Child are very appropriate:

So he kept traveling far and wide,
Till his old limbs failed him
And he died.

He said at last: "'Tis a comfort to feel

I've done some good in the world
But not a great deal."

As stated in THE AMERICAN FLORIST of January 23, 1915, page 34, plans were being made by the Horticultural Society of Ohio State University, Columbus, to solicit donations from horticultural societies for a monument to be erected to his memory. This movement has been successful, and a pillar was unveiled in Swinney park, Fort Wayne, Ind., May 5, 1916.

The monument at Mansfield, which was dedicated November 28, 1900, bears the following inscription:

In Memory of John Chapman, Best Known as Johnny Appleseed,
Nurseryman of Richland County
From 1810-1830.

Presented by Martin B. Bushnell of Mansfield.

Dedicatory Services, Nov. 28, 1900.
Another monument to his memory was erected at Ashland, O., July 28, 1915, the occasion being the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of that city. More than 1,000 school children of Ashland county, members of the Johnny Appleseed Society, contributed five cents each and many of the schools brought boulders used in the erection of the monument to the memory of the man who planted many apple trees in that section more than a century ago.

Fertilizer Industry Growth.

A summary of the general results of the 1914 census of manufactures with respect to the fertilizer industry has been issued by the bureau of the census, United States department of commerce, showing that from reports received from 1,124 fertilizer establishments the total value of the products for the year was $168,388,405. The output of fertilizers for the year aggregated 8,414,959 net tons, consisting of 4,488,565 tons of complete fertilizers, 1,116,739 tons of ammoniated fertilizers, 1,760,290 tons of superphosphates, acid phosphates and concentrated phosphates and 1,049,365 tons of other fertilizers.

At the census of 1909 there were reported 843 establishments—comprising 550 engaged primarily in the manufacture of fertilizers and 293 that produced fertilizers as a subsidiary product—the output of which was valued at $111,871,481. Of this amount, $100,089,971 represented the value of 5,618,234 tons of fertilizers and $11,781,510 the value of other products. The value of all products in 1914 was thus $56,516,924, or 50.5 per cent more than in 1909; and the output of fertilizers in 1914 exceeded that in 1909 by 2,796,725 tons, or 49.8 per cent, in quantity, and by $52,725,815, or 52.7 per cent, in value.

The statistics show increases for complete fertilizers from 3,001,370 tons, valued at $63,104,917, in 1909, to 4,488,565 tons, valued at $97,046,825, in 1914, amounting to 49.5 per cent in quantity and 53.9 per cent in value; and for ammoniated fertilizers, from 522,389 tons, valued at $11,004,390, in 1909, to 1,116,739 tons, valued at $24,344,271, in 1914, amounting to 113.8 per cent in quantity and 121.2 per cent in value. The production of superphosphates, acid phosphates, and concentrated phosphates increased in quantity from 1,494,097 tons in the earlier year to 1,760,290 tons in the later, or by 17.8 per cent, but decreased in value from $16,458,344 to Cement Waterproofing.

The soap-and-alum process in waterproofing has been used frequently by engineers of the war department. It is described in the 1901 report of the chief of engineers, United States Army, as follows:

The soap-and-alum (Sylvester) process was used in "waterproof mortar" and applied to both horizontal and exposed vertical surfaces. This mortar was made by taking one part cement and two and a half parts sand and adding thereto three-quarter pound of pulverized alum (dry) to each cubic foot of sand, all of which was first mixed dry, then the proper amount of water—in which had been dissolved about three-quarters pound of soft soap to the gallon of water—was added and the mixing thoroughly completed.

The mixture is a little inferior in strength to ordinary mortar of the same proportions and is impervious to water, and is also useful in preventing efflorescence. The alum is in excess for the reason that it coagulates other things than soap that may come to it.

The process was applied in connection with concrete construction in fortification at New York harbor. Similar treatment is known to have been used somewhat extensively elsewhere in work of like character. — Cemetery Beautiful.

War Gardening.

Edith Wharton found one happy soldier at the front. He had a gift for landscape gardening and even in war there was a chance to use it.

"His real work," wrote the novelist, after her visit to the French army, "has been done on the battlefield, where row after row of graves, marked and listed as soon as the struggle was over, have been fenced about, symmetrically disposed, planted with flowers and young firs, and marked by the names and death dates of the fallen. As he led us from one of these enclosures to another his face was lit with the flame of a gratified vocation."

Birch Bark Substitute for Wintergreen.

An application to buy all of the bark of the black birch in one of the forest reserves in the southern Appalachians has been received by officers of the forest service, United States department of agriculture, who say the bark will be used to make sweet-birch oil, a substitute for oil of wintergreen largely used for medicinal purposes and for flavoring. The foresters say that the birch is not a very desirable tree in the southern mountains. It can seldom be sold for lumber, occupies ground that would support more valuable timber, and consequently they are glad of an opportunity to dispose of it.

READ WHAT THE USERS SAY:

FIRST LETTER.

Walton, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1916.

Gentlemen:—Your New No. 46 Water Tube Steam Boiler is the finest steam boiler we have ever fired, and have fired eleven different makes before. Your boiler keeps steam from 9:00 p. m. to 6:00 a. m., without attention on zero nights. Before we had three boilers and could not control temperatures so easily as we can with yours. The little time consumed in cleaning same is wonderful, and we are very well pleased. The water line is steady and it holds its steam well. If we ever install another boiler, you can rest assured it will be a Kroeschell. If I can be of any assistance to you in showing your boiler to anyone, would be pleased to do so, or if anyone in your locality wants local reference, I will gladly give same.

SECOND LETTER.

Walton, N. Y., Jan. 10, 1916.

Gentlemen:—Since writing you on Jan. 4th, the other morning it went down to 4° below zero, and I fired the No. 46 boiler at 11:00 p. m.; had 10 lbs. of steam on with the draft half open, the houses all registering 48° to 52° and the No. 4 house 60°. We bricked in our boiler, so we lose no heat in the boiler room; we find it a great saving. Any other information cheerfully given.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed)

TRIPP FLORAL CO.

The Kroeschell

is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell the highest praise.

13,468,320 sq. ft. of glass was equipped with the Kroeschell Boiler during the past five years.

The Kroeschell

is used by hundreds of American Florist readers and mighty is their praise. The year of 1915 brought an enormous number of new customers who saw our boilers in operation at other places. We attribute the large sales of this season to the good work the Kroeschell Boiler is doing everywhere.

Convention Proceedings.

There was a good representative attendance present when Vice-President Kerr called the thirty-second annual convention of the Society of American Florists to order in the Auditorium,
August 15. Rev. W. S. Jacobs offered the invocation and Mayor Campbell welcomed the visitors, Wm. F. Gude, of Washington, D. C., responding.
President MacRorie was then introduced and delivered his address, the reports of the secretary, treasurer and chairmen of committees following. On the motion of Wm. F. Gude, the various constitutional amendments were adopted altogether without reading. In the selection of cities for the next two conventions, according to the amended constitution, John Young nominated New York for that of 1917 and E. C. Kerr nominated St. Louis for the following year, the secretary being instructed to cast ballots accordingly at the proper time.

President MacRorie's Address.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It hardly seems a year ago that our great national society sat in convention at San Francisco. I distinctly recall the genuine pleasure and the pride that I experienced at that time; the pleasure of seeing in the west so many representative members of our society, and the pride of being honored with a visit by men who had traveled many thousands of miles to further the interests of our organization. To you, brethren, in this beautiful city of Houston. I bring from California and the west the hearty good wishes of all the craft.
Our brothers from the east, the north and the middle west, by their presence bespeak their loyalty. This convention in Houston means a great victory to you, and you should likewise feel a pleasure and a pride in the work that you have accomplished. It has not been a simple matter to instill into the minds of all our members the necessity of making our society in every sense a national one, nor was it a simple matter to bring this convention to Houston, but when I look about me and see this wonderful representation,

I feel that our efforts have not been in vain. I feel that the south "knows how" and I feel that the Society of American Florists has acquired an added power, the power of the "Spirit of the South." We need that spirit and we welcome it, and hope that it will work with us, not only today, but every day in the future.

With the advent of the first convention in the south, the S. A. F. has opened a new chapter in its history, and, of those here assembled in convention I am sure that there is not one member who is not fully convinced that our move to this wonderful southern field, was a move in the right direction. It is my sincere desire that the support from the south shall be unwavering and constant. When I say support, I allude partly to a platform of increased membership. This has been an issue of our society for several years, and it is no less important today than it has been in the past. It is not so much the idea that any one of us should distinguish himself by bringing in a great number of new members. Everyone of us individually should exert himself to influence every eligible person in his district with whom he comes in contact to join our national society. Our members number today about 2,900 and I hope that before another year is over we can boast of a membership of 3,000.
The effort of this increase should not rest entirely upon the state vice-presidents; it should be the effort of every member individually.

It should not be necessary for me to expound to you the advantages to be gained by such an increased membership. Our usefulness as a national body increases as our membership increases. I would impress upon you particularly the fact, that when this convention is over, the work of enlargement in this southern territory continue with the same unity of purpose with which it started, for in such unity there is strength, and we need that strength to accomplish the work that lies before us, and to accrue those benefits which can only be accomplished by thorough organization. Although this is the first convention held in the south, it shall not be the last. As a national organization we must necessarily convene from time to time in all parts of the country, without discrimination, and our society should represent every man engaged in horticulture, whether he be from the north, the south, the east or the west.

Reviewing the divers matters that were brought before the executive board at its meeting in March of this year, I wish to say that I am heartily in accord with everything that has been set down, and touched upon by my predecessors, but would ask your indulgence, while I review some of the matters that have come up during my tenure of office.

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOWS.

The greatest and most successful undertaking in the history of our society was the national flower show of 1916. Philadelphia crowned herself with honors at that event. We cannot bestow upon Chairman Asmus and his able committees too much praise for the splendid work they accomplished in staging this exhibition, and we cannot overlook the co-operation of our subsidiary societies whose wonderful displays of roses, carnations and sweet peas made the show even more attractive, and whose special days brought many thousands of visitors through the gates who had already visited the exhibition. The total gate receipts, representing over one hundred thousand paid admissions, are an indication of how wonderful the displays were. I know that this show will pass into history as the greatest flower show ever held on the American continent. Taking the exhibition from every point of view I think that we must agree that the displays were far ahead of anything that has ever before been attempted.

At this point I wish to touch upon the advisability of holding our conventions on concurrent dates with the national flower shows; that is to say, I believe, that every second year our annual conventions could be held in March or in April, or at such a time as we decide to have our national flower show. The old idea that it would be impossible to secure a good attendance at our conventions at any other date than August, has not proved itself to be a fact. I observed with keen interest at the show in Philadelphia, that a great many representative men of our profession from all parts of the United States and Canada were present. It is just this material that is wanted at our national conventions. To me the national flower show had more of the convention spirit than many of the conventions that I have attended. At this show we all concentrated our thoughts on the work that is common among us, and when we left we all felt that we had learned a great deal, that would help us in the future. I believe that the spring time is the logical time for our national exhibitions. A great factor in making a national show a success in the spring time is the fact that all humanity awakens with a keen appreciation of the beautiful, after a long season when plant life has been practically dormant. Just as the flowers burst forth to welcome the sunshine of the spring, so the spirit of human nature bursts forth with a keen appreciation and eager desire to see and enjoy the beauties of nature. There are many matters of interest that appertain to our work that are called to our attention at national flower shows. These matters could be taken up while we are in convention and I believe that the immediate benefits that would be derived by discussion and through the comparison of notes, would be of far more benefit to us than the social programmes which of late years have been characterizing our August conventions. There are undoubtedly from six to eight large cities in the United States where the national flower shows could be held and where they would be very successful. With this number of cities to draw on, a number of years would naturally elapse before we would complete our circuit and no one city would ever be burdened with a succession of shows. In the smaller cities where we could convene on alternate years, it should be the privilege of the host-city to set the date for the convention, for when a man invites a guest to his home he aims to have it at its very best; so the convention city should also have that privilege.

R. C. KERR.

President-Elect Society of American Florists.

Before I leave the matter of conventions I want to say that I have noted in past years that there has been a decided tendency to indulge in extended social programmes. This, of course, has been very pleasant, and duly appreciated, but it seems that we are in a measure losing the purpose for which we assemble. Our conventions are primarily for trade benefits, and much of the time that is given to entertainment could be utilized for better purposes. Many of the smaller cities that would be glad to have a convention hesitate because of the expense of entertaining our members, and this condition should not exist, for our purpose as a national society is the promotion of the great work that lies before us. I would, therefore, urge the board of directors to carefully weigh these matters: First, the joint sessions of the national flower show and the annual convention on every second year. Second, the elimination of elaborate entertainment at annual conventions, and a strict adherence to matters that will be of trade benefit.

A. L. MILLER.

Vice-President-Elect Society of American Florists

CONVENTION GARDENS.

Another instructive feature of our conventions is the "Convention Garden." The merits of such displays have been well outlined by my predecessors, Theodore Wirth and Patrick Welch, and I heartily agree with them in their views.

SCHOOL GARDENS.

Still another phase of our work toward which I would direct your attention is the promotion of an interest in school gardens. We all know that the love of flowers is indicative of the highest form of civilization, and it is the mission of every member of the S. A. F. to help to instill the love of flowers and plant life in the hearts of the young. I do not think that we fully realize the extent of the influence toward the moral uplift and esthetic development that is due to the love and appreciation of flowers, and I would, therefore, urge that the society give its fullest support toward the promotion of the school gardens. I hope that every member of this society has read with interest the excellent report of our school garden committee of 1915. This committee must have stimulated a great interest in school gardens throughout the country. However, our work does not end there. Further-reaching influence can be exerted by parental oversight and encouragement. It is, therefore, also an individual duty of all members of school gardening by wisely administering the society to aid in the promotion of encouragement and interest in the work of our children, for, in the end, this work of beautification is our chief vocation.

PERMANENT SECRETARYSHIP.

I would ask you to review with me also a matter that for the past months has been of considerable concern to me. I have noted that as our society grows the administrative work also assumes larger proportions. I believe that we are now large enough to have a secretary who devotes his entire time toward the furtherance of our interests. I believe that such a man should have no other business enterprises to occupy his mind. I would recommend that we make the office of secretary one with sufficient remuneration to keep a man who can devote his entire time toward the promotion of our interests. There will be no lack of work for such a man. He will be constantly occupied, promoting the interests of the society. Should the convention and national flower show fall on concurrent dates, our secretary would have the two-fold duty of attending to matters appertaining to both the convention and the flower show. I wish, therefore, that the society would consider very carefully the expediency of adopting the above suggestion. This office should not be a temporary one, and there should be some way of establishing its permanency. We all know that the work accomplished by our society is just as much, if not more, due to the efforts of the secretary as it is to the president or the board of directors, as the man holding this office acts as a helmsman and should be fully qualified to handle these affairs, and his mind should be on our work at all times. It seems to me that if this were the case, the long dormant period that our society passes through from the date of one convention to the date of another will become a period of activity and promotion. To be a successful society we must always be active. I do not wish my remarks to be construed as in any manner criticizing our present secretary. He has discharged the duties of his office with the greatest efficiency and fidelity. We have been very fortunate to have had the services of so able a man as the present incumbent, John Young. I simply believe that it would be to the interest of all of us that this official, whoever he may be, should be in a position to devote his undivided attention to the society.

MOTHERS' DAY.

At the last executive meeting of our society it was decided that a collection be made from our members from different parts of the country. The moneys obtained were to be used by Miss Anna Jarvis for the furtherance of her good work—the promotion of Mothers' day. This act, I believe, was a good one, for Mothers' day has become universally recognized throughout the country, and it is up to the florists to continue to advertise and promote the work that has been so well begun. However, while I myself approved such contributions to Miss Jarvis, I do not believe that such a method of securing funds for this work is effective or business-like. As soon as the fund so accrued is depleted, the work will naturally discontinue and we, as a society, are here to perpetuate Mothers' day. I would, therefore, recommend that this organization appoint a permanent committee whose duty it will be to constantly stimulate interest in Mothers' day, and I would suggest that this committee look into the matter of securing a permanent fund to promote this work. As regards a suitable flower, emblematic of Mothers' day, will say that considerable discussion was given to this matter at the convention in San Francisco. It was the consensus of opinion that the society should advocate the use of the white flower for the mother who has passed away, and flowers of any color for the mother living.

OUR LATE TREASURER.

Before closing I wish to say a word of praise for the dear brother whom we have been unfortunate enough to lose in the last year. On Thursday, June 15, our beloved treasurer, William F. Kasting, was taken from us. Our society lost one of its most ardent champions and we all lost a very dear friend. It is not necessary for me to review all of the good work that Mr. Kasting performed as his work was made known to all of us. Although he had many duties to perform he never begrudged his time or his services. Earnest, conscientious, far-sighted, outspoken as an opponent, a character with a strong sense of the courage of his convictions, loyal as a friend and generous, his memory will always remain dear to every member of our society.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, as president of this organization, I want to thank the various committees who have worked with me during the year in carrying out their duties, and I want to thank every individual member who has shown an interest in our work, and who has given his support to our institution. There is no more charming art or occupation than that of horticulture; there is no vocation more conducive to human welfare than our own. Let us, therefore, unite our efforts toward making the Society of American Florists greater and more glorious.

Ladies and gentlemen, I thank you for your kind attention and hope it will not be many years before we again enjoy the unbounded hospitality of the south.

Secretary Young's Report.

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP.

It is pleasing to be able to report to you that in point of membership our society is stronger than a year ago. This condition should incite gratification, the more because our convention of last year was held in a city remotely west, and our gathering this year takes place in a city almost equally remote to the south. Our convention last year was the means of our securing a large and valuable addition to our membership, our rolls at the close of 1915 showing an increase in the state of California alone of 112 members in good standing. There is every reason to believe that the convention of this year will result also in a substantial influx of members.

The following have sent in one or more names for membership from January 1 to July 1, 1916:

Secretary's office	61
W. J. Keimel, director.....	40
R. C. Kerr, vice-president.....	10

OUR CONVENTIONS.

Our conventions continue to hold the interest of the trade at large, and friendly competition for the honor of taking care of a convention is still keen, as may be judged from the fact that there are likely to be several invitations for the 1917 convention. There is noticeable, however, very generally throughout our ranks a desire to eliminate much of the entertainment which has of recent years characterized our conventions. Our membership is now so large that the attendance at some of our gatherings is much too great to allow of the extension of the hospitality which many cities would consider as befitting the occasion, and the expense and work incident thereto is necessarily such as to deter many cities from attempting to assume the role of "host." Our hosts in the south have recognized this sentiment and have established a precedent which is worthy of continual observance, by cutting out all extravagant entertainment and arranging a simple yet most enjoyable series of trips and functions which shall not in any way tend to diminish the attendance at our business sessions, or through expense create a burden the carrying of which might prove embarrassing in many ways.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN BY-LAWS.

At the present convention the society is to act upon several changes in our by-laws affecting the policy hitherto followed in the conduct of Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo..

Elected Director Society of American Florists.

our affairs. These changes have been thoroughly considered by our executive board and endorsed by that body as tending to the better and more equitable conduct of our work.

It will be noticed that through the affiliation plan now incorporated in our by-laws our executive board is greatly increased in size, lending greater strength to its deliberations and work. It should be the object of many more clubs and societies to so increase their membership in this society as to enable them to obtain seats upon our board, and thus extend the usefulness of our organization and increase the value of its work along horticultural lines.

The establishment of the committees on convention garden, proposed bureau of collections and credits, publicity, and American products may naturally be expected to result in action which should prove highly conducive to the general welfare of the trade. State vice-presidents, by explaining the work expected of these committees, should be able to induce many florists not at present conversant with our work to join our society. In this connection I would invite state vice-presidents to more closely co-operate with the secretary's office in the work of extending our membership. While the secretary during this year has sent out numerous appeals to florists in the different states, necessitating considerable expense and much labor, the response has not been as great as expected. The influence of our state representatives should be highly effective in this work, especially when exercised in a personal way, and any assistance the secretary is able to give in furthering it is at all times available. Although through the growth of the society and the extension of its plans the work of the secretary's office has been greatly increased, requests from other officers for assistance in their work will have immediate and cheerful attention.

MOTHERS' DAY.

Considerable interest has been shown by our members in the work of the International Mothers' Day Association, which is headed by Miss Anna Jarvis, the originator of Mothers' day, and, as will be seen by the published list, a substantial fund has been raised for the use of Miss Jarvis in the prosecution of her work. It is to be regretted that the movement to raise a fund had inception with more than one organization, but it may be that the organizations acting as sponsors for the fund may another year arrange matters so that the work of all bodies may be in harmony.

TRADE EXHIBITION.

While our trade exhibition this year is most commendable, it has suffered somewhat in its extent owing to distance from eastern markets, with resultant high transportation charges. The great European war, too, is still responsible for the diminishment of exhibits of the novelties of foreign manufacture which for many years have helped our displays.

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Our National Flower Show, which was inaugurated at Philadelphia last March, proved to be a huge success. Chairman George Asmus, of the National Flower Show Committee, in the report which he will make to the convention, will deal with the work incident to the preparations for the show and the results accomplished. The society is to be congratulated upon having for the fourth time successfully organized and carried out an exhibition showing the advance of horticulture in America, an exhibition eclipsing all predecessors.

NECROLOGY.

We have lost through death:

Edwin Lonsdale (life), Sept. 1, 1915.
W. Atlee Burpee (life), Nov. 26, 1915.
Wm. Murphy, Sept. 27, 1915.
Frederick W. Breunig, Feb. 25, 1915.
Albert McCullough (pioneer), Jan. 13, 1916.
Robert Haentze (life), May 5, 1916.
Max Rudolph, Feb. 22, 1916.
Conrad Bergstermann, Feb. 20, 1916.
William Young, Nov. 11, 1916.
Jos. E. Cunningham, March 4, 1916.
August Kreuger (life), March 3, 1916.
Wm. F. Kasting (life), June 15, 1916.
Walter P. Stokes (life), July 1, 1916.
Wm. Tricker, July 11, 1916.
John W. Poehlmann, July 14, 1916.

It is with profound regret that in this list I have to chronicle the death of three more than ordinarily prominent members of our trade: Edwin Lonsdale, W. Atlee Burpee and William F. Kasting.

Edwin Lonsdale was a past president of our society, and for one year served as its secretary. He was a pioneer member, and keenly interested in our organization. His services were at all times available in any work of the society in which his knowledge and skill were of use, and he gave them unstintingly, officially or otherwise. His willingness to help a fellow member whenever possible to solve horticultural problems was heartily appreciated, and he will be greatly missed by many of us who have sought his counsel.

W. Atlee Burpee was a life member, his membership dating from 1886, the second year of the society's existence. He took a great interest in the society's affairs, and gave evidence of his interest by his earnest support of everything tending to advance our work. He was one of the most widely known members of our organization, and his delightful personality endeared him to all who came in contact with him.

In the death of William F. Kasting, our late highly esteemed treasurer, our society sustains a great loss. His sudden demise on June 15 came as a shock to us all. Few there are in the society who did not know him, and expressions of sorrow at the time he was called away were general. His interest in the affairs of our society was most intense in character, and his counsel was sought in all our plans and projects. He was a life member, and served as president in 1906. His efficient services as our treasurer for several years have played an important part in our advancement, and his business sagacity was ever a protection to us against unwise investment. We shall miss him for his companionship and his business acumen, both of which we could ill afford to lose.

Tariff and Legislation Committee Report.

Many matters have been brought to the attention of this committee affecting the different branches of our profession. Early in the year the matter of postage on catalogues and circulars was taken up at the request of several of the large mail order seed houses. The request made was not for a reduction in postage, but simply for permission to mail circulars and catalogues at the pound rate irrespective of zone, at the same rate that now pertains to the mailing of catalogues. The bill was introduced in the United States Senate to bring relief to the members requesting this change, but after conferring with the powers that be, it was found, to have this permission granted might materially affect other lines of business, as well as our own, adversely, and, we, therefore, decided not to press the matter.

Mail censorship.—During the spring months a serious condition menaced the interests of importing florists by reason of the British censorship of the mails. The consular invoices and bills of lading were removed by the censors from the ships bringing the goods, and without the documents these perishable shipments could not be released or removed from the docks. As cables were suppressed, and no relief from this intolerable condition was in sight, your committee interviewed the state department officials, also the British embassy, with the results that arrangements were made whereby such important documents would be in future placed in a separate mail bag and would not be removed by the British censors with ordinary mail.

Freight embargo.—As a result of the withholding of shipping documents by the censors, large shipments of perishable freight accumulated on the docks at the ports of entry—causing a tremendous freight congestion. In the effort to relieve this blockade, the railroads embargoed all outgoing and incoming freight from the terminals, which made it impossible to forward freight after it was released by the receipt of the delayed shipping documents. In this crisis your committee interviewed railroad officials, and as a result of its action the railroads were ordered to lift the blockade as applied to shipments of Holland and Belgian plants which were then arriving in large volume.

Belgian shipments.—Your committee is able to report that in most instances permits have been given by the British and German governments to Belgian shippers, and that unless some unforeseen difficulty develops, the fall shipment of azaleas, etc., will arrive from Belgium on schedule time from Rotterdam.

Joint resolution.—To efficiently recognize a floral emblem for the United States of America—Whereas, the United States of America has no national flower, and the adoption of the mountain laurel would open up a wide field of interest for artists in many lines of creative and original work. It is in bloom on three of our greatest national holidays—Independence day, Memorial day, and Flag day. Its flowers are red and white, two of the colors in our flag, the red for courage, the white for purity, and the leaves, combining as they do yellow for wisdom and blue for truth, blended together, forming the green, fruitfulness, are surely typical of our country. The seed pod on opening forms a perfect five-pointed star. The flower is wonderfully formed like a chalice, with five delicately curved edges, the blossoms clustered together like the constellation of the states, and would mean "The Union Forever"; Now, therefore, be it, Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That on and after the approval of this resolution the official and recognized floral emblem of the United States of America shall be the flower commonly known as the mountain laurel.

The foregoing joint resolution which was introduced in the House of Mrs. Charles H. Maynard, Akron, O.

See'y-Elect Ladies' Society of American Florists

Representatives, June 1, 1916, will, if enacted into a law, make the mountain laurel the national flower of the United States of America. Your committee immediately requested the introducer of the resolution not to push the bill until this organization could pass upon it. We were assured that every opportunity would be afforded this organization to file its recommendation in the matter. We also asked the horticultural press to give this matter wide publicity, and to request suggestions for or against the resolution. In every instance, except one, the replies were in favor of the mountain laurel as the national flower. We might further state that as far back as 1881 the mountain laurel was advanced as a national flower, but no official action has been taken. We, therefore, ask for an endorsement of the joint resolutions above referred to, and that your committee be instructed to cooperate with our legislators at Washington along said lines.

We also ask the endorsement of this association of Senate bill No. 6227 to increase the area of the botanical gardens of the city of Washington, D. C. The bill on file provides for the taking in of East Seaton park and West Seaton park, bounded by Third and Sixth streets, and Maine and Missouri avenues. If the above bill becomes a law, we will in time have a botanical garden worthy of the national capital of the United States.

Unfair competition or "anti-dumping" law.—There is now before Congress a so-called unfair-competition or "anti-dumping" law to prohibit the sale in the United States of foreign goods at prices substantially below the prices prevailing in the country of origin. In reference to the above matter, the enactment of this law would materially benefit the legitimate florist and dealer who as a rule, buys his goods at a fair market price and expects to pay for them, inasmuch as the bill before Congress prohibits the dumping on American markets of goods to be sold at public auction, particularly, surplus bulbs and nursery stock which is annually offered in the United States. Your committee has therefore done what they could in personal interviews and have sent copies of the following letter to the members of the finance committee having the matter in charge:

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
July 29th, 1916.

HON. F. M. SIMMONS, Chairman,
Finance Committee, U. S. Senate,
Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen:

As national representative of the Society of American Florists, I wish to endorse Title VII—"Unfair Competition," contained in the so-called "General Revenue Bill," now under consideration by your committee, and to urge that Title VII be favorably recommended to and adopted by the Senate in its present form. In this provision we see protection from unfair competition, of a type not generally known—where foreign producers of the various kinds of nursery stock, (bulbs in particular) sell to growers in the United States on individual orders at ruling market prices, only to later "dump" into the auction houses, the same class of merchandise at much lower price. Then there arises in respect to these a competition, unfair and detrimental to our interests.

Washington Representative's Report.

The last year has been a busy one for the Washington representative. While there are no specific duties to be performed by that officer, there are daily calls to answer questions, both locally and by mail, on all manner of propositions, and also to contribute such information as he can to all members of the S. A. F. seeking the same. He is particularly called upon to assist the various committees. There has been much legislation under discussion in Congress during the past year affecting our industry, such as the unfair competition or anti-dumping law, mail censorship, freight embargo, a bill to enlarge the botanical garden at Washington, D. C., and also a bill making the mountain laurel the national flower of the United States. Other matters also have been brought to my attention, all of which have been dealt with through the proper committees, and will be reported on later at this session.

The rose gardens at the Arlington experimental farm are progressing nicely. While they have not advanced as rapidly as we had hoped, yet they promise to be in fine shape in another year or two. We have to date 687 varieties of roses in this rose test garden, including many from "foreign countries, Germany, France and Ireland, and a consignment in the latter part of July from Australia. This is as it should be, and we hope our friends and fellow-florists from all parts of the world will continue to send roses for this garden. Again, we ask that anyone having new stock to be tested or any varieties of roses that are not already planted in the test gardens at Washington, D. C., contribute such plants to the department of agriculture, which will have them properly placed and tested. This particular garden is for the benefit of all the members of this society, and in due time will prove of untold value to all concerned. Your committee also urges that wherever practical, names for all plants, and particularly roses, be confined to two words.

It is pleasing to note that at the national capital the parks and school grounds are being more and more embellished with artistic planting, beautiful flowers and shrubbery, all of which tend to create a love for the beautiful, not only for the residents of Washington, but to the thousands of visitors who come to the national capital annually from every section. A notable step in the right direction was taken May 31 by the introduction in the Senate of the United States by Mr. Gallinger, of a bill to increase the area of the United States botanical garden in the city of Washington. The bill provides for adding about 20 acres of ground to the present site of the botanical garden. After thorough consideration by men qualified to know, this would seem to be the proper place for the botanical garden. To remove it five or six miles from the present location, where it would be inaccessible to the many thousands who visit Washington each year, would be most unwise, yet such a move has been advocated. We hope the bill will pass at this session; at any rate, it would be in order for this body to stamp its approval upon such course.

Smith Memorial Committee Report.

Your committee has been rather inactive the past year on account of matters pending before the national government on measures now under consideration, which might materially affect the form that the memorial to the late Wm. R. Smith should take. Your committee has therefore deemed it best to go slow with the matter and asks to be continued.

Publicity Committee Report.

In view of the impossibility of holding a majority committee meeting at Philadelphia this spring or since that time, the chairman wishes to submit the following: J. H. Pepper was engaged under the supervision of John Young, secretary, as per the instructions of the directors of the Society of American Florists. He has written and disseminated numerous articles for Mothers' day, Memorial day and for special features, such as new roses, carnations and other meritorious commodities. These were distributed to the leading papers of the country and responses from the editors showed that a great many of them were being used. It soon became evident to the chairman of the committee that as the matter of publicity was such a big undertaking, it was best to go slowly and not waste any funds of the parent organization. Mr. Pepper submitted numerous plans for national advertising, but as many of them were necessarily expensive, it was deemed best to submit the whole matter to the committee once more for maturity.

The start that has been made by our national body is certainly along good lines. There cannot be too much publicity or too much thought given this important topic, but the amount spent must compare with the returns gained therefrom. Of course every particular line of business thinks it ought to be exploited directly, but is it not true that if any one line is exploited, the others are sure to benefit in proportion? Many retailers in particular have expressed a desire for national advertising and are willing to contribute to a fund for this purpose. Albert Pochelon, secretary of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, is at this time endeavoring to raise a special fund for advertising. Would it not be best for the S. A. F. to co-operate with the Florists' Telegraph Delivery and each of them devote a certain amount, say $1,500 to $2,000, for a common purpose? There is much doubt as to the advisability of direct advertising, as the expense is too great, but an unlimited amount of good can be accomplished by a central bureau such as has been undertaken in a small way which would co-operate with the florists' clubs of the country, with the individuals of the S. A. F. and with the editors of the leading papers for indirect advertising.

The chairman at the request of Past-President Welch undertook the work simply for a start. He mentioned at that time that he would only undertake the same for a limited period and as it is impossible for him to devote the proper amount of attention, he begs leave to have someone else appointed in his place as chairman, but is perfectly willing to add his smaller part as a member of the committee.

The amount spent, $190, is well accounted for in the matter of publicity received and accounted for by Mr. Pepper.

School Gardens Committee Report.

The first suggestion that the Society of American Florists should interest itself in school gardening was made by Robert Farquhar of Boston, at the S. A. F. convention at Washington, D. C., in August, 1892. The practical value of this work has become recognized the country over because it is the means of inculcating into the habits of youth, industrial application of mind and bodily vigor, with the result of home benefit.

At the National Educational Association's convention held in New York in July last, special sessions were held by the School Garden Association of America, devoted to the reports from school workers in this line. The United States Commissioner of Education, Mr. Claxton, was present, as were representatives from Quebec and Ontario, and from the chief centers of population in the United States. On one of the programmes, allusion was made to the suggestive work of the Society of American Florists. Your committee the past year has carried out the plan of sending as usual a nicely illustrated circular letter to each of the departments of education in the states and territories, and to the school authorities of cities and towns wherever there is a member of the S. A. F. located.

There is this much certain; an interest in this work locally is good business for flower and seed trade. If the idea among the children is encouraged, it will grow until the United States will become the nation of pretty homes. One thing none of us should forget, and that is the value of initiative, for it is the characteristic that laid the foundation of Americanism. The florist in his home town can, with spare material, set an example of pretty home surroundings that no other tradesman can do so well, and these examples point the way and create a demand for flowers, seeds and shrubs. The many letters which have come to hand from these efforts relative to home gardening for children prove beyond question the general interest this work has, and it carries with it the truth—"On Earth Peace and Good Will toward Men."

Report on Development of Am. Products.

In presenting my report as chairman of the Development of American Products committee, it is almost impossible for me to make an extensive report at this particular time, owing to the nature of the work to be undertaken. I have done considerable corresponding with the agricultural authorities at Washington, trying to secure their co-operation. They are, at the present time, doing good work in spreading this before the people who might be interested. Upon the occasion of a recent visit to Boston, in consultation with Mr. Shea and Professor E. H. Wilson, I went into this situation in detail, spending the best part of one-half day going over its many phases.

The problem that seems to confront the American producer, and particularly at this time, is that of American labor at its high price, competing against foreign labor. I am given to understand that C. W. Ward is making extensive experiments along these lines, particularly with the azalea, and I am also given to understand that numerous Pacific coast horticultural establishments are making extensive experiments on hybrid tea roses. Only recently, in conversation with C. H. Totty, he tells me that he is now experimenting to see whether these roses will be as efficient as the imported stock, since he maintains that through their system of irrigation the roots obtain unusually long lengths, and he is under the impression that if these roots will be curtailed it might affect them. So in reality the only report we can make at this particular time is, some progress.

Amendments to Constitution and By-Laws.

The following among the amendments to the constitution which were approved by the executive board at its meeting in March, 1916, were presented by the committee on constitution and by-laws, and adopted:

ARTICLE 5. MEETINGS.

The meeting places for the years 1917 and 1918 shall be selected by ballot, and at the meeting of 1917 and at every meeting thereafter, the meeting place for the second year following that meeting shall be so selected. The city applying for the meeting shall, with its written application, provide the free use of a place for the purposes of a convention garden, which place shall be available, if desired, from the early spring of the year before the meeting to the late fall of the year of the meeting.

The annual meeting shall be held on the third Tuesday of August in each year, except in such cases where the sections of the United States where the month of August is not considered the best time for the convention. The change in date will not be considered, however, unless a petition is sent by the convention city in time for the mid-lent meeting of the executive board and setting forth its reasons for such change in date. In such Mo., 89; Geo. W. Hess, Washington, D. C., '73; W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., 45, electing the first two.

ART. 2. ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.

The president, first vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and two directors shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the Society, and their term of office shall begin with the first day of January next succeeding the election. The term of office of the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be one year, and the term of office of the directors three years, or until their successors are duly elected and qualified. The president shall appoint on the first day of January of each year a representative at Washington, D. C., who shall as such also be a member of the board of directors, and whose term of office shall be for one year.

ART. 2. COMMITTEES.

(A) Standing committee on convention garden: The president assuming office January 1, 1917, shall appoint three members, one serving three years, one two years, and one one year. Each next elected president when taking office shall appoint one member to serve three years.

This committee shall have full charge of all convention garden arrangement work under the direction of the executive board. The members shall elect their own chairman, and shall be subject to the call of the president and the executive board.

(B) Publicity committee: The president assuming office January 1, 1917, shall appoint five members, one to serve five years, one four years, one three years, one two years, one one year. Each next elected president when taking office shall appoint one member to serve five years. The members shall elect their own chairman.

It shall be the duty of this committee to keep up an efficient campaign of proper horticultural and floricultural advertisement along educational and progressive lines, in trade papers, periodicals, and the press in general.

(C) American horticultural products committee: The president assuming office January 1, 1917, shall, and each next elected president upon taking office shall, appoint three members to serve one year.

It shall be the duty of this committee to advocate, induce, promote and assist in every possible way the production in this country of horticultural products now imported from foreign lands.

President's Reception.

President MacRorie's reception at the Rice hotel, Tuesday evening was a very pleasant affair, greatly enjoyed by everyone in attendance.

Wednesday's Proceedings.

The business at the Wednesday forenoon session was entirely routine, consisting of the presentation of various reports, including that of Chairman Asmus of the national flower show committee on the highly successful Philadelphia exhibition and John Dunbar's report as botanist. President MacRorie announced the following appointments:

Judges convention garden—A. L. Miller, J. A. Newsham, W. J. Baker, J. Manda and J. J. Hess.

Judges trade exhibits—W. F. Gude, Joseph Heacock, Frank Stuppy, P. A. Chopin and C. L. Baum.

Past President Welch telegraphed his best wishes for the success of the meeting, with regret of his inability to attend. President Bourdet of the St. Louis Florists' Club sent a message conveying appreciation of the society's action, and President James of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society telegraphed greetings and best wishes.

Nomination of Officers.

Nominations for officers were made at the morning session, Wednesday, August 16, and resulted in the naming of R. C. Kerr, Houston, Tex., for president; A. L. Miller, Brooklyn, N. Y. for vice-president; John Young, New York, for secretary; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb., for treasurer; Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo., Geo. W. Hess, National Botanical Garden, Washington, D. C., and W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., for directors, two to be elected.

National Flower Show Committee Report.

I have the honor to report that the Fourth National Flower Show, held at Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, was a success from every point of view. It was a success through the influence the society was able to exert among its local members, through its friends, in the trade and out of it, and through the kindly patronage of the thousands in and around Philadelphia interested in floriculture and horticulture. In comparison with previous exhibitions it showed a great advance in the realization of the possibilities attaching to such a show, your committee not failing to profit by the experiences resulting from the first three shows.

Foremost was the matter of organization, and to the extent of the ability of your committee this was made as perfect as to them seemed possible. It is most gratifying to be able to state that the local bodies established, nobly carried out the work assigned to them, working most harmoniously to the common end—success. Very long before the dates fixed for the show, it was realized that the space afforded by Convention hall, the only building in Philadelphia considered large enough for our project, was inadequate for our purpose, yet those in charge were not discouraged, and, by the conservative use of discretionary powers, a huge exhibition was housed which entailed little or no friction among the large numbers of exhibitors in the different sections. In this connection, the thanks of the committee are extended to those exhibitors in our trade section who cheerfully consented to the different changes in location of their displays made necessary by contraction of space in order that our exhibits in the competitive section might have due prominence.

Unfortunately for us, the laws in force in Philadelphia prevented a public opening of the show on the two Sundays during the show period, and we were not enabled to profit by the large influx of visitors which we are assured would have been in evidence on those days; although on the second Sunday we were permitted to sell associate members' badges at 25 cents each, and the gross sale of these badges amounted to $1,217.

In the arrangement of the hall, its was confronted by conditions the settlement of which entailed much negotiation, but which resulted to the great advantage of the society. The minutes of our committee describe these fully, and they need form no part of this report.

This show was financed entirely by the society, though the guarantee fund provided by those in its membership who were and are confident that the national flower show has become an established feature of the work of our organization. It is pleasing to be able to state that those subscribing to this fund have not only been reimbursed, as regards the fifty per cent call made upon their subscription, but have received a dividend of ten per cent upon the entire amount subscribed. I would make the suggestion, concurred in by many, that these subscriptions remain as a permanent support to national flower shows, under such conditions as the society may determine upon. This would obviate the necessity of inaugurating a fund for each future show, and thus entailing much unnecessary work upon the part of the committee and its officers. The thanks of the committee are extended to the subscribers to the guarantee fund, for their endorsement of our work in a pecuniary way, and their willingness to share with the society, the various liabilities attending the promotion of a national flower show. In this expression, I am sure the society as a body will join us.

To one outside the circle of those actually engaged in the work of inaugurating a national flower show, the labor involved in the staging of such an exhibition can hardly be realized. While your committee conducts its work as a directing body, much of the detail must be accomplished by the local organization; and, as chairman of your committee, I have felt myself particularly fortunate in having been able to assist in effecting an organization in Philadelphia whose work was a most important factor in the success of the show. I should feel that I were remiss did I not particularize in regard to this work.

To William Kleinheinz, chairman of the committee on exhibits, our thanks are extended for the work performed by his committee in the securing of exhibits in the competitive classes, and for his personal effort in this direction.

We are gratefully mindful of the fact that W. F. Therkindson, chairman of the committee on publicity, was instrumental in obtaining for us publicity for the show of a very high order and extensive character. Mr. Therkindson's work in this connection is worthy of the society's highest commendation.

The work of Louis Burk, as chairman of the committee on concessions, was most thorough, and the arrangements made by this committee were both admirable and profitable.

Robert Craig, as chairman of the committee at large, with his associates, cared for many things without the province of other committees, and helped materially the work of the organization.

The committee on lectures, of which J. Otto Thilow was chairman, instituted and directed a programme of lectures on horticultural subjects, which was an important and popular feature of the show, and, consequently, a source of much gratification to those interested in its success.

Samuel S. Pennock gave unstintingly of his time to attend to his duties as chairman of the committee on printing.

Much important work devolved upon the committee on lease, contracts and hall, of which Adolph Farenwald was chairman, all of which was carried out with a zeal much appreciated by our organization.

The committee on trade tickets, whose chairman was E. J. Fancourt, gave service which was long and continuous. The work of this committee was most important, and was accomplished in a most skillful manner.

Wm. P. Craig, as chairman of the committee on special premiums, was instrumental in the addition of many donations to our list of special prizes.

The committee on information was a somewhat new feature of our show organization, and we must congratulate Fred Cowperthwaite, chairman of the committee, on his having proved the necessity for a bureau such as was established, and the good results accomplished.

Chas. Henry Fox, chairman of the advertising committee, which ultimately merged with the publicity committee, with his committee rendered admirable service in matters concerning the advertising of the show.

The committee in charge of decorations, John P. Habermehl, chairman, through the skill displayed in the decorations installed, met thoroughly the expectations of the national flower show committee.

The committee on special features, of which Chas. H. Grakelow was chairman, did excellent work. It is to be greatly regretted that some very important features arranged by this committee were, owing to unexpected lack of room, impossible of accomplishment.

Franklin Barrett, as chairman of the committee on aquariums, was instrumental in the staging of an exhibit which was a highly attractive feature of the show.

The nursery interests were looked after by the nurserymen's committee, of which Wm. Warner Harper was chairman. The work of this committee was, it is to be regretted, limited by space accommodation.

Leo Niessen, chairman of the committee on music, deserves great credit for the musical features provided.

Arthur A. Niessen, as secretary of the local executive committee, is also to be congratulated on the successful carrying out of all the detailed work of that office.

The national flower show committee is also deeply grateful for the valuable services rendered by Daniel C. Donoghue, one of the leading attorneys of Philadelphia. Mr. Donoghue has a wide acquaintance with the florists of Philadelphia and vicinity, and is greatly interested in the work of all florists. Mr. Donoghue did not render any bill for his services, and our committee would recommend that the society show its appreciation of his work by appointing him attorney for the society.

The details as to receipts from all sources, and the financial report of the show have been published, and each member present should be in possession of a copy of same.

Your committee was fortunate in having the support of the American Rose Society, American Carnation Society, and American Sweet Pea Society, all of whom directed the sections made up of their representative flowers, and added to the premium list of our society with special prizes donated by members of their own bodies. The co-operation of these societies was greatly appreciated by your committee.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society co-operated in the work of the exhibition, and had a booth in the hall for use of their members. The ladies of the Garden Club of Philadelphia, and vicinity formed an organization with Mrs. J. Willis Martin, chairman, and conducted a tea garden, all of which assisted very much towards the success of the exhibition.

LIST OF DONORS.

Without doubt, we go upon record as offering at this show the largest and most valuable premium list ever presented at a horticultural show in America. This we could not have done without the cheerful aid and support of many of our friends in both private and commercial circles. Your committee deeply appreciates the support from these sources, and gratefully acknowledges the various donations, which were as follows:

Ladies' Society of American Florists.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Society of American Florists was held in the parlors of the Rice hotel, at 10:30 a. m., Wednesday, August 16, 1916. The second vice-president, Mrs. R. C. Kerr, of Houston, Tex., presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. John Vallance, of Oakland, Calif., who sent a letter of regret. The first vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Coles, of Kokomo, Ind., was not present. In the absence of Mrs. George W. Smith, of Cleveland, O., Miss Perle B. Fulmer, of Des Moines, Ia., was elected secretary pro tem and read a letter of regret from Mrs. Smith who could not attend because of the illness of her husband. Mrs. A. M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa., treasurer, was not in attendance, being unable to take so long a trip. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved as was the treasurer's report.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Miss Perle B. Fulmer, Des Moines, Ia., president; Mrs. R. C. Kerr, Houston, Tex., first vice-president; Mrs. Julius Roehrs, Rutherford, N. J., second vice-president; Mrs. Charles H. Maynard, Akron, O., secretary; Mrs. A. M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa., treasurer. The following directors were elected: Mrs. Joseph A. Manda, New Jersey; Mrs. J. F. Wilcox, Iowa; Mrs. George H. Cooke, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. J. D. Hancock, Illinois; Mrs. Fred Howard, California; Mrs. Patrick Welch, Massachusetts.

No further business offering the meeting adjourned sine die.

Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

Pursuant to notice previously given, a meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery was held in Room 319, Rice hotel, Houston, Tex., at 9 a. m., August 16, 1916. In the absence of the president, Irwin Bertermann, of Indianapolis, Ind., the vice-president, Wm. F. Gude, of Washington, D. C., presided. There were present: W. F. Gude, Washington, D. C.; George Asmus, Chicago; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.; Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco, Calif.; A. Lange, Chicago; T. J. Wolfe, Waco, Tex.; Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo., and a number of others. On account of the pressure of other business it was decided to adjourn until seven o'clock in the evening at the same place, Room 319, Rice hotel, and notice was accordingly posted in the lobby and the members notified as far as they could be reached.

At seven o'clock the same evening the meeting assembled, pursuant to adjournment, vice-president Gude in the chair. Among those present at this session were the following: Geo. Asmus, T. J. Wolfe, Lon Thompson, Chas. Baum, J. J. Hess, Henry Greve, J. E. McAdam, E. G. Hill, R. C. Kerr, W. F. Gude, A. Lange, Harry Papworth, Frank Stuppy, Mrs. R. E. Darbee, Daniel MacRorie and others. On motion, as the minutes of the last meeting were not in hand, their reading was necessarily dispensed with. The official reporter, Douglas A. Brown, was elected secretary pro tem to keep the record of the meeting. The report of the treasurer was read and accepted, the same having been audited by an expert accountant.

It was voted to proceed to election of officers, after correspondence between officers absent and Mr. Gude had been read. On motion, approval of the minutes of the last meeting was laid on the table, until the next regular called meeting, owing to the absence of the secretary. Mr. Baum nominated for president, W. F. Gude, of Washington, D. C., and on motion the nominations were closed and the ballot of the meeting was cast unanimously for the election of Mr. Gude as president. On motion of Mr. Baum, George Asmus, Chicago, was unanimously elected vice-president, there being no other nominations for the office. Mr. Asmus was called upon for a speech and responded briefly. President-elect Gude strongly recommended the efficient work of Secretary Albert Pochelon, and on motion he was unanimously re-elected as secretary, several members testifying as to his indefatigable industry and interest in the cause. Mr. Stuppy nominated E. G. Hill for treasurer, Mr. Hill declining and Mr. Stuppy withdrew when his name was presented. On motion of R. C. Kerr, W. L. Rock, of Kansas City, Mo., was unanimously elected as treasurer. J. J. Hess nominated Karl P. Baum for director. E. G. Hill was nominated but declined and Mr. Stuppy nominated Lon Thompson of the Dall Co. for director. Mr. Kerr nominated T. J. Wolfe, of Waco, Tex., and on motion nominations for directors were closed.

On motion it was ordered that notice be sent to the secretary by wire that night of the above election to office. After a general discussion, which elicited the fact that many of the members were entirely ignorant as to the constitution and by-laws, not having a copy of same, and after trade conditions had been discussed, on motion of Mr. Asmus, the meeting adjourned to convene in Chicago, October 11-12, 1916.

Florists' Hail Association.

A meeting of the members of the Florists' Hail Association was held at nine o'clock Wednesday, August 16, at the Auditorium, President Hill in the chair. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented and approved, the same having been duly audited. Minutes of the last meeting were approved as read. Directors for the ensuing year were elected as follows: J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.; Anders Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind.

An amendment to the constitution submitted by J. A. Valentine was adopted, as follows: Art. 5. Section 7—The payment of any loss upon any risk within five years after the payment of a previous loss on the same risk, shall constitute that risk a hazardous risk, and it shall continue to be classed as a hazardous risk until five regular assessments have been levied and collected from that risk subsequent to the payment of the last loss on that risk. Should one or more losses be paid on a hazardous risk, 10 per cent of the regular assessment shall be added to the assessment on that risk for each loss paid while said risk continues to be a hazardous risk, and such increases, together with the previous increase or increases, shall continue until the risk ceases to be a hazardous risk by the payment of five regular assessments without payment of a loss in the interim.

There not being a sufficient number of directors in attendance to hold a meeting of the board of directors, it was announced that a meeting of the board of directors would be held later, pursuant to notice at some central and accessible point, at which officers were elected, etc.

Election of Officers.

The election of officers, which was held at the Thursday morning session, resulted as follows: Robert C. Kerr, Houston, Tex., president; A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y., vice-president; John Young, New York, secretary; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb., treasurer. The vote for directors was announced as follows: Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo., 89; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb., 73; W. W. Coles, Kokomo, Ind., 45, electing the first two.

Convention Garden Exhibits.

The convention garden exhibits looked surprisingly well, Dreer's aquatic display standing out conspicuously as the best feature. The exhibits in this department were as follows:

MacRorie-McLaren Co., San Francisco, Calif., plants.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago and New York, Canna Firebird.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., aquatics and cannas.

A. T. Boddington & Co., Inc., New York, cannas.

Carlisle & Son, Alvin, Tex., tuberoses.

Wm. Tricker & Son, Arlington, N. J., aquatics.

Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., cannas.

L. H. Read & Co., Deer Park, Ala., xanthosomas.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey, Fort Wayne, Ind., geraniums.

W. H. Grohman, Saginaw, Mich., begonias.

Texas Rose Gardens, Brockdale, Tex., roses.

California Rose Co., Pomona, Calif., roses.

St. Louis Seed Co., St. Louis, Mo., cannas.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee, San Francisco, Calif., cut flowers.

R. Claxton, Willis, Tex., Bluebell of Texas, Eucomis gentranordes.

The Trade Exhibition.

The trade exhibition in the lower hall of the Auditorium, while not as extensive as those of some previous conventions, was of fine quality throughout and exceptionally well arranged. The exhibits included the following:

Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., ventilators.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, florists' supplies.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, palms and crotons.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, office space.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., florists' supplies.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, greenhouse boilers.

W. H. Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., plants.

Cottage Gardens Nursery Co., Eureka, Calif., California grown Dutch bulbs.

Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, greenhouses.

Burlington Willow Ware Co., Burlington, Ia., florist baskets.

John A. Evans & Co., Richmond, Ind., ventilators.

J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati, O., begonias.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa., florists' supplies.

H. C. Doeschler, New Orleans, La., fern display.

C. F. Falls, New York, advertising novelties.

American Bulb Co., Chicago, supplies.

Cohen & Hiller, New York, ribbons.

J. A. Newsham, New Orleans, La., palms.

E. E. Stone, Dickinson, Tex., asparagus.

Lord & Burnham Co., New York, greenhouses.

Chicago to Houston.

The Chicago delegation to the Houston convention left Sunday night, August 13, in the excellent special car provided by the Wabash railroad, the party including Geo. Asmus, A. Lange and wife, Miss M. C. Gunterberg, T. D. Long (representing Vaughan's Greenhouses), T. McAllister and M. Barker, Chicago, and W. H. Sievers and wife, of Buffalo, N. Y. It was understood that a number of Chicagoans left earlier, including P. J. Foley and Fred Lautenschlager.

Arriving at St. Louis on schedule time Monday morning, the travelers were met at the train by President Jules Bourdet, W. J. Pilcher, J. J. Beneke, J. J. Windler, Frank Windler and W. Oehweiler, representing the St. Louis Florists' Club, and escorted to an excellent breakfast in the Union Station cafe. Thanking their entertainers for the thoughtfulness and courtesy prompting this delightful break in the journey, the visitors immediately rejoined the train and proceeded on their way.

The weather during the Chicago-St. Louis trip was cool and pleasant, but warmed up to some extent, though not uncomfortably, after leaving the latter city.

Several members of the St. Louis trade, bound for the convention left by earlier trains.

Passenger Agent Purdy, of the Wabash, made a hit with all in his splendid arrangements for the comfort of the passengers.

Miss Gunterberg and Mr. and Mrs. Lange will return by steamer, leaving Galveston August 19, due New York, August 25.

Paul Paley, of Little Rock, journeyed 60 miles north to Kensett to greet his Chicago friends.

At Little Rock the party was joined by Walter Vestal and Howell Vestal of that city; H. M. Joy and wife, Nashville; C. L. and F. F. Baum and A. J. McNutt, Knoxville, and G. A. Kimmel, of Chattanooga.

Miss Gunterberg and August Lange were the champion cinch players.

Canadian Horticultural Association.

ANNUAL MEETING, AUGUST 8-10, 1916.

The nineteenth annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association, brief mention of the opening of which was made in our issue of August 12, page 178, proved to be one of the most interesting in the history of the organization. In his address, President Fred Adams, of Toronto, dwelt upon trade conditions, stating that from his observations, despite the fact that imports and transportation were greatly restricted, very little falling off in the retail trade was noticeable as a result of conditions arising from the war. He also dwelt on the tariff question, especially as relating to the importation of Belgian products. The difficulties in obtaining delivery of azaleas was treated at some length, two deposits in payment of the goods being required, one in the Belgian bank in England and the other in Canada to the order of the minister of customs.

SECRETARY-TREASURER LUCK'S REPORT.

During 1915, the membership of our association, I regret, showed a considerable decrease. At the time of the Toronto convention, we numbered 113 members, while at London there were but 77. Though we lost members at London we made many friends, by the way the delegates were entertained by the local trade and the civic authorities, and these courtesies will long linger in our memories.

Our association, like many others, feels the effect of these sad and troublesome times, and as we see our ranks thinned, we can only hope that it will be but temporarily, and that the absent ones will be returned to us.

We have carried on a campaign this year to increase our membership to 100, and the committee in charge hopes to see this accomplished.

The programmes of these meetings, which were compiled by the executive committee last March, will be found to contain much up-to-date and instructive matter from which much benefit can be derived.

At the London convention your secretary was instructed to write Dr. Hewitt of Ottawa, and to secure the assignment, if possible, of one of his assistants for the investigation of the life, habits and control of insect pests that affect greenhouse stock. The reply was that this had already been done, and that this gentleman would appreciate it very much if the members of this society would assist him by sending any samples of injurious insects to him for study. They should be addressed to the Dominion Entomologist, Ottawa. No postage is required.

The various committees will give their reports of their work during the past year, and from these you will see that the association is very much alive and there is much activity between the annual meetings, and much good is accomplished. If some members and all horticulturists would realize this by giving us their assistance we could make still greater strides toward the ideals we are striving to achieve.

Following its reading the report was adopted on a motion by E. B. Hamilton, seconded by F. Dicks.

The reports of the various committees followed, the report of the plant registration committee being read by the president in the absence of H. J. Moore, the chairman. Following the reading a motion was passed expressing the appreciation of the association of the generous action of the Queen Victoria Niagara parks for having devoted a plot in the park system for the planting of new varieties and the correct naming of well-known plants, as well as providing for the cost of the maintenance of this feature. The tariff committee announced that it deemed it inadvisable to make a report at this time, as due to the troublesome conditions, little could be accomplished. A paper by E. J. Hayward, of Montreal, on "Commercial Ferns" was listened to with much interest, and in the discussion which followed the matters of feeding and other items in their care were well threshed out. Alderman J. A. Hallman, president of the Berlin Horticultural Society, then invited the meeting to adjourn and take advantage of an auto trip which had been arranged. This was done, and the balance of the afternoon was spent in visiting the parks and other points of interest.

The morning session of the second day proved very interesting, an excellent paper being read by Geo. H. Baldwin of Toronto, on "Success With a Home Garden." The lecture was illustrated, and the lecturer was called upon many times to answer queries. As the time was late a paper which was to have been read by Harry Tattle of Toronto on "The Commercial Culture of Peonies and Dahlias" was not read, but was ordered printed. At the afternoon session a motion was carried asking the executive committee to appoint a committee to be known as the national plant registration committee, to work in cooperation with other societies. It was also moved to ask H. J. Moore, superintendent of Queen Victoria park, the best way in which the members of the association could take advantage of the trial grounds. A feature of this session was the paper on "Gladioli" by John A. Campbell of Simcoe. It was listened to attentively, the lecturer going into detail as to origin of varieties and their crosses; also methods of culture and the varieties best adapted to this climate.

The banquet which was held in Masonic hall Wednesday evening was a pleasant affair and was attended by about 60, Mayor Hett, two aldermen, and President Hallman of the Berlin Horticultural Society, being guests of honor. Short speeches were made by William Hunt of Guelph, Mayor Hett, W. W. Gammage, T. Manton and others.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: James Fraser, Prescott, Ont., president; E. J. Hayward, Montreal, first vice-president; F. Dicks, London, Ont., second vice-president; Julius Luck, 1018 Queen Mary road, Montreal, secretary-treasurer. Montreal was chosen as the next annual meeting place.

Previous to adjournment, Retiring President Adams was presented with a pair of comfortable easy chairs. He was deeply moved by the thoughtfulness of his fellow members, and heartily expressed his appreciation.

TRADE EXHIBITS.

H. Simmers, S. Jordan and F. Wise were appointed judges of the trade exhibits, which were all creditable, the list of which follows:

C. H. Janzen, Berlin, Ont., excellent display of ferns and decorative plants.

Campbell Bros., Simcoe, Ont., had an extraordinary exhibit of plants, considering the extremely dry weather, many promising varieties being displayed.

King Construction Co., North Tonawanda, N. Y., and Toronto, working model of their new improved sash bar, which was a center of interest.

Batts, Ltd., Toronto, small model of greenhouse.

D. Schnarr, Berlin, Ont., good display of gladioli. Special mention must be made of the variety Schwaben, which appears very promising.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., a most complete display of florists' supplies.

Schloss Bros., New York, creditable display of ribbons, chiffons and novelties.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, fancy chiffons and novelties.

SOCIAL FEATURES.

The freedom of the city was enjoyed by the visitors and the local committee left nothing undone to see that there was no possibility of a dull moment. The keys of the city were turned over by Mayor Hett, together with other keys that enabled the travelers to be relieved of the pangs of hunger and thirst following midnight journeys on the city's highways. The programme of sports Wednesday afternoon was well arranged and thoroughly enjoyed, the ball game resulting in a tie, which will be contested again next year at Montreal. The visitors during their stay were entertained at the establishments of a number of the growers in the vicinity, among them being the ranges of the Georgetown Floral Co. and the model farm at Guelph, a government institution, which was a revelation to many of the visitors.

Texas State Florists' Association.

There was an attendance of about 100 at the annual meeting of the Texas State Florists' Association, held at Houston, August 14. San Antonio was chosen for the next meeting and Dallas for the fall flower show. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: T. J. Wolfe, Waco, president; F. C. Suchy, San Antonio, vice-president; L. J. Tackett, Fort Worth, secretary-treasurer; C. L. Brock, Houston, press representative; F. W. Hensel, College Station, educational director; H. O. Hannah, Sherman; A. L. Koehle, Sherman, J. E. McAdams, Fort Worth; H. B. Bock, Austin; E. E. Stone, Dickinson, and Bird Forrest, Waxahachie, directors.

The Late William Halvac.

William Halvac, for the past nine years employed as a salesman in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Co., New York, died suddenly August 10. On the forenoon of August 9 he was at business in apparent good health. While out for lunch he was overcome by heat and taken to Bellevue hospital, where he died the next morning. For several years he had been with H. L. Baylis in the Daillidouze and Asmus department of the New York Cut Flower Co., and was popular with employers and customers. He was born in New York 27 years ago, of Bohemian parents, who, with one brother and one sister, survive him. A. F. F.

DAYTON, O.—The Advance Floral Co. is reported to have joined the down and outs.

SOMERVILLE, MASS.—A flower shop will be opened in the near future on Somerville avenue by J. H. Gartland.

OWENSBORO, KY.—Stimulated by interest in the city beautiful idea, local florists report a greater interest in flowers than ever before known in this city.

HARTFORD, CONN.—The Bon Ton Flower Shop has been closed under executions. P. F. Potter, the proprietor, is reported to be on the Mexican border.

PORTLAND, ORE.—Martin & Forbes report an exceptionally good season for rose growing with prospects of a large winter cut. Ophelia is showing especially fine form.

The above is equivalent to an insurance upon 43,101,590 sq. ft. of glass.

The number of members at date of closing this report is 1,658.

The total receipts for the year ending August 1, 1916, and including last year's balance, as per Treasurer's Report, are $73,780.37.

The total expenditures, as per Treasurer's Report, for the year ending August 1, 1916, are $64,572.52.

The cash balance on hand is $9,207.85, of which $743.04 belongs to the Reserve Fund.

The Reserve Fund now amounts to $38,743.04, of which $38,000 is invested in first-class municipal bonds, and $743.04 cash in hands of the Treasurer.

The amount of interest collected on bank deposits for the year is $426.86.

The amount of interest collected on Reserve Fund investments for the year is $1,912.50.

Two thousand, three hundred and eighty-five losses have been adjusted since the organization of the F. H. A., involving a total expenditure of over $370,000.

An equivalent of 270,913 sq. ft. of single thick glass was broken by hail during the past year, for which the Association paid $13,545.65. And an equivalent of 597,530 sq. ft. of double thick glass was broken, which cost the Association $41,827.10.

The only liabilities of the Association at the close of this Report are three unadjusted losses, amounting to less than $200.

The F. H. A. has paid out more money for losses during the past year than in any previous year since its organization.

It has more glass insured than at any previous time. It has taken in more new business than in any previous year of its history.

The F. H. A. is equalizing risks by charging a greater premium upon risks that have entered the hazardous class.

It has a large Reserve Fund, which is rapidly growing, increasing thereby its stability.

The F. H. A. stands for a square deal, and a prompt adjustment of losses; and the Officials of the Organization desire to extend their thanks for the many letters of commendation which they have received from members who approve of their methods of administration.

R. J. HAIGHT, well known publisher of Park and Cemetery, is reported to be interested in a plan for the establishment of a supply house.

Personal.

Arthur S. Thurston, formerly of the Department of Floriculture at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, has taken a position as assistant professor of floriculture at Iowa State College, Ames.

A REPORT of French bulb crop conditions of very recent date, of general interest to florists and seedsmen, will be found on page 270, this issue.

American Rose Society.

DEPARTMENT OF PLANT REGISTRATION.

The following new roses have been registered with the American Rose Society:

Muriel Moore—Registered by Frank L. Moore, Chatham, N. J. The flower is white; when in bud, bluish white. The bud is longer than My Maryland and not quite so double. The foliage is distinctly different, the leaflets having a rich green color, are narrower and have edges more finely serrated; in fact, the edges are almost smooth. It is a profuse bloomer.

Los Angeles—Registered by Howard & Smith, Los Angeles, Calif. Color, flame pink shaded to yellow, toned with salmon. Foliage light green, extra heavy. Buds longer and pointed, opening to a bloom of heavy proportion. Origin or progeny, a cross between Madame Segon Weber and Lion. Growth extremely vigorous; has none of the die back habits of Lion.

TEST GARDEN COMMITTEE REPORT.

The rose test garden committee consisting of Wallace R. Pierson, Alex. Cumming, Jr., and John F. Huss, reports on examination of the Hartford test garden as follows:

The committee appointed to judge the new rose entries visited the Hartford test garden July 5. The varieties of this season's entry were not considered in condition to judge until better established. Among those entered previous to this season, the following climbing roses were examined and received awards:

Dazzling Red—79 points. Entered by W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.

Mrs. Longwood, 78 points. Entered by the Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa.

It was a source of gratification to the judges to note the splendid behavior of the varieties previously awarded silver medals, every one of which stood out conspicuously among the older entries.

BENJAMIN HAMMOND, Sec'y.

Cleveland Industrial Exposition.

At the Industrial Exposition and Fair to be held in Cleveland September 2-9 the Cleveland Florists' Club will make a community exhibit, exploiting the use of flowers for all purposes. The expense will be paid out of a co-operative advertising fund. Timothy Smith, chairman of the flower show committee, has appointed F. C. W. Brown, of the J. M. Gasser Co.; Chas. Russell, of the Jones-Russell Co., and Frank Pitzenthaler, of Knoble Bros., a committee to plan and execute this most interesting display. The committee plans to distribute a neat folder, calling attention of the public to the club's progress in Cleveland.

Among those who have already taken space in the flower show tent are: Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.; B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass.; Stump & Walter Co. and John Scheepers & Co., Inc., New York; Hitchins & Co., Elizabeth, N. J.; Eagle Wire Works, Liquid Fertilizer Co., Garden Soil Co., Cleveland Bird Lovers' Association and Templin-Crockett-Bradley Co., operating the Children's Flower Mission, Cleveland.

Gladiolus Notes.

Gladiolus Panama, now grown by the American trade, is not the first variety of that name. When the Isthmian canal was in a fair way to become a French institution, Vilmorin, in Fleurs de Pleine Terre, described another variety under that name as follows: "Strong spike; large flowers; intense rose carmine washed with scarlet and lightly fringed with slate color; white blotch."

Growers are complaining of the effect of draught in the production of short spikes, some of them so short as to be useless for cutting, and no doubt the continued dry weather will materially affect the growth of the bulbs.

Gladiolus spikes not intended for cut bloom should be bent over or doubled rather than cut off. This will help the development of the bulbs and prevent the danger from rot which follows cutting the spikes.

Violet Shortage at Rhinebeck.

One of the well known violet growers of Rhinebeck, N. Y., writes as follows July 11: "I have no violet plants for sale this year; in fact, have to buy some to fill out if I can get them. All the growers are short of plants on account of losing one-half to two-thirds of their plants from the damp cold weather in May and June. About one-third of the growers here have gone out of business for the season on this account."

State Fairs.

The following is a list of coming state fairs with the names and addresses of the superintendent of the horticultural and floricultural departments so far as obtainable:

August 23-September 1, Des Moines.—Iowa State Fair and Exposition. Elmer Reeves, Waverly, superintendent of horticulture; Wesley Greene, Capitol building, superintendent of floriculture.

VAUGHAN'S SEED STORE

NEW YORK

Mention the American Florist when writing

Los Angeles.

MANY FUNERALS STIMULATE DEMAND.

Quite a feature of the market was a flurry caused by the unusual amount of funeral work. Many of the shops also reported a good demand in this line. There is a splendid stock of asters on hand, and they are much used in funeral designs. Cool weather prevails again, and conditions are in consequence favorable to outdoor flowers. Lilium rubrum is plentiful and is making a good showing. Dahlias are in their glory, but gladioli are about finished. Centaureas are seen everywhere, but only a few places are showing the Centaurea Mori, which appears to be a double flower. Its long silk-like flower heads are really a sight.

NOTES.

O. C. Saakes is attracting attention to his store with a very artistic window in yellow, using dahlias, French marigolds and gaillardias. The interior of the store was crowded with funeral designs at the time of our visit. Three casket covers were turned out in one week, which is going some toward a record. The demand for funeral work is reported the heaviest for the month of August in the history of the establishment.

Several improvements have been made in the salesroom of Wolfskill

Bros. & Morris Goldenson, one of which is a very attractive mirror which adds much to the pleasing interior effect. Jack D'Ortignac, formerly with this firm, has returned after an absence of five years and is again in their employ, and seems pleased to get back to this land of flowers.

Wright's Flower Store, Inc., is another busy place. The showing of Lilium rubrum made here is excellent and roses are a feature, especially some American Beauties of quality.

The salesroom of Seki Bros. & Co. has been in the hands of the decorators in preparation for the busy season anticipated. Their stock is looking very well.

The Redondo Floral Co. appears to be getting its full share of the increased business. The force has been working up to the limit on funeral orders.

Howard & Smith report business equaling the ordinary June demand. They are making a splendid display of their new rose, Los Angeles.

S. Murata & Co. are still doing a heavy shipping business, notwithstanding the lateness of the season.

The Broadway Florists are enjoying big business. A large force has been kept busy of late on bouquets.

G. H. H.

Boston.

LIMITED SUPPLY HOLDS MARKET FIRM.

Business has been very good this week, owing to the general scarcity of flowers. The early asters are about all cut for this season and there are very few mid-season varieties obtainable. The good flowers sell for $3 per 100, a price which has never before been attained for an average. Gladioli also sell well at from $3 to $6. The rains and high winds, which have accompanied severe electrical storms, have damaged all outdoor stock, and some growers of gladioli were almost completely ruined. Roses are scarce and are bringing mid-winter prices. Carnations are practically out of the market, the few which are coming in being of inferior quality. There does not seem to be any relief in sight for the scarcity of flowers and it is expected that stock will be in even shorter supply before large quantities are obtainable.

The gladiolus show, which was held at Horticultural hall, August 12-13, was a success, considering the severe rain-storm which preceded it and damaged so many blooms. There were several large displays, which were especially fine, among which was that of Mr. Fairbanks, of Melrose, and John Lewis Childs, Inc., of Flowerfield, N. Y.

MARKET CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

Market conditions have shown some improvement since our previous report. Asters are becoming more plentiful, but the grade of stock does not improve—they are small in size and few are of very good quality. Gladioli have picked up considerably, both in number and size. They are a big leader as many are of prime quality. Lilies are more plentiful and are better in every way. Roses are fair, but do not sell well, owing to the hot weather, which causes them to open before they reach the market. Much outdoor stock is gone, as it blasts before it reaches the blooming stage.

NOTES.

T. J. Noll & Co. are installing a new refrigerator of generous proportions, and with this in place the firm will have one of the best equipped supply houses in the middle west. Gladioli and asters are leaders here, and the quality is unsurpassed. This firm's asters are like young chrysanthemums—bloom and sell on sight.

Arthur Newell reports everything running in satisfactory shape and has no complaint to offer; in fact, business has held up surprisingly well here. He has received a shipment of elm bark canoes to be filled with plants, and expects to make quite a hit with them.

Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports a scarcity of stock. Their greenhouses have been unable to meet the demand, and they have been receiving part of their requirements from outside sources. Manager Parker is still away on his trip.

The Alpha Floral Co. reports the best trade during the summer months and the number of orders sent out from this establishment bear out the statement. Howard Bartlow and Miss Ellen Collins are away on vacations.

Frank L. Barnes, youngest son of W. J. Barnes, was united in marriage August 9 to Miss Stella M. Shepherd.

The happy couple have the best wishes for health and prosperity.

Funeral work has been a factor at the Wm. L. Rock Floral Co.'s store. They are receiving some flowers from the outside, as their stock at the greenhouses is small.

H. Kusik & Co. report trade about normal. They have a good supply of gladioli and lilies. Asters are complained of as being small and tight; roses are a scarcity.

J. B. Masson of Kansas City, Kan., has three houses planted, one each of chrysanthemums, carnations and roses. All of the stock shows fine condition.

At the Patrick Larkin establishment there has been a good demand for funeral work. Fine gladioli are featured here.

Visitors: Geo. Hampton, Philadelphia, Pa.; M. Langdon, Burlington, Ia.; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb., en route to the Houston convention; Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo., also convention bound.

USUAL SUMMER DULLNESS PREVAILS.

There is very little improvement to report in the condition of the market in this city. The usual summer dullness prevails, but it is expected that this will in all probability end with the current month. Of outdoor stock, dahlias hold the upper hand at present and there are myriads of them, but only the very finest have any reasonable market. The usual supply of outdoor summer stock is already showing signs of wear and is in poor demand. Gladioli are still plentiful and good, sweet peas are about on their last legs and very poor at that. Good roses are not in oversupply. There are some fairly good American Beauties and Mrs. Chas. Russell to be had and these are easily disposed of. The call for other roses is very limited. Good carnations are not to be had in any quantity. This condition prevails every year at this season, and they are very likely to be in short supply for some time to come. Cattleyas are scarce and many more could be disposed of if they were available. Lily of the valley is none too plentiful and firm. Liliun rubrum, album and auratum are arriving freely. This stock was not planted so heavily this season as in former years and as a consequence is firmly held at good prices. Hydrangeas, both cut and in pots, are in over supply and are moved with difficulty. There is a very abundant supply of greens of every description. Chrysanthemums have made their appearance in limited quantities, but as yet do not seem to meet with much favor; one reason, and I believe the chief one, is that they do not keep well at this season of the year.

NOTES.

Great preparations are being made by the California Dahlia Growers' Association for their first annual show, which will be held in the Palace Hotel, on September 7-9. The prizes being offered are very generous and there is no question but that the show will be a great success. Wm. Kettlewell of San Mateo and F. Burns of San Rafael promise to be the largest exhibitors. That this is not going to be the only dahlia show held in this city this fall is evidenced by the fact that the Park-Richmond Improvement Club will hold a dahlia show in Park-Richmond hall, 649 Balboa avenue, on August 26-27. The growing of this popular flower in that part of the city has assumed large proportions, as the soil and climatic conditions of that part of the city are particularly adapted to the growth of the dahlia. The committee having charge is: B. Schloss, chairman; George R. Meyerderks, secretary; C. Goecker, Philip Werner, Louis Kuttner, R. C. Delometer, and L. A. Colton, president of the club.

George W. Clarke, who has been for many years assistant manager of the California Nursery Co. at Niles, has resigned his position with that company to join the staff of C. W. Wood's Cottage Gardens Nurseries at Eureka, as head of the sales department. Mr. Clarke is one of the best informed plantmen on the coast and he carries with him the best wishes of the trade for his success. He is at present visiting the trade in the west in the interests of the Cottage Gardens Nurseries.

M. H. Ebel of Sacramento was a recent visitor. He reports that preparations are almost completed for the flower show to be held in that city this fall. He is very enthusiastic over the exhibition, and reports that nearly all the prominent growers, both of plants and flowers, have expressed a desire to exhibit. Mark is "there" when he "starts a thing," so the success of the show is assured even at this early date.

Mud Lake, which for years has been within the city limits, but practically unknown to the great majority of the citizens of this city, is to be transformed into a public park. John McLaren, superintendent of Golden Gate park, is already working on plans which will turn this deserted and unfrequented body of water into one of the city's most beautiful playgrounds.

The Lynch Nursery Company of Menlo Park has disposed of a part of its land holdings at Redwood City to the Christopherson Aeroplane Co. for a factory site. They have also leased to the same company 200 acres of land, which will be used as an aviation school for the National Guard aviation corps.

John M. Hardyzer of the firm of H. M. Hardyzer, Boskoop, Holland, was a recent visitor in town, having just returned from a European trip. Mr. Hardyzer remained several days in town before leaving for Wapato, Washington, where he is interested in the Ornamental & Fruit Nursery Co.

E. W. McLellan is back at his office again after his month of military training at the Citizens' Military camp at Monterey. Among the most prized articles he brought along with him was a silver cup which was presented to him by his company rookies for proficiency in baseball.

The city of Vallejo has for some time wanted to have a fall flower show and has appointed committees to consult with the Chamber of Commerce to ask the leading growers adjacent to this city for their support. There is no date set as yet, but this will be announced later.

SUPPLY EXTREMELY LIMITED.

Trade during the past week has been only fair with a shortage of stock. An idea of the appalling situation in this respect is shown in the fact that about 100 roses, 300 carnations and a like amount of asters to satisfy about 50 customers at the Wm. F. Kasting Co.'s wholesale establishment. Even toothpicks and wire are reported as scarce. American Beauties are not plentiful, but there is a good demand for them. Sweet peas are about at the finish and gladioli and lilies are about the only salvation for a show in the stores.

The only event of any importance during the past week was the wedding of two of this city's most popular young people. The pre-nuptial entertainments were numerous and the florists did their best in the way of decorations. At these events many artistic arrangements were made, garden flowers such as phlox, candytuft, snapdragons and outdoor roses arranged in garden baskets were cleverly done. A water effect was the feature at another function, large pans being surrounded with green moss and suitable plants with pink and white pond lilies in the water, other flowers and green adding to the beauty of the scene. The bride's table was also very well done. For the ceremony the church was decorated with gladioli, hydrangeas, palms, etc., the arrangement being by D. Newlands & Co. At the house the tables were arranged by W. J. Palmer & Son, gladioli, pink roses and asparagus, with small baskets of flowers prettily arranged. The bride's bouquet, as well as those of the bridesmaids and maid of honor harmonized with the gowns. These were furnished by S. A. Anderson and reflected his usual excellent taste. BISON.

STOCK IS STILL SCARCE.

The longest hot spell in this city's history, more than twice as long as its nearest rival, is ended after thirty-two days of unusually warm weather. Since July 11 the official mercury did not drop below 70 degrees until the present cool spell set in. The longest previous above 70 period was 12 days. Previous long distance sizzlers, taken from the records of the local weather bureau, follow: In 1901, 11 days from July 20 to July 30; 1906, 11 days from August 15 to August 25; 1909, 11 days from July 31 to August 10; 1911, 12 days from July 1 to July 12, and in 1913, 12 days from June 24 to July 5. During each of these periods the minimum was 70 or higher. During the recent hot period the minimum was also 70 or higher and the maximum of 101.7 degrees was next to the highest that the official mercury has ever gone here. The weather affected the quality of stock considerably all during the hot spell and there probably never was a time when good stock was as scarce in this market as it was this summer nor were such high prices realized for what was sold at this time of the year. At present stock is still very scarce and cleans up at an early hour each day at high August prices. Roses are in good demand, especially Mrs. Chas. Russell and American Beauty, which bring high prices. All the other varieties are moving well and there is hardly ever any surplus when the stores close at night. Gladioli are still having a good call and are disposed of almost as soon as they arrive at high prices compared to former years. Asters are also in brisk demand and what few carnations are arriving are also disposed of. Lily of the valley is scarcer than ever but orchids appear to be a trifle more plentiful. Pond lilies are seen featured everywhere in the retail stores and so is a good supply of the other outdoor stock that is being offered in this market. Business continues to be good and the dealer is experiencing no trouble in selling what stock he has to offer at prices that he considers very satisfactory. Taken all in all, everyone seems to be pretty well satisfied with the amount of business that has been done so far this summer considering the unusual conditions and the only complaint heard is the shortage of stock, which makes it impossible to take as good care of the customers as one would like to.

NOTES.

The Fleischman Floral Co. has a pretty window display at its East Jackson boulevard store which represents a scene in Switzerland and is a credit to Manager Graham. The Fleischman concern had a large number of orders for the Murphy funeral, held Monday, August 14.

Harry Manheim, of Hoerber Bros., is having a rather unpleasant vacation. The first week he was off duty he was hit by a street car and severely injured about the head and a few days afterwards his son had a leg broken when he was run over by an automobile.

J. A. Budlong is handling a good supply of gladioli which compare most favorably in quality to any that have yet been offered in this market this season. Manager Phil Schupp has returned from a few days' visit at the Budlong cottage at Lake Geneva, Wis.

F. G. Mueller, 329 East Thirty-fifth street, is serving on the jury for two weeks in the criminal court.

Max Awizzus, of the E. C. Amling Co., is back from a two weeks' fishing trip at Lake Marie, and reports having had a splendid time. Talking about fishing A. C. Kohlbrand tells about how a tramp visited a Chinese restaurant on Tuesday and asked for a handout. The proprietor asked him if he liked fish and the Wearie Willie thinking he was going to get something to eat, replied, yes, when the restaurant keeper calmly answered, very well, come back "Fliday."

O. A. & L. A. Tonner received a shipment of cherries this week from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., from Miss Olga Tonner who is spending her vacation there with Miss Nettie Parker, of A. T. Pyfer & Co. They write that they are having a most delightful time and had a pleasant automobile ride through the celebrated Door county cherry orchards.

Walter Scott, of La Grange, had such a good call for gladioli at his retail establishment all this season that he did not ship near as many to the wholesale market as in previous years. He reports that they sold unusually well at prices averaging $1.00 per dozen at retail.

E. Franks, bookkeeper for Kennicott Bros. Co., is enjoying a two weeks' vacation at Fruitvale, Mich. Fred Liebermann of the same firm is also enjoying a two weeks' leave of absence.

N. P. Miller is back from a two weeks' vacation and is again in charge at the Miller & Musser store. Jack Henich of this firm is now enjoying a well-earned rest.

Miss Nell Statham, of the Idlewild Greenhouses, and Miss Nettie Montgomery, of Memphis, Tenn., are spending their vacation in this city and have been entertained by Miss Marguerite McNulty and Felix Reichling, of the Peter Reinberg store force and it is needless to add that they are having a most enjoyable time. They were the guests of Miss McNulty on a lake trip to Milwaukee, Wis., and it is understood that some night this week the entire store force will give a party in their honor at Riverview Park.

John Wittbold, eldest son of Louis Wittbold, is back from a few weeks' farming in Nebraska, but did not do as well as he expected for he had just enough money to allow him and his chum to reach Denver, Colo., from which point they wired to their folks to send enough money for them to come home on. John is satisfied that being employed in a florist store is not the hardest work that there is after all and was tickled to death to get back on the job.

C. L. Washburn says that trade is very good at Bassett & Washburn's store, with such a heavy demand for stock, especially American Beauty roses, that it is impossible to fill all the orders. Joe Einweck, of the store force, will leave August 19 on the steamer Minnesota for a trip on the Great Lakes. Miss Harper, of the office force, is spending her vacation at White Lake, Mich.

H. E. Philpott, of Winnipeg, Can., arrived here this week from Berlin, Ont., where he attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Association, August 8-10. After spending a few days at A. T. Pyfer & Co.'s store and Pyfer & Olsem's greenhouses, he left for Minneapolis, Minn., where he is interested in a new range of Dietsch greenhouses that are being erected there.

August Poehlmann left Monday night, July 14, for Houston, Tex., where he is representing Poehlmann Bros. Co. at the S. A. F. convention. Walter Stockloss, of Poehlmann's cut flower department, has returned from a pleasant lake trip to Mackinac island, and Samuel Cohn, of the office force, is back from a delightful vacation in Michigan.

East Monroe street will be continued until the building it is now located in will be torn down, which is not likely to be for some time yet.

Joe Schouten, of the Ernst Wienhoeber Floral Co., and Fred Nelson, manager of the George Wittbold Co.'s retail department, are making an automobile trip to Detroit, Mich. The boys at the Wittbold store say that Mr. Nelson took enough baggage along to lead some of them to suspect that he is on his honeymoon.

James Friedl and family returned from a visit at Fox Lake this week, and are now making an automobile trip to the Wisconsin Dells. Joe Papacek has taken such good care of the Friedl store that the proprietor is taking a longer vacation than he first intended to.

George Wienhoeber is pushing the enlarging of his store, which will give him an entrance in both Wabash avenue and East Monroe street. He had a splendid window display of orchids, Saturday, August 12, which made those who passed by stop and inspect it.

Adolph Benesh, manager of the E. F. Winterson Co.'s supply department, and family are back from a pleasant visit at Union Pier, Mich. Fred Krause, Mr. Winterson's right hand man, is away on a Wisconsin vacation trip.

Reinhold Schiller, manager of Schiller's downtown store, expects to leave August 26 on a well earned vacation and will make a boat trip on the Great Lakes in company with a party of relatives and friends.

Henry M. Hirsch, 37 East Van Buren street, has been having a good call for funeral work the past week, and among the many orders filled was a beautiful six-foot wreath of Mrs. Chas. Russell roses.

C. H. Fisk, 1581 Ogden avenue, and his son-in-law, W. A. Elson, have opened an automobile repair shop, which will be personally looked after by the last named gentleman.

Frank Pasternik, of the Ernst Wienhoeber Floral Co., reported for duty Monday, August 14, after spending a most enjoyable three weeks' vacation with his family at Paw Paw.

S. Enomoto, of Enomoto & Co., Inc., San Francisco, Calif., was in the city last week on a vacation trip, and will return by way of New Orleans.

Gust P. Constantino, of the Chicago Floral House, 39 West Randolph street, and family have returned from a pleasant visit at Morocco, Ind.

Joe Erringer, of the Zech & Mann force, is back from his vacation, spent in Michigan, and is again attending to his duties at the store.

D. E. Freres and Henry Muno and a party of friends and their families will leave August 19 for a two weeks' visit at Deep Lake.

It is rumored that another retail store will be opened in the loop in the near future on East Jackson boulevard.

C. B. LeMer, of Simpson's Flower Shops, is back on the job after a pleasant visit to the northern Wisconsin lakes.

Robert Blake, with Mrs. J. B. Freeman, Toledo, O., was a visitor at Zech & Mann's establishment this week.

Miss Betty Carlson, with Mullanphy Florists, St. Louis, Mo., is visiting old acquaintances here this week.

Alex Kilpack, assistant manager at Archie Spencer's store, is back from a two weeks' visit at Antioch.

Mandy Doetsch, of the George Wittbold Co., is spending his vacation at Antioch this summer.

Alex Gardiner will be in the employ of Stuhldreher Bros., Mansfield, O., after September 1.

Anton Then, 2219 Winnemac avenue, will disseminate John Then's new scarlet carnation. Thenanthos this season, and is now booking orders for rooted cuttings for January 1, 1917 delivery. Thenanthos is a cross between Enchantress and a red seedling with a brilliant scarlet color and a large bloom measuring three and one-half inches in diameter. It is a prolific bloomer and entirely free from disease and is never troubled with rust. This variety made a big hit at the Grand Floral Festival, held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, 1915.

John Felke of Wilmette, celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday, August 15, with a party at his home the previous Sunday, when he was presented with a victrola by his friends and acquaintances in honor of the event. Frank Felke, Anton Felke, Anton Then and N. P. Miller and their families, attended, and it is needless to add that everyone present had a most pleasant time.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association has dolled up its store in great shape and it now presents a most inviting appearance. This firm is handling a large quantity of gladioli, in addition to a nice supply of roses. Ed Hunt is back on the job after having had a two weeks' vacation.

Vaughan's Seed Store, during the past week moved a second shipment of two cars of Liliun Formosum bulbs. This concern is also distributing this week a large shipment of French freezia bulbs, which arrived on the French liner "Chicago." Large sizes are scarce as usual.

Wietor Bros. are having a brisk demand for field grown carnation plants and nearly every mail is bringing in new orders. N. J. Wietor is looking

A. L. Vaughan & Co. report that business continues to be very brisk and that the sales so far this summer are away ahead of last year. William Johnson is doing double at this establishment, but is equal to the occasion, for his middle name is "work."

Percy Jones is experiencing a splendid summer business and Manager Van Gelder and his hustling assistants are having no trouble in disposing of all the stock that there is to offer at an early hour each day.

BUSINESS SUFFERS FROM DROUGHT.

Seven weeks without rain means a dry spell, even in Kansas—and the end is not yet, according to the weather man, although a shower of .31 of an inch, August 13, affords some relief. An average temperature of about 4 degrees above normal has added to the severity and discomfort of the situation. Under these conditions there is trouble enough with greenhouse stock, and outdoor crops have suffered severely. Asters and gladioli develop imperfectly, and dahlias are doing nothing. Almost everything else has given up the struggle, except single tube roses, which are doing well where properly watered. Business is at low ebb. Almost everybody with the price, and some without it, have skipped to Colorado or the northern resorts. For those who remain about the only social functions are swimming parties,—which do not bring the florists anything,—and funerals, and Kansas has always been a fairly healthy state. So, for the florist, discontent seems to have slipped around from winter to summer, as he sweats through the work in the hot greenhouses, wondering when his customers will get back from their vacations and pay their little bills. Carnation planting is well along. The plants are going into the houses undersized, and the supply hardly adequate, owing to the bad growing season. Everybody seems to have taken a flier in chrysanthemums this season, and for the most part, they are looking well in spite of the heat.

NOTES.

It is hardly likely that Wichita will be represented at the convention this year. "Too much to look after" seems to be the reason given by those who otherwise might go.

Prospects for business the coming season are fair so far as can be determined at this time.

FLORISTS' CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers of the florists' club took place at the regular meeting held at the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange, Tuesday evening, August 8, and resulted as follows: E. A. Feters, president; A. J. Stahelin, vice-president, and the re-election of Henry Forster, secretary, and Robert Rahaley, treasurer.

The club will give an outing for the members, their families and friends, August 23, at Bois Blanc Island. Baseball and other popular games will be enjoyed as well as dancing. Arrangements for contests with suitable prizes are in the hands of a capable committee and a large attendance is expected.

J. F. S.

Westchester and Fairfield Society.

The sixth annual outing and field day of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held August 8, at Rye Beach inn, Rye Beach, N. Y., the event being in conjunction with that of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society and proved to be a pleasing innovation, offering opportunity for many old friends to renew friendships. Members of the societies, with their families and friends were present to the number of over 200. The shore dinner provided by the hotel management was thoroughly enjoyed. Owing to rain the programme of sports was somewhat curtailed; however, the honors were quite evenly divided, the Fairfield contingent being slightly in the lead. The quoit contest went to the Tarrytown "boys." The athletic contests in which the ladies competed were both exciting and picturesque.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

Philadelphia.

SUPPLY EXTREMELY LIMITED.

This is vacation time, without the shadow of a doubt. Even the flowers are absenting themselves, the supply being very meager indeed. Gladioli appear to be the only flowers that are at all up to standard in quality or quantity. Scarcely an order goes out without a bunch or two of this popular summer offering. Asters, which are generally in their prime at this time, are away below par, much of the stock arriving being practically unsaleable—they are small and off color, with nearly half the flowers in every bunch deformed. Growers do not appear to be able to account for this condition; some blame the weather, others the seed, and again the bugs have to come in for their share. Rust is another factor. It is hoped that the later sorts will be better. A few fair local American Beauties are seen, but not enough for even the limited demand. My Maryland, Russell, Ophelia, Double White Killarney and Kaiserin are the best roses, nothing with stems much over 12 to 16 inches long being offered. Some very good larkspurs, plenty of Hydrangea paniculata and a few other outside flowers add to the assortment. Cattleyas are scarce, while lily of the valley has to be asked for the day before.

NOTES.

It is interesting at this dull time to take a look forward and see what the future promises. Mr. Myers, of Myers & Samtman, the noted rose growers of Chestnut Hill, affirms it to be his belief that there is nothing in sight yet to dethrone the American Beauty; out of the 100,000 roses that they force, about, or a little over half of their stock is American Beauty and yet last season it brought lowest per plant and 30 per cent below the highest, which was Ophelia. The price was all right, but they did not cut nearly up to standard in quantity, which Mr. Myers attributes to the lack of sun and very few bright days in last winter's season. They have been much interested in the miniature or baby roses and made a test of 59 sorts, all the new varieties they could find. Out of this number they found only two that they considered worth forcing. Ellen Poulson, Erna Techendorff, Mrs. Cutbush and Baby Dorothy would only give one crop and could not be coaxed into another, so went into the discard with the others. One of the selected sorts is as strong as Cecile Brunner or George Elgar, with the color of Daily Mail. Mr. Myers bought this unseen and although he has a thousand dollars invested in it, is delighted with his bargain. Another is a polyantha of strong growth, but is not given to making clusters; it is a beautiful color, best described as the opposite of that of Daily Mail, which Mr. Myers says is as near as he can come to it. The stock here is looking very well for the season.

The Jos. Heacock Co. has sung its "swan song" for the summer, sending out a notice to their customers that there will be nothing more doing in cut flowers until September 20. Their "watch for the opening" is embellished with the promise of a large supply of the famous Hadley; also Canadian Queen, a new corsage rose, will be one of their stars. Other familiar faces will be White and Pink Killarney, Ward, Hillingdon, Ophelia and Richmond.

Fred Cowperthwaite, of the H. F. Michell Co.'s force, and who will be remembered as the genial master of the guides and information bureau of the recent national flower show, has associated himself with the King Construction Co., where, with Mr. Muth, resident manager, he will have a wide field for advancement.

Asters of very fair quality for this year, together with good Maryland and Kaiserin roses, are the leading features of the Edward Reid stock. Another very scarce article seen here is special lily of the valley.

The Robert Craig Co. is having a run on their cyclamen. It will take quite a while, however, to break their stock of 60,000 plants. They were never in better shape than at present.

American Beauties, gladioli, Easter lilies and asters head the bill with the Leo Niessen Co. this week. Business is said to be up to that expected for the season.

MARKET CONDITIONS UNCHANGED.

There is no appreciable change in the condition of the cut flower market since our last notes were written. Gladioli and asters continue to pile up, but there is no surplus of other stocks. Orchids continue scarce and the asking price for Cattleya gigas is $1 per flower, but it is only in a case of absolute necessity that any retailer will pay that price. Lily of the valley is a little easier, but good stock brings $5 per 100. Lilies go at $4 and $5 per 100. Though business is very light with the retailers, they must keep up a stock, and on account of the great scarcity of good roses, the best that the market affords are bringing good prices for this season. In tea roses, there is but little special stock. Special American Beauties have sold as high as $30 per 100. A few specials of Francis Scott Key and Prima Donna have gone as high as $10 and $12 per 100, or at that rate, passible extras and fancies of different varieties run from $4 to $8. There is some stock of the new crop of roses on the market, but most of it is short, grading from No. 1 down to No. 3. A few dahlias have been arriving for the past two weeks, but the buyers have had little use for them. From now on, they may be expected to attract more attention.

August 14.—The market opened this morning with a very light supply of stock, excepting asters and gladioli. Good roses are at a premium and bring good prices for the season. A few sweet peas are arriving, in very poor condition, and no price can be quoted. A few small chrysanthemums have appeared, but they are of no consequence. The weather continues clear and cool, and would be favorable to business if there were more flower buyers in the city.

NOTES.

Herman Kuhn, 896 Sixth avenue, is a veteran, out of many wars, but of many scars. He has just returned from a trip to Texas. But be not hasty, gentle reader. He was not scarred by the Mexicans, but by the cactus through which he tramped, pursuing his investigations and explorations. He is a veteran of 30 years and more in the retail business, and a retired veteran of one of the New York regiments now on the border, and he made the trip to see how the boys were prospering on beans and sundries.

Henry Hart, the well known retailer of 1000 Madison avenue, has removed, temporarily, to 998 in order to give the workmen scope to enlarge and greatly improve the store at the former number. He expects to move back about October 1, and will have one of the finest retail stores in the city.

Calling recently on the Knight & Struck Co., at their new quarters, 258 Fifth avenue, we were pleased with their prosperity. At the above number they have an entire floor. They have thus greatly enlarged their office facilities, and have also larger space for display and storage.

Joseph Bechamps, a well known grower and retailer of Flushing, who is frequently in the market, advises us that his carnations in the field have done remarkably well and made fine growth, which is an exception for this season.

H. L. Baylis, in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Co., is receiving new crop of Rose Prima Donna from the Asmus range, North Bergen, N. J., and they are good for so early in the season.

I. H. Eisenberg, 916 Sixth avenue, furnished the plant and floral decorations for Carnegie hall on the night that Charles E. Hughes was formally notified of his nomination for the presidency.

P. F. Kessler, of the Cut Flower Exchange, does not worry about business at this season. He has just spent two weeks at a New Hampshire resort and now goes to the Adirondacks till September.

We have recently had occasion to notice the activities of L. Gluck, the retailer of Lexington avenue and 23d street. He has a good store and reports good business for the season.

John Young & Co., 53 West 28th street, are receiving good roses of the varieties Cleveland, Francis Scott Key and Baby Doll from S. J. Reuter & Son, Westerly, R. I.

William Weininger, of the Juergens department of the New York Cut Flower Co., who has been sick for three weeks, has recovered and returned to business.

G. E. M. Stumpp came up from his summer store at Southampton, L. I., last week and spent a few days. Southampton is now a very lively resort.

The retail store of Snoeck & Hall, 1064 Madison avenue, is closed, whether for the summer or permanently, we have been unable to learn.

Joseph S. Fenrich, 51 West 28th street, is receiving good stock of Ophelia and Cleveland roses from Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

Advices from the Hague are to the effect that a new steamship line will soon begin service between Rotterdam and this country.

W. Doyle, salesman for A. Sauter, in the Cut Flower Exchange, and Mrs. Doyle are on a two weeks' vacation in the Catskills.

Al. Rigo, the retailer of 810 Madison avenue, has returned from a three weeks' vacation in the Adirondacks.

Max Schling, 22 West 59th street, is now on vacation. Business at the store, is lively for summer time.

William Sampson, salesman for H. E. Froment, is spending a two weeks' vacation at Saratoga Springs.

Miss Florence Rubin, cashier for the New York Cut Flower Co., is ill at her home in Jersey City.

Riedel & Meyer, Inc., 49 West 28th street, are handling fine stock of Gladioli America.

TRADE SLOW WITH LIMITED SUPPLY.

Trade is slow. This is in part due to the unusual poverty of display on the part of florists with which to tempt the buyer. Scorching dry weather has cut short the season of sweet peas and certain other flowers which should be still lingering in stock and has diminished the yield and quality of those which should be at the height of their luxuriance. The latter is particularly true of gladioli and dahlias. What promised to be a great yield of the former has dwindled to a meager supply. The demand exceeds acceptable offerings. On the public flower markets dealers are unable to get reduction of price below that asked the consumer. With regular growers the blooms on whole beds have burned up before reaching a mature stage. Rains within the past week are favorable to beds coming on, and a liberal yield of choice cuttings is anticipated within a week or two. Present prices range from $1.25 to $2 a dozen. Dahlias are almost a complete failure. At this time last year they were one of the principal staples. Roses are the best stock available, and the supply is fairly good. Some florists are stimulating trade by special rose sales. A few chrysanthemums have made their appearance and are selling for 35 cents a bloom. Funeral work is very quiet.

NOTES.

S. F. Stephens & Son are adding a new greenhouse to their plant, dimensions 35x110 feet. This firm has been conducting a persistent advertising campaign for some time, to convince the public that although located at the entrance to Greenlawn, the principal cemetery of the city, they are also in the general florist trade. They are meeting with good results from their advertising, and have added materially to the fair share of miscellaneous business which they have enjoyed in the past. Their cemetery trade has also been unusually large during the past summer.

T. J. Ludwig has the contract for floral table decorations at the opening of the new Hotel Desher, August 23. The building, which is just completed, represents an investment of $1,000,000, aside from the ground and the furnishings. It will be under the same management as the Wallack hotel, New York, and a party of Eastern hotel men are coming on for the opening. The total contract in question is for a dinner to be given them.

Orman Grice, for the past nine years superintendent of the Livingston Seed Co.'s greenhouses, has resigned. His future plans have not been announced, nor has his successor been chosen.

F. M. Brownwell, head of the cut flower department of the Livingston Seed Company, is spending a vacation at his old home in northern Ohio.

J.

Terre Haute, Ind.

HEATED TERM LONGEST IN YEARS.

This city has experienced the longest hot spell in many years, extending from June 30 up to the present, with the mercury clinging close to the 100 mark and with a July average of 92½ in the shade. All plant growth has naturally suffered in consequence. Funeral work has been very heavy all summer, and at present writing continues good. Copious rains during the last few days will no doubt help the starved vegetation to a great degree. The trees in the parks and boulevards are infested with caterpillars, and they are a proposition to get rid of.

NOTES.

Harry Dempsey, 40 years of age, who has lived in this city nearly all his lifetime, and who for some time had been in charge of the greenhouses at the St. Mary's of the Woods Academy, died at St. Anthony's hospital August 7. He was a man of high principles and a fine grower, as his work at the academy proves. He is survived by his parents, one brother and two sisters, to whom the sympathy of the trade is extended.

John Winter, of the Terre Haute Rose & Carnation Co., added another man to his force July 30. He weighs 10 pounds. Mother and son are both doing fine.

The fifth house, 72x250 feet, is being erected at the Davis Gardens. This, when finished, will complete the north half of this establishment.

Edgar Webber of Heintz & Webber, accompanied by his wife, will visit his old home, Louisville, Ky., this week, making the trip by auto.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, are installing a new boiler at Cowan Bros. range, which will heat their entire plant.

USUAL SUMMER DULLNESS LACKING.

The retailers say that business is keeping up very well this summer; the usual dull season has not developed for some cause or other, but no particular complaints are made under that head. The main problem seems to be to get enough good stock to supply the demand.

NOTES.

Lon Foster spent a day at Guthrie recently at the establishment of Furrow & Co. He says that the four houses that are planted to roses give great promise. Last year this firm tried one house of roses as an experiment; the fact that four houses are planted this year would indicate that roses can be grown profitably in this section.

The delegates to the Houston convention changed their plans and left August 13, one day earlier than was intended. In the party leaving this city were: C. E. Fall, Kansas City, Mo.; Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo.; John W. Furrow, Guthrie; Phil Foley, Chicago; A. S. Gray, Chickasha, and Lon Foster, of this city.

Previous to leaving for the Houston convention Phil Foley, of Chicago, spent a few days with John W. Furrow at Guthrie.

Visitors: C. E. Fall, Kansas City, Mo.; Frank Stuppy, St. Joseph, Mo.; Phil Foley, Chicago; A. S. Gray, Chickasha, Okla. S. S. B.

American Seed Trade Association.

Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., President;
F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., First
Vice-President; L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fifth annual convention, June, 1917.

Disclaimer Resolution.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at the annual convention of the American Seed Trade Association, held at Chicago, June 20-22, 1916:

Resolved, That this association is opposed to any legislation affecting the germination of seeds, nullifying the disclaimer, or interfering with interstate commerce.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Juvenal & Son have closed out their seed business here.

REPORTS from St. Anthony, Ida., dated August 11, indicate damage to late peas by hail.

CABLE advices from Southern France indicate that freesia bulbs in the two larger sizes are not to be had, the third size only being available.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—A. J. Brown is still at his summer residence at Northport Point. His wrist, broken in an accident recently, is mending.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, August 16, were as follows: Timothy, $4.50 to $5.25 per 100 pounds.—W. W. Barnard Co. has added a new Ford to its local traction outfits.

GLADIOLUS bulb crops in the middle west, unfavorably affected by continuous rains in the spring, are now suffering more seriously, especially on high ground, from five weeks of drought.

GARDEN BEANS in central Michigan, which look none too well, have been helped by recent rains, but the final outcome of the crop depends on weather from now on. Montana crops are reported looking well.

OF the 323 official samples of seed drawn from dealers' stocks in 1915 by authorized representatives of the New York state commissioner of agriculture, only 15, or 4.6 per cent, were found upon analysis to be violations of the seed law.

VISITED CHICAGO: Arthur G. Deal, Boston, Eng.; C. P. Peppard of J. P. Peppard Co., Kansas City, Mo., returning from a month's stay at Plattsburg civilian training camp; Edwin B. Northrup and Geo. C. Thompson, of Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

W. W. BARNARD, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, was in the city for a short time last week but the hot spell drove him back to his summer home in northern Michigan. A. H. Goodwin, vice-president of this company, is spending about half his time at his Indiana summer home.

ANOTHER French house writes: "There does not seem to be any great shortage in Paper Whites or Trumpet Major, but Soleil d'Or is scarce and orders can not be filled. The crop of white Roman hyacinths so far has been poor, both in regard to quality and quantity, and the American consumers cannot depend on receiving the usual fine quality."

French Bulb Crops.

Toulon advices under date of July 24 are as follows:

Roman hyacinths.—This crop is undoubtedly the worst of all; in fact, the jobbers claim it would be necessary to go back 30 years to find its equal. The highest estimate of salable bulbs from 11 c. m. upwards can be computed at 40 per cent. In many instances on contracts between small growers and merchants, ranging between 3,000 and 10,000, no bulbs have been, or are likely to be delivered, as the hyacinths, when lifted, have either become too diseased or else too small for export trade. Other contracts show returns ranging from 15 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent. There are instances, however, where better returns have been secured; in fact, as high as 70 per cent, but these instances are so rare that the average is affected very slightly. From facts gathered in the bulb districts, it appears the crop experienced more rain than necessary for its welfare, and this excessive humidity lasted until the end of February. This heavy rainfall brought about a disease at the roots. Since March the weather has been exceedingly dry, and the hyacinths commenced to make fresh growth. Unfortunately, in the spring the district experienced the full effects of a strong, cold wind, which produced a stoppage in the development of the bulbs and caused the sap to stop flowing. During the past three and one-half months not a drop of rain has fallen, consequently the bulbs have ripened off prematurely. Bulbs are deficient in quality this season; in fact, those of 13 c. m. and upwards cannot be obtained in any quantity. Size 12 c. m. is also scarce. Florists in the main will have to be satisfied with 11 c. m. size, and there is not a large quantity of them. Instances are known where certain firms are taking bulbs as low as 10 c. m., which means that the planting stocks will be much diminished. In 1915, the crop of bulbs 12 c. m. and up was estimated at five to six millions, other years eight to ten millions. The highest estimate for 1916 gives a return of one and one-half millions. As the English importers have secured special permits for Roman hyacinths and other bulbs, their presence on the market has helped to inflate prices.

Hyacinths, colored. — Less grown here each year. Only a few growers are producing them now. Certainly Italy has shipped a few bulbs to the exporters here, but their demands have been so high, and the risks of shipments by delay in transit so great, that very few of the merchants have entertained their offers, which, in any case, are very, very few.

Narcissus Paper White grandiflora. — These do not fear the humidity like hyacinths. The dry weather of the past few months has had a disastrous effect on the crops. The bulbs flowered profusely last December and January, but unfortunately, after the flowers were produced, instead of developing in size of bulb, they ceased their growth quickly through want of rain. Bulbs of 14 c. m. and up are practically unobtainable. The 13 c. m. size are scarce, and only to be secured at exorbitant prices. Many firms have had to be satisfied this year with 12 and 12½ c. m. bulbs. The former may flower from anything between 50 per cent and 70 per cent. The 12½ c. m. size should give far better results than the 13 c. m. size of last year, when the elements were against the satisfactory production of bloom. Other reasons are forthcoming for the increase in prices. Skilled labor is out of the question. Boys of 14 to 16 years are now doing the labor of men. Women, as usual, are accomplishing what grading is required, but really the crop is so small, and prices for all sizes so high, that exporters are not keen to grade the bulbs as in former years. Besides, wages are much higher. Another factor in the increased values is the want of rain, which has made the ground so hard that bulbs cannot be pulled just now on heavy soils, which is the kind most adapted to the narcissus. These bulbs are usually grown on the hills, which are not watered. The ground on the level is far too expensive to be devoted to this crop. Merchants who accepted contract orders are undoubtedly losing heavily. They have, on account of the inferior size and scarcity of the bulbs harvested, been obliged to inform their clients that the sizes would be reduced proportionately, but that contract prices would remain firm nevertheless. In most instances the buyers have complied with their requests.

Freesias.—The cold winds in March stopped the growth and burnt the foliage. Crop about 20 per cent.

Alyssum and ornithogalum.—Crops are good and prices reasonable. Bulbs coming in slowly.

Lilium candidum. — Quality good, prices high.

Narcissus.—Varieties such as Soleil d'Or are not in great demand, and almost full shipments may be expected.

General Prospects.—The possibilities for next season are not hopeful; in fact, there is every indication that matters will be worse, especially if the war continues. Too many bulbs of planting size have been lifted and sold at remunerative rates this year. These heavy purchases of small bulbs will have a baneful effect on the results next year, when, unless very favorable weather should ensue from planting time onwards, a dearth of bulbs of the best quality is anticipated.

Crop Condition, August 1, 1916.

The condition of all crops in the United States on August 1 was 2.6 per cent below the 10 year average on that date, 4.1 per cent lower than on July 1, and 9.3 per cent lower than the final yields last year. The condition of various crops on August 1, or at harvest, on a basis of 100 per cent average (not normal) was as follows: Tomatoes, 99.3; cantaloupes, 98.2; watermelons, 95.8; cabbages, 96.4; potatoes, 98.4; onions, 95.6.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Mushrooms, home grown, 15 to 25 cents per pound; lettuce, tomato boxes, 35 to 45 cents; radishes, $3.50 per 100 bunches; celery, 50 to 80 cents per box; tomatoes, four baskets 30 to 65 cents; cucumbers, per hamper, 75 cents to $1.25.

New York, Aug. 15. — Celery, per crate, $1.50 to $5.00; cucumbers, 50 cents to $1.50 per basket; mushrooms, $2.00 to $3.50 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, per carrier, 20 cents to $1.50; radishes, per 100 bunches, $1.50 to $2.00; lettuce, per basket, 50 cents to $2.00.

National Conference on Marketing.

A programme of unusual interest is in preparation for the Fourth National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits to be held in Chicago, December 4-9. Speakers of national repute, as well as experts in foreign lands will present papers. Waste in the handling of farm products is to be a feature, and practical plans will be drawn for improving the quality of farm products and providing for increased consumption, both from state and federal standpoints.

The scope and limitations of the federal farm loan bill will be analyzed so that the American grower may know what to expect under its terms. How to turn tenant farmers into home owners; how to move landless men to the land; how to handle the immigrant and other vital after-the-war questions will come up for discussion. For further information, address, Charles W. Holman, secretary, 340 Washington Bldg., Madison, Wis.

The Soil Supply.

There is no more important item around a greenhouse than a good supply of suitable soil. At this time of the year it is generally easier than at any other time to get the soil in proper condition; also the labor can generally be spared easier now than earlier in the season. We have for years practiced a method that has given good results. We select a desirable piece of land, generally sod, plow it to the desired depth and then add whatever manure and fertilizer we wish to incorporate. Then the disc harrow is used to reduce the soil and mix the manure and fertilizer thoroughly. This may mean an unusual amount of labor at times, for we spare no pains to have the soil right, for no matter how much team work we put on it is cheaper and better than hand labor indoors. If we are not in a hurry, it is generally best to give the land a rest of a week or two and reduce at intervals; however, we have reduced sod to potting soil in 10 hours at one time when necessary. If the sod can lay and decay after plowing, the work will be much easier. When the soil is in proper condition it should be moved to the greenhouse or stored in a cheap shed to protect from rain. We sometimes pile in A shaped piles in the field and roof by lapping celery boards. In this shape it is available any time when wanted. Just recently we removed a large amount of soil out of a new fruit plantation by taking a small amount between each row with a manure spreader. This soil was unloaded with the spreader near the greenhouse, manure and bone meal added and then disked into condition ready for use indoors. We use a double acting cut-away disc and find it a good tool for this work.

MARKETMAN.

Nassau County Horticultural Society.

The regular meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held at Glen Cove, August 9, President James McDonald in the chair. The schedule for the coming dahlia show, which had been prepared by the executive committee, was read by Robert Jones, chairman of the committee, and was approved. It contains 63 classes, covering exhibits of dahlias, roses and other outdoor flowers and vegetables; also, a class for decorated dinner tables. With one or two exceptions the classes are open to all and all exhibitors will be welcomed. Secretary Gibson is still receiving many offers of prizes for the society's chrysanthemum show, and the outlook is most favorable for a very successful exhibition.

John Ingraham, of Oyster Bay, staged a gorgeous display of gladioli for which he was awarded a certificate of culture, together with the thanks of the society. Harry Goodbrand was awarded first premium for 12 spikes of gladioli and won first honors with 12 asters. Six tomatoes exhibited by John W. Everitt were awarded the blue ribbon. John Johnstone, Joseph Robinson and Thomas Twigg officiated as judges. By request John Ingraham gave a very interesting talk on "Gladioli," in which he told of cultural methods and mentioned the varieties which he had found best suited to meet growing conditions on Long Island.

JAS. MCCARTHY, Cor. Sec'y.

Cincinnati.

GOOD STOCK CLEANS UP READILY.

After seven weeks of continuous heat, the weather became cooler the first of this week, and August 15, we had a few light showers. The supply is a little heavier than it was last week. Most everything was out, while what is coming into the market is cleaning up readily. Gladioli are in a good supply and many excellent blooms may be had. Asters are just between seasons, but those that come in, generally sell readily. Easter lilies, rubrums and al-bums are in a good supply and have a good market. Roses do not amount to very much at the present time. The few good ones obtainable sell very readily. Hardy hydrangeas have met with an active market. Water lilies have a fair call.

NOTES.

Mrs. Frances Enneking, mother of Joseph Enneking, manager of Max Rudolph's store, died recently at Oldenburg, Ind. Mr. Enneking is receiving the sympathy of his friends in his bereavement.

The sympathy of his friends in the trade is extended to Dan Carmichael, of J. M. McCullough Sons Co., in his bereavement over the sudden death of his wife, Catherine, August 13.

John A. Evans, of Richmond, Ind., stopped in this city to change trains, while on his way to the S. A. F. convention.

C. E. Critchell has been having an excellent supply of gladioli.

Propagation of Shrubs.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

Will you kindly give me information regarding the procedure in propagating (rooting) hardy shrubs from cuttings in frames in the summer as it is practiced by many nurserymen in climatic conditions corresponding to those of New York or Philadelphia? I refer to such shrubs as hydrangeas, deutzias, Philadelphuses viburnums, forsythias, etc. How deep should the frames be, and how much manure is required, or may this be omitted and the rooting made in a cold bottom? How high should the superstructure be which carries the cloth shades, and what material is best for the shades? Should the material be thick or thin, excluding much or little light, and when should they be removed in the afternoon? I would also like particulars as to watering, ventilating, and the best kind of sand to use; also, as to how early in the summer and how late in the autumn the cuttings can be handled in the frames to good advantage. I should much appreciate answers to these questions and others that may suggest themselves on this subject.

X.

The writer has had the same experience as the questioner, in that it was found very difficult to get data as to propagation of even the commonest shrubs. Bailey's "Nursery Book" gave in general terms, the art of grafting and propagation by cuttings, but did not go far enough for the searcher after knowledge in all its details. It is now possible to get itemized information on the increase by seeds, grafting or cuttings of all trees and shrubs in Bailey's new edition of the Cyclopedia of American Horticulture, written for this work by Rehder, who also gives the various stocks available for the different genera. To illustrate, we will take the cotoneasters, this wonderful new set, that has been found for us in China by Wilson. Rehder tells us that these can be increased by seeds sown in fall or stratified. The evergreen species grow readily from cuttings of half-ripened wood in August under glass; increased also by layers, put down in fall, or by grafting on C. vulgaris, hawthorn, mountain ash or quince.

The above is given to show how each family of plants have affinity with others that would not be surmised. In the case of the recent introductions it is too long to wait for seeds to be available in quantity; cotoneaster seeds take often two years to germinate; a cutting takes too much of the wood of a rare thing, when we take the risk of loss by a few very hot days, but it can be seen that grafting is the quickest way to get up a stock when we have the choice of four different common plants easily obtained as seedlings.

It is perhaps not generally known that nurserymen rarely raise their own young stock except in the case of rare plants. It was always possible to import from Europe at a very low price, grow on for a year or two, and sell practically all of the well known trees and shrubs. Of late, however, the tide has turned, and Europe has to come here now for the more recent of Wilson's additions to our gardens from China, and the art of propagation is being studied as never before. It must of necessity be one of the oldest, and yet the writer in his 40 years among cultivators, has known but three real propagators. There is an old adage that says that "a good propagator will never make a good gardener." This may seem a paradox, but the true cultivator after he has raised a plant hard to increase, and wants to grow it on, hates to part with it. The other fellow has to eat to live, and, on the side, separate himself day after day from things he has nursed from infancy.

All of the shrubs named by "X" can be rooted from cuttings made from half-ripened shoots in August. An ideal place to make the cutting bed is on a spent hotbed, placing about six inches of sand on the soil, and using growth about six inches long, and inserting more than half this length in the sand. Water well to firm the bed, shade with sash with the glass painted, raise the sash at top and bottom so there will be a current of air at all times passing over the cuttings, and spray overhead on hot days. The lilacs can be rooted only in this way, and most of the viburnums also. The cuttings when rooted should be put in flats of good soil and wintered in a cellar where bulbs keep well until spring and time comes to line them out. Hardwood cuttings are easier to handle, as these can be made in early winter from current season's growth about a foot long. These tied in bundles, placed in flats of sand in a cellar until spring, and then lined out in rows, make large plants the first year, in many cases big enough to sell.

Evergreens can be rooted from cuttings taken at this time and placed under the same conditions as the cuttings of shrubs, and will need the same treatment for rooting. It sometimes happens that they do not root before winter, and then will need to be protected during the winter, either in the cutting bed or in flats. The arborvitae are increased this way, also the juniperus.

The cedars are usually grafted on the common red cedar stock. This is an operation which requires skillful treatment, and is rarely attempted except in a small way, by those not accustomed to raise them in large quantities.

The pines are also grafted usually on the seedling white pine, and the choice varieties of spruce are also grafted usually on the seedling Norway spruce.

The sowing of seeds of shrubs and trees should be made directly the seeds are gathered, preferably in beds outside, where they may get the action of frost during the first winter after the sowing. This is very important, as it usually occurs under natural conditions. If the seed is not frozen it often takes two years for the seed to germinate. Seedlings, however, take at least two years before they are large enough to be transplanted, and cuttings are always preferable when propagation can not be made by that means.

NEPH. JOHN WANAMAKER

"The Wanamaker Boston Fern"

A "sport" from Nephrolepis Scholzeli, with longer, narrower, gracefully drooping fronds. It is not so compact in growth as Scholzeli, and therefore does not decay in the center, and is a durable house fern. It is a rapid grower, making an abundance of fronds, and is quite distinct from any other Nephrolepis.

New Trier Horticultural Society.

The third annual exhibition of the New Trier Horticultural Society was held at the community house at Winnetka, Ill., August 10. There were more exhibitors than last year, but the recent dry weather affected some of the blooming plants, while the vegetables showed the effects of the excessive rains earlier in the season. The attendance was cut down somewhat by rain on the day of the exhibition. L. B. Kuppenheimer led the list of prize winners, with Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, the winner of the last two years' events, a close second. Among the principal exhibitors were the following: L. B. Kuppenheimer, Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, Mrs. C. N. Strotz, Benjamin Allen, Mrs. George Higginson, Jr., Mrs. W. G. Hibbard, Mrs. Henry P. Crowell, Mrs. I. K. Friedman, Mrs. J. W. Scott, Mrs. J. W. Gary and Mrs. Douglas Smith.

Storm Damage Near Boston.

A severe storm which visited the vicinity of Boston, Mass., July 31, caused considerable damage to greenhouse glass and growing crops. The wind caused quite a loss at the establishment of Wm. Sim, Cliftondale, both to the crop and the houses. Thos. Roland at Nahant also suffered, his glass loss being reported at $250. Additional losses are reported from Saugus and Revere.

St. Louis Florists' Club.

At the regular meeting of the Florists' Club, August 10, the following officers were elected: Jules Bourdet, president; August Hummert, vice-president; W. C. Smith, treasurer; J. J. Windler, secretary. The trustees were re-elected.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—A decree of dissolution has been filed by the Evansville Floral Co.

St. LOUIS, Mo.—A flower shop has been opened at Skinner and Berlin avenues by Mrs. Ben Westhus. Excellent business is reported.

FOND DU LAC, WIS.—S. P. Kordatos has fitted up a flower shop in the First National Bank building at an expense of $2,000. He formerly conducted the Princess Flower Shop at Appleton.

Springfield, N. J.

Springfield is one of the older New Jersey towns, its history dating back to pre-revolutionary times. In the center of the town there is a monument to commemorate a battle of the Revolutionary war fought there. An incident of the battle is recorded on the monument. It is not a horticultural matter but is too good to lose. Pastor Caldwell of the church carried out the Watts psalm books and tore them up to wad the guns, crying as he passed them to the soldiers: "Here, boys, give them Watts!"

The F. & F. nurseries, covering many acres, are here located. A great variety of stock is grown, and we found it under a high state of cultivation. There are excellent facilities for packing, shipping and storage. Large and finely arranged offices are another feature. We would call it one of the leading nurseries of the country.

The Jacobsen Floral Co. is another institution that has made rapid progress since it was founded, two years ago. There is a considerable glass area, and good carnations and other stock are being grown. We noticed a house of asters that have done better than the outdoor stock of the neighborhood. Mr. Jacobsen, the head of the firm, was at one time employed at Vaughan's Greenhouses, Western Springs, Ill. For several years previous to going into business for himself he was foreman for the Springfield Floral Co. He is a clever and active man, and a hard worker.

The Springfield Floral Co. has a fine range and grows a variety of stock, which, for this season, is looking fine. Foreman McDaniel was formerly with Harry O. May at his extensive range at Summit, N. J. A. F. F.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—E. C. Colgrove is erecting one house 20x100 feet on Charles street.

GARY, IND.—Owen & Son, proprietors of the Union Floral Co., say they are paying no more bills.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Louis R. Baumer has been named as a charter member of the local Optimists' Club, whose aims are similar to those of the Rotarians. The local Optimists will be affiliated with a national organization.

WICHITA, KAN.—Chas P. Mueller is making improvements to cost $3,000 at his Main street store, to include a conservatory on the second floor. His new store recently opened on Douglas avenue presents a very attractive appearance.

Mexico's Difficulty.

Emeterio de la Garza, a Mexican lawyer of international reputation, writes in the New York Sunday Sun: "Trouble with Mexico is a land problem. Twelve millions of agrarian Indians are deprived of homesteads in their own territory. Hence an intense financial crisis, official corruption, whether by constitutionalist or by científico grafters, it matters not. We have economical tyranny—low wages, little work. I defy anybody to form a government and to pacify a country of paupers dying of hunger, thirst and exposure. I defy anybody to do away with poverty without dividing the land and changing economic conditions."

Rotary Club Luncheon.

A pleasing courtesy extended to the visiting florists was the luncheon tendered them by the Houston Rotary Club upon the occasion of their annual meeting and installation of officers, at their weekly dinner Thursday noon, August 17. President-elect Kerr, being a prominent member of the Rotary Club, it was a joint courtesy to him as well as to the visiting florists that this invitation was extended. A most enjoyable time was had. After the tables had been cleared and the inviting menu disposed of, the retiring president of the club invited attention, and said that as an addition to the usual roll-call each member and visiting florist would be asked to rise in turn, announce his name and state his favorite flower. There were some 100 members of the Rotary club and 110 visiting florists in attendance at the luncheon, and out of these 52 answered that they preferred the rose, giving various varieties, led by American Beauty. For the rest there was an amazing variety of choice, too numerous to schedule except at great length. Some jocular replies were made, "Wall-flow-ers," bullrushes, "Pillsbury Flo(w)ur," Aunt Jemima's Pancake Flour, Old Maids, Buckwheat, Hot Air. Then followed carnations, 10 votes, Texas blue bell, 6 votes, and scattering votes for mountain laurel, pansy, sweet pea, lily of the valley, orchids, violet, easter lily, magnolia, jasmine, sunflower, snapdragon, goldenrod, daisy, shamrock, amaryllis, forget-me-not, acacia, cyclamen, Cape Jasmine, columbine, zinnia, dahlia, narcissus, geranium, orange blossom, water lily, Texas blue bonnet, tulip, dandelion, mayflower, oleander, stephanotis, freesia and poppy. After the outgoing president, Mr. Coles, had presented a very interesting report, the incoming president, Mr. Wilcoxsen, proposed a toast in Adam's ale to the visitors, which was drank with enthusiasm by all, and was followed by a toast to the retiring officers and board of directors of the Rotary Club. The installation of the officers-elect of the club followed, and Past President Asmus, of the S. A. F., was introduced and remarked as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Rotary Club, and S. A. F.:

It seems fitting at this time that a few remarks be made in behalf of our organization in commendation of the man that we have placed at the head of our organization, who has proved so worthy. Perhaps also it is fitting at this time that you should be given a brief outline of the aims and objects of our organization. The Society of American Florists is not an organization for profit; there is nothing ever said in its meetings about prices; it is the advancement of a love for flowers that we are teaching, and ours is one of the few organizations in the United States that has the distinct honor of enjoying a national charter granted by Act of Congress and signed by the president of the United States. We have doubly honored your fellow member, Robert C. Kerr, by not only making him the head of an organization with a national charter, but of a society which is the mother of five hundred local organizations that are teaching the love of flowers and of the beautiful in nature, tending to the betterment of home and school life throughout the country. We have at present at the head of this big organization a big man, Daniel Macbrie, of San Francisco, partner of Mr. McLaren, the man who last year was responsible for the beautification by landscape gardening and floral enhancement of the great Panama-Pacific exposition, the man who made of the sand dunes of San Francisco, things of beauty in the shape of parks, where there had been only barren desolation. He said when he was made president at San Francisco last year that he would present to the man that made the largest increase of membership in the society during the year a prize of $150 in gold. Just as soon as news of this offer came to Chicago there was a scouring around to see if we could capture that prize in Chicago; but we could not do it; it remained for a Texan to show us how; and it was Robert C. Kerr who earned that prize! Now, Brother Kerr, I have the pleasure today of handing you that prize of $150 in gold. And, Mr. Kerr, you ought to be thankful, not for the gold, but because you have made eighty-three men members of the greatest organization in the country.

President Kerr: I want to say to the members of the Rotary Club and to the citizens of Houston that this prize will enable me to reduce the price of flowers this coming year. That ought to be good news! We have several of our members on the list of speakers that we want to introduce to you, who will make short talks. One man in particular I want you to hear from; he is the man who is at the national capital, who carries on the work there for the S. A. F. He is a wonderful help to us; he is also a big Rotarian and one of the leaders of that organization in the District of Columbia; we want to have a few words from Wm. F. Gude, of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Gude: Mr. Chairman, and Fellow Rotarians, Florists and Friends All: I bring to my brother Rotarians greetings from the National Capital. We have a rotary club there that we think is some club; some of you boys do not believe it perhaps, but as you rotate there drop in and we will see if we cannot make you rotate. There has been so much said about our good friend Bob Kerr that I just want to add a word. Our organization has rotated some in the past four or five years. We met in Minneapolis, rotated from there to Boston, from Boston to San Francisco and from San Francisco to Houston, Texas; and, gentlemen, you can tell this in the newspapers, or tell it to any one, I do not fear contradiction, but it was the Houston Rotary Club more than any other one influence that brought the florists here today. It was that letter that I read on the floor of the convention at San Francisco from the Houston Rotary Club that turned the scales when objection was made that the invitation to Houston that had been presented should not be considered because it should have been presented in person by a Houston florist; and I was able then to say that that letter from the Rotary Club here was sufficient evidence that we would be welcome here, because when the Rotary Club says you are welcome anywhere that is guaranty that you will have a successful convention and a warm welcome and a good time. Gentlemen, my promise has been carried out to the letter; you boys have made good. Now as I walked into the room here somebody suggested something about the size of our retiring president, Mr. MacRorie. We knew that we were to start a big work here, and we thought we would get a big man at our head to see that we did it. Again, we believe in practicing what we preach; we have preached big things in a horticultural way and in an organization way; if you do not believe it, look at our national president, see his size! I want the president of our society to just rise; our time is limited, and I would like you to see the size of the man! And then President MacRorie, he of the massive build and the clear straight-seeing eye, modestly rose and was greeted with applause.

Mr. MacRorie: Friends, I do not know as I have much to say after you have heard our silver-tongued orator from Washington. There is one thing I want to impress upon you, that we have all been most agreeably surprised at climatic conditions here. Everybody we met north, west and in the east, said, "Oh! Mac, you won't have anybody out there at all, it will roast you alive!" Now they judged so, largely because they knew how warm it has been in their own sections the past two or three weeks; but you have regular Atlantic City weather I should say. I want to especially thank the members of the Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce, also the newspapermen, for the way that they have worked to make this convention a success. They have entertained us royally. Another thing I wish to say is, that you will greatly beautify your city if you will more extensively plant trees along your streets and thoroughfares, which greatly add to their attractiveness. You have started this work here, and I hope you will continue it.

This concluded that part of the proceedings having to do with the visiting florists, and the remainder of the hour was devoted to routine business of the club. The occasion, it is needless to say, proved a very enjoyable one to the visitors.

Presentation to President MacRorie.

The trip Thursday afternoon to the battle ground, by way of the Houston-Galveston ship canal, proved very enjoyable. Luncheon was served soon after arrival with music and dancing. John S. Kerr, of Sherman, told the story of the last big fight between the Texans and the Mexicans, with Sam Houston in command. At the close of Mr. Kerr's recital, E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., was called upon and in his usual happy style thanked the Texas trade for their generous hospitality, closing by presenting President MacRorie with a magnificent silver set, the gift of his many friends in the society.

In Memoriam.

JOHN W. POEHLMANN.

John William Poehlmann, president of the Poehlmann Bros. Co., well-known Chicago florists, died at his residence, 4728 Beacon street, July 14, aged 49 years. He was born in Milwaukee, Wis., of German parentage, and was associated with his father, John George Poehlmann, in the retail grocery trade in that city until 1890, when he and his brothers, Adolph and August, formed a partnership and engaged in the florist business at Morton Grove, Ill.

In the death of Mr. Poehlmann the Society of American Florists has lost one of its most successful members. Starting only a few years ago with very little limited means, he was largely instrumental in the development of his firm's splendid business, said to be the largest of its kind in existence. He was a hard worker, constantly at his post, and always kindly to his associates and employees.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS AT HOUSTON, TEXAS, AUGUST 17, 1916.

Mr. Poehlmann's industry has left deep, lasting imprints on the sands of American floriculture and his many friends deeply mourn the early passing of one so gifted and so unassuming.

WILLIAM F. KASTING.

"Whom the Gods love die young!" To none can this be more truthfully applied than to William F. Kasting, one time president of the Society of American Florists, and for many years its honored treasurer. Intensely loyal to his friends, with malice in his heart toward no man, outspoken, honest, fearless, he had every quality that might become a man and bind to him his friends with hooks of steel. So frank and sincere was his character, so little there was of any of the lesser frailties of human nature that make for envy, jealousy or spite, that William F. Kasting caused none to envy, but all rejoiced in his progress and success.

His affiliations were many; he belonged to a large number of organizations, to each of whom he gave his best, and to none more than to the florists, whom he loved and whose calling he was always proud to represent. In addition to his honors in the national society he was president of the New York Federation of Floral Clubs, had served as president of the Buffalo Florists' Club, and was a member of many local florists' clubs in other cities, including New York, Chicago and San Francisco. He was a member of numerous secret and fraternal orders and of many philanthropic and social organizations, including the Rotary club, the Orpheus and other German singing societies. Rarely, it has been said, has one man had so many friends in such various conditions of life and activity as this one; rarely has a man of more humble beginnings achieved such high success or risen higher in the respect and esteem of all his associates and neighbors, those who knew him best.

Peace to his fragrant memory. Here let us all drop a flowret of memory to him who was our friend and our helper in all that we held dear. He fell asleep and awake, let us fondly hope, in a fairer land.

W. ATLEE BURPEE.

The lives of all men are precious, far more so than we stop to realize, for every man is called into the world to perform his allotted part toward making this earth better and brighter. All men may be born free and equal, but it comes about that through environment and development some men become pre-eminently distinguished above their fellows for certain talents, although not necessarily superior in all things.

W. Atlee Burpee was pre-eminently distinguished among men. Possessed of talents in every direction, and with ability to make himself famous in whatever avocation he might choose to take up, his wonderful understanding of men, his magnetism with men, individuals if not in the mass; his highest gift of endearing himself to others, will always remain fixed in the memory of those whose good fortune it was to know him. No man was ever better loved by his friends.

For the rest, a highly successful business man of unblemished reputation; a devoted father and husband; a man and a friend whose loss is irreparable; we mourn his death, and spread this brief tribute to his memory in the pages of our proceedings that all who read may gauge the affection in which we held him while he was living and would hallow his memory now that he has gone.

EDWIN LONSDALE.

In the death of Edwin Lonsdale, of Lompoc, California, the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists has lost one of its most valued and tried friends of its earlier days.

Mr. Lonsdale served in the capacity of secretary and also was president of the society; and he gave of his time and money without stint. Much of the growth and development which has since taken place in this society was due to the work of Edwin Lonsdale in no small degree in laying the foundations well. His intelligent help was always forthcoming when the demand arose.

Edwin Lonsdale was gifted by nature with a genial, happy disposition, and he was ever ready to give information and cheer to those engaged in floricultural pursuits. He was a great student of plant life, and contributed many valuable articles not only in regard to the hybridization of plants but also their care and culture. He was greatly interested in the carnation in its earlier career, and also was an excellent grower of roses. The society had the services of Mr. Lonsdale upon any and all occasions, and few men belonging to our organization have contributed so much as did Mr. Lonsdale to its advancement.

Report on President's Address.

Your committee, to whom was referred the several recommendations in the address of President Daniel MacRorie, respectfully report as follows:

President MacRorie has the following to say with reference to holding our conventions on concurrent dates with the National Flower Shows:

"I believe that every second year our annual conventions should be held in March or in April, or at such time as we decide to have our national flower show; the old idea that it would be impossible to secure a good attendance at our conventions at any other date than August has not proved to be a fact." . . . "There are undoubtedly from six to eight large cities in the United States where the national flower shows could be held, and where they would be very successful. With this number of cities to draw on, a number of years would naturally elapse before we would complete our circuit, and no one city would be burdened with a succession of shows, etc."

In reference to this matter your committee having given the subject careful consideration are of the opinion that no specific recommendation is required from this committee, inasmuch as this suggestion has been acted on practically by the convention in selecting St. Louis for the convention city for 1918, the national flower show committee having already selected said city for the national flower show the same year, and it is probably the intention of the board of directors to call the convention on dates in conjunction with the national flower show, they having under the amendments as adopted the power to change the dates of the convention as conditions may demand. This will try out the new idea in actual practice at that time.

The president's address contains a warm endorsement of the idea of children's gardens, and your committee highly commends his remarks in connection therewith, and would recommend concurrence in his recommendation that this society give its fullest support toward the promotion of school gardens as a potent influence for moral uplift and esthetic development of the whole people. We deem it also the duty of individual florists, whether affiliated with organizations or not, to also encourage this movement, which has now received such a strong impetus in this country.

Referring to that part of his address wherein the president concurs in the views of his various predecessors who have supported the idea of convention gardens, your committee fully recognizes the educative influence and uplift of the convention gardens, and not only do we believe that this influence is felt in every city where such gardens have been established, and will be so felt in the future, but where these gardens afterwards crystallize into permanent features, as is not impossible in many cases that they will, the effect becomes a permanent and lasting one that does not expire with the occasion. Nevertheless, your committee, while sensible of the truth of this proposition, and rejoicing in what has been accomplished, believes that tact must be used in this as in all matters that require co-operation, and therefore if in some cases it is found that in order to have a convention garden too many other equally valuable matters must be sacrificed, in such case the idea might be relaxed a little rather than be strained to the breaking point, and therefore we believe that the convention gardens ought to be encouraged wherever feasible in the locality where we assemble if not too great a burden on the society inviting us. The idea always should be, the garden for the society rather than the society for the garden.

In regard to the recommendations of the president as to a permanent secretary, the experience of the largest and best organizations in this country has been along the idea of retaining in office a competent secretary so long as he continues to serve acceptably, as absolutely necessary to the proper conduct of the association affairs, and we believe that such a man should be retained under conditions that would permit him to give full time and attention to the duties of his office, and it is to be desired that the governing body or the board of directors will be able to work out this problem satisfactorily in the very near future.

With regard to the recommendation by the president with reference to Mothers' day being permanently fostered and protected, we understand this to mean that the president wishes to see the work carried on thoroughly and effectively rather than spasmodically and inefficiently, and that it be in the hands of a permanent committee from our own organization who could best enlist the support of our membership. We heartily endorse this idea, and would further suggest that the committee if made permanent be also given charge of looking after the proper observance of any similar days that may hereafter be established.

President MacRorie is moved to make most feeling mention of the decease during the past year of one of the beloved members of this society, he who was known and universally esteemed, our late treasurer, Brother William F. Kasting. Your committee feels that they but voice the universal feeling when suggesting that a committee be named by the president to prepare a suitable memorial in the form of engrossed resolutions commemorating the work of Mr. Kasting and expressive of our sense of bereavement in his taking away.

In conclusion, we beg to add our word of appreciation of the evident desire of President MacRorie to contribute the best that is in him to the advancement of the aims and objects of this society, and we not only commend his suggestions but admire the broad and catholic spirit in which he has treated the problems that confronted him during his administration, and the national viewpoint that he has manifested.

Convention Notes.

Big Phil Foley's commodious quarters at the Rice hotel were quite inadequate to the demands of the occasion. Phil's avoirdupois has decreased in the south, but this cannot be said of his popularity.

George Asmus, for his splendid services in connection with the Philadelphia national show, was awarded financial compensation, to be fixed by the executive committee.

The railroad food upset Benjamin Hammond, but Dr. Gurney Hill brought him around so quickly that he was almost himself again the second day.

Late arrivals who were warmly greeted included August Poehlmann, of Chicago, and Mrs. U. J. Virgin and Harry Papworth, of New Orleans, La.

Members of the Tennessee delegation speak in the highest terms of their cordial reception by the trade of Memphis and Little Rock.

C. W. Ward's hyacinth, tulip and narcissus bulbs, grown in British Columbia, looked well and attracted considerable attention.

It is now believed that the convention and national flower show will be combined at St. Louis in the spring of 1918.

"Billy" Kasting's passing was frequently mentioned with deepest regret by the late treasurer's many friends.

The temperature at Houston Monday ranged from 76 to 87 degrees, and Tuesday from 75 to 89 degrees.

HOUSTON CONVENTION GARDEN.

Canna Exhibit of H. A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.

To Conard & Jones, a certificate of merit for the best pink canna and honorable mention for balance of exhibit; honorable mention for size of flowers on the canna, "Wintzer's Colossal;" honorable mention for the color of the foliage of the Canna Juanita.

To Henry A. Dreer, certificate of merit for Canna Eureka as the best white canna in the garden, and also honorable mention of Cannas Hungaria, Orange Bedder, and Schopenhauer.

To Arthur T. Boddington, New York, certificate of merit for Canna Boddington's Meteor, as the best red canna in the garden.

To Wm. Tricker & Son, Arlington, N. J., certificate of merit for the nymphaea, "Gracilis," as best hybrid. Certificate of merit for the best hardy nymphaea named Paul Herriot. Honorable mention of the rest of the exhibit.

To St. Louis Seed Co., certificate of merit for best red foliage canna.

To Vaughan's Seed Store, honorable mention for Canna Firebird.

To Texas Rose Gardens, Rockdale, Texas, honorable mention for rose exhibit.

To California Rose Company, Pomona, Calif., certificate of merit for rose exhibit. Special mention of the varieties La Detroit, American Beauty and Mlle. Edourd Herriot.

Special mention of the exhibits of L. H. Read, of xanthosomas; Carlyle & Sons, Alvin, Texas, tuberose, and W. J. & M. S. Vesey, Fort Wayne, for geraniums.

A certificate of merit was awarded the park department for the magnificent bed of crotons.

Final Resolutions.

Your committee on final resolutions respectfully offers for your adoption the following:

Whereas, The members and guests and ladies in attendance on the thirty-

Houston brethren is as pure as their atmosphere, and their hearts as warm as we had expected to find the weather, our experience being that we have been disappointed in all that we expected to suffer, and only surpassed in our expectations by all that is agreeable, now desire to record as best we may, our gratitude to those who have so well and pleasantly entertained us; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we tender a special and unanimous rising vote of thanks in commemoration of this occasion to the following: To Rev. W. S. Jacobs, who opened our convention by asking the divine blessing on our deliberations; to Hon. Ben Campbell, mayor, who so beautifully welcomed us, and who taught us new lessons of the ennobling influences of our chosen calling in life; to the city of Houston for its liberality in housing us in the ample and commodious Auditorium where our meetings were held; to the Rice hotel management and attaches for many courtesies; to the Chamber Insect Problems of the Florist.

Paper by Thomas J. Headley, entomologist of the Society of American Florists, presented at the Houston convention, August 15-17, 1916.

When invited by your worthy secretary to address you, it occurred to the writer that the entomologist's view of your insect problems might bring something suggestive and perhaps useful, and his invitation was accepted at once. It should be understood at the outset that the writer is, and has for many years, been a professional entomologist, and that his view will necessarily differ from that of many florists.

The insect pests, which the florist must combat successfully or make a failure of his business, depend very largely on the kind of crops which he grows, and to a minor extent upon the locality in which he works. The insects which trouble the rose grower in a period of five or 10 years are pretty much the same wherever his range may be located, and the longer he grows the crop continuously, the larger and more complete will his list of rose parasites become. This is true because the principal enemies of the rose form a more or less well defined group, and the practice of importing plants from other growers provides for the distribution of the parasites.

Perhaps the species that come into the roses directly from the local environment will exhibit the greatest irregularity in type and number because their attempts to enter are continuous, and the conditions must be especially favorable to permit them to persist at all.

The florist is in a class quite by himself in the ability to sterilize his soil, and to practice clean culture and rotation of crops. His extremely intensive system of cultivation justifies a procedure in these matters that would be prohibitive for the farmer, fruit grower, or even the trucker. Furthermore, the florist who grows under glass has the climate under his control. With the climate and the soil at his beck and call, it would seem that the plant parasite problems of the florist should be easy of solution. As a matter of fact, the crops of the florist pay their toll to the insect pests to almost if not quite as great an extent as do those of the farmer, fruit grower or trucker.

It seems to the writer that there are two reasons for this condition—one that the plants are grown under forcing conditions, and do not therefore have the strength and resistance of those grown under more natural circumstances and, second, that florists, acting much like other growers of plants, do not take advantage of their opportunities to rid their crops of plant parasites.

It seems reasonable to consider cleaning the soil as an important step toward getting rid of injurious insects. Under field conditions this can best be brought about through good drainage, clean culture and rotation of crops. Under greenhouse conditions this can best be accomplished by sterilization with steam or carbon bisulphide. Cleaning the soil does not mean that its liveliness shall be destroyed, but rather that its life and response shall be improved. Indeed, where the most severe treatments are used, desirable bacteria that may be killed in the process can be largely replaced.

It is reasonable to consider the practice of absolute cleanliness about the field and greenhouse as another important step in the control of plant parasites. Under field conditions this state of things is incidental to cleaning the soil, but under glass it is not necessarily so. As often as the crop is removed the house should be given a complete cleaning and sterilization.

With a clean soil in a clean environment, clean plants are needed to produce a clean crop. In obtaining plants free from parasites the florist finds his chief difficulty, and there appears to be no very good way of getting around it. Perhaps the best method is that of carefully examining all incoming plants and rejecting or treating all that exhibit signs of infestation by dangerous parasites. Where the crops grown are of such a character that the plants live for a period of years, the placing of the recently arrived plants, which seem healthy, in an entirely separate part of the greenhouse system, where they may remain for a time sufficient for the parasitism to develop, followed by a ruthless weeding out of the sickly, should prove a good practice.

After the crop has started, the first step in its protection from insects is to keep it healthily growing, for a vigorous plant resists attack more successfully than one the nutrition of which is abnormal. The second step is to keep the sharpest possible lookout for trouble and treat it as soon as it appears.

It is in the treatment of the plant after the insect has appeared that florists' practice appears to have reached its most bewildering diversity. Measures advocated by our grower as a specific for a given species are completely discounted by another and an opposite type of remedy substituted for them. This difference of opinion is partly due to the fact that florists are able to and do produce their wares under so widely different conditions, that in some instances what works for one more will fail for another, and partly due to a failure to comprehend the general principles which underlie proper practice. The first is, of course, an entirely legitimate cause for difference, but the latter is inexcusable.

The treatment which shall be administered to plants infested with parasites depends upon whether the injury has reached a stage where treatment other than prompt destruction is worth while, what the plant itself will stand without damage to growth and appearance, and the nature of the parasite. Injury beyond a point where the plant may readily recover, or of such a character (say borers in the main stem of herbaceous plants), that treatment is impracticable must be followed by prompt destruction of the plant and the parasite infesting it.

If the injury is one from which the plant may readily recover, the question of treatment then becomes one of nature, time and methods of applying. The nature depends on the parasite and upon the plant.

If the parasite is an animal, the question whether it consumes foliage or sap must first be determined. If the former, arsenicals should be used if the plant will stand the necessary dosage without injury to its structures or to its appearance. If the latter, nicotine or oil should be employed if the plant will stand the necessary treatment without serious injury to structure or to appearance. In the former case it is quite sufficient to coat the foliage which is being consumed, while in the latter the insect itself must be thoroughly drenched. This procedure will answer for the bulk of the florist's insect pests.

There are, however, certain species to which these general rules will not apply, and each of them may be considered on its merits. For instance, many scale insects do not yield to contact sprays of strength which will leave the plants uninjured, and hand removal becomes necessary. Many of the scales infesting palms are illustrations of this sort. Some chewing insects attack plants of such a nature that arsenical staining is inadmissible and contact insecticides must be used, as is the case with the Florida fern caterpillar.

There are crops, such as tomatoes under glass, the insect pests of which yield most easily to fumigation, which will destroy a chewing insect as readily as a sucking one.

For the purpose of bringing these methods together and giving them some sort of organization the writer has induced Harry B. Weiss, of his department, to prepare a bulletin on greenhouse insects. Especial attention has been given to this phase of the florist's business, because it has seemed to us that knowledge of that part of the field has been in more chaotic condition than any other. It is purposed to distribute this bulletin to the members of this society who express a desire to consult it.

No entomologist has made the insect pests of the florist's crop a subject of sufficiently extended study and research, and no really comprehensive and helpful scheme of procedure can be suggested until something of the sort has been done.

A live research committee of this organization might set such a piece of work going by cooperating with persons already in experimental work who are interested along this line, and thus initiate a movement that would prove a large factor in promoting American floriculture.

LIBERTY, IND.—O. F. Coryell & Co. have purchased the greenhouses of Edward Culley.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—E. Baker, for many years identified with the florist trade in this city, died recently.

BOSTON, MASS.—Moses Penn, florist, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, scheduling liabilities, $6,050; no assets.

HOUSTON, TEX.—Paul M. Carroll will open a flower shop in the near future on Texas avenue, opposite the Rice hotel.

WACO, TEX.—T. J. Wolfe is making a northern trip. T. D. Long, of Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, called this week.

American Gladiolus Society.

The seventh annual meeting and exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society, which was held in Horticultural hall, Boston, Mass., August 11-13, compared most favorably with other displays of this flower made in that city in the past and was without question the largest show of its kind in the history of the society. The arrangement of the displays might have been given more attention, but the numerous tints presented a spectacle in colors.

The business meeting was attended by about 40, at which President Fairbanks brought out the necessity of more attention to nomenclature and proper classification of varieties. The secretary, Henry Youell, urged the members to continue their efforts for a greater membership and reported the finances of the society much stronger than a year ago. Officers were elected at the 1915 meeting to serve for two years and the present officers will continue in office therefore until 1917. They are as follows: Chas. F. Fairbanks, Boston, Mass., president; T. A. Havemeyer, New York, vice-president; Henry A. Youell, 538 Cedar street, Syracuse, N. Y., secretary; A. E. Kunderd, Goshen, Ind., treasurer.

The awards (offered by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society) were as follows:

Vase of twenty-five spikes, white, one variety: Charles F. Fairbanks, Boston, Mass., with Europa, 1st; Jacob Thomann & Sons, Rochester, N. Y., with Rochester White, 2nd. Twenty-five, Red: Charles F. Fairbanks with Red Emperor, 1st; Helen A. Reardon with Liebesfleur, 2nd.

Twenty-five, Crimson: John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield, L. I., with Rich Red, 1st; C. W. Brown & Son, Ashland, Mass., 2nd.

Twenty-five, Pink: T. A. Havemeyer with Panama, 1st; C. F. Fairbanks, Panama, 2nd.

Twenty-five, Yellow: John Lewis Childs, Sulphur King, 1st; S. E. Spencer, Woburn, Mass., Schwaben, 2nd.

Twenty-five, any other color: T. A. Havemeyer, Muriel, 1st; Charles F. Fairbanks, Mary French, 2nd.

Twenty-five, any Lemoinei Hybrids: T. A. Havemeyer, Mme. Mounet Sully, 1st; John Lewis Childs, Baron Hulot, 2nd.

Twenty-five, any Primulinus Hybrids: C. F. Fairbanks, 1st; C. W. Brown & Son, 2d.

Largest and best collection of named varieties: John Lewis Childs, 1st; C. F. Fairbanks, 2nd.

Collection of fifty named varieties: T. A. Havemeyer, 1st; John Lewis Childs, 2nd. Six spikes, White, one variety: T. A. Havemeyer, Europa, 1st; Jelle Roos, Milton, Mass., Europa, 2d.

Six spikes, Red: T. A. Havemeyer, Red Emperor, 1st; John Zeestraten, Electric, 2nd.

Six spikes, Crimson: John Lewis Childs, with George Paul, 1st; Jelle Roose, Czar Peter, 2nd.

Six spikes, Pink: John Zeestraten, Panama, 1st; H. E. Meader, Dover, N. H., Myrtle, 2nd.

Six spikes, Yellow: E. M. Smith, East Hartford, Conn., Schwaben, 1st; C. F. Fairbanks, Schwaben, 2nd.

Six spikes, any other color: T. A. Havemeyer, Loveliness, 1st; C. F. Fairbanks, Julie M. Fairbanks, 2nd.

Six spikes, any Lemoinei Hybrid: H. E. Meader, Heliotrope, 1st; T. A. Havemeyer, Duval, 2nd.

Six spikes, any Primulinus Hybrid: C. W. Brown & Son, 1st; John Lewis Childs, with Concolor, 2nd.

Three spikes, White: Thos. Cogger, Europa, 1st; Madison Cooper, with Mrs. L. M. Gage, 2nd.

Three spikes, Red: C. F. Fairbanks, 1st; E. M. Smith, 2nd.

Three spikes, Crimson: E. M. Smith, 1st; Jelle Roos, with Rajah, 2nd.

Three spikes, Yellow: Madison Cooper, Yellow Bird, 1st; E. M. Smith, 2nd.

Three spikes, any other color: John Lewis Childs, 1st; E. M. Smith, Myrtle, 2nd.

Twelve vases, twelve named varieties: Iris-thorpe Farm, 1st; H. E. Meader, 2nd.

Twenty-five spikes, artistically arranged: Jacob Thomann & Sons, Rochester, N. Y., 1st; Eugene Fischer, 2nd.

Gold Medal: C. F. Fairbanks, for advancement in the cultivation and exhibition of the gladiolus.

Honorable Mention: John Lewis Childs, Gladiolus Evelyn Kirtland; C. W. Brown & Son, vase of Gladiolus Evaline.

Vote of Thanks: Blue Hill Nurseries, Gladiolus primulinus hybrids; R. & J. Farquhar & Co., evergreen decorative plants.

Gratuities to Brookland Gardens, Thomas Cogger, L. Merton Gage, C. W. Brown and Raymond W. Swett, for displays of gladioli; J. K. Alexander for display of dahlias, Blue Hill Nurseries for hardy herbaceous flowers, Mrs. E. M. Gill for hardy flowers, T. C. Thurlow's Sons, phloxes.

Charles F. Fairbanks special prizes for Seedling Gladiolus, one spike: John Lewis Childs, Seedling No. 3, 1st; T. A. Havemeyer, 2nd.

W. Atlee Burpee & Co. special for best collection 10 varieties, 6 spikes each: Jelle Roos, Milton, Mass.

G. D. Black special for twelve spikes Golden King: S. E. Spencer, Woburn, Mass., 1st; E. M. Smith, East Hartford, Conn., 2nd.

H. E. Meader special for best new yellow primulinus hybrid seedling: C. W. Brown, Ashland, Mass.

Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. special for five varieties, 3 spikes each: E. M. Smith, 1st; H. E. Meader, 2nd; Charles F. Fairbanks, 3rd.

A. E. Kunderd special for best collection Kunderd's varieties: Gold medal to C. W. Brown & Son.

Munsell & Harvey special for 6 spikes best Red, to Madison Cooper, with C. M. Clifford, dark wine.

Hitchings & Co. special for the most artistically arranged basket or hamper (all seedlings): Silver cup, to Jacob Thomann & Sons.

A. H. Austin & Co. special for best 6 spikes, mauve: Madison Cooper. For best 6 spikes Rose Wells: John Lewis Childs.

P. Hopman & Sons special for best 25 spikes Pink Perfection: S. E. Spencer, Woburn, Mass.

T. A. Havemeyer special for 3 spikes any other color: Mrs. E. R. Pierce, Wellesley Farms, with seedling Florence, unique deep magenta with white blotch.

Certificate to Eugene N. Fischer for Lemoinei seedling Henry C. Goehl, white flushed pink, with carmine blotch.

Gladiolus Society of Ohio.

The fourth annual flower show, held under the auspices of the Gladiolus Society of Ohio, was staged in the assembly room of the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, O., August 18-19. While the exhibition was not on quite as large a scale as last year, due perhaps to the weather which affected the crop of several large exhibitors to such an extent as to make displays equalling other years impossible, the exhibits in most cases were A No. 1 and were much admired by both the trade and the general public, who have come to look on this annual show as a treat, and each year these beautiful summer flowers draw increasing crowds of admirers. The display in the retailers' section was also somewhat smaller, quite a number who generally exhibit, being away on vacations; still those who were represented showed much skill and rare taste in the arrangements and the baskets and tables were at all times the center of an admiring throng. Among the exhibits in this section were the following:

Knoble Bros.—Basket of Niagara and America with maiden hair fern; also table of Niagara and America with centerpiece and corsages and boutonnieres of the same flowers; all well executed by Frank Ritzenthaler.

Liberty Flower Shop—Basket of Panama and America with larkspurs and asparagus; arranged by Paul C. Hahn.

C. B. Wilhelmy—Nicely arranged basket of Niagara and a cinnamon red gladioli, with maiden hair fern and ribbon.

A. M. Albrecht—Basket of America and Europa.

Jones-Russell Co.—Table decorated with Niagara with centerpiece, corsages and boutonnieres of the same flower; arranged by Chas. Russell.

The awards were as follows:

Best vase, any red, 10 spikes—J. F. Rychlik, Painesville, O., 1st and 2nd.

Best vase, any pink, 10 spikes—Guy Bates, 1st; Madison Cooper, 2nd.

Best vase, any white, 10 spikes—J. F. Rychlik, 1st; Madison Cooper, 2nd.

C. F. B.

WENATCHEE, WASH.—The Trumble Consulting Horticultural Co., capital stock, $5,000, has been incorporated by M. E. Trumble and R. Edwards.

DAYTON, O.—The capacity of the city greenhouses on Ottawa street is to be doubled to make room for thousands of additional plants to be grown during the winter.

ROCHESTER, MINN.—The Queen City Greenhouse Co., recently incorporated for $50,000, is planning to erect an extensive range and go into the growing business on a large scale. The incorporators are Dr. Wm. C. McCarty, Geo. N. Sherman, Oscar V. Hanson, W. F. Klee and D. M. Wigle.

DETROIT, MICH.—Schulte & Haley, undertakers and florists, successors to M. C. Haley, will open a new establishment at 107 Broadway, August 26, which will include cut flower and plant departments, chapel, morgue, rest room and furnished sleeping rooms in addition to the undertaking room.

HILLSBORO, ORE.—The Hillsboro Plant & Flower Garden report a splendid spring business. The carnations are nearly all housed and are in fine condition for winter blooming. Asters are exceptionally fine. W. H. Morton, the proprietor, has been enjoying the good fishing and healthy air in the vicinity of Mt. Hood.

WENHAM, MASS.—The great fields of gladioli in bloom at "Cedar Acres," the establishment of B. Hammond Tracy, the well-known gladiolus specialist, were thronged by the public August 9, when Mr. Tracy donated to the committee in charge of the benefit for the American ambulance hospital at Neuilly, France, all the spikes that could be sold. Many splendid arrangements by Mrs. Tracy were much admired.

BULB MEASUREMENTS. — Watch the measurements of your French bulbs. Some dealers refer to grades as firsts, extras, etc. These bulbs are contracted by measure and any change of grading is made to deceive the buyer.

CHAIRMAN HURLEY, of the Federal Trade Commission, says not over 10 per cent of American manufacturers know their production costs, and that he will issue a pamphlet on correct computation of costs for the benefit of individual manufacturers.

Coal Advance Threatened.

New England coal dealers have sent out a warning, based upon a statement by the Anthracite Bureau of Information, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to the effect: "Buy coal now if you don't want to pay $9 per ton the coming winter."

Cemetery Superintendents.

The thirtieth annual convention of the Association of American Cemetery Superintendents, which is being held at Norfolk, Va., August 22-24, is in session as we go to press, with every indication of being a most interesting meeting. The programme as announced in our issue of July 8, page 1302, includes many excellent papers by men widely known in their profession. It is believed that the election of officers will result in R. N. Kesteron, of "Greenwood," Knoxville, Tenn., as the choice for president. Barre, Vt., is spoken of very favorably for the next meeting place.

Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The following special prizes will be awarded at the annual exhibition of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, which will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., November 8, 1916. Entries should be made to David Rust, secretary, Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Broad street above Spruce, Philadelphia.

SUPPLY IS LIMITED.

Summer flowers have been very shy so far this year, but growers promise quantities of both gladioli and asters next week, and a steady supply from then on. Roses are getting more plentiful each day, and there is practically enough to take care of the demand now.

NOTES.

Pete Nichols and Wm. Q. Potter, both of Cleveland, called on local friends during the week. Both drove their machines down and kept them busy while here.

George Franks and Annie Garrity are sending postals from Atlantic City. Carrie Jordan is spending her honeymoon at the same place.

The list of those on vacation at present include George Marshall and wife, who are spending two weeks on Lake Erie.

Marion Morgan, greenhouse foreman of The McCallum Co., is visiting his old Tennessee home near Knoxville.

Jos. King, of A. W. Smith Co., is in the West Virginia mountains.

T. P. Langhans is figuring on an auto tour of New England.

Charley Patten, of Sewickley, is fishing in Bedford county.

John Harris went to Cleveland and other lake points. M.

Lancaster County Florists' Club.

A regular meeting of the club was held August 10, one week previous to our regular date, in order to be consistent and follow the calendar. This meeting was called for the purpose of mapping out plans for the coming flower show, November 9-11, and if the number of members present are any indication of the enthusiasm we will have for the show, its success is assured. It was decided to make a great effort to get a large display from the amateurs, and to this end special prizes will be offered for both outdoor stock and for that grown under glass. We have quite a few amateurs who have small chrysanthemum houses. There will also be prizes for specimen plants and cut blooms.

In the trade there will be no direct competition, but several medals and special prizes will be offered for the best collections, etc., the details of which have not been worked out as yet. As half of the net proceeds are to be given toward the erection of an armory for Lancaster, it is proposed to work up publicity along these lines, and Albert M. Herr was delegated to attend to the publicity end of the show.

Mr. Rosnosky, of the H. F. Michell Co., Inc., gave us some very useful pointers regarding the running of shows, and T. J. Nolan, the other visitor at this meeting, remained diplomatically quiet when a question was read from the question box asking what influence the great increase of glass would have on the market next winter.

The writer suggested that the club arrange for a trip to White Marsh, Md., to see our very dear friend, Richard Vincent, Jr., and his establishment, and it was decided to leave the arrangement for the trip to the maker of the suggestion, who is to make a complete report at the next meeting. This trip will be by automobile if enough machines can be secured, otherwise by train.

Ira Landis displayed some of his beautiful gladioli at this meeting, and the favorable comments on the quality in the blooms shown well repaid him for his efforts. The exhibition part of our meetings is falling down, and should be looked after, as it adds 40

GOOD CUT FLOWER DEMAND.

Business the past week has been rather quiet, with an occasional flurry in floral work. The early asters are about done for now, and the later crops are starting to come in, but are still small. Roses still seem to be scarce, while there is very little demand for this flower. Gladioli are coming in better than ever; the stock this year seems to be perfect. Cut flowers this summer seem to sell remarkably well; the demand has been good on all varieties.

NOTES.

Macnair is still making improvements on his store, and expects to have one of the most attractive shops in the city soon.

J. G. Jensen, of the Park Greenhouses, is rebuilding his range on Broad street, and making extensive repairs.

Irvington, N. J.

The Irvington growers, in common with others recently visited, complain of the backward condition of outdoor stock. The carnations did not make good growth in the field, but it is hoped, now that they are housed, that they will do better. With some growers, asters have been almost a total failure. Among the growers who are active in the business on Springfield avenue are John Pfueffer, Charles Deisler, George Deisler and E. Helm.

Irvington has quite a colony of industrious growers, and with a few exceptions we believe that most of their stock is sold in Newark. One noteworthy exception is E. W. Fengar, who in the season ships heavily of chrysanthemums and carnations to the New York market. He is also strong on geraniums and other bedding plants, which in the spring go largely to the New York seed stores.

Edward Jacobi has a neat range and store on West Clinton avenue. In addition to a variety of cut flowers he grows mushrooms, and we found his force busy preparing the beds. He is ably assisted by his son, Edward Jacobi Jr., who is secretary of the Essex County Florists' Club.

In one block, on Springfield avenue, there are four growers, all having a

GLADIOLI ARE MORE PLENTIFUL.

There is not much change in the market conditions since last week and good stock is as scarce as ever with the exception of gladioli, which are now arriving in much larger quantities and are selling at somewhat lower prices but at figures that compare most favorably with those of last season. Gladioli have sold unusually well this season and good prices have been and are still being realized, although they are considerably lower at this writing than they were last week. America, Mrs. Francis King, Augusta, Myrtle, Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Klondyke, Niagara, Panama, Autumn Queen, Europa, Hulo and Principine are the varieties that are obtainable in large quantities and it is particularly noticeable that white especially are in brisk demand. Asters are arriving in rather poor condition and what little good stock reaches the market is sold almost as soon as it is unpacked. Roses are moving well, especially Mrs. Chas. Russell, American Beauty and Sunburst, which have improved considerably in quality the past few weeks. Roses in general are cleaning up well each day at good prices and while the quality is steadily improving there is still some very poor stock being offered. Lilies are none too plentiful and the same holds good for lily of the valley and orchids. Miscellaneous outdoor stock is still reaching the market in large supply and at times has a good call. Green goods of all kinds are obtainable in quantity and some very choice leucothoe is being offered. A few brisk days would find the market completely cleaned up even though the heavy receipts of gladioli have affected prices in general the last few days.

NOTES.

Fred Klingel, of Erne & Klingel, and family, are making a seven-day lake trip and will stop off at Mackinac Island for a few days. Mrs. Charles Erne and daughter motored to Terra Haute, Ind., this week, which accounts for the fact that Mr. Erne feels that also he has a license to sing "Hurrah! My wife is gone to the country!" August Barnett is back from a two weeks' vacation and is again attending to his duties at this house.

Peter Reinberg is cutting a good supply of Sunburst and Mrs. Chas. Russell roses, which are in good demand at their store. Felix Reichling reports that the demand for field grown carnation plants has been unusually heavy and that they have never sold so many before up to this date as they have this season.

Percy Jones has made arrangements to handle an unusually large supply of chrysanthemums this year, and expects to be able to supply them in quantity commencing with this week. This house is also handling a large number of fancy gladioli.

Herbert Smith and family, of Danville, passed through here Monday, August 21, on their way home from a delightful automobile trip to Delavan Lake, Wis.

E. Knecht, with John T. Muir, 4647 Grand boulevard, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation at New Buffalo, Mich.

Heaton Nichols and wife of Joliet visited friends here August 22.

T. E. Waters reports that Poehlmann Bros. Co. sold an entire outfit of Buchbinder store fixtures, including a Buchbinder refrigerator, this week to Stuhldreher Bros., of Mansfield, O. This is the first order that this firm has booked since it made a contract with Buchbinder Bros. to sell their fixtures and refrigerators, but inquiries for same have been numerous the past two weeks and the outlook for the booking of several more orders in the near future is very bright.

Louis Wittbold reports that the George Wittbold Co. has had a good call for cyclamen this season and also for Boston ferns which they are growing heavily, and are offering in quantity this month.

John Kruchten writes from Sister Lakes, Mich., that he is having a delightful time on his vacation. The John Kruchten Co. is offering a good supply of field grown carnation plants for sale in several of the leading commercial varieties.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, advise that Wm. Abrahamson is not associated with them. The item in our issue of August 5 was general report on the local market about that time.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association have had a good call for gladioli, which are being handled in large supply and is one of the favorite flowers at present.

W. N. Rudd and wife left August 20 for Norfolk, Va., where they will attend the cemetery superintendents' convention.

The Chicago Florist, 35 East Adams street, will have a fine looking store when the finishing touches are completed.

GOOD BUSINESS AND FAIR SUPPLY.

The market was a little easier last week than it was the previous week. Nevertheless, business was good. The supply has increased slightly. Gladioli are very plentiful. The good ones are having a satisfactory market. Asters, on the other hand, are very scarce and many more might be used were they available. Easter lilies are plentiful, while the rubrums are in a fair supply. Roses are not very plentiful. The first baby's breath, cosmos, as well as some summer chrysanthemums, came in last week, but each was in a rather small quantity. Hardy hydrangea sells fairly well. Water lilies have a fair market.

NOTES.

C. E. Critchell was the first in the market to offer baby's breath this season. He is motoring through the state calling on the trade en route.

Lou Davis of P. J. Olinger's place, is back at work after a fishing trip of a month and a half's duration in Arkansas.

Fred Bachmeier and T. Ben George shared handsomely in the prizes in floral exhibit at the recent Carthage fair.

P. J. Olinger, wife and family, are at Emerado, N. D., on a six weeks' visit with relatives.

Visitors: J. O. Hetsch, Leesburg, Fla.; Mr. Legander, representing A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and George Hampton, Philadelphia, Pa. H.

DEMAND GOOD; SUPPLY BELOW NORMAL.

The demand for stock is very good, but due to a lack of rain and the intense heat everything outside is burning and drying up, with the result that receipts are far below normal for this season of the year. Roses are in good demand and the few Pink Killarneys, Shawyer, Russell, Sunburst, Kaiserin and American Beauties which arrive clean up nicely. Carnations are few in number, the outdoor stock being quite poor. There are also to be seen Jap lilies, water lilies, phlox, hydrangeas, Easter lilies, Virginia heather, larkspurs, buddleias, marigolds and scabiosas. Sweet peas are about done. Good gladioli are scarce, but plenty of the smaller varieties and old colors arrive. Asters are far short of the demand and dahlias have not made their appearance as yet. Shipping business is good and there is an excellent call for supplies.

NOTES.

This city has a local Santa Claus in the person of Alex Von Quiram, florist, of 2142 East 105th street, who occupies the three dull summer months in making doll houses, wagons, autos and other wooden houses, all of his carving being done with a small pen knife. Most of his toys are sold before they are finished. His doll houses are wired for electricity and some of the more elaborate ones have miniature greenhouses in connection.

George W. Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Smith and their eldest son, Adonis, left August 16 for Cody, Wyo., where he expects to spend the next month or two hunting big game and trout fishing in the mountains.

H. P. Knoble, of Knoble Bros., accompanied by his wife and several friends, are touring the eastern states in their automobile.

C. F. B.

Albany, N. Y.

One hundred and eighty-one men, women and children attended the tenth annual clambake and outing of the florists' club, held Saturday, August 19. The tables were arranged in rows in a chestnut grove located on the property of Henkes Brothers at Newtonville, about nine miles north of Albany. The day was fine for the purpose selected and the arrangements under the direction of Fred Henkes, formerly president of the club, and Louis H. Schaefer, chairman of the entertainment committee, went off without a hitch. The "bake" brought members of the club and their families from far and near, and in a sense was a reunion.

Felix Menand, who for some years conducted a retail store at 6 Second street, Monument square, Troy, has sold out to George I. Cain, who will continue the business. Ill health is the cause of the transfer.

R. D.

FREMONT, NEB.—Green's Greenhouses, operating branches in 28 towns in this state and doing business in a large number of others, reports trade at least one-third better than in 1915.

There has been little change in market conditions, except for the fact that the supply is somewhat more plentiful and of better quality. Asters are plentiful and the western stock is very good with large flowers and long stems, while local grown are of fair grade. Gladioli are very plentiful at prices ranging from two cents to seven cents, most of them being western grown. Carnations are still a lost item and while roses are arriving in larger numbers and of good grade, prices are still high. A few good snapdragons are also seen.

NOTES.

Billy Biederman has been chasing dirt, sand and cement for three weeks, a new pavement being laid on Prospect avenue. He says eating cement and sand is not in the dessert class with him—but a regular item on the daily bill of fare.

H. Kusik & Co., are handling gladioli, asters and lilies in quantity and the stock is of good quality. Roses are not plentiful but the stock seen here is good. Orders for wire work never came in better.

T. J. Noll & Co. are handling gladioli and asters by the thousands and the stock is all of good quality. Lilies are still plentiful and the rose stock at this establishment is good.

Ed. Ellsworth continues to spend part of his time at Forest Lake. His employees are also enjoying his hospitality at the resort during the heated spell.

The city park board has appropriated funds for the addition of five new greenhouses and boiler room at the city nursery in Swope park.

Wm. Foith is cutting good inside asters and expects a fine crop later on. His carnations are also showing good form.

The Oakwood Floral & Farm Co. are cutting some fine gladioli and have no trouble in disposing of them.

At Patrick Larkin's, funeral work has been very good and the stock is better.

J. Austin has a new house well under way. E. J. B.

Trade is keeping up remarkably well for this season of the year. People continue to get married, and the necessary bridal bouquet helps some in the general call, and funerals are ever with us. Flowers have been very scarce, necessitating shipments from outside sources of supply.

NOTES.

The subject of artificial irrigation is beginning to attract attention and is advocated in some quarters. There has been no necessity for irrigation the past season, however, for this section has had an abundance of rain, and everything in vegetation is green and flourishing, but it is claimed that in a few years this state will be compelled to have some system of irrigation, and even now Tennessee truckers will tell you that gardening or floriculture is a risky business without this help. Quite a number of irrigating plants have been put into operation in Davidson county—the county in which this city is located—and those operating are very much pleased with the results.

Charles A. Keffer, of the division of extension of the University of Tennessee, and who is also an officer of the state horticultural society, in an interesting article in the daily journals of the state, advocates the extensive culture of celery in this state. This fine edible has been produced successfully in the county by the elder Geny, father of the Geny brothers, which goes to prove that the thing can be done.

Leon Geny, of the firm of Geny Bros., is taking an extensive touring trip in his automobile. He, with his family, left here some 10 days ago for the trip, and have taken in Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago, and will visit other cities before returning home. M. C. D.

Oklahoma, City.

O. O. Boston, who for the past two years has been in the employ of Furrow & Co., and who previous to that was with the Stiles Co. for about 12 years, has decided to go into business for himself, and has selected the town of Tulsa, Okla., for his venture. He will open up there, September 15, having secured store accommodation at 16 East Third street. Tulsa is 118 miles northeast of here. It is a wealthy oil town of about 40,000 population, and he should do well there, as the florist business has not been pushed very hard.

The flower business continues to show a little activity each day, though most of the calls are for funeral designs or sprays. The weather continues quite warm and we are beginning to need rain very badly.

INDICATIONS OF RECORD YEAR.

Cool weather prevails again and all indications point to a record year. A great amount of funeral work is being sent out which will be noticeable in the general result. Stock is plentiful in all lines with the possible exception of roses.

NOTES.

O. C. Saakes continues to turn out casket covers and other designs in funeral work. He has added a very attractive new delivery car, which bespeaks prosperity. Some of the largest specimens of dahlias ever seen here at this season were a noteworthy feature at his store last week. The variety was Souvenir Gustaf DeZon, and they measured up to nine inches.

Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldenson report fair trade. Some unique French bouquets are being shown by this firm. Morris Goldenson and family are enjoying a vacation and are encamped in the mountains for two weeks.

The Redondo Floral Co. is featuring some fine lavender asters, grown by Gus Swenson of Eagle Rock. Mr. Knopf, of this firm, is enjoying a well earned rest and is taking an auto trip up the coast.

Seki Bros. & Co. are still making improvements at their salesroom and are making ready for new show cases and a line of baskets.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

SCARCITY OF GOOD STOCK NOTICEABLE.

If one desires the pick of the market, and even then not getting anything much above the ordinary, he must get around early and stay on the job so as to be on hand when the various consignments arrive or his stock will be light, as there is not enough good material coming in for half the demand, which at the same time is very small. But little doing in the general response as to "How is business?" Yet in the aggregate, it is a very considerable amount, enough to hold together the organizations in all the channels of trade. Asters, which generally dominate the market at this time have been very poor, but are now showing much better. The samples are arriving, and some very fair stock is seen, which gives promise of high grade flowers in the near future. Gladioli and larkspurs are seen in good shape, and some out-door snapdragons are very fair. Hydrangeas sell up closely, being so much cheaper in design work than white asters. There is a fair supply of roses, Ophelia, Sunburst, Maryland, Mock, Russell, Prima Donna and Hadley, and we must not forget Kaiserin, which with some growers is fine. Local American Beauties are of medium quality and sell fairly well because they are the longest stem rose. Lily of the valley is a scarce article; regular buyers are supplied, but anything extra must be ordered the day before. Cattleyas have the right of way, and with lily of the valley are in the exclusive class. Even good green has to be hunted, so little is coming in.

NOTES.

Edward Reid took Mark and Mrs. Mills and J. W. Prince, of the W. H. Harris establishment, for a spin in his famous car through the old Chester county carnation belt. Carnations have ceased to be a feature, although quite a quantity are still grown, but this district can now be said to be the mushroom growing center of the country. New substantial concrete sheds are going up taking the place and adding to the many frame structures already in place. Mr. Prince said they have the mushrooms down fine and get immense crops; one day's shipment last winter required two freight cars to hold it. It was all from one station. Carnations are giving way to tomatoes and sweet peas, which make good winter and summer successive crops. A very large crop of tomatoes has been marketed at very good prices, Boston and other New England cities being their market. Some carnation men are growing mushrooms under their carnation beds and say that as a side crop they are reasonably certain and pay very well. The party were struck with the general abandonment of the carnations by the growers in this section.

Arthur Niessen spends some of his vacation days looking in on their army of growers in the various suburban districts surrounding this city. Last week we visited the Lancaster county section, where carnations and asters are a specialty. The early crop of asters had been most disappointing; the aster bug and the yellows have been hard to overcome and have played havoc with the profits, or even a chance to get enough out of the stock to pay for the seed. Carnations as a rule were looking good, although some growers complained that the stock was not as large as it ought to be; even in beds almost side by side the results were very different and they were at a loss to account for the reason. Mr. Niessen has noticed several new houses, the walls of which were built of hollow glazed tile, which he said made a fine appearance—looked very durable, and cost very little more than the more oftener used concrete. He found the trade almost to a man very optimistic, well satisfied with last season's business and looking forward to a record-breaking season.

J. G. Whilldin, of the Whilldin Pottery Co., says the price of flower pots will have to go up along with the general increase in other goods. His men have struck for higher wages and shorter hours, although several advances have been made in the past few years. There is a good demand, and all orders now on hand will be delivered, but until this situation has been met and the wheels get going

The Leo Niessen Co. finds a very good demand for field grown carnations, their sales being twice as large as last season. Very fair summer roses are seen here, as well as a stock of much improved asters.

Albert Jones, of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co.'s force, is a believer in short summer hours. Wholesale places he claims should close at 3 p. m., as the business of the day is then practically over, and one or two disappointments, in not being able to get the this or that flower wanted, would make the retailers carry more stock.

The old established business of the Martin Store, 1725 Chestnut street, is for sale. S. S. Pennock, the trustee, who has it in charge, thinks it a fine opening for enterprising men with moderate capital. It contains quite a stock and is well fitted for the business. Terms are very favorable.

Robert Craig and a party of friends were guests at the Waretown summer retreat of Commodore Westcott, August 18-19. There were no sharks this time, only lots of fun and flounders.

A new commodious ice box has been installed in the Stuart Miller establishment. This rising young wholesaler is paving the way for a good trade the coming winter.

The Philadelphia Wholesale Florists Exchange is now settled in new quarters and carries quite a line of summer flowers. Business is reported very good for the season.

Fine astermums, really splendid flowers, were a feature of the Berger Brothers' market. Maryland roses and choice gladioli were also seen in high grade flowers.

K.

New York.

GOOD STOCK COMMANDS HIGH PRICES.

The demand for cut flowers continues light, but on account of the scarcity of good stock prices continue high for the season. There has been a slight increase in the supply of roses from the new crop. The late asters are now arriving, and better stock is seen than the early crop furnished, and it sells well. Some of the best have wholesaled at the rate of $4 per 100, but the ruling prices are from $2 to $3. Orchids, lilies and lily of the valley are in light supply and prices are firm. Quite a sprinkling of chrysanthemums are now seen, but there does not seem to be much demand for them. Gladioli is the only stock that is plentiful, and on account of the scarcity of other stock they move freely, if the quality is good, but some of them arrive in poor condition.

August 23.—The weather is intensely hot, and business stagnant, with a marked decline in roses and asters. As will be noted in our quotations, orchids, lilies and lily of the valley are all bringing good prices.

NOTES.

The selection of New York as the next meeting place of the Society of American Florists, and the election of A. L. Miller as vice-president, gives general satisfaction. It was merely a coincidence that we had decided to visit the Miller range and nursery on the day of his election. He has a great variety of well-grown stock and plenty of it. In plants, he has about everything that is called for in the trade, Otaheite oranges, crotons, hydrangeas, gardenias, poinsettias and dracaenas being very noteworthy. There are other plants too numerous to mention. In stock for cutting he has fine chrysanthemums and carnations coming on. Aside from all this, his two nurseries are separate features, containing a great variety of trees and shrubs.

We will leave it to the patriarchs and elder statesmen to advise what should be done at the next convention, and be content in the hope that a great company of florists will assemble here. Many of the florists of the country have visited New York, some of them many times. Those who have never been here know that this city is worth seeing. So come along, and bring the family. You will all be welcome and enjoy the visit.

C. C. Pollworth, of Milwaukee, visited this city August 21. As there is only one C. C. Pollworth and only one Milwaukee, our readers will readily understand that he was a welcome visitor. We expect to see him here in August, 1917, at the head of a large delegation. He was born in Milwaukee, has always lived there, and when the Milwaukee children say their prayers, they add "God bless Mr. Pollworth, who has such nice flowers."

Schloss Brothers, well known dealers in florists' ribbons, have incorporated. The report from Albany reads as follows: Schloss Bros., Inc., Manhattan.—Manufacturing ribbons of all kinds; capital, $50,000. Incorporators: E. Schloss, 549 West 113th street, New York; A. Schloss, Long Beach, L. I., and C. A. Houston, 200 Fifth avenue, New York.

S. Masur, the retailer of 256 Fulton street, Brooklyn, who recently bought a new seven-passenger Cadillac automobile, has just tried it out by taking a party of friends through New England and to Albany, Saratoga Springs and other up-state towns and cities. They visited the gladioli farms of Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y., and were well pleased with what they saw there.

Secretary John Young of the S. A. F. has arrived home from the convention city, in good health and spirits, but says he had a lively race to keep out of the way of the big Texas storm that almost caught him on his return trip.

At the store of James Weir, Inc., 324 Fulton street, Brooklyn, we recently noticed activity in funeral work. This is one of many retail stores that are now conducted by capable women.

H. P. Knoble, of Knoble Brothers, Cleveland, O., visited this city August 18 on his return from a trip through the Adirondack mountains.

A. F. F.

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—One new house and boiler room is being erected by J. L. Savard, 91 Merida street.

NEWPORT, R. I.—Esteeming it a compliment to have his gardener, John B. Urquhart, chosen president of the Newport Horticultural Society. Governor R. L. Beekman has invited the judges and workers of the society to a dinner, and will grace the occasion by his presence.

Ladies Sphere in the Florist World.

Paper by Annie Wolfe Brigrance, Waco, Tex., delivered at the convention of the Society of American Florists, Houston, Tex., August 15-17, 1916.

My subject takes the form of a single question which can be answered in almost as many words as it requires to ask the question: "What Ladies Are Doing in the Florist World?"

The ladies, my friends, are today, as ever, busily engaged in keeping up the good work that they have originated in the past, adding here and there a new idea, that through the language of flowers, speaks a tender word in a brighter way to the sick, because the flowers that go to many a sick room from the florist's shop have just that touch of tasty preparation that comes only from the hand of some lady in the florist's shop. Or again, it may be witnessed in the arrangement of the floral tribute to the departed. Just that little touch from her who knows how, makes for a tenderness that soothes the pain and sorrow of those who grieve. And so on down the list—the wedding flowers, the lover's flowers—the hand of some lady adds, through attractive arrangement, to their natural beauty. Go into the spots that have been made more beautiful by flowers, public and private gardens. Man may do the work, but somewhere in the background of these beauty spots is to be found the conception of the idea in some lady's mind.

An example of business ability is found in a letter I received a few days ago from Willis, Tex. I refer, of course, to the business ability of the ladies in the florist trade. This letter relates to the fact that about four years ago a lady from Dayton, O., while visiting in Texas, realized the beauty of the Texas blue bell, the commercial beauty, and she conceived the idea of putting them on the market. She visited Houston and she had some of the Texas blue bells sent to her there. She took them to Kerr, The Florist. He had never seen them before, and bought what she had. This little visitor from Ohio passed on, and Mrs. Thomas Cluxton, in whose home she had visited while in Texas, took up the work, and with the assistance of her father and brothers, has established a large trade in Texas blue bells, shipping them to various cities, where they are eagerly sought. Others, seeing the opportunity that these people had taken advantage of, have engaged in the work, and today, due to a lady's eye for beauty as well as business, a new field has been created. I could name many other interesting facts concerning the ladies' part in the florist world, but time will not permit. Suffice it to say that, go where you will, find the florist's shop or the greenhouse where lady's hand is not a factor; there may be a few, find them if you can, and I predict that when you do you will find them lacking that something that makes for success in all the rest.

This one word more, and I am through. It is the ladies in nine cases out of ten that create the demand for flowers. It is the ladies that insist on beautifying with flowers private and public places. It is the ladies who receive flowers from father, brother, son or sweetheart. It is the ladies who think to provide them for the sick room, and it was Miss Anna Jarvis who brought the beautiful thought of Mothers' day into being. And why, with the creative for flowers to her credit, should woman not be an important factor in the florist world?

Sewickley Horticultural Society.

The monthly meeting of the Sewickley Horticultural Society was held at Wessenauer's Flower Store, Monday, August 14, with a good attendance. Henceforth the society will meet on the second Tuesday of each month, a hall at 504 Broad street having been engaged. The constitution and by-laws were drawn up and passed upon.

The members unanimously agreed to stage an exhibition of flowers, fruit and vegetables Friday and Saturday, September 22-23. Mr. Wessenauer is placing his greenhouse and show-house at the disposal of the society for this event and it is to be hoped the members will seize this opportunity to show the Sewickley people samples of their skill. It was also agreed to hold a picnic Wednesday afternoon, August 30. Excellent progress is being made by this society and a large number of new members are looked for at the next meeting.

M. C.

SUMMIT, N. J.—Harry O. May has purchased the Colonial Flower Shop, formerly conducted by William Death and will add a retail department to his business.

Newark, N. J.

The summer business here, as elsewhere, is light, but all the retailers find something to do.

John Crossley, 39 Bellevue avenue, has been spending part of the summer at his cottage at Atlantic Highlands, but has found time to repaint and decorate his store.

C. E. Maillard has a very attractive store at 516 Orange street, corner of Myrtle avenue. He has just finished painting and decorating.

F. A. Kuehn, who is located on Central avenue, opposite Fairmount cemetery, has a considerable glass area and his force is now engaged in re-setting and other repairs. Cemetery work is a considerable feature of his business.

Walking through Fairmount cemetery, one is impressed with the excellence of the horticultural features and the care bestowed on the lots. At this writing, a striking and appropriate feature is the wealth of hydrangeas in bloom. John W. Good is the superintendent of this cemetery.

Charles Lauth, 475 Orange street, has a good store and is making improvements. He is a constant buyer in the New York market.

The Broad Street florists are not complaining of summer dullness, as they, too, now have an opportunity to paint, decorate and otherwise prepare for what is generally believed will be a record breaking season. The old story of poor business in a "presidential year" seems to have gone, with other ancient fictions, to the scrap heap.

American Seed Trade Association.

Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., First Vice-President; L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fifth annual convention, June, 1917.

CARL CROPP, of Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, is in California.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—W. Atlee Burpee, Jr., and Miss Jeanette D. Lee, of this city, will be married November 1.

SHEBOYGAN, WIS.—The capital stock of the John H. Allan Seed Co. has been increased from $230,000 to $280,000.

S. F. LEONARD, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, is on the Pacific coast. Albert H. Smith, of the same firm, and wife are at Mackinac Island.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—C. F. Wood, formerly of Wood, Stubbs & Co., will open a seed and set brokerage house in the Board of Trade building in this city.

W. W. BARNARD, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, continues to make satisfactory progress at his Michigan place and expects to return early in September.

SUGAR BEET SEED is being imported from Russia. Those interested should write the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

CHICAGO.—The appointment is announced of James Fisher as western representative for Carter's Tested Seeds, with headquarters at 180 North Dearborn street, this city.

ONION SET harvesting is about over at Chicago. The stock is standing on the field in crates and the weather is very favorable to thorough drying. The crop is a very moderate one.

BEAN growers in Idaho say aphids is now at work on the plants and that only the well advanced may produce a fair crop, while others in the green stage are liable to serious damage if not ruined.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Emily Thorburn, wife of the late James M. Thorburn, died August 16 at Patchogue, L. I., in her ninety-first year. Funeral services were held at Grace church, Broadway and 10th street, on Saturday, August 19.

VISITED CHICAGO: Geo. D. Clark, of Henry A. Dreer Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.; C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., New York; F. H. Henry, of Henry & Lee, New York; H. P. Webster, of Mel L. Webster & Co., Independence, Ia.; Edwin Bishop, with T. W. Wood & Sons, Richmond, Va.

BALTIMORE, Md.—J. W. Bolgiano & Son, early in the present year purchased paper to meet their requirements for both 1916 and 1917. This consisted of several carloads and at present day advanced prices a saving of more than 100 per cent has already been realized. J. Henry Joyeau, field seed manager, and Claude B. Ramsay, advertising manager of this firm, have returned from a visit at the summer home of Charles J. Bolgiano.

Seed Crops in the West.

Waterloo, Neb., August 1.—The hot, dry spell in Nebraska of four weeks duration is now relieved by a good rain and cooler weather. Corns, both sweet and field, have been damaged to some extent in various sections, the earlier plantings and lighter soils being affected the most. Our judgment is that the average damage will be around 25 per cent.

Squash and pumpkin crops are grown largely in Nebraska, and while the vines have been holding up remarkably well the first setting of fruits is very light but hope is expressed that the change in conditions will benefit these crops.

Our cucumber and muskmelon crops grown at Rocky Ford, Colo., are re-Salzer Dies in Auto Accident.

Henry A. Salzer, president of the John A. Salzer Seed Co., LaCrosse, Wis., was instantly killed August 22, when his automobile plunged over a 75-foot embankment near Dresback, Minn. Mrs. Edward Kramer, wife of a University of Wisconsin professor, and the chauffeur, Emil Dickson, were slightly injured, while Mrs. Salzer and Prof. Kramer escaped unhurt. Mr. Salzer was 61 years of age.

ported as very promising, and with favorable weather conditions from now on we look for very good results.

Reports from our watermelon sections are very fair, but weather continues hot and dry and present conditions would indicate around 75 per cent of a normal crop. R.

Pea Pack Cut Down.

It is estimated that all the peas canned in Door county, Wis., this year will run to about one million cans, 24 cans to the case. Last year it was estimated that 1,500 acres of peas were cut and brought in for canning, and as the acreage all over the state, and in Illinois and New York was also large, it made the price to the canners so low that a very small margin of profit, if any, was left to them. To counteract this and prevent another such condition this year, the canners, at their convention, decided to reduce the acreage, and so it was cut from 1,500 acres to about 600 in Door county, and other sections made a like cut. Now, however, with a poor crop in New York and Illinois, and also in the southern part of Wisconsin, the price is back to normal and a possibility of its going higher.

New Jersey Seed Crops.

Swedesboro, August 4.—The tomato season has started in here very strong. The fruit is of an excellent quality, and we are saving several hundred pounds per day. The early varieties which we are now harvesting are the finest crop we have had for several years. The later varieties do not look so promising, on account of the extreme wet weather, and at the present time it does not look like more than 50 to 75 per cent crop on a majority of the fields, although if we have good weather from now on it will help crops quite a little. Should it continue wet several crops will be almost a failure. H.

Peas and Beans.

Sheboygan, Wis., August 1.—In a general way the crop of early peas here will, we think, be a fair average. Early wrinkled peas were seriously affected by wet weather in spring and the late wrinkled varieties have been damaged by the recent heat. This, you know, has just been broken in the last two days, and some varieties, we think, will be very short, that is, peas of the Stratagem class, Pride of the Market, etc. Later peas of the Telephone class will be of short crop here, we think not much more than 50 per cent of an average.

Reports to date from the west have been more favorable with a few local exceptions. There has been some damage due to hail and wind storms, but if we succeed in passing the critical time between the middle of July and the middle of August, and the frosts apt to strike the western acreage, we should have a good average crop.

Field work has just commenced on beans and anything that we could tell you today would be a hazardous guess. If the frosts hold off we may yet hold out a good crop of beans, but under the conditions, it will be a close call. A.

Imports at New York.

During the week ending August 19 imports were received at New York as follows:

From Bermuda—
F. R. Pierson Co., 32 cases lily bulbs.
R. M. Ward & Co., 63 pkgs. lily bulbs.
Maltus & Ware, 10 boxes lily bulbs, 2 boxes plants, 3 boxes palm leaves.
From Glasgow, Scotland—
T. W. Wood & Son, 100 bbls. grass seed.
From Havre, France—
A. Dickinson Seed Co., 255 bbls. clover seed.
To others and order, 400 bags clover seed.
From Liverpool, Eng.—

New Early Flowering Long Season Spencers

EARLY MORNING STAR The color is a deep orange scarlet or flame color in standard with rich orange pink wings.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50 net.

EARLY SONG BIRD This will be the leading pale pink for Florists. The flower is the same color as "Florence Morse Spencer" and a bit lighter than "Elfrida Pearson." It has the same excellent form and features of Mrs. Hugh Dickson but is on white ground.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

EARLY MELODY This is a deeper shade of pink than "Early Song Bird" on white ground, closely resembling "Countess Spencer" and near "Hercules." It might be described as rose pink on white ground.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

EARLY SPRING MAID The color is light pink on a cream ground and the blossoms have the same splendid characteristics of "Mrs. Hugh Dickson" for a florist's flower.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.00; oz., $3.50 net.

EARLY SNOW FLAKE This is the best Early Flowering White Seeded Spencer. The blossoms are very large and of the best waved Spencer form.

25 Seeds, 25c; Trade pkt. (1/4 oz.), $1.25; oz., $4.50.

EARLY HEATHER BELL The color is a rich but pleasing mauve, but after standing in water the color becomes a beautiful mauve lavender.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Mushrooms, home grown, 15 to 20 cents per pound; lettuce, tomato boxes, 35 to 45 cents; radishes, $1.50 to $2.00 per 100 bunches; celery, 50 to 60 cents per box; tomatoes, four baskets, 25 to 60 cents; cucumbers, per hamper, 50 cents to $1.25.

New York, Aug. 22.—Celery, per crate, $2.00 to $4.50; cucumbers, 50 cents to $1.50 per basket; mushrooms, $1.50 to $3.00 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, per carrier, 30 cents to $1.50; radishes, per 100 bunches, $1.00 to $1.50; lettuce, per basket, 50 cents to $2.00.

Onion Production and Commercial Acreage

Estimate of the commercial acreage harvested and the total production of acreage planted in 1916, with a forecast of production based upon the condition of the crop as reported August 1, by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture, show that in 13 states reported the acreage harvested in 1916 was 34,039 acres compared with 34,297 acres in 1915, in which year the yield was 297 bushels per acre, the total production being 10,083,212 bushels. The forecast of production for 1916 is 11,713,488 bushels. The condition of the crop, August 1, 1916, was 73.5 per cent.

Melons Under Glass.

This is our second season with melons under glass, and the results so far justify continuation of this crop. We have cultivated these much in the same manner as greenhouse cucumbers, all produced by single stem method. The plants were produced in 3-inch pots and followed lettuce in May. To reduce strain on greenhouse roof, the plants were all staked to wooden stakes, one stake to each hill, rather than strings. For pollination a hive of bees was set in one corner of the greenhouse. In regard to variation, we used Rocky Ford stock, both the green and pink meat strains. With the public, there is no question but that the pink is preferred. We have generally raised a half dozen melons per hill which have sold readily at 15 cents each. This income is satisfactory as the crop is easily produced and can follow the last crop of lettuce when it is often too late for cucumbers. We believe there is a future for melons under glass, the same as for cucumbers and tomatoes. Having conditions under control a good quality can be turned out which will open a market almost anywhere. One of the peculiar features of this crop is that the ripe fruit will drop from the vines; hence, one needs only to look over the ground and collect them daily, which is quite a saving of labor over hunting cucumbers or picking tomatoes. To get high quality fruit we should use both phosphatic and potash elements freely as too much nitrogen produces a flat flavored melon. We believe melons could also be produced as a late crop in October and November to relieve the lettuce glut. MARKETMAN.

Seed Germination.

In an article by N. L. Willet in the Florida Grower, the writer refers to C. L. Allen, who in his book on the cabbage tribe, as concerning eugenics in seed, makes the statement that the poorest seeds the trucker can buy are those that germinate close to 100 per cent. Astute Long Island truckers make a practice of carrying egg plant and other varieties of seeds in their pockets for months at a time, in order that by perspiration and rough usage, the germination might be reduced 40 to 50 per cent, which would in turn leave 50 per cent of high grade seeds, the poor ones having been eliminated. The law and the public both demand of the seedsman that his seeds be of high germination, but growers and scientists know that field results can not always be considered reliable. The long pod of a cowpea for example will be large in the middle diminishing in size toward the ends. The peas in the middle are supernormal, while at the ends are subnormal peas which ought to be killed out through some process of elimination—provided we work on eugenic lines. Every experienced grower of watermelons knows that by this elimination, watermelon seeds three years old are far better than one year old seeds.

Concerning this matter of germination many disappointments and crinations could be easily avoided if the planter would test his seeds before planting by putting them in a dampened newspaper for a few days, being careful to see that they are well wrapped up. Recently a vetch field in South Carolina that did not come up was about to cause trouble until the agricultural department at Columbia, which had tested the seeds pronounced them O. K. Another instance was the case of a man who planted a large amount of orchard grass in Tennessee and got no returns. He then tested a few of the seeds after they had been wrapped in wet paper, with the result that they showed 98 per cent germination. A farmer in southern Georgia complained to his neighbor that his clover seed did not come up. When he had told how he had planted it on top of the ground, and then ploughed it under about six inches, and was laughed at for his ignorance, he paid the clover bill without further comment.

In the opinion of Mr. Willet—nineteenths of the seed troubles supposed to be due to lack of germination are due to other causes. No grower with 100 per cent germination can ever get a crop, if (1) he plants too deep; (2) he plants without sufficient heat in the ground; (3) he plants in dry weather; (4) he plants in damp weather immediately followed by hot dry weather. No seed can come up that is not immediately surrounded by water to the extent of three or four times its own weight—and on the other hand, you can drown seeds just as easily as you can a man.

Tropical plants, such as cotton, teosinte, velvet beans, etc., need high heat. There are inherent troubles which prevent many seeds, such as those of peppers, parsley, carrots, parsnips, spinach and other similar plants from germinating. All hard shell seeds like vetches, all the clover family, and okra, require extra large amounts of moisture and a good wet season. Grass seed, also, needs a great deal of moisture, shallow planting and rolling.

With the legumes, unless the soil has lime or the specific bacteria in it, the seeds are liable to sprout in the ground and die before they reach the surface. If all the facts were known, Mr. Willet repeats, heartaches in the agricultural world would be greatly reduced.

ENGLISH
CORRESPONDENCE.

Our traveling salesman, MR. LAWRENCE S. PAYN, who has been calling on the American trade for many years past, is now in the United States and all mail should be addressed to him care F. B. Vandegrift & Co., 15 Whitehall Street, New York.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

John Watson, Newark, N. Y., President;
Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.

Forty-second annual convention will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., June, 1917.

PRINCETON, N. J.—The Princeton Nursery is offering its first crop of fine ornamentals in general assortment, plantings of which were made three years ago. The purpose of the promoters of this new enterprise, Wm. Flemmer, of Springfield, N. J.; John Watson, of Newark, N. Y., and Wm. Flemmer, Jr., of this city, is primarily to grow good ornamentals for the trade.

Connecticut Nurserymen's Association.

The annual outing of the Connecticut Nurserymen's Association was held at Riverside park, a suburb of Springfield, Mass., August 16, the party, numbering about 50, making the trip in automobiles.

The baseball game was called at 11 a. m., nines being chosen and captained by Messrs. Campbell and Brasill, named as the "Ornamentals" and "Big Stock" respectively. The "Big Stock" nine, proving true to name, took the "Ornamentals" into camp to the tune of a 20 to 9 score, owing, perhaps, to their refusal to "be out" until four batters were retired. The ball game between the lady nines proved very interesting, and the score will not be published — for lack of space.

Dinner was served by the park management, after which the amusements of the park were enjoyed, shop talked, and everyone voted it one of the most enjoyable outings the Association ever held, and all look forward to the one next year. F. L. T.

Lindens.

Lindens are the most important of the summer-flowering trees in this climate, and many of the plants in the Arboretum collection are now large enough to flower and to be interesting; although none of them are old enough to show the form and bark of mature trees. Linden trees are very generally distributed in all the temperate regions of the northern hemisphere with the exception of western North America, and, in addition to numerous species, several hybrids are cultivated. All the species are very similar in flower and fruit, and chiefly vary in the size and shape of their leaves, in the presence or absence of hairs on the leaves and branchlets, and in the nature of their hairy covering when it occurs. A fact not easy to explain is the presence in the flowers of all the American species of five petal-like scales opposite the petals and connected with the clusters of stamens, while in the flowers of all the Old World lindens such scales do not exist. It is almost a universal rule that the trees of eastern North America and eastern Asia are more successful here in cultivation than those of Europe, but an exception is found in the lindens. All the European species and many of their hybrids flourish here and some of them have grown in Massachusetts to a large size. Of the American species cultivated plants of the northern T. americana suffer greatly, especially when used as street trees, from the attacks of the red spider, which often badly disfigures the leaves, and the leaves of this tree suffer, too, from various fungal diseases. The silver-leaved T. heterophylla from the south may do better in this part of the country but not much is yet known of it as a cultivated tree. There are other linden trees, natives of the extreme southern states, but none of them have been cultivated except occasionally in southern towns. Judging by the results obtained in the Arboretum none of the Asiatic lindens promise to become valuable trees here, although the species recently discovered in western China are still so young that it is not possible to say much about them. Species, however, from Japan, eastern Siberia and Manchuria have been cultivated in the Arboretum for several years, and of these only T. japonica and T. monogolica have ever grown large enough to flower and produce seeds. The former is a small tree here with gracefully drooping branches and is conspicuous in early spring as the small yellow-green leaves appear a week or two earlier than those of any other linden in the collection. It is one of the latest species to flower. T. monogolica is a small, short-lived tree with small, long-pointed shining leaves and is of no value except as a botanical curiosity. The best plants in the country of this linden are now in Rochester, N. Y. The four European species and some of the hybrids between these species, and between them and the American species, all flourish in the northern and middle states; and the largest and handsomest linden tree which has been planted in the neighborhood of Boston is a supposed hybrid between the two species of eastern Europe, T. platyphyllos and T. cordata, and known as T. vulgaris, T. europaea, T. intermedia and T. hybrida. Although widely distributed in central Europe, this tree is much less common than either of its supposed parents; this fact and the variation in the size, shape and color of the leaves on different individuals make its hybrid origin possible, but whatever its origin this linden is an excellent tree to plant here in rich moist soil where abundant space for free development can be allowed to it. The two silver-leaved lindens of eastern Europe, T. argentea and T. petiolaris, are distinct and handsome trees which might well be more generally seen in New England plantations. The former, which is common in the forests of Hungary, is a large tree with erect-growing branches forming a compact, round-topped head and large, erect-growing leaves dark green above and silvery white below. This tree has been a good deal planted in some of the parks in New York City where large and interesting specimens can now be seen. It does not appear to be well known in Massachusetts. T. petiolaris is better known in New England, and there are large and beautiful specimens of this tree growing in Newport, R. I. Like those of T. argentea, the leaves of this tree are silvery white on the lower surface; they droop, however, on long slender stems and flutter gracefully in the slightest breeze. The branches, too, are drooping and form a narrow open head. T. petiolaris is not known in a wild state and is of very uncertain origin. A supposed hybrid of this tree with T. americana is one of the handsomest of all linden trees; it has been called T. vestita and T. hybrida spectabilis. The leaves are of the size and shape of those of the American parent but are silvery white on the lower surface. The flowers of the earliest of the lindens, the European T. platyphyllos, have been open for several days, and for another month linden-flowers in the Arboretum will fill the air with fragrance and delight the bees with abundant nectar. The linden collection occupies the meadow on the right-hand side of the Meadow road beyond the Administration building.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin, July 6, 1916.

NEPH. JOHN WANAMAKER "The Wanamaker Boston Fern"

A "sport" from Nephrolepis Scholzei, with longer, narrower, gracefully drooping fronds. It is not so compact in growth as Scholzei, and therefore does not decay in the center, and is a durable house fern. It is a rapid grower, making an abundance of fronds, and is quite distinct from any other Nephrolepis.

Ginseng Diseases.

The average yield of ginseng per acre is not more than one-sixth to one-third what it might reasonably be expected to be if the numerous diseases which attack the crop could be controlled or eliminated, according to Farmers' Bulletin No. 736, of the United States department of agriculture.

One of the most serious of the ginseng diseases is alternaria blight which attacks the roots of the plant as well as the stems and leaves. Usually the first symptoms of this disease are dark-brown spots or cankers of different sizes on the stems of the plant just above the surface of the ground. The spots gradually enlarge and become velvety or fuzzy in appearance. Later, large dead spots begin to appear on the leaves. These spots gradually become dry and papery in the center, with a darker, yellow brown border. The removal and destruction of diseased tops are of the greatest importance in controlling this disease. After the tops die down the beds should be covered with a layer of dry straw and burned over.

Spraying with Bordeaux mixture, either homemade or commercial, to which arsenate of lead has been added, will protect the surface of the plants from the attacks of parasitic fungi or insects. Sterilizing the soil with steam or disinfecting with formaldehyde is effective against disease-producing organisms in the soil. Some system of artificial drainage is a necessity in the ginseng bed, as an excess of water tends to increase the various diseases which attack the roots of the plants.

Greenhouse Heating.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

Will an old Spence No. 30 hot water greenhouse boiler with a 20-inch grate, heat a greenhouse 15x35 feet and a proposed wooden building 24x24 feet across the south end? There are two benches running lengthwise of the house. Two 1½-inch flow pipes run up hill the length of the house, the rise being two inches in 35 feet, with two return coils of four runs of 1¼-inch pipe, one under each bench, lying flat upon cross pieces about 16 inches below the bottom of the benches. I cannot keep the house warm in winter and I desire to change the system to run the coils through the house and the addition and heat both buildings, the combined length being 59 feet. Will the old Spence boiler have sufficient capacity to not only heat both houses, but also make them warmer than it is now possible to do in the greenhouse alone? Will 2-inch flow pipes be large enough? I wish to put in two coils of 1½-inch pipe, using eight runs on each side instead of four as I now have in the greenhouse, meaning four times as many lineal feet in the proposed system as in the present one. Would you advise running the flow pipes up hill or down from the boiler at the south end and may these be placed to as good advantage along and under the gutter plate as under the ridge? I plan to have the side coils on the wall instead of flat under the benches. The house is used for carnations, bedding plants and mushrooms. A. J. Y.

Indiana.

While the Spence heater will heat the greenhouse to a temperature suitable for carnations and provide for the same number of pipes on the walls of the new wooden addition, it would not handle a coil of eight 1½-inch pipes upon each wall as proposed, nor would we expect to get the best results from a coil of eight 1½-inch pipes supplied by a 2-inch flow pipe. There is no particular objection to running the flow pipes around on the walls, although the circulation would be better if run under the ridge of the greenhouse. Our method of piping the two houses would be to run two 2½-inch flow pipes and connect each of them with three 2-inch returns placed on the walls of the wooden structure and the greenhouse. Although this provides but little more radiation than is now in the greenhouse, we are confident it will be far more efficient, provided the flow pipe is run down hill. L. R. T.

Horticultural Society of New York.

An exhibition under the auspices of the Horticultural Society of New York was held in the Museum building, New York Botanical Garden, in co-operation with the garden, August 19-20. While the number of exhibitors was limited, good stock, largely in gladioli, was shown, noteworthy exhibits being staged by Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.; John Lewis Childs, Inc., Flowerfield, N. Y.; T. A. Havemeyer (A. Labodny, Gr.); Mrs. H. Darlington, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; (P. W. Popp, Gr.); Mrs. F. A. Constable, Mamaroneck, (James Stuart, Gr.). The judges were Patrick O'Mara, John Canning and William Becker, the latter being on the staff of the botanical garden. The awards were as follows:

Largest and best collection of named varieties, correctly labeled—T. A. Havemeyer, 1st; John Lewis Childs, Inc., 2nd.

Best 12 varieties, three spikes of each, correctly labeled—T. A. Havemeyer, 1st; John Lewis Childs, Inc., 2nd.

Best vase of any white variety—T. A. Havemeyer, 1st; John Lewis Childs, Inc., 2nd.

Best vase of any pink variety, 25 spikes—T. A. Havemeyer, 1st; John Florist 13p Aug 22 Vor Fifteen Lewis Childs, Inc., 2nd.

Best vase of any red variety—John Lewis Childs, Inc., 1st.

Best center piece for table—P. W. Popp, 1st.

In the classes for non-commercial growers, the honors went to P. W. Popp and J. P. Sorenson, gardener for Wm. Shillaber, Essex Falls, N. J.

James Stuart was awarded a special prize for collection of perennials, also Bobbink & Atkins, in whose display were remarkably large flowers of hibuscus. A. F. F.

Girl Florist Makes Hit on Stage.

Miss Wanda Lyons, who recently opened an engagement in "A World of Pleasure" at the Palace Music hall, is the greatest living exponent of how to capitalize an ability to look "fresh and wholesome." Just one year ago this month she was working for $6 a week in a flower store in Salt Lake City, her home. Then Margaret Whitney, who writes songs and vaudeville skits, enticed her to sing "Dearie Girl" in a skit that was to be "tried on the dog." When the act really started in Portland, Ore., Wanda Lyons still sang "Dearie Girl," but for $40 a week. Then a Ziegfeld scout saw her and she was offered a berth with "The Follies", but before she started east the Al Jolson show arrived in Portland, with a vacancy where Lucy Weston had played. SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Sweet Peas.

The early sown sweet peas will soon need some support, and the plan most generally adopted by growers with peas inside is to pass strings around the plants fastened to stakes at each end of the row. If the rows are lengthwise of the bench stakes to which the strings may be fastened will have to be arranged about every ten feet. As soon as the plants have attained a height of six inches the first string should be tied on and strings should be added every six to eight inches as the plants grow taller. The plants must be kept growing straight throughout their culture, so they must have strings quite close together for their twining arms to catch upon, and if when the plants are in bloom they are not kept tied up a large number of the flowers will have crooked stems. Care must yet be taken with the watering and until the plants show active growth, they should receive but little water, being kept on the dry side. If allowed to be too wet, stem rot will result and the plant will die. If sweet peas are to follow the early chrysanthemums the seed can now be sown. Three or four seeds in a 4-inch pot will be right for this time, for they will have to grow in the pots about six weeks, the middle of November being about as early as the chrysanthemums can be cleaned out and the beds made ready. Careful watering will be the watchword for the young seeds and do not thin out too early. Wait until the plants are in good growing condition, when they can be thinned out to one plant in a pot.

Anemones and Ranunculus.

The grower desirous of having something out of the ordinary in early spring should grow a few anemones and ranunculus. The bulbs are inexpensive and will help to increase the variety at a time when the flower users are looking for something that they have not seen all winter. No doubt failure in starting these bulbs has caused many growers to give up the attempt of their culture, but if once understood they are as easily grown as any other of the bulbous flowers. The bulbs should be planted in flats close together and covered with about half an inch of soil and then placed under a bench in a cool house. Under no circumstances water the soil or place them where water will drip upon them, for if they become wet they will surely rot. Place papers over the flats to prevent evaporation and in about three weeks the bulbs will throw out roots and the tops start. They can then be placed in pans or in the benches and grown as any other bulbs are handled.

Cyclamens.

In order to have nice large plants of cyclamens for another year, now is the time to sow the seed. This can be deferred until later and the seed planted at any time until the first of the year, yet it is much better to start them early and obtain a nice well-foliaged plant full of bloom in a 6-inch or 7-inch pot than a smaller plant with but a few blooms and flowers, which is sure to be the result with the later sown seed. Soak the seed for about 24 hours in tepid water and place the receptacle in a warm place, and plant in flats about one-half to three-quarters of an inch apart and there will be need for but little further labor until later in the winter. Be sure and have a light porous soil with a good proportion of leaf mold. The plants that are to be in bloom for Christmas should now be making good growth and be in the blooming pots. Any buds that show up at this time should be removed. Give the plants plenty of room and leave them from now on in full sunlight and in a cool, well-ventilated house. A sharp lookout for aphids must be kept up and regular fumigation continued. The plants for late winter and spring blooming can be kept out in the frames as long as safe from frost and then placed in cool quarters until time to give them more heat, which will depend upon the time they are wanted in bloom.

Pansies.

The pansies for early spring trade should be placed in the frames that they may become established before freezing weather commences. Make the soil good and rich. It is the plants with large flowers in the spring that find the quick sales and these cannot be obtained in poor soil. Set the plants about five inches apart and water well after planting. Keep those of a kind together and plant all the mixed lots adjoining. There is more time wasted in the retail selling of pansies than any other flower, traveling back and forth over a mixed bed trying to pick out a nice assortment. This is especially so with some customers and in setting out the plants try to prevent this as much as possible. When freezing weather comes cover the frames with sashes which will prevent the snow from lying too heavily upon the plants and also much freezing and thawing. If frozen for months and covered with sash no harm will be done, but if a warm spell should come on, the sashes should be raised to allow ventilation.

Fall Propagation.

There are many of the plants used for bedding purposes that are better propagated in the fall, for cuttings are more readily obtained, root easily and allow time for the growing of good stock. Ivy geraniums, to have fine plants in the spring, are much better propagated at that time. Vincas for the spring sales propagated in September make fine plants by the first of May. The long shoots can be cut up to two eyes each and they will root in three or four weeks, then potted in 2½-inch pots and kept cool until February, when they should be potted into 4-inch pots and grown along the sides of the beds or benches. Abutilons should be handled in a similar manner. The tender tips should be used for the cuttings, and these should be kept well watered and shaded until roots are formed, when they can be potted and kept cool until towards spring. The pelargoniums that were cut back and dried off in August should now be made into cuttings and should be taken and placed in the cutting bench. There are also many plants that the stock should be looked out for at this time and a few plants lifted and housed before frost. Many growers prefer to raise their salvias from cuttings and in this case a few plants can be potted and grown on. Any extra good double petunias should be lifted. Pyrethrum or feverfew, coleus and the other soft wooded plants should be selected and potted that they may become established before cool weather.

Begonia Glorie De Lorraine.

The plants of Begonia Glorie de Lorraine should now be making active growth, the bud shoots starting and the plants taking on shape. The earlier struck cuttings will now be fine plants in five and six-inch pots and will need a center stake to keep them erect. It is yet too early to tie the plants into shape, but if any of the branches are long enough to hang over the edge of the pot, they should receive some support. These branches hanging over the edge of the pot are in the way when watering and if the leaves get wet, it takes some time for them to dry off and many will become spotted, and besides the branches grow cooked and are much harder to tie into place later on when this will have to be done. Keep the plants in a good warm house from this on until the buds begin to show color, when they can be placed in cooler quarters, but do not keep the house too close. Give a little ventilation every day possible. If kept too close and moist some of the foliage will spot and be ruined. Constant light fumigations will be necessary to keep down the green aphids. These plants do not like heavy fumigation but light fumigation carried on frequently will keep the vermin in check and not damage the plants. These insects must be conquered before the plants begin to bloom or they will cover the young blooming shoots completely.

Dahlias.

As the cool nights approach it pays to make preparation to cover the best varieties and protect them from the early frosts. Generally the first frosts are followed by two or three weeks of pleasant warm weather, when flowers are more or less scarce, the outside stock being cut down and the greenhouse stock not being yet in full crop, and a supply of dahlias is a great boon at such a time. See that the plants are properly labeled so when it comes to lifting time there will be no mistakes made. A good large label placed beside each root with the correct name is essential in growing this crop. This label can be tied on to the root when the clumps are lifted and all danger of misnaming be obviated. Keep the plants securely tied to the stakes so that the high winds which are prevalent in the fall cannot break the plants down or the branches off.

Violets.

The single violets should be planted in the houses now as soon as the beds are ready. In lifting the plants in the field try to get a good ball of earth with the roots and avoid as much as possible the roots becoming dry. These roots are very soft and succulent and if they become too dry new roots will have to form and it will take some time for the plants to become established in their new quarters. The better way is not to try to handle too many plants at a time, but to lift a few and plant them out at once. When the plants are lifted, all the runners should be removed and the plants as soon as set should be well watered. They should then be shaded during the warm days, the length of time necessarily depending upon how quickly they will take hold in the new soil. Give the plants all the air possible but avoid draughts if possible until they begin to show growth.

Addresses of the Help.

In these days of scarcity of labor, particularly of errand boys and more or less changes taking place, it is important that the house address and the nearest telephone number should always be on the employes address and telephone list. We will wager that not half the stores keep such a record up to date. Frequently, quite important orders are taken after hours, or boys are at times away with "homers" before regular closing hours. To be able to reach them by telephone is a great convenience and an added facility to the business that is well worth while.

Autumn Leaves.

Selected branches of autumn leaves serve many purposes in the flower shop—they are a most important aid to the decorator, who by their use, can get effects that are not possible with any other foliage. This is particularly true, when, in the fall, they take on their most brilliant hues. All the fall flowers combine well with them, such as dahlias, the wayside asters, tritomas, hydrangea heads, golden glow, golden-rod and the whole range of chrysanthemums. Even the plain green oak leaf branches are useful and effective for backing large sprays, for making canopies or in decorative backgrounds in connection with palms.

Very pretty wreaths can be made of the green oak leaves, which, when decorated with sprays of flowers, are quite satisfactory. Some of the evergreens are also very decorative and useful in floral work. Pine and cedar boughs will keep a long time after their summer growth has ripened and set. Some of the wood pines have long needles and arrange very artistically with baskets of cut flowers. When set with cones they have an added beauty for certain lines of decorative effects. To give a finish to a box of cut flowers, a small branch of choice foliage, with a flower or two tied on top, is well worth while.

When the oak branches begin to take on their brilliant hues in the fall, a splendid decorative effect can be made in the store by a judicious use of selected stock; they should be used liberally (not crowded too much together) but arranged so as to look as natural as possible, so that the interior is turned into a veritable woods. The branches should all stand in water where they will keep so much better in the comparative warmth and dryer atmosphere of the store. For years J. H. Small & Sons, of Washington and New York have made this a feature in their store decorations of early October. K.

Bulb Show in London.

What might be called the first step toward tangible tariff reform in England was taken, August 1, by the Royal Horticultural Society, which inaugurated a show of "dry" bulbs—the word "dry" being an amateurish way of saying dormant. The main object of the exhibition was to show and to prove that it was quite possible to produce bulbs quite as fine, as large and as well ripened in many parts of the British Islands as it was in Holland. And in the main the object may be said to have been attained. The number of exhibits, however, were so comparatively small, and were so obviously tabled on a purely amateur basis, that it would be perhaps unwise, or at least premature to say that from a trade point of view the show was an unqualified success. The leading market varieties of tulips were conspicuous by their absence, although those largely grown in private and public gardens were well to the front, but only in small quantities that did not put a severe strain upon the resources of the exhibitors. There is a vast difference between showing 20 to 30 fine bulbs of a variety, and being able to supply 20,000 to 50,000 of the same sample to the commercial grower, and I think this particular aspect of the case impressed itself very much on the trade growers who were present. Judging from the specimens staged there can be no doubt whatever that magnificent bulbs of tulips can be grown in places like Lincolnshire and Cambridgeshire, the Channel Islands and probably in most parts of Ireland. The bulbs were huge and well ripened, but it may be doubted whether one could obtain similar samples in great bulk—and that, after all is the crucial test from a national point of view.

So far as daffodils are concerned, the trade in these bulbs is now pretty well established in the British Islands, and it is a well-known fact that hundreds of thousands of certain varieties are sold to the Dutch growers every year to be sold back again to British and American buyers. There are very few places in England and Ireland where daffodils cannot be as well grown as in Holland, and the trade in this respect may be considered to be absolutely safe.

This point, as I have already hinted is not proved in regard to tulips yet, and it will be necessary to have a show of British grown tulip bulbs on a large scale—in thousands instead of dozens—to emphasize the matter.

In regard to hyacinths, it looks as if the Dutch growers may sleep in peace. There was only one exhibit of these bulbs from a small London garden to "prove," as the exhibitor said, that even hyacinths could be grown in England. Unfortunately the exhibitor (who was an amateur) did not know what a good hyacinth bulb should be like, and his exhibit, if it proved anything, proved that hyacinth growing as a commercial undertaking was at present beyond the scope of the British climate. When that is changed there may be a chance of doing hyacinths on a large scale. If there had been any chance of success the growers from the Spalding and Wisbech districts would no doubt have staged as fine bulbs of hyacinths as they did of tulips and daffodils.

Now that a start has been made, it is possible that on a future occasion the exhibition of British grown bulbs may be on a larger scale—and one that will prove whether it is possible to make their cultivation a commercial success.

In addition to the tulips and daffodils many other genera were represented and gave the public an excellent idea of the great variety of plants that come under the heading of "bulbous." The curious shapes of many were no doubt a revelation, even to those who know the plants well by the blossoms.

Wm. F. Kasting Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Wm. F. Kasting Co., well-known wholesale florists of Buffalo, N. Y., will move from its present temporary location at 491 Washington street, and will be ready for business, September 4, in new quarters at 568-570 Washington street. The new building, modern in every respect, has four floors, each 50 x 90 feet, with basement, giving a total of 22,500 feet of floor space. It is equipped with both passenger and freight elevators and an up-to-date refrigerating plant is being installed, together with other improvements which will make the firm's new headquarters one of the best equipped establishments of its kind in the country, with facilities to care for its present large business, and to meet the requirements of future growth, it being the intention of the company to add to its line everything requisite to the florist trade.

E. C. Brucker and W. H. Eiss, both widely and favorably known in the trade, will be in charge of the business, the former having been associated with the late Wm. F. Kasting for 17 years, while the latter has been identified with the firm for 10 years.

SWAMPSCOTT, MASS.—H. C. Blaney has opened a flower shop on Humphrey street.

Pansies.

There is not another plant that retains its popularity to such an extent as the pansy, the demand each spring being greater than the previous one. It is the first plant called for at the opening of the season, and when in good condition will always sell. The pansy is not a hot weather flower, and its season of flowering is at its best during April, May and June.

Two different sowings of seed and methods of culture are followed out to supply the plants, so that they will be in good bloom early in the season and extend as far into the summer as the weather will permit. The plants for the early part of the season are fall transplanted and carried over winter in cold frames. Those for the latter part of the season are winter sown in the greenhouse, transplanted in flats, and as soon as the weather will allow, retransplanted in the cold frames.

Croton Reidii.

The time of sowing the seed for fall transplanting is now at hand. Seed sown during August will furnish plants ready for transplanting the latter part of September. The pansy is one of those hardy growing plants that delight in common sense culture, and rebels at any coddling; this applies not only to the mature plant, but to the sowing of the seed and the young seedlings. The best place to sow the seed is outdoors in the frame. The first thing in preparation is to divide off part of a frame to the required size; then get together a fine, open, light soil that does not contain any great amount of animal manure or vegetable matter. Fill in the soil about six inches deep in the frame, then firm it down, arranging the bed so that it slopes with the frame in case of heavy rains; the water will then drain away better. It is important that the surface of the bed be made even to guard against one part of it becoming more wet than another. Sow the seed evenly, but not too thick, because there is great danger of fungus and damping off starting when the young seedlings come up crowded together. Cover the seed evenly with a fine sifted soil, pressing it down firmly, after which give the bed a good watering through a fine rose sprinkler and then arrange for a shading for the seed bed. The best thing we have found for this purpose is thin muslin, tacked on wooden frames the size of the ordinary hot bed sash. These can be easily taken off at any time when it is necessary to attend to the beds. As soon as the young seedlings commence to come up, the shades should be removed entirely. It is best at first to remove them late in the day, leaving them off all night and putting them on again during the heat of the next day. By following this up for two or three days the young plants become hardened to the heat and air.

As soon as the young seedlings have made sufficient size to be handled safely, they should be transplanted into their permanent winter quarters, which should be a well made frame so situated that there will not be any danger of the beds being flooded by water and frozen in with ice. To prepare the beds use a fine soil, lightened up with well rotted manure. This should be well firmed down before planting the plants. The plants should be planted about three inches apart each way, and given a good watering in at time of planting, after which they should receive attention as they need it as regards watering and clearing the beds of weeds. After the plants have become established the weather at this time of the year is usually such that they will need very little care until it comes time to put on the sash. Do not be in a hurry to put on the sash; it is best to let the ground be frozen up a bit before putting it on. In the middle west we generally put the sash on the frames about November 15, and the sash is the only covering used.

C. W. JOHNSON.

Aster Lice.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

Nearly all my asters have been killed this year and they seem to have been destroyed by a sort of plant louse that covered the stem near the ground. Can you give me any idea as to how to combat this another year? Should the soil be treated with anything in the fall to prevent the reappearance of the lice another year? It may be that the eggs of the lice were brought in on the young plants that I brought from a garden near my house as that gardener had been having bad luck with his asters.

J. E. B.

Illinois.

Root lice cause aster plants to have a sickly, wilted, stunted appearance. Upon pulling up the affected plants the roots will be found to be covered with bluish lice. A mulch of tobacco stems, or tobacco dust, applied early in the season will prevent the attacks. Saturating the soil about the roots of the affected plants with freshly made tobacco water will destroy the lice. As root lice live over the winter in the soil it is not safe to plant asters the following year on land where the lice have appeared.

WITH THE GROWERS

Robert Craig Co., Norwood, Pa.

A visit to this famous establishment is always inspiring. The immense ranges filled with plants in great variety and so uniform in quality, present at all times, a display satisfying any size, it being in so much demand in all sizes. The young stock all comes from the south, where several growers now make a business of finishing rooted cuttings for the trade. Probably the largest collection of dracaenas in the country is to be found here; the canes are from Cuba and Porto Rica, and a bed of these will furnish cuttings for several seasons. Mas-

Craigii and others are seen in the smaller quick-selling sizes up to the made up specimens for the best trade.

Ferns have the Forty-ninth street city houses almost to themselves. Nephrolepis are grown by the hundred thousand. The strong growing robusta, the Bostoniensis, Teddy Jr., John Wanamaker, or Wanamaker Bos-thousand lots, both of these being in ton fern, which originated here, Elegantissima improved, Todeoides, Scholzeli, Scottii, Smithii and others are seen, a house full or more to a variety, in sizes from 2½-inch pots to handsome specimens in pans and tubs. Large houses of Ficus pandurata and F. utilis specimen plants in various sizes, can be called special stock fit to adorn the grandest mansion. Such plants would stand out in any collection. Areca lutescens, the most graceful of all the decorative palms, is given several large houses at Norwood, where it is seen in splendid condition. It is a fitting companion to Cibotium Schiedeii, the two being the most valuable plants for the house or conservatory that have ever been introduced.

THE CARNATION.

Benching the Plants.

Owing to the terrific heat during the last two weeks, the conditions have been very unfavorable for benching the carnation plants; not only has it been hard on the plants, but also on the men engaged in the work for a temperature of over 100 degrees quickly takes the starch out of both plants and men. When lifting plants under these conditions, it is very important that the sun and heat do not get a chance to dry out the roots; as soon as dug the plants should be set in flats, carried in the shade and watered immediately, then hauled to the greenhouse and planted as soon as possible. Do not neglect the shade on the glass; unless there is a heavy shade on the glass the plants will wilt badly and it will take lots of extra syringing to get them started, causing a humidity which is not good for the plants. It is best to have a little heavier shade on for to a marked degree. All the new plants of promise, as they appear, are given a trial, and many of the standard varieties of crotons, dracaenas, ficuses and other valuable plants originated, or were first introduced in this country, from this establishment.

While a great variety is to be found, special attention is given to trade favorites. The cyclamen, being a leader in the flowering section, a stock of 60,000 plants in superb condition occupy four large houses. Rolling curtains of shading cloth afford protection from the sun. Judging from the results, conditions here must be ideal.

Several large houses are devoted to Begonias La Reine and Cincinnati, which are grown in quantity, many growers being supplied with young stock and later the stores are supplied with finished plants splendidly in flower. All are grown at first from leaf cuttings and later, stock to be flowered in smaller pots for basket work is propagated from cuttings. The poinsettia is a Christmas specialty that is given much attention. About 35,000 cuttings are struck, taken from stock grown inside, which make a faster growth and roots much more easily than the harder wood from plants grown outside. Much of this stock is sold as young plants for growing on, although a large block is flowered in large pots and pans for the store trade. Otaheite oranges are done well here; a splendid block of about 5,000 plants in six to eight inch pots, carrying a lot of fruit, filled a large outside frame.

In the ornamental foliage section, there is much to admire. Pandanus Veitchii is a staple that is found to be hard to accumulate into a stock of sangeana, one of the most popular varieties, is planted out in beds from which stout shoots are mossed and furnish strong plants in a short time. Terminalis and all the high colored sorts are grown in quantity. Kelleriana and Sanderiana are seen in ten great demand for basket and fernery filling when the season opens.

This is the home of the croton, the largest collection of staple varieties in the world being seen here. Many fancy collection varieties have been dropped in the past few years, those found most desirable being grown in larger quantities. Norwood Beauty, Reedii, Ruby, with brilliant lines that color up for Christmas, Queen Victoria, a few days; they hold up better, and root action is much quicker.

About five to seven days after planting examine a plant here and there about the bench to see if root action has started. This can easily be told by the little white rootlets sprouting out from the older roots. When these white rootlets can plainly be seen, it is time for some of the mud shading to be removed from the glass, but only enough of the shade should be removed at first to lighten up the house a bit, leaving the thorough cleaning off to be done after the plants have become more established. The best time for doing this work is late in the afternoon after the intense sun heat of the day is passed. By taking the hose and shooting a good stream of water on to the glass enough of the shade will be removed without any rubbing with a brush.

While it is necessary to furnish shade to the plants until they recover from the transplanting, it is an unnatural condition for carnations; if left on too long the plants will soon begin to make a thin, poor growth, which will take them a long time to grow out of, and every effort should be made to bring about the conditions for the plants to have full light and air. We usually find that when a part of the shade has been removed a week after planting, another week will find the plants in condition to have the glass cleaned entirely. After this is done, they will make a rapid growth, which is only natural for them to do in the fresh, rich soil.

It is very important that the general care of the plants be given the closest attention. The success of the winter's crop depends to a great extent upon the attention given the plants during the next two months. In a very short while after planting, the weeds will make their appearance in the soil and grow rapidly. Clean them out as quickly as they become large enough to handle and keep the surface of the beds open by frequent scratchings.

Watering is one of the principal parts of the work in caring for the plants; it requires daily attention and sometimes oftener; some parts of the beds will dry out quicker than others, consequently, a good deal of picking out the dry spots will have to be done to water properly. Do not let the watering and syringing be done as one—make them two separate parts of the work.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that as soon as the plants are planted inside, the topping of the shoots should stop. Every shoot that can be topped during the coming month, means so much more growth added to the plant. But, it should be borne in mind, that varieties with a grassy growth, similar to the variety, Beacon, will stand closer and later pinching than the varieties of heavier growth, like Rosette.

Dahlia Classification.

A very interesting lecture was given by Prof. Hall, (chairman of nomenclature committee), during the first show of the American Dahlia Society at New York. He took the different types of dahlias and in plain English pointed out their distinguishing characteristics. Prof. Hall is doing some very interesting work concerning the dahlia at the experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., of which he is vice-director. To him the society is indebted for having prepared the classification scheme which the executive committee adopted and which is here reproduced.

CACTUS DAHLIAS.

A. True, fluted type: Flowers fully double; floral rays ("petals") long, narrow, incurved or twisted, with sharp, divided, or fluted points and with revolute ("rolled back") margins, forming, in the outer florets, a more or less perfect tube for more than half the length of the ray. Typical examples: Snowdon, T. G. Baker, Mrs. Douglas Fleming, J. H. Jackson, H. H. Thomas and Rev. T. W. Jamieson.

B. Hybrid cactus or semi-cactus type: Flowers fully double; floral rays ("petals") short as compared with previous type, broad, flat, recurved or twisted, not sharply pointed, except when tips are divided ("staghorn"), margins only slightly revolute ("rolled back"), and tubes of outer florets, if any, less than half the length of the ray. Typical examples: Master Carl, Perle de Lyon, Flora, Mrs. J. T. Mace, Kalif and Rheinekonig.

DECORATIVE DAHLIAS.

Double flowers, full to center in early season, flat rather than ball-shaped, with broad, flat, somewhat loosely arranged floral rays ("petals") with broad points or rounded tips which are straight or decurved (turned down or back), not incurved, and with margins revolute (rolled back) if rolled at all.

Includes forms like those of Souvenir de Gustave Douzon, Jeanne Charmet, LeGrand Manitou, Delice, Lyndhurst and include Le Colosse, Mrs. Roosevelt, Dreer's White, Grand Duke Alexis or similar forms, which fall into section B of the ball-shaped double dahlias.

BALL-SHAPED DOUBLE DAHLIAS.

A. Show type: Double flowers, globular or ball-shaped rather than broad or flat, full to center, showing regular spiral arrangement of florets; floral rays more or less quilled or with markedly involute (rolled in) margins and rounded tips. (The class called fancy dahlias is not recognized separately in this classification, but is included in this Subsection A.) Typical examples of show dahlias: Arabella, Dorothy Peacock, Gold Medal, John Walker, Colonist and A. D. Livoni.

B. Hybrid show, Giant show or Colossal types: Flowers fully double, broadly hemi-spherical to flatly globular in form, loosely built so spiral arrangement of florets is not immediately evident; floral rays ("petals") broad, heavy, cupped or quilled, with rounded tips and involute (rolled in or forward) margins. Typical examples: Grand Duke Alexis, Cuban Giant, Mrs. Roosevelt, Le Colosse, W. W. Rawson and Golden West.

C. Pompon type: Shape and color may be the same as of A. or B.; but must be made under two inches in diameter. Typical examples: Fairy Queen, Belle of Springfield, Darkest of All, Nerissa, Little Herman and Snow-clad.

PEONY-FLOWERED OR "ART" DAHLIAS.

Semi-double flowers with open center, the inner floral rays ("petals") being usually curled or twisted, the other or outer petals being either flat or more or less irregular. Typical examples: Queen Wilhelmina, Geisha, Hampton Court, Mrs. W. Kerr, P. W. Janssen and Glory of Baarn.

DUPLEX DAHLIAS.

Semi-double flowers, with center always exposed on opening of bud, with petals in more than one row, more than 12, long and flat, or broad and rounded, not noticeably twisted or curled. (Many so-called Peony-flowered dahlias belong here.) Typical examples: Big Chief, Souv. de Franz Listz, Merry Widow, Sensation, Prairie Fire and Hortulanus Budde.

SINGLE DAHLIAS.

Open centered flowers, small to very large, with eight to twelve floral rays ("petals") more or less in one circle, margins often decurved (turned down or back). There are no distinctions as to colors. The type embraces the large Twentieth Century as well as the smaller English varieties. Typical examples: White Century, Golden Century, Scarlet Century, Newport Marvel (of the large flowered forms); with Polly Eccles, Leslie Seale, Danish Cross and Ami Barillet (of the lesser flowered forms).

The Star singles and Cactus Singles are omitted from the present classification scheme as not being sufficiently numerous or well defined yet.

COLLARETTE DAHLIAS.

Open centered blossoms with not more than nine floral rays ("petals"), with one or more smaller rays, usually of a different color, from heart of each ray floret, making a collar about the disk. Typical examples: Maurice Riviere, Souvenir de Chabanne, Diadem, Orphee, Madame Poirier and Albert Maumene.

ANEMONE-FLOWERED DAHLIAS.

Flowers with one row of large floral rays ("petals") like single dahlias, but with each disk flower producing small, tubular petals. Includes such forms as those of Graziella, Mme. Chas. Molin, Claude Barnard and Mme. Pierre Dupont.

OTHER SECTIONS.

Miniature or Pompon Cactus: Small flowered, stellate fine petaled cactus dahlias represented by Tom-Tit, Mary, Nora, Minima, Mignon or Tom Thumb: Dwarf, bushy single flowered dahlias for edging. Typical example: Jules Closson. Bedding dahlias: A taller, more upright type than the Tom Thumb. Typical examples: Barlow's Bedder and Midget Improved. Cockade or Zonal Dahlias: Single or collarette dahlias, with three distinct bands of color about center. Type hardly known in America, but includes such forms as those of Cockade Espagnole.—Bulletin American Dahlia Society.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

Stock of all kinds has been very scarce, due to the extremely dry weather. Asters are very poor and gladioli are the mainstay, although carnations from the young stock are arriving. With the cooler weather of the past week, business has shown a slight improvement.

NOTES.

Miss Rhoda Doswell has returned from a vacation trip of two weeks and reports business at the Doswell Floral Co. picking up considerably.

Among the good stock seen on the market are carnations and asters from the New Haven Floral Co., New Haven, Ind.

Miss Mildred Flick of the Flick Floral Co., has returned from an extended visit at Portland, Me., and Boston, Mass.

Frank J. Knecht & Co. are sending fine Russell roses to this market.

H. K.

Columbus.

ASTER CROP COMPLETE FAILURE.

Asters, which should now be at their prime, are non-existent in florists' stocks. The crop is a total failure, having burned up before maturity. This leaves a big hole in the trade. Gladioli are the mainstay, but the supply is inadequate and the quality poor. Prices are $1 to $1.50 a dozen. Field roses are coming in, a favorable change in the weather within the past week having made cuttings better than was expected. Roses of every kind are fairly good stock and of yield sufficient to meet requirements. A few carnations, field bud stock, are seen on display, but they are small and unattractive. By the middle of the month the regular carnation season will be on, but dealers look for scarcity and high prices. The promise of chrysanthemums is good. Two of the large retailers, who will have about 10,000 blooms each, report a thrifty condition for this big fall staple. Central Ohio growers are believed to be much more fortunate than the average in this respect. A limited supply of the Golden Glow that has so far reached florists' shops has been snapped up readily at $6 per dozen. Business opening events and funeral work have made trade good during the latter part of August.

NOTES.

The first unit in a greenhouse enterprise of considerable importance—according to plans—has just been completed and planted at the suburb of Bexley, on East Main street. It consists of a house 30x125 feet, and is devoted to carnations. The owner, R. E. Myers, is a former railroad man, whose headquarters were Chicago. He will grow exclusively for the wholesale trade.

Rudolph Czish is the new superintendent of the Livingston Seed Company greenhouses. He has been with the company for some years in a less important capacity. Orman Grice, whom he succeeds, and mention of whose resignation was recently made, will engage in the fruit growing business near this city.

The floral display of the Livingston Seed Company at the Ohio Agricultural and Industrial Exposition, this city, August 28-September 1, covers 2,000 square feet. J.

Kansas City, Mo.

COOL WEATHER IMPROVES CONDITIONS.

Top-coat weather has arrived, and the cool days have helped to keep the stock in better shape. There is a plentiful supply in many lines, especially gladioli, which are principally Colorado grown and are very good in quality, although some excellent local stock is to be seen. Asters from both Colorado and California are not plentiful and arrive on the market spasmodically. Lilies are in fair supply and the quality is very good. Of carnations, it may be said that they are seen and that is about all. Roses continue scarce, but the quality is good.

NOTES.

A novelty window display arranged by Arthur Newell was very appropriate for the encampment of the G. A. R., miniature birch bark canoes being filled with cut flowers and plants, red white and blue being the predominant colors. He reports basket trade is showing improvement and funeral work has been good.

Manager Parker, of the Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co., has returned from his auto trip delighted with the enjoyable time he had. As he was on pleasure bent he did not make many calls on the trade en route, but when in Chicago visited the wholesale market.

W. J. Barnes is receiving some very fine local grown gladioli. Business here has been very good, funeral work August 26, being the heaviest for any one day in a long time and the whole force kept very busy.

T. J. Noll & Co. have their new ice box installed and ready for service. Fine gladioli, asters, lilies and a limited number of American Beauties are included in their stock.

Ed. Humfeld will return from his Ozark trip about September 1. Business at his establishment is reported good for the season and the stock is coming along nicely.

Everything is running along nicely at Patrick Larkin's. A fine lot of palms in different sizes were received last week for decorative purposes.

The Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. reports trade up to expectations, with a good call for funeral work. Stock from the greenhouses is coming in slow.

H. Kusik & Co. report trade holding up well. Gladioli, lilies and fancy asters are being handled in quantity.

Visitors: C. Ford, representing A. Herrmann, New York; Frank Farney, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, and Max A. Fierstein, of the Moore Seed Co., also of Philadelphia. E. J. E.

Rochester, N. Y.

GOOD MID-SUMMER BUSINESS.

Although the mainstay of the mid-summer business has been funeral work, trade has been satisfactory considering the season. Asters are more plentiful and the colors are good. Gladioli are also excellent stock, America being the best seller. Some carnations are being cut, but they are very small. Roses are fair, but the supply is limited, with Sunburst, Maryland and Francis Scott Key in the lead. Owing to the hot weather, garden flowers are not plentiful.

NOTES.

Winifred and Ransford Wilson were recent visitors to Niagara Falls and Miss Lillian Wheeler has returned from a short visit at Canandaigua.

Horace J. Head, of H. E. Wilson's, and Chas. Vick, of James Vick's Sons, officiated as judges at the Spencerport flower show, August 23.

The local trade are getting things in readiness for a splendid showing at the exposition to be held here, September 4-8.

Henry Krause and Joseph Carmon, of S. A. Anderson's force, Buffalo, stopped here August 21, vacation bound.

E. C. Armbrust and wife have returned from a two weeks' vacation spent at Fowlerville, N. Y.

Chas. Sharpe of the Rochester Floral Co. has been confined to his home on account of illness.

Chas. Curtis is sending some excellent asters to this market considering the season. CHESTER.

Providence, R. I.

Business during the past week has been inclined to be slow, although there has been a good call for cut flowers. Funeral work has been rather on the quiet side, but the week ended with two busy days. Stock is plentiful.

The Westminster Greenhouses have received a shipment of palms from Belgium.

Macnair's lower store is resplendent with a new tile floor. H. A. T.

OBITUARY.

Charles E. Grunewald.

Charles E. Grunewald, well-known retailer of 924 Madison avenue, New York, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart, in his store, on the afternoon of August 26. He was a bachelor, and for a number of years has been an invalid, suffering from a complication of diseases.

He slept in the store, and of late has seldom left it. Andrew Eckrich, his faithful clerk, would bring him his meals, which Mrs. Eckrich prepared. When he returned with the lunch on the day mentioned, he found Mr. Grunewald dead on the floor, the revolver beside him. He was 57 years old and came to this country from Hamburg, Germany when quite young. For many years he had a store at 247 Columbus avenue, removing to Madison avenue about three years ago. Doubtless, continued ill health was the cause of his act. He had no relations in this country. His remains were taken in charge by Andrew Eckrich and he was buried in the Lutheran cemetery at Middle Village, L. I. A. F. F.

Mrs. Michael Pisapia.

Mrs. Michael Pisapia, wife of the well-known retailer of 1927 Broadway, New York, died at her home, 124 West 64th street, that city, August 22, aged 50 years. She had been an invalid, suffering from heart disease for two years. She was born in Italy and came to this country with her husband about 30 years ago. Her funeral was held at St. Francis church, August 25, high mass being celebrated. There were many fine floral designs from wholesale and retail florists and other friends and relations. She is survived by her husband, four daughters and three sons, and by other relatives. William Nigro, a salesman for H. E. Froment, is a nephew. A. F. F.

WASHINGTON, N. J.—T. L. Batchelor, considered one of the best propagators in the United States, is now manager at the establishment of Alonzo J. Bryan.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Montague Free, head gardener at the Brooklyn Botanical Garden, and Miss Violet Caroline Thayer, also of this city, were married August 15.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—John Marshall, proprietor of the Fruit Hill Greenhouses, is making improvements in his heating system and installing new cement beds.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Prof. David Lumsden, in charge of the floral displays at the state fair, anticipates a record breaking exhibition this year. Many improvements over the arrangements of former years are planned.

TOPEKA, KAN.—Fire, which started in the boiler house at the range of Ed. Bass, August 17, resulted in the destruction of the establishment as well his residence and other buildings. The loss is about $15,000, half of which is covered by insurance.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Lakewood Garden Club has asked for 100 square feet of space at the Industrial exposition and fair, September 2-9, and will make a display of outdoor flowers. Private gardeners in this vicinity are to feature decorated tables, September 7, and on other days the florists of this city will show table arrangements, bridal bouquets, baskets, etc.

"WASTE Land and Wasted Land on Farms" is the title of Farmers' Bulletin 745, issued by the United States department of agriculture, treating of the waste areas that may be made profitable for tilling, pastures or the production of timber.

Personal.

Prof. C. S. Sargent, of the Arnold Arboretum, Boston, Mass., visited Lake Forest, Ill., and Lake Geneva, Wis., as the guest of C. L. Hutchinson, last week, later proceeding to the north woods through Wisconsin and Michigan.

Dr. David Fairchild, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Washington, D. C., is making a tour of the lake region examining plants sent there on trial by the department.

Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

In acknowledging my worthy successor, W. F. Gude, of Washington, D. C., as president of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, I feel that there are some statements pertinent to this organization due the members and past officials.

It has been my pleasure to see this organization grow from nothing to 360 members, consisting mainly of the best retailers in the country; also, to have seen this organization advanced from $300 in arrears in the guarantee fund to approximately $6,000 gross balance. The annual business transacted by the members of this organization is estimated at well over $1,000,000 per year. This wonderful growth has been due in part to the untiring efforts of several of the members, particularly Philip Breitmeyer, Detroit, Mich., Paul Schulz, Louisville, Ky., Geo. Stumpp, New York, W. J. Smyth, Chicago, W. J. Palmer, Buffalo, N. Y., and numerous others. The officers and directors of the association have worked untiringly and have given their time and money to promote this organization's welfare. There has never been a misunderstanding among any of them, and on the whole, progress has been one of harmony and general upbuilding. I wish to pay particular tribute to the untiring efforts of Secretary Pochelon and Treasurer W. L. Rock, whose work is scarcely appreciated as yet. The adjourned meeting in Chicago, October 11-12, will undoubtedly be well attended and a source of much benefit to the entire trade and plans are under way which will be of decided value in the sale and promotion of flowers throughout the country.

I wish again to thank all those who have been instrumental in the success of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery not forgetting the trade press.

IRWIN BERTERMANN, Past President.

Rose Diseases.

TO THE GROWERS OF ROSES.

This is to inform you that members of the American Rose Society have been raising money to co-operate in employing a trained plant pathologist to investigate diseases of roses. Sufficient money has now been obtained to assure this work, which is already under way. Doctor L. M. Massey of the New York State College of Agriculture, Cornell University, Ithaca, is conducting the investigations. It is hoped that all growers of roses will now take advantage of this arrangement, not only to obtain what little information there is already at hand, but to co-operate in ways which will be suggested from time to time. Through co-operation with Doctor Massey, the growers will greatly increase the efficiency of the investigation and obtain the greatest returns from their investment.

First of all it seems desirable to make a rose disease survey such as will acquaint us with the various diseases, together with their range and the extent of injury caused by them in this country. In order that this survey may reach its maximum efficiency, it will be necessary for the growers to co-operate by sending specimens of diseased plants. Franked tags will be supplied on request. It is hoped that each grower will interest himself in this work sufficiently to collect and send diseased material together with a brief statement regarding varieties affected, nature and extent of injury, time of appearance of the disease, and other points of interest which may have been noticed. Acknowledgment of receipt of material will be made and such information as is available in the line of control will be given. Many growers will be visited, but it is hardly necessary to say that it will be impossible to visit all.

The material sent should be freshly collected and should show various stages in the development of the disease. Where roots are sent it will usually be undesirable to enclose any soil. Where convenient, specimens should be mailed so as to reach Ithaca the latter part of the week. Doctor Massey may be away from the city during the early part of the week and the material should receive immediate attention upon its arrival.

Place leaves, buds, etc., between the leaves of an old newspaper, a few between each two sheets. Then roll into a tight bundle, wrap in stout paper. Tie well, attach one of the franked tags on which you have written your name, address and mail. It will go postage free.

EXECUTIVE BOARD RECOMMENDATION.

The executive board in session at Houston, Tex., August 17, passed the following recommendation:

"Recommending the changing of the convention date providing the national flower show is held in the spring of 1918 in St. Louis, Mo. Definite action on this recommendation to be taken at the Mid-Lent meeting of the executive board to be held in New York."

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

Galveston to New York.

Benjamin and Mrs. Hammond and niece, Beacon, N. Y., and August and Mrs. Lange and Miss Gunterberg, Chicago, returning from the convention made the trip from Galveston to New York by water, and they say it was most enjoyable. Miss Gunterberg stopped off on the way from New York to Chicago and expects to reach home before the railroad men go on strike.

New York Spring Show.

The dates of the spring show to be held in the Grand Central Palace, New York, under the auspices of the Horticultural Society of New York and the New York Florists' Club are March 15-22, 1917, instead of March 16-23, as erroneously stated in the first preliminary schedule.

SUPPLY OF GOOD STOCK SHORT.

Market conditions remain much the same as they have been for the past fortnight or longer, the demand for good stock being ahead of the supply. This does not mean that the demand is heavy, though much better than during the same period a year ago, but the supply in general, due to climatic conditions during July, is not up to the standard quality. Carnations are out of the market altogether, and from observations at the different establishments, it will be some time before a general cut will again be in progress.

NOTES.

Wm. Kennedy and C. B. Whitnall were the only members of the florists' club who attended the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, held at Lake Geneva, August 22-23. Both, as delegates of the local club, were on the programme for short talks, to which they certainly did justice. Mr. Kennedy, upon request, spoke on greenhouse practice, while Mr. Whitnall chose for his topic, "Sanitary, Physical and Educational Value of Horticulture." Quite a number of the local boys had planned on going, but unforeseen circumstances kept them home. From reports, the meeting all around was a great success, which we are sorry to have missed.

The Mueller Greenhouse Co., at Brown Deer, finished housing their carnation plants last week. Other seasons before this they were always one of the first to say "all done," but they, like all the rest, had to delay operations at times during the extreme hot and dry weather; nevertheless, the stock looks good. Some indoor-grown White Wonder will soon produce nice long stemmed stock.

A. Reinhardt, of North Milwaukee, who added three new up-to-date houses early this spring, already has them looking in fine shape. One contains chrysanthemums, which are exceptionally well grown, while the other two are filled with carnation plants, some of which were planted directly out of small pots.

On Thursday, September 7, the first club meeting for the season 1916-17 will be held at the new meeting place at Kurtz Bros., Eleventh and Prairie streets. Every member ought to make it a point to be there that night and then get the habit of doing so the remainder of the new season.

John G. Heitman, of the Heitman-Oestreich Co., and Nic Zweifel will act as judges in the floricultural class at the Wisconsin state fair, September 11-16, while Arthur Leidiger, of the Edlefsen-Leidiger Co., will fill the position as assistant superintendent in the same class.

Herman Staeps, of Elm Grove, Wis., who purchased a new auto some time ago, had it only a short time, when it was stolen while on a trip to Milwaukee, and it has been a "goner" ever since.

A son was born to Wm. Manke and wife of North Milwaukee last week.

DEMAND ACTIVE; SUPPLY LIMITED.

The demand for stock is steady and active, while the receipts are rather limited. As a result, the supply in the market is running short of actual needs. Practically everything is selling readily. Gladioli alone are plentiful and make up the bulk of the offerings. Easter lilies are fairly plentiful and have been selling nicely. Astors are very scarce. The late crop has been exceptionally slow. Roses may be had in limited quantities. Some dahlias are now coming in regularly. Other offerings include rubrum lilies, hardy hydrangea and cosmos. Smilax is very scarce.

NOTES.

Al. Horning has returned to this city after a fortnight spent with his folks in Toledo, Ohio.

Peter Herb, of Mt. Wealthy, O., is cutting some excellent Maman Cochet roses.

Eddie Schwarz and wife are spending two weeks at the lakes.

C. E. Crichtell has returned from his trip up state.

PASSING OF SUMMER WELCOMED.

Summer is about over and the local trade are thankful. At present stock is not plentiful. Astors the past week have been scarce, as have gladioli. Roses are getting a little better both in stem and color, and a few good carnations have been seen in some of the stores.

NOTES.

The garage of the Washington Floral Co. was entered on August 24 and the cars stripped of tires and tools. Fred Miller, designer and decorator of this firm, is away on his vacation; also Miss Toogood, who will be seen on the Boardwalk at Atlantic City during the next few weeks.

Fred Kramer's Mock roses are the best cut stock to be had in this city and he finds a ready sale for all of them.

GOOD STOCK IS STILL SCARCE.

Business was unusually good the latter part of last week, especially Saturday, August 26, when stock of all kinds cleaned up early each day at good prices. Stock in general is none too plentiful, particularly in the better grades, and at times it is impossible to fill all the orders in full. American Beauty and Mrs. Chas. Russell roses are in brisk demand and there is hardly ever enough flowers in either one of these varieties to go around. Roses in general are improving wonderfully in quality and are selling quickly at satisfactory prices. Sunburst, Ophelia and Champ Weiland are having a good call and all the other varieties are also moving well and there is no great surplus when the stores close at night. Gladioli are in good supply but are not as plentiful as they were a week ago and while they are in good demand prices might be better even though they are still ahead of last year at this time. Some very fine America and Mrs. Frank

Pendleton are included in the shipments and there is also some fine stock offered in a few of the other varieties. Asters are a trifle more plentiful but clean up quickly at high prices, especially in the fancy grades. A few carnations are seen and while they are disposed of they do not cut much figure in the market at present. Lily of the valley is scarce and the same holds good for orchids, which have advanced somewhat in price the past week. Lilies are none too plentiful and what few do arrive command good prices. Golden Glow chrysanthemums are becoming more plentiful and are selling well but are not bringing the prices that were realized last year at this time. Miscellaneous outdoor stock is still reaching the market in large supply, but the receipts are gradually diminishing. Business has been good all summer as far as the wholesalers are concerned considering the unusual conditions, and from present indications, it appears as if high prices will be realized this fall and winter if business is anywhere near good. the market the past week buying supplies for the fall trade, which reminds one that the vacation days are about over and it will soon be a case of getting down to brass tacks and making preparations to handle the approaching season's business.

NOTES.

W. A. Kennedy, of the C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, Wis., accompanied by his wife and Mrs. C. C. Pollworth and the Misses Norma and Lulu Prinz, motored here from Lake Geneva, Wis., August 24, returning home the next day. C. B. Whitnall made the trip with the party as far as Lake Geneva and Miss Perenhoff of this city entertained them while they were here.

Andrew Bensen, able superintendent of the Bassett & Washburn greenhouses, is the proud possessor of the latest model Ford. The boys at Bassett & Washburn's wholesale store say that he is going to compete in the Ford races to be held at Speedway Park on Labor day. Here's hoping his "Cecile Brunner" wins.

The Armitage Floral Shop, 2065 Milwaukee avenue, is doing a splendid business since Michael Fink and Jos. Wolf took charge and report a heavy run on funeral work this week. Mr. Wolf's daughter, Madeline, has charge of the store and is rapidly becoming an expert florist.

B. Zima, 3053 West Twenty-second street, has been so busy all summer that he has been unable to leave his store more than a day at a time, so he is spending his vacation by making short trips by auto to nearby points.

Grover Lee Rambler and wife of Shreveport, La., are here on their honeymoon. Mrs. Rambler was formerly Miss D. E. Ruch and has been engaged in the retail florist business in the southern city for some time.

Miss Nettie Parker is back home from a most enjoyable three weeks' visit at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and is again performing her office duties at A. F. Pyfer & Co.'s store.

George Wienhoeber is certainly going to have a dandy store when all the decorations are completed and is looking forward to a brisk fall season.

Wietor Bros. are supplying their customers with a good grade of Ophelia roses, which they are cutting in quantity, in all lengths. N. J. Wietor made a trip to St. Francis, Wis., last week to inspect the St. Francis Military Academy, where his oldest son Leo will start a four year course this fall.

Percy Jones is handling a tremendous supply of chrysanthemums for so early in the season and while a few early white are included in the shipments Golden Glow is the principal offering. A very fancy grade of asters is also obtainable in quantity at this house.

Fred Krause is back from a pleasant visit with his sister at Oregon, Wis., and is again attending to his duties at the E. F. Winterson Co. store. Charles "Skiboo" Benesch is also back on the job at this establishment after a three months' vacation.

Miss Nelda Wolff has returned from her vacation and is again attending to her duties at Zech & Manns' store. Fred Ottenbacher is also on the job and reports having had a delightful time while he was away.

J. A. Budlong has had a heavy call for asters which have been a leader with this house for several weeks. Miss Mabel Schultz of the Budlong office force is back from a pleasant visit at Starved Rock.

The Raedlein Basket Co., 713 Milwaukee avenue, will have its new basket catalog ready for mailing next week and will be pleased to send a copy to anyone in the trade upon request.

The Chicago Florists' Club will meet next Thursday evening, September 7, at eight o'clock. The meeting place will be announced in the club notices, which will be mailed in a few days.

J. A. Sikuta, 3947 West Randolph street, never complains of dull times and always reports business as good. He does his own buying and visits the wholesale market every day.

O. J. Friedman, 516 South Michigan avenue, and F. O. Franzen, 5319 North Clark street, have both placed an order with Buchbinder Bros. for a new refrigerator.

Peter Sgoros, of the Venetian Flower Shop, and Charles Rogers, of the Washington Flower Market, are home from

The American Bulb Co., 172 North Wabash avenue, of which A. Miller is president, Albert Koehler secretary and treasurer, Robert Newcomb director, and Samuel Seligman manager of the accessories department, is well satisfied with the business done since the opening and are gradually getting things in shape at its new home. Robert Newcomb is back from Houston, Texas, where he attended the S. A. F. convention, and Samuel Seligman is expected home soon. Benj. Miller, who is also connected with this concern, is home from Rochester, Minn., where he has been receiving medical treatment.

Anton Then has remodeled his entire place and now has everything in grand shape for all those who care to visit his establishment and inspect his new carnation, Thenanthos, as it is growing in the houses. John Then says that over 15,000 cuttings have been sold so far and only two advertisements have appeared since it was shown at the Grand Floral Festival, held at the Coliseum in November last year. Mr. Then will have an important announcement to make in regard to Thenanthos in about another week.

Joe Einweck has returned from a lake trip to Mackinac Island and Buffalo, N. Y., and is again on deck at Bassett & Washburn's store. Miss Harper, of the office force, has returned from a pleasant visit at Whitehall, Mich., and reports having had a delightful time. Mrs. Horton is enjoying a lake trip to Buffalo, N. Y., on the steamer Minnesota.

William Johnson, of A. L. Vaughan & Co., is enjoying a well earned vacation, which will be spent in the city this year and not on the coast as he expected to, owing to the threatened railway strike. Mrs. Vaughan and daughter, Thelma, are back from a trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles, Calif.

Kyle & Foerster will handle wild smilax in quantity again this year and have a fine cooling room to place the shipments in as they arrive. This house is handling an exceptionally fine grade of indoor grown asters, which sell like hot cakes as soon as they are placed on sale.

J. G. Johnson, of Johnson & Chronis, and George Perdikas have returned from a visit at Antioch. Mr. Perdikas lost his suit case the day he was leaving for home, but Mr. Johnson played detective and soon located it, but re-

The Central Floral Co.'s duck window has proven such a great attraction that it is rumored the proprietors will either have to abandon it or hire a special police guard to keep the crowds from congregating in front of the place and blocking the traffic.

August Lange and wife have returned home from Houston, Tex., and report having had a most enjoyable time. They made the trip from Galveston to New York by water and were accompanied by Miss M. C. Gunterberg, who is expected home in a few days.

John Poehlmann, Jr., has returned from Battle Creek, Mich., where he has been receiving medical treatment at a sanitarium. He is feeling much better, but is not as well yet as he might be.

Miss Margaret McNulty, who attends to the office duties at Peter Reinberg's store, in company with her mother, will make a lake trip to Buffalo, N. Y., and Mackinac Island.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is handling a good supply of roses, particularly Mrs. Chas. Russell, which are rapidly improving in quality since the cooler weather set in.

Emil Reichling reports that Peter Reinberg has placed an order with Anton Then for 2,000 cuttings of his new carnation Thenanthos to be disseminated January 1, 1917.

Miss Josie Then is home from a three weeks' visit at St. Joseph, Mich., and is rapidly recovering from the effects of her recent operation.

Weiland & Risch are cutting from a good crop of Mrs. Chas. Russell and Champ Weiland roses.

George F. Gerasimos will open a new store next week at 6302 University avenue.

Frank J. Ziska was married at English Lake, Ind., last Saturday, August 26.

The retailers say that there is a little business doing all the time, and that there is a marked improvement in the quality of the flowers that are available. Gladioli of fine quality are now coming in, also a supply of good white and yellow chrysanthemums reaching the city.

NOTES:

Norman, the university town, located 17 miles south of this city, is to have a greenhouse and a flower shop to supply the student trade. We are informed that about $4,000 will be spent on the greenhouse, and that the business will be in charge of W. A. Rowe, a former employe of one of the Oklahoma City florists.

Visitors: Phil Foley, Chicago; John Evans, Richmond, Ind.; C. E. Fall, Kansas City, Mo.; E. C. Pruner, representing Poehlmann Bros., Chicago; W. E. Crump, of Pikes Peak Floral Co. Colorado Springs, Colo.; W. Kurth, of the Park Floral Co., Denver, Colo.; and Mr. Cheeseman, representing Ralph M. Ward, New York, all on their way to their various homes, returning from Houston, where they had been in attendance at the S. A. F. convention.

COOL WEATHER QUICKENS PACE.

A delightful change in the weather, which has been the hottest of the season the past week, has quickened the pace and the week opened very well. With the exception of gladioli, the stock is scarce and not up to standard. Good roses are very scarce, although the situation is better than last week. Some very fair local American Beauties, Mrs. Russell, good My Maryland, short stemmed Sunburst, Ophelia, a few Double White Killarney and Kaiserin are seen here and there. Asters are improved and a trifle more plentiful; some inside stock is very good, but there is not near enough to supply the demand. Lily of the valley and cattleyas are very scarce. There are a few dahlias, the advance guard. Should the weather become cooler with a day or two of rain, the market would soon be full of these attractive fall flowers. The growers report their fields to be badly in need of rain, but otherwise the stock is well advanced and in good condition, from which they expect a record crop. There have been no Golden Glow chrysanthemums as yet—the early ones sold very well last season. Very good summer cosmos is coming in and finds a ready sale in this bare market.

NOTES.

Joseph Heacock says the Texas weather was pretty well up to our hot days here. The Ward collection of home grown hyacinths, tulips, etc., he considered one of the most attractive of the exhibits. The palm stock at Wyncote is up to its standard in excellence and quality. Well-finished cibotiums, in several sizes, are wonderful in their luxurious wealth of splendid fronds.

Frank Ross has purchased a farm of 153 acres, midway between Doylestown and Willow Grove. It is well wooded with 53 acres of forest, and watered with three-quarters of a mile of the Neshiminy creek. One hundred acres are under farm crops. This is to be his summer home and here he may grow summer flowers for his various stores.

A near riot was fortunately averted on Ranstead street one day last week. A pot of 25 measly white roses was sold by two men in separate commission houses and by a salesman to a customer on the spot all at the same time. After a violent wrangle, a new shipment fortunately arrived in the nick of time and peace was restored.

J. Callahan, of West Market street, and Charles Grakelow, of North Broad street, are running gladioli specials to enliven their summer trade. Six thousand America was their quota last week, all supplied by the Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange. Over 150,000 gladioli have been handled by the Exchange the present season.

H. A. Dreer, Inc., are running out a lot of araucarias; their stock is fine and many customers are taking time by the forelock and getting them at this time by freight to save express charges later on. Kentias are also a feature, many orders being booked

The S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co.'s plant department is rapidly becoming an important branch of its business. Much of their stock of carnation plants is sold out and many orders are already booked for some of the popular sorts for next season. Their sweet pea seed is also selling fast.

The Leo Niessen Co. is getting ready for their usual large dahlia business, with which they expect to break all former records. Maryland and Prima Donna roses, together with very good local American Beauties, are leaders here.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co. will soon need to have additional packing room space to keep pace with their rapidly expanding business. Large consignments of new goods are crowding their storehouses to the doors.

John Welsh Young is cutting a fine crop of Maryland roses; they are high grade stock. Lady Alice Stanley is doing well with him. He thinks it a good rose for any one who will give it attention.

The H. F. Michel Co., Inc., are having quite a run on cyclamen and pansy seed. Their fall importation of bulbs will soon be in. Many orders for this stock have already been booked.

At the Berger Brothers Market splendid indoor ostrich plume asters and fine Easter lilies are a feature. Good gladioli and Maryland roses are also leaders.

Stuart Miller's new ice box looks spick and span in its coat of white paint. Extra fine Easter lilies are a feature of his stock.

Edward Reid's aster stock still keeps up, and he says, "Wait until you see the late ones—they will be the real Reid brand."

Frank Gaul, of the Ross Flower Shop No. 3, is on the sick list, but we are glad to say is reported improving.

POOR STOCK AND LITTLE DEMAND.

It has been written that the darkest hour is just before the dawn—and if we can apply that saying to the cut flower business of this city—better times are at hand. With a hot wave swooping down on the city the first of last week, reinforced by other hot waves as the week wore on, business was very poor. Contrary to expectations, there was a considerable supply of stock, much of it of indifferent quality. The best words may be said of the asters for many of them are good, and though prices fell off from the figures of the previous week, good stock ranged from $2 to $3 per 100. Many roses that arrived were too open to be useful, and if they sold at all, went for a trifle. This does not mean that there were no good roses on the market, for considering the weather, there were fairly good ones, but prices dropped as there was little demand. Lilies also were slow. On account of a very light supply, orchids and lily of the valley held up well. There was some demand for the best gladioli, but a part of the arrivals, with cut hydrangeas, dahlias, zinnias, marigolds and various other stocks, were more of a nuisance than otherwise. While a few good chrysanthemums have been seen, they are not plentiful enough to be factors. Outdoor stock that comes from sections where the drouth prevails, and where there are no watering facilities is of little account.

August 28.—There is nothing unusual to report, if we may except a few welcome showers and a cool wave, which has started the "sissy boys" to saying: "deuced cool, don'tcher know." The hot weather of the past week put the market in bad condition for the time being, but there are now signs of a reaction for the better. It can be stated that everything that is good is bringing a fair price. The great scarcity of cattleyas has put them up to $1 to $1.25 per flower, wholesale rates, and one dealer stated today that he was "trying" to get $1.50. Lilies and lily of the valley are a little more plentiful, but cannot be said to be cheap. Good roses and asters bring fair prices, for the season.

NOTES.

Since the convention of the Society of American Florists will come to New York next year, we propose from time to time to tell not merely what our opinions are, but also what disinterested persons say. The following is an extract from a letter published in the New York Tribune, of August 26: "Why entertain the erroneous impression that one must leave the comforts of the city for the narrow and limited accommodations of country places, where there is only one thing to do—sit about on the different hotel and boarding house piazzas 'waiting,' like Micawber, 'for something to turn up,' meanwhile trying to endure the discords of the musical talent engaged? The many advantages of New York, profitable and delightful, with its high-class music and various other entertainments, its fine spacious hotels and apartment houses, combined with its proximity to the ocean—cannot be excelled, no matter in what direction one wanders. The absurdity of it all strikes one after reaching the narrow atmosphere of the much advertised health resorts and villages, where nothing is really found but graft and a lot of braggadocio to combat. New York gives an equivalent for money expended. Not so at summer resorts, where the main object is to take advantage of the visitor. New York for health and happiness!" We judge that the writer of the above had recently visited a "health resort."

An innovation in the wholesale cut flower district is being made by Johnson & Millang, Inc. This firm has established in the Coogan building, 55-57 West 26th street, large and commodious quarters where auction sales will be conducted on Tuesday and Friday of each week commencing promptly at 9 a. m. The opening sale will be held Tuesday, September 12, and will consist of a large assortment of decorative stock, together with a heavy consignment of Holland-grown and other bulbs. There is no doubt but what this source of supply will prove a great convenience, as its ready accessibility does not necessitate a loss of time for the florist who must buy quickly and return to his business. Charles C. Johnson has a wide knowledge of the auction business in all its phases, resultant from years of thorough experience, while Charles Millang is well known among the florist trade and his popularity vouched for by many. Both report the business outlook to be very bright, and a busy season is confidently anticipated.

Mrs. Retta E. Rankin, manager of the House of Ferns, 41 West 28th street, is spending a vacation of three weeks at Lake George. Mrs. Rankin has been a hard worker since she took charge of this business, and is popular in the trade. We wish her an enjoyable vacation. During her absence, her daughter, Miss Alma Rankin, is in charge of the store.

A feature at Anton Schultheis' extensive range at College Point, is the great stock of chrysanthemums being

That new design that we spoke of has already proved its worth—both to us and the florists who are using it. Every day orders for more are coming in. Many are repeat orders, and you know what that means. It means satisfaction. Let this new box design prove its worth to you by adding to the satisfaction of those who buy flowers from you.

grown in pots, all being in fine condition. He is offering a fine stock of vincas, and his large stock of ferns, Pandanus Veitchii, cyclamens, ardisias and other plants are looking fine. As usual, he will have a great stock of pot roses.

J. K. Allen, the wholesaler, has of late been spending considerable time at Ashbury Park and Ocean Grove, N. J., and has heard "Billy" Sunday preach. For our own part if compelled to listen to "Billy" Sunday's fire and brimstone sermons, we would prefer to hear him in winter time.

George D. Nicholas, John Tryforos, John Carlaftes and James Carlaftes and wife, recently returned from an extended automobile trip through the up-state region and Vermont. They visited Albany, the military camp at Plattsburg, and many other points of interest.

William P. Ford, 107 West 28th street, is handling an exceptionally fine stock of asters, Daybreak and other leading varieties being noteworthy. He recently visited his farm at Chad's Ford, Pa., and says that the crops need rain.

Joseph S. Fenrich, 51 West 28th street, continues to receive good stock of the new, pink rose, Cleveland, from C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J. We recently heard a retailer predict that "Cleveland is the coming pink rose."

F. L. Freund, 976 Second avenue, is making extensive improvements in his store. A new plate glass front and a fine ice box are features that make it the finest store in his locality.

Daniel Sullivan, the able assistant to Joseph Millang, in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Co., is back from his vacation looking as hearty as a farmer.

G. Golsner's Sons, College Point, have planted a fine stock of carnations and their chrysanthemums look well. They are also extensive growers of bouvardias.

Charles R. Yaeger, 2109 Seventh avenue, who always had a fine store, is now making extensive improvements, painters and decorators being in charge.

William Kessler, 113 West 28th street, is handling good chrysanthemums, rubrum lilies and asters.

John Bieler, a well known landscape gardener of Port Washington, L. I., died there August 23, aged 50 years.

The George W. Clarke Co., 259 Fifth avenue, whose specialty is irrigation devices, is showing new and interesting features in lawn and garden sprinklers.

T. J. Wolfe, of Waco, Tex., president of the Texas State Florists' Association, is spending a few days in this city.

Mrs. William H. Long, 412 Columbus avenue, has returned from Nova Scotia, where she was visiting her parents.

Goldstein & Futterman, 102 West 28th street, are handling fine stock of Chrysanthemum Golden Glow.

Paul Meconi of the Coogan building has returned from a short vacation at Lake George.

A. F. F.

Secaucus, N. J.

Calling recently on Herman Komitsch we were pleased to note his exceptionally fine stock. He is one of the growers who seem to do everything well. This recalls that moss-eaten saying about "luck", for there is no such thing as luck. A man gets what he works for, and the more brains he has, the more he gets. We are not writing about people who have inherited money and property, but of the men and women who have gone out to face the world and have made good. Herman Komitsch grows orchids, and a lot of them, and though this is not the flowering season, his stock looks fine, and he will have a great crop of flowers in a few weeks. At present, a striking feature is his chrysanthemums. He has 50,000 plants and finer stock cannot be found in the whole country. The stock comprises about 50 varieties, so Traendly & Schenk of New York, who will sell it, will have no trouble in pleasing their customers.

Emil Savoy is a Frenchman, but considering the record of the French, nobody should have prejudice against him on that account. The word "expert" has oft-n been misplaced, but Savoy is truly an expert plantsman, specializing in bougainvilleas, and even his competitors acknowledge that he is the leader in that branch of horticulture.

Carl Woerner specializes in lilies, sending good stock to market all the year round. He is one of the hardest workers we have ever known, and we are pleased to state that prices have been good this summer. He also grows chrysanthemums and a variety of bedding plants.

ASTER SHORTAGE NOTICEABLE.

As is general all over the country, this market is suffering for asters; there are so few coming in that they are a negative quantity. Gladioli are plentiful and sell well. Short roses are also getting on the long side and there are plenty of lilies.

NOTES.

The flower show to be held June 13-16, 1917, promises to be quite an affair from the appearance of the preliminary schedule just issued. The prizes are well worth striving for, as they run into considerable money.

A new partner has been taken in R. J. Daschbach, Inc., and the title of that firm has been changed to read "Daschbach-Crissman, Florists." John Harris and John Mitchell are at Mt. Clements.

"Turk" Riley of The McCallum Company had to be taken to the hospital for nerve and stomach trouble, and is not expected to be around again for several weeks.

G. P. Weaklen had a special Ford truck body built, of which he is proud, not because it is something fine, but because it is so roomy and practical.

Randolph & McClements and Mrs. E. A. Williams both had orders last week that had the appearance of mid-season business.

Dave Hill is about our last florist to desert Atlantic City gayness for Pittsburgh business.

Mike Stafford, of Randolph & McClements is on vacation at present.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., First Vice-President; L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fifth annual convention, June, 1917.

SEEDSMEN are disturbed over the Chicago freight strike.

ALL poultry foods will be higher in 1917, because of dry weather, reducing all grain crops.

MANUFACTURERS of agricultural implements are raising their prices, the advance running from 10 to 15 per cent.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Owing to drought home-grown Osage and local market melons are selling at 40 and 50 cents for specimens.

VISITED CHICAGO: C. H. Coy and family of Valley, Neb., on auto tour; L. B. McCausland, of Ross Bros. Seed Co., Wichita, Kans.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The Springfield Seed Co. has purchased the stock and equipment in the downtown store of the Summerfield Floral Co.

GEORGE H. DICKS, representing Cooper, Taber & Co., Ltd., London, Eng., will arrive in the United States early in September, in the interests of his firm.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—D. B. Sperry will retire from business September 1. He has been in the seed and produce business here for 40 years, handling onion sets and seed potatoes principally.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, August 30, were as follows: Timothy, $4.50 to $5.25 per 100 pounds.—Drought has injured seeding of second crop red clover. The price of white clover is declining.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The United States Warehouse and Elevator has been purchased by the Rudy-Patrick Seed Co., of this city, from A. J. Stahl, the consideration being $21,375. Improvements will be made which will bring the investment up to $300,000.

HARRY A. BARNARD, who has called on the American trade for a number of years representing Stuart Low & Co., Enfield, Middlesex, Eng., is due to arrive at New York, September 1, on the S. S. Adriatic. His address while in the United States will be Hotel Al-ber, New York.

A MERGER of Pacific Coast fruit packers and canners with a capitalization of $25,000,000 is rumored, the Alaska Packers' Association, California Fruit Canners' Association, J. K. Armsby, Griffin & Skelley and the Central California Canneries, being mentioned as possible factors in the combination.

Beans.

White beans are selling at $7.50 per bushel in Michigan. To make any showing the bean crop in this state will require three weeks of good weather.

Early beans in the west will give fair results but the late crop has been damaged by aphid.

MUSCATINE, IA.—W. H. Hoopes, of J. E. Hoopes & Co., has the sympathy of the trade in the death of his wife, who died August 26.

Baltimore Seed Trade.

There are a number of large seed houses in this city, among others, Wm. G. Scarlett & Co., W. A. Simpson & Son and John J. Buffington & Co., jobbers, who deal almost exclusively in field seed, clover, cow peas, timothy, etc. Business in these lines has been very good during the past season, the war in Europe having helped the red clover situation, especially. This is grown principally in France and Italy, and Germany, formerly a heavy buyer, being no longer a factor, the surplus sought a market in the United States. Although quite a lot has been sent to the bottom of the ocean there was plenty remaining to supply all demands.

L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.
Second Vice-Pres. American Seed Trade Ass'n

J. Bolgiano & Son do a sort of department store business, handling practically everything required for the farm and garden in field and flower seeds and plants. This has been one of the best seasons in this firm's history.

Griffith & Turner Co., opposite the Lexington market, do a general seed and plant supply business. A fine trade is reported at this establishment during the entire season and sales still keep up well.

A splendid demand for seeds as well as for plants with a lively call for buddleias and tritomas, is the report of the Meyer-Stisser Co.

The Wiseman-Downs Co., Inc., enjoyed a very good plant and general business. They report a scarcity of sugar corn. Stowell's Evergreen, which was a popular variety, seems to be losing its germinating power, according to their report.

German Prizes for Beet Machinery.

The Association of German Sugar Manufacturers has again offered prizes for improvements in the harvesting and unloading of sugar beets, one of them—for 10,000 marks ($2,380)—being for the best process and apparatus for drying the leaves and tops of sugar beets, according to Consul Talbot J. Albert, Brunswick.

Another prize is for the solution of the problem of a beet lifter and top-cutter. The association has already in the last 15 years awarded prizes of considerable amounts for the solution of this question. Every new competition has produced technical improvements in the existing implements used for these purposes, simplifying the tools and reducing the costs of manufacture. For the year 1918 a new competition with a prize of 10,000 marks will be instituted.

For the same year (1918) a prize of 15,000 marks ($3,570) will be offered for the best mechanical contrivance for unloading sugar beets in small or large businesses. Prizes have been offered for this improvement in former years.

Holland-American Steamship Line.

This big Dutch bulb carrier has long been famed for its prosperity. Its latest 12 months' record surpasses all previous ones in earnings, and affords an illustration of the enormous profits now prevailing in trans-Atlantic shipping; net receipts over $9,000,000 and a dividend of 50 per cent was paid on stock, a little less than $5,000,000. Nearly $4,000,000 was written off for depreciation, and with the writing offs of former years has reduced the big valuation of 21 steamships which cost nearly $13,000,000 to less than $2,000,000. Seven new steamships ranging from 8,000 to 12,000 tons each will be ready for delivery inside of six months.

A new Rotterdam company is forming, beginning with the Greek S. S. Macedonia, which can carry 2,000 passengers and 5,000 tons of freight.

Imports at New York.

During the week ending August 26, imports were received at New York as follows:

From London—
Peter Henderson & Co., 15 bags seeds.
From Rotterdam—
Stump & Walter Co., 1 bag seed.
H. H. Berger & Co., 12 cases bulbs.
MacNiff Horticultural Co., 6 cases bulbs.
From Copenhagen—
I. L. Radwaner, 366 bags seeds.
From Bermuda—
F. R. Pierson Co., 13 cases lily bulbs.
From Archangel, Russia—
To Secretary of Commerce, 241 bags clover seed, 427 bags vetches.

During the week ending August 19, horticultural goods were entered for consumption at New York as follows: Seeds, $5,025; bulbs, $6,510; plants, $381.
